

The Ideal Muslimah

The True Islāmic Personality of the Muslim Woman as Defined in the Qur'ān and Sunnah

شخصية المرأة المسلمة

Dr. Muhammad 'Alī Al-Hāshimī

Translated by Naṣiruddīn Al-Khaṭṭāb

Revised by Ibrāhīm M. Kunna
Abū Āya Sulaimān Abduṣ-Ṣabur

الدار العالمية للكتاب الإسلامي
International Islamic Publishing House
IIPH

TRANSLATOR'S FOREWORD

Praise be to Allāh (ﷻ) 'The Exalted', and may the Blessings and peace of Allāh (ﷻ) be upon our beloved Prophet Muhammad (ﷺ) 'Blessings and Peace be upon him', and his Family and Companions.

The Ideal Muslimah: the true Islāmic personality of the Muslim woman as defined by the Qur'ān and Sunnah offers the reader a comprehensive overview of the woman's place in the Islāmic scheme of things. The many roles which a woman may play throughout her life - daughter, wife, mother, and friend - are explored in detail. Extensive quotations from ḥadīth and historical accounts of the lives of the early Muslim women provide a vivid picture of how the Muslim woman at the time of the Prophet (ﷺ) went about putting Islām into practice; this is an example which Muslim women of all places and eras may follow in their own lives.

An important point is the fact that the first chapter addressed the Muslim woman's relationship with Allāh (ﷻ). Dr. Muhammad 'Alī al-Hāshimī rightly puts first things first, and reminds readers that we must pay attention to this most important aspect of our lives. If our 'aqīdah and worship is sound and sincere, then other things will begin to fall into place, inshā Allāh (Allah wills).

From there, the author takes us by stages from a woman's care of her own self - body, mind and soul - to her relationships and dealings with her family, friends, neighbours and society as a whole. Far from being the passive, oppressed victim of popular stereotype, the Muslim woman is seen to be a whole person with a valid contribution to make at every level of community life.

This is, above all, an immensely practical book. Dr al-Hāshimī addresses real issues that face Muslim women throughout the world, and supports every point made with extensive quotations from the Qur'ān and Ḥadīth.

At a time when Muslim women are being increasingly attracted by "feminist theories" and "women's studies," this book serves as a timely reminder that the unique and authentic sources of Islām have always spoken of the rights of women and recognized women as full partners in the human venture of history. The translation of this book into English will render this valuable information more readily accessible to Muslims whose mother-tongue is not Arabic.

Husbands, fathers, brothers and sons will also benefit from reading this book. Studied in conjunction with the author's Ideal Muslim: the Islāmic personality as defined by the Qur'ān and Sunnah, it will enable both men and women to have a deeper insight into the complementary roles of men and women and the harmony between the genders envisaged by Islām.

The interpretations of Qur'ānic quotations have been taken from the well-known translation by Yusuf 'Alī. The archaic style of this translation has been amended and modernized, so that "thou" becomes "you," "goeth" becomes "goes," etc.

Many Islāmic concepts are difficult to express in English, where "religious" words carry much cultural baggage that gives connotations that do not exist in Arabic. For this reason, many Arabic religious terms have been retained, with explanations given either in the text or in the glossary that may be found at the end of the book.

May Allāh (ﷻ) reward the author for his efforts to educate the Muslims, men and women alike, about their religion; may He (ﷻ) cause this book to be a source of beneficial instruction to English-speaking Muslims; and may He (ﷻ) guide us and keep us on the Straight Path.

Naṣiruddīn al-Khattāb

September 1997

Publisher's Note

At a time when Muslim and Non-Muslim women are being harshly attacked and attracted by the “feminist theories and studies” this book is a good approach and a reminder that Islām has held women as highly esteemed and respected. It is enough that the Holy Qur’ān contains a full chapter on women. The sources of Islām i.e. the Holy Qur’ān and the Prophetic Traditions have always spoken of the women’s rights and made them full partners in the human venture of history more than any other religion or thought.

Women in Islām are; mothers, sisters, partners, workers, scholars and business owners and managers, etc.

Though this book outlines the ideal Muslimah personality as it should be according to the Qur’ān and Sunnah Husbands, sons and daughters will also draw very much benefit from it.

A true Muslimah is the one who is alert, knowledgeable, true to herself as well as to others. She is righteous, and faithful. She balances her obligations to Allāh (ﷻ), her parents and children. She does not excel in one thing and neglect the other. She is a Qur’ānic example to follow-, she is a woman whose examples to follow are the she-companions of the Messenger (ﷺ). Her ideals are the wives of the Messenger (ﷺ).

The reader will find all this and much more in this book, which Dr. Hāshmī wrote in Arabic and was also broadcast on Riyādh Radio.

This is his second book IIPH translated into English. We hope the readers will find it really informative and comprehensive and pray Allāh (ﷻ) for the best reward for them and ourselves. May the peace and blessing of Allāh (ﷻ) be upon Muhammad (ﷺ) his household and all his companions.

Mohammed A. R. Al Tuwaijri
Riyadh, Saudi Arabia.

The Ideal Muslimah is proud of the great position that Islām has given her among humanity. She performs her duties knowing that her role is clearly defined and that her rights are still, even today, greater than any other ideology has provided. She is a woman of moral excellence, true to her nature, not confused by alien and morally bankrupt ideas. She preserves her self-respect and dignity through her piety in obedience to Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger (ﷺ). She is the role model that every true believer hopes to emulate.

This comprehensive work by Dr. Al-Hāshimī is a valuable contribution for our English readers who will find the knowledge contained therein truly beneficial and inspiring.

Make Sure You Read the Other Title in this Series:

◆ The Ideal Muslim

PREFACE TO THE FIRST EDITION

All praise and blessings be to Allāh (ﷻ), as befits His glory and the greatness of His power. Peace and Blessings be upon our Prophet Muhammad (ﷺ), the most noble of the Prophets and Messengers, whom Allāh (ﷻ) sent to bring life to the Arabs and mercy to the worlds.

For a long time, I have been wanting to write a book on the Muslim woman, but for too long I was not able to find the means to fulfil this wish, as life kept me too busy with other things. But I was still very keen to write a book that would explain the character of the righteous Muslim woman who is guided by the teachings of her religion, understands its wisdom, follows its commandments and adheres to its limits.

Years passed by, when I was preoccupied with other matters, but my interest in this issue grew deeper. My desire to produce a book on this topic increased because I felt that it was of great importance: it would cast light on the life of the Muslim woman and explain how her character should be, in accordance with the will of Allāh (ﷻ) and her understanding of the high status to which Allāh (ﷻ) has raised her. For years I was determined to write such a book, until Allāh (ﷻ) blessed me and enabled me to write it in 1410 AH/1994 CE.

The reason for my interest in presenting the character of the Muslim woman stems from the inconsistencies I had noticed in the lives of contemporary women, whereby they exaggerate some aspects of Islām and neglect others.

For example, you might see a Muslim woman who is pious and righteous, observing all the rites of her religion, but she neglects oral and bodily hygiene and does not care about the offensive smell emanating from her mouth and body; or she may pay attention to her health and hygiene, but is failing to observe all the rites and acts of worship prescribed by her religion; or she may be performing all the acts of worship required, but she does not have a proper understanding of the holistic Islamic view of life and humanity; or she may be religious, but she does not control her tongue in gatherings and refrain from gossip and slander; or she may be religious and knowledgeable, but she does not treat her neighbours and friends properly; or she may treat (female) strangers well, but she is failing to give her parents the love and respect that they deserve; or she may be treating her parents properly, but neglecting her husband's rights and failing to be a good wife to him, making herself look beautiful at women's gatherings but neglecting her appearance in front of him; or she may be taking good care of her husband, but not taking care of his parents or encouraging him to be righteous, to fear Allāh (ﷻ) and to do good works; or she may respect the rights of her husband, but she is neglecting her children and failing to bring them up properly, teach them, direct their spiritual, physical and mental development, and monitor the pernicious influences of their environment; or she may be paying attention to all that, but failing to uphold the ties of kinship; or she may uphold the ties of kinship, but fail to uphold social ties, focusing only on her private affairs with no concern for Muslim men and women in general; or she may be concerned with both her own and society's affairs, but she is not taking care of her own intellectual growth by continually reading and seeking to increase her knowledge; or she may be totally absorbed in reading and studying, but she ignores her house, her children and her husband.

What is strange indeed is to see these contradictions, or some of them, among those who consider themselves to be educated Muslim women who have benefited from an extensive Islāmic education. It may be a matter of negligence or carelessness, or it may be a failure to fully understand the idea of balance on which Islām bases its holistic view of man, life and the universe, a view which gives everything the place it deserves in life, without neglecting any one aspect at the expense of another.

The true sources of Islām, the Qur'ān and Sunnah, explain the ideal behaviour which the Muslim woman should adopt in her relationship with her Rabb (Lord), in her personal development, in her relationships with others, whether they are related to her or not, and in her social dealings in general. Whoever takes the time to research these texts will be amazed at their abundance and comprehensiveness: they deal with all major and minor aspects of a woman's life, setting out the guidelines for a balanced, upright, virtuous life which guarantees happiness and success in this world, and an immense victory and reward in the Hereafter.

I was astounded when I realized how far the modern so-called Muslim woman falls short of the noble level which Allāh (ﷻ) wants for her. Nothing stands between her and the attainment of that level but the need to devote herself to seeking knowledge of the true Islāmic character described in the Qur'ān and Sunnah, which will make her a refined, noble woman who is distinguished by her feelings, thoughts, behaviour, conduct and dealings and will make her adhere with determination to her religion.

It is of the utmost importance that a woman does reach that refined level, because of the great influence she has in bringing up the next generation, instilling in them virtues and values, filling their lives with love, compassion and beauty, and creating an atmosphere of security, tranquillity and stability in the home.

The Muslim woman is the only woman who has the potential to achieve this in a world where modern women are exhausted and tired of materialistic philosophies and the wave of ignorance (jāhiliyyah) that has overwhelmed those societies that have gone astray from the guidance of Allāh (ﷻ). She may achieve this through knowing who she is and being aware of the pure intellectual sources of the Qur'ān and Sunnah and the genuine character which Allāh (ﷻ) wants her to have, by which she will be distinguished from all other women in the world.

So I began to collect texts from the Qur'ān and authentic ḥadīths which spoke about the character of the Muslim woman, and I sorted them according to their subject-matter. This enabled me to draw up an integrated plan for researching personal and general woman's issues, as follows:

1. The Muslim woman and her Rabb (Lord)
2. The Muslim woman and her own self
3. The Muslim woman and her parents
4. The Muslim woman and her husband
5. The Muslim woman and her children
6. The Muslim woman and her sons-and daughters-in-law

7. The Muslim woman and her relatives
8. The Muslim woman and her neighbours
9. The Muslim woman and her Muslim sisters and friends
10. The Muslim woman and her community/society

Whilst I was examining these texts, an important fact became apparent to me, one which we frequently overlook. That is, that the mercy of Allāh (ﷻ) to the Muslim woman is great indeed. Islām has rescued her from the abyss of humiliation, (being regarded as valueless) and total subordination to men, and has raised her to the highest level of honourable and respected femininity, free from the exhausting burden of having to fend for herself and earn a living; even if she is rich she does not have to provide for herself. Islām has made her independent, entitled to dispose of her own wealth - if she is wealthy - as she wishes, and equal with man in human worth and with regard to general religious duties. She has rights and duties, just as a man has rights and duties. Women and men are equal in the sight of Allāh (ﷻ) and may be rewarded or punished equally.

The blessings of Islām did not stop at raising women from humiliation and backwardness to a level of progress, honour, security and protection. Islām is also concerned with the formation and development of every aspect of her personality, whether it affects her alone or her relationship with her family and society, so that she may become refined and highly developed, worthy of her role as Allāh's (khalīfah) on earth.

How does Islām form her personality? How may her development reach such a high level that had never before been attained in the history of womankind, except in this religion of Islām?

This is the question to which the reader will find the answer in the following pages. I ask Allāh (ﷻ) to accept my work and make it purely for His sake. May He benefit others through it, make it a source of reward for me in this life and the next, and make it a help for me on the Day of Reckoning. May He (ﷻ) guide me through it to what is right, and protect me from errors of thinking, bad intentions, slips of the pen, weakness of arguments and excessive verbiage.

Dr. Muhammad 'Alī al-Hāshimī
Riyadh
20th Sha'bān 1414 AH
2nd January 1994 CE

PREFACE TO THE THIRD EDITION

Praise be to Allāh (ﷻ), as befits His glory and the greatness of His power. I offer the praise of a humble, repentant servant who is in need of His guidance and help. I thank Him for the blessings which He (ﷻ) has bestowed upon me, and for honouring me with His aid to write this book, which has been so well-received by its readers and has been more popular than I ever expected. The first and second editions (of the Arabic original) sold out within a few short months of publication, and there was a great demand for the book, so I promptly prepared a third edition, with some important revisions and additions, most notably a new chapter, entitled "The Muslim woman and her sons- and daughters-in-law."

The circulation of this book was not confined only to Arab readers; it has also reached a Turkish audience. It has been translated by more than one publishing house in Turkey, and tens of thousands of copies have been printed. I have received copies of two of these Turkish editions. All this, if it indicates anything, shows that there is a great thirst among non-Arab Muslim peoples for knowledge from the pure sources of Islām. There is a deep longing for serious, useful Islāmic books from the Arab world, especially on the topic of the Muslim woman. Publishers are racing to translate this book into their own languages, so that they could present it to those people who have woken up to the authentic, pure guidance of Islām, which offers nourishment to their minds and souls. This is the best provision for the Muslim peoples at this time of reawakening.

I have received offers from a number of publishers to translate this book into English and French, which should be done soon, inshā Allāh.

All praise and glory be to Allāh (ﷻ); praise be to Allāh (ﷻ), the Lord of the Worlds.

CHAPTER 1

The Muslim Woman and Her Rabb The Believing Woman is Alert

One of the most prominent distinguishing features of the Muslim woman is her deep faith in Allāh (ﷻ), and her sincere conviction that whatever happens in this universe, and whatever fate befalls human beings, only happens through the will and decree of Allāh (ﷻ); whatever befalls a person could not have been avoided, and whatever does not happen to a person could not have been made to happen. A person has no choice in this life but to strive towards the right path and to do good deeds - acts of worship and other acts - by whatever means one can, putting all his trust in Allāh (ﷻ), submitting to His will, and believing that he is always in need of Allāh's help and support.

The story of Hajar offers the Muslim woman the most marvellous example of deep faith in Allāh (ﷻ) and sincere trust in Him. Ibrāhīm (ﷺ) 'May peace be upon him' left her at the Ka'bah in Makkah, above the well of Zamzam, at a time when there were no people and no water in the place. Hajar had no-one with her except her infant son Ismā'īl. She asked Ibrāhīm (ﷺ), calmly and with no trace of panic: "Has Allāh (ﷻ) commanded you to do this, O Ibrāhīm?" Ibrāhīm (ﷺ) said, "Yes." Her response reflected her acceptance and optimism: "Then He (ﷻ) is not going to abandon us." (Reported by Bukhārī in *Kitāb al-Anbiyā'*¹)

Here was an extremely difficult situation: a man left his wife and infant son in a barren land, where there were no plants, no water, and no people, and went back to the distant land of Palestine. He left nothing with her but a sack of dates and a skin filled with water. Were it not for the deep faith and trust in Allāh (ﷻ) that filled Hajar's heart, she would not have been able to cope with such a difficult situation; she would have collapsed straight away, and would not have become the woman whose name is forever remembered night and day by those who perform Ḥajj and 'Umrah at the house of Allāh (ﷻ), every time they drink the pure water of Zamzam, and run between the mounts of Ṣafā' and Marwah, as Hajar did on that most trying day.

This deep faith and awareness had an amazing effect on the lives of Muslim men and women: it awoke their consciences and reminded them that Allāh (ﷻ) witnesses and knows every secret, and that He (ﷻ) is with a person wherever he may be. Nothing gives a clearer idea of that consciousness and fear of Allāh (ﷻ) at all times than the story of the young Muslim girl related in Ṣifāt al-Ṣafwah and Wafiyāt al-'Ayān and cited by Ibn al-Jawzī in Aḥkām al-Nisā' (pp. 441, 442):

"Narrated 'Abdullāh ibn Zayd ibn Aslam, from his father, from his grandfather, who said: 'When I was accompanying 'Umar ibn al-Khaṭṭāb (رضي الله عنه) 'May Allāh be pleased with him', on his patrol of Madīnah at night, he felt tired, so he leant against a wall. It was the middle of the night, and (we heard) a woman say to her daughter, "O my daughter, get up and mix that milk with some water." The girl said, "O Mother, did you not hear the decree of Amr al-Muminīn (chief of the believers) today?" The mother said, "What was that?" The girl said, "He ordered someone to announce in a loud voice that milk should not be mixed with water." The mother said, "Get up and mix the milk with water; you are in a place where 'Umar (رضي الله عنه) cannot see you." The girl told her mother, "I cannot obey Him (Allāh) in public and disobey him in private." 'Umar (رضي الله عنه) heard this, and told me: "O Aslam, go to that place and see who that girl is, and to whom she was speaking, and whether she has a husband." So I went to that place, and I saw that she was unmarried, the other woman was her mother, and neither of them had a husband. I came to 'Umar (رضي الله عنه) and told him what I had found out. He called his sons together, and said to them: "Do any of you need a wife, so I can arrange the marriage for you? If I had the desire to get married, I would have been the first one to marry this young woman." 'Abdullāh said: "I have a wife." 'Abdul-Raḥmān (رضي الله عنه) said: "I have a wife." 'Aṣīm said: "I do not have a wife, so let me marry her." So 'Umar (رضي الله عنه) arranged for her to be married to 'Aṣīm. She gave him a daughter, who grew up to be the mother of 'Umar ibn 'Abdul-'Azīz."

This is the deep sense of awareness that Islām had implanted in the heart of this young woman. She was righteous and upright in all her deeds, both in public and in private, because she believed that Allāh (ﷻ) was with her at all times and saw and heard everything. This is true faith, and these are the effects of that faith, which raised her to the level of iḥsān. One of the immediate rewards with which Allāh (ﷻ) honoured her was this blessed marriage, one of whose descendants was the fifth rightly-guided khalīfah, 'Umar ibn 'Abdul-'Azīz (رضي الله عنه).

The 'Aqīdah (faith) of the true Muslim woman is pure and clear, uncontaminated by any stain of ignorance, illusion or superstition. This 'Aqīdah is based on faith in Allāh, (ﷻ) the One, the Most High, the Eternal, Who is able to do all things, Who is in control of the entire universe, and to Whom all things must return:

﴿Say: 'Who is it in Whose hands is the governance of all things - Who protects [all], but is not protected [by any]? [Say] if you know.' They will say, '[It belongs] to Allāh,' Say: 'Then how are you deluded?'﴾ (Qur'ān 23: 88-89)

¹ Bāb Yāziffūn. See Ibn Hajar, Fatḥ al-Bārī Sharḥ Ṣaḥīḥ Bukhārī, published by Dār al-Ma'rifah, vol. 6, p. 396.

This is the pure, deep faith which increases the character of the Muslim woman in strength, understanding and maturity, so that she sees life as it really is, which is a place of testing whose results will be seen on the Day which will undoubtedly come:

﴿Say: 'It is Allāh Who gives you life, then gives you death; then He will gather you together for the Day of Judgement about which there is no doubt': but most men do not understand.﴾ (Qur'ān 45: 26)

﴿Did you then think that We had created you in jest, and that you would not be brought back to Us [for account]?﴾ (Qur'ān 23: 115)

﴿Blessed is He in Whose hands is Dominion; and He over all things has Power - He Who created Death and Life, that He may try which of you is best in deed; and He is the Exalted in Might, Off-Forgiving.﴾ (Qur'ān 67: 1-2)

On that Day, man will be brought to account for his deeds. If they are good, it will be good for him, and if they are bad, it will be bad for him. There will not be the slightest injustice:

﴿That Day will every soul be requited for what it earned; no injustice will there be that Day, for Allāh is Swift in taking account.﴾ (Qur'ān 40: 17)

The Balance (in which man's deeds will be weighed) will measure everything with the utmost precision, either in a person's favour or against him:

﴿Then shall anyone who has done an atom's weight of good, see it! And anyone who has done an atom's weight of evil, shall see it.﴾ (Qur'ān 99: 7-8)

Nothing could be hidden from the Rabb (Lord) of Glory on that Day, not even if it were as insignificant as a grain of mustard seed:

﴿We shall set up scales of justice for the day of Judgement, so that not a soul will be dealt with unjustly in the least. And if there be [no more than] the weight of a mustard seed, We will bring it [to account]: and enough are We to take account.﴾ (Qur'ān 21: 47)

No doubt the true Muslim woman, when she ponders the meaning of these Āyāt (Verses), would think about that crucial Day and would turn to her Rabb in obedience, repentance and gratitude, seeking to do as many righteous deeds as she is able, in preparation for the Hereafter.

She Worships Allāh (ﷻ)

It is no surprise that the true Muslim woman enthusiastically worships her Rabb, because she knows that she is obliged to observe all the commandments that Allāh (ﷻ) has enjoined upon every Muslim, male or female. So she carries out her Islāmic duties properly, without making excuses or compromises, or being negligent.

She Regularly Prays Five Times a Day

She offers each of the five daily prayers at its appointed time, and does not let domestic chores or her duties as a wife and mother prevent her from doing so. Prayer is the pillar of the religion - whoever establishes prayer establishes faith, and whoever neglects prayer destroys the faith.² Prayer is the best and most noble of deeds, as the Prophet (ﷺ) explained in the Ḥadīth narrated by 'Abdullāh ibn Mas'ūd (رضي الله عنه):

"I asked the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ): 'What deed is most beloved by Allāh?' (ﷻ) He said, 'To offer each prayer as soon as it is due.' I asked him, 'Then what?' He said, 'Treating one's parents with mercy and respect.' I asked him, 'Then what?' He said, 'Jihād (fighting) for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ).'"³

² See Iḥyā' 'Ulūm al-Dīn, 1/147.

³ See Imām al-Baqhawī, Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 2/176 (Kitāb al-ṣalāh, bāb fadl al-ṣalawāt al-khams); published by Al-Maktab al-Islāmī.

Prayer is the link between the slave and his Rabb. It is the rich source from which a person derives strength, steadfastness, mercy and contentment, and it is a means of cleansing the stain of his or her sins: Abū Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه) narrated:

"I heard the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) say: 'What would you think if there were a river running by the door of any of you, and he bathed in it five times every day, would any trace of dirt be left on him?' The people said: 'There would be no trace of dirt on him.' He said: 'This is like the five daily prayers, through which Allāh (ﷻ) erases sins.'"⁴ (Sharḥ al-Sunnah 2/175)

Jābir (رضي الله عنه) said that the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said:

'The five daily prayers are like a deep river flowing by the door of any of you, in which he bathes five times every day.'⁵

Prayer is a mercy, which Allāh (ﷻ) has bestowed upon His slaves; they seek its shade five times a day and praise their Rabb, glorifying Him, asking for His help and seeking His mercy, guidance and forgiveness. Thus prayer becomes a means of purification for those who pray, men and women alike, cleansing them from their sins.

Uthmān ibn 'Affān (رضي الله عنه) said:

"I heard the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) say: 'There is no Muslim person who, when the time for prayer comes, performs wudu' properly, concentrates on his prayer and bows correctly, but the prayer will be an expiation for the sins committed prior to it, so long as no major sin has been committed. This is the case until the end of time.'"⁶ (Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim 3/112)

There are very many Ḥadīths which speak of the importance of Ṣalāh and the blessings it brings to the men and women who pray, and the rich harvest of benefits that they may reap thereby, every time they stand before Allāh (ﷻ) in an attitude of humility and repentance.

She May Attend the Jama'ah (Congregational) Prayer in the Mosque

Islām has excused women from the obligation to attend the Jama'ah prayer in the mosque, but at the same time, they are permitted to go out of the house to attend Jama'ah on condition that they dress up well enough not to cause any temptation. Indeed, the first Muslim women did go out and pray in the mosque behind the Prophet (ﷺ).

'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) said:

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) used to pray fajr, and the believing women would pray with him, wrapped up in their outer garments; then they would go back to their homes, and nobody would recognize them."⁷ And:

"The believing women used to attend fajr prayer with the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ), wrapped up in their outer garments. Then they would go back to their homes after they had finished praying, and no one would recognize them because of the darkness."⁸

The Prophet (ﷺ) used to shorten his prayer if he heard a child crying, because he understood the concern the child's mother would be feeling. In a ḥadīth whose authenticity is agreed upon he (ﷺ) said:

"I begin the prayer, intending to make it lengthy, but then I hear a child crying, so I shorten my prayer because I know the stress facing the mother because of his crying."⁹

Allāh (ﷻ) showed great mercy to women by sparing them the obligation to offer the five compulsory prayers in congregation in the mosque. If He had made this obligatory, it would have placed an intolerable

⁴ See Kitāb al-ṣalāh, bāb fadl al-ṣalawāt al-khams.

⁵ See Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim bi sharḥ al-Nawāwī, Kitāb al-masājid, bāb fadl al-ṣalāh al-maktubah fi jama'ah, 5/170, published by the Head Office of Academic Research, Ifta and Da'wah, Saudi Arabia.

⁶ Kitāb al-tahārah, bāb fadl al-wudu' wa'l-ṣalāh 'aqābahū.

⁷ Fatḥ al-Bārī 1/482, bāb fi kam tuallī al-mar'ah fi'l-thiyab.

⁸ (Bukhārī and Muslim) See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 2/195, Kitāb al-ṣalāh, bāb ta'jil ṣalāt al-fajr.

⁹ (Bukhārī and Muslim) See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 3/410, Kitāb al-ṣalāh, bāb takhfif fi amrīn yahdath.

burden on women, and they would not have been able to fulfil it, just as we see many men failing to pray regularly in the mosque and finding themselves with no other choice but to pray wherever they are, in the workplace or in the home. The woman's heavy burden of household chores and attending to the needs of her husband and children do not permit her to leave the house five times a day; it would be impossible for her to do so. Thus the wisdom behind the limiting of compulsory attendance at the mosque to men only becomes quite clear. Her prayer at home is described as being better for her than her prayer in the mosque, but Allāh (ﷻ) gives her the freedom of choice: she may pray at home if she wishes, or she may go out to pray in the mosque. If she asks her husband for permission to go out to the mosque, he is not allowed to stop her, as the Prophet (ﷺ) stated in a number of ḥadīth, for example:

"Do not stop your women from going to the mosque, although their houses are better for them."¹⁰

"If the wife of any of you asks for permission to go to the mosque, do not stop her."¹¹

The men heeded the command of the Prophet (ﷺ), and allowed their women to go to the mosque even if this was against their own wishes. There is no clearer indication of this than the ḥadīth of 'Abdullāh ibn 'Umar, in which he said:

"One of 'Umar's wives used to pray fajr and 'isha' in congregation in the mosque. She was asked, 'Why do you go out (to the mosque) when you know that 'Umar dislikes this and is a jealous man?' She said, 'What is stopping him from forbidding me (to do so)?' He said, 'The words of the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ): "Do not prevent the female servants of Allāh (ﷻ) from attending the mosques of Allāh (ﷻ)."'"¹²

In accordance with the Prophet's teaching which allowed women to attend the mosque, and forbade men to stop them from doing so, the mosques were full of women coming and going, both at the time of the Prophet (ﷺ), and whenever it was possible in the following periods. Women would come to pray, attend lectures and classes, and take part in the public life of Islām. This was the case from the time congregational prayer was prescribed for the Muslims. The Muslims used to pray in the direction of Bayt al-Maqdis (Jerusalem), before the qiblah was changed to the Holy Ka'bah. When the command of Allāh (ﷻ) to take the Ka'bah as their qiblah was revealed, the men and women who were praying were facing towards Palestine, so they turned to face the direction of the Ka'bah, which meant that the men and women had to change places.¹³

The mosque was, and still is, the centre of light and guidance for Muslim men and women; in its pure environment acts of worship are performed and from its minbar messages of truth and guidance are transmitted. From the dawn of Islām, the Muslim woman has had her role to play in the mosque.

There are many ṣaḥīḥ reports, which confirm the woman's presence and role in the mosque. They describe how women attended Ṣalāt al-Jumu'ah, the eclipse prayer, and the 'Eīd prayers, responding to the call of the muezzin to join the prayer.

A report in Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim tells us that Umm Hishām bint Ḥārithah ibn al-Nu'mān said:

"I never learned 'Qāf. Wa'l-Qur'ān al-majīd...', except from the Prophet (ﷺ) himself. He used to recite it from the minbar every Friday, when he addressed the people."¹⁴

Imām Muslim also narrates that the sister of 'Amrah bint 'Abdul-Raḥmān said:

"I learned 'Qāf. Wa'l-Qur'ān al-majīd...' from the Prophet (ﷺ) himself on Fridays, when he used to recite it from the minbar every Friday."¹⁵

The Prophet (ﷺ) taught the Muslims to prepare themselves and present a neat and clean appearance at Jama'ah prayers by encouraging both men and women to take a shower (ghusl):

¹⁰ Abū Dāwūd, 1/221, Kitāb al-ṣalāh, bāb ma ja'a fi khurūj al-nisa' ila al-masjīd; Aḥmad, 2/76; it is ḥasan li ghayrihi.

¹¹ Fataḥ al-Bārī, 2/351, Kitāb al-adhān, bāb isti'dhan al-mar'ah zawjaha bi'l-khurūj ila'l-masjīd; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 4/161, Kitāb al-ṣalāh, bāb khurūj al-nisa' ila'l-masjīd.

¹² Fataḥ al-Bārī, 2/382, Kitāb al-Jumu'ah, bāb al-idhn li'l-nisa' bi'l-khurūj ila'l-masjīd.

¹³ See Fataḥ al-Bārī, commentary on Ṣaḥīḥ Bukhārī, 1/506, Kitāb al-ṣalāh, bāb ma ja'a fi'l-qiblah; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 5/10, Kitāb al-ṣalāh, bāb taḥwīl al-qiblah min al-quds ila'l-ka'bah.

¹⁴ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 6/162, Kitāb al-jumu'ah, Bāb tahiyyah al-masjid wa'l-imām yukhtub.

¹⁵ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 6/160, Kitāb al-jumu'ah, Bāb khutbah al-hājah.

“Whoever comes to Jama'ah, man or woman, should take a shower first.”¹⁶

Hadīth reports also tell us that Asma’ bint Abī Bakr (May Allāh be pleased with her) attended the eclipse prayer (ṣalāt al-kusūf) with the Prophet (ﷺ). She could not hear the Prophet’s words clearly, so she asked a man who was nearby what he was saying. This ḥadīth is reported by Bukhārī from Asma’ herself:

“The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) stood up to address us (after the eclipse prayer), and spoke about the testing that a person will undergo in the grave. When he mentioned that, the Muslims panicked somewhat, and this prevented me from hearing the latter part of the Prophet’s speech. When the hubbub died down, I asked a man who was nearby, ‘May Allāh bless you, what did the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) say at the end of his speech?’ He said, ‘It has been revealed to me that you will be tested in the grave with something similar in severity to the test (fitnah) of the Dajjāl...’”¹⁷

Bukhārī and Muslim also narrate another report from Asma’, in which she says:

“There was a solar eclipse at the time of the Prophet (ﷺ). I finished what I was doing, then I came to the mosque. I saw the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) standing (in prayer), so I joined him. He stood for so long that I felt I needed to sit down, but I noticed a woman who looked weak and tired and said to myself: This woman is weaker than I, so I must continue to stand. Then he bowed, and remained in that position for a long time; then he raised his head and stood for such a long time that anyone who came in at this point would think that he had not yet bowed in rūkūʿ. He completed the prayer when the eclipse was over, then he addressed the people, praising and glorifying Allāh (ﷻ), and saying Ammā ba’d.”¹⁸

During that golden era, the time of the Prophet (ﷺ), the Muslim woman knew about her religion and was keen to understand the events and affairs that concerned the Muslims in this world and the next. When she heard the call to prayer, she would rush to the mosque to hear the words of the Prophet (ﷺ) from the minbar, guiding and teaching the people. Fāṭimah bint Qays, one of the earliest migrant women (muḥājirāt), said:

“The people were called to prayer, so I rushed with the others to the mosque, and prayed with the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ). I was in the first row of women, which was just behind the last row of men.”¹⁹

It is clear, from the ṣaḥīḥ reports quoted above, that Muslim women attended the mosque on various occasions and that this attendance was an approved custom at the time of the Prophet (ﷺ). Once, a woman was attacked on her way to the mosque, but this incident did not make the Prophet (ﷺ) have any reservations about allowing women to go out to the mosque. He still allowed them to do so, and forbade men to prevent them, because there was so much benefit - spiritual, mental and otherwise - for them in attending the mosque from time to time.

Wa’il al-Kindī reported that a woman was assaulted by a man in the darkness of the early morning, whilst she was on her way to the mosque. She shouted to a passer-by for help, then a large group of people came by, and she called to them for help. They seized the man to whom she had first called for help, and her attacker ran away. They brought the (innocent) man to her, and he said, “I am the one who answered your call for help; the other man got away.” They brought him to the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ), and told him that this man had assaulted the woman, and they had seized him whilst he was running away. The man said, “I was the one who answered her call for help against her attacker, but these people seized me and brought me here.” The woman said, “He is lying; he is the one who attacked me.” The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said: “Take him away and stone him.” Then a man stood up and said, “Do not stone him, stone me, for I am the one who did it.” Now the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) had three people before him: the one who had assaulted the woman, the one who had answered her cries for help and the woman herself. He told the attacker, “As for you, Allāh (ﷻ) has forgiven you,” and he spoke kind words to the one who had helped the woman. ‘Umar said, “Stone the one who has admitted to the crime of ¹⁷ See Faḥ al-Bārī, 3/236, 237, Kitāb al-janā’iz, bāb ma ja’a fi ‘adhāb al-qabar.

¹⁶This ḥadīth, narrated by ‘Abdullāh ibn ‘Umar, is recorded by Abū ‘Awānah, Ibn Khazimah and Ibn Ḥibbān in their Ṣaḥīḥs; see also Faḥ al-Bārī, 2/357, Kitāb al-jumu‘ah, bāb fadl al-ghuṣl yawm al-Jumu‘ah.

¹⁸ See Faḥ al-Bārī, 2/529, Kitāb al-kusūf, bāb al-ṣadaqah fi’l-kusūf; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 6/212, Kitāb al-kusūf, bāb ma ‘arāda ‘ala al-Nabī (ﷺ) fi ṣalāt al-kusūf min al-jannah wa’l-nār.

¹⁹ See Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 18/84, Kitāb al-fitan wa ash-rāt al-sa‘ah, bāb qādiyyah al-jasāsah.

adultery." The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said: "No, for he has repented to Allāh (ﷻ)" - I think he said, "with an act of repentance so great that if the people of Madinah were to repent in this way, it would be accepted from them."²⁰

The Prophet (ﷺ) appreciated the circumstances of the women who attended the congregational prayers, so he used to be kind to them and would shorten the prayer if he heard a child crying, so that the mother would not become distressed - as we have seen in the ḥadīth quoted above (see foot note. 9). Once he delayed the 'ishā' prayer, and 'Umar (رضي الله عنه) called him saying:

"The women and children have gone to sleep" The Prophet (ﷺ) came out and said, "No-one on earth is waiting for this prayer except you."²¹

Many ṣaḥīḥ reports describe how the Prophet (ﷺ) used to organize women's attendance at congregational prayers, for example, the ḥadīth reported by Muslim:

"The best rows for men are those at the front, and the worst are those at the back; the best rows for women are those at the back, and the worst are those at the front."²²

Another ḥadīth, reported by Bukhārī, deals with giving the women room to leave the mosque before the men, after the prayer is over. Hind bint al-Ḥarith said that Umm Salāmah, the wife of the Prophet (ﷺ), told her that at the time of the Prophet (ﷺ), when the obligatory prayer was over, the women would get up to leave, and the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) and the men who were with him would wait as long as Allāh (ﷻ) willed. When the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) got up to leave, then the men would get up.²³

Bukhārī and Muslim also report a ḥadīth concerning how women should draw the imām's attention to something during the prayer by clapping. Sahl ibn Sa'd al-Sa'idī said:

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said, 'Why do I see you clapping so much? Whoever notices any error in my prayer should say "Subḥān Allāh," for by doing so he will alert me to the error. Clapping is only for women."²⁴

The number of women who attended the mosque increased daily until - at the time of the 'Abbāsids - they filled the courtyard of the mosque, and men would have no choice but to pray behind them. This was the verdict (fatwā) of Imām Mālik, as recorded in Al-Mudawwanah al-Kubrā. Ibn al-Qāsim said, 'I asked Mālik about people who come to the mosque and find the courtyard (of the mosque) filled with women, and the mosque itself filled with men: may those men pray with the imām behind the women?' Mālik said: "Their prayer is valid; they do not have to repeat it."²⁵

But women's going out to the mosque should not be a cause of fitnah, and women should behave in accordance with Islāmic teachings of purity of thought and behaviour. If for any reason there is the fear of fitnah associated with women's going out to the mosque, then it is better for women to pray at home, and they should do so. This is what is indicated by the ḥadīth of Ibn 'Umar, quoted above, in which the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"Do not stop your women from going to the mosque, although their houses are better for them." (See foot note. 10)

It appears that some men feared the possibility of fitnah, and took this as an excuse to forbid their women to go to the mosque. This is why the Prophet (ﷺ) forbade men to prevent women from attending the mosque from time to time. This is what is indicated in the first part of the ḥadīth quoted above. Other ḥadīth confirm the Prophet's keenness for women to attend gatherings in the mosque, for example, the report of Mujāhid ibn 'Umar: "The Prophet (ﷺ) said:

²⁰ Reported by Aḥmad, see silsilah al-Ḥadīth al-ṣaḥīḥah, no. 900, 2/601.

²¹ See Fatḥ al-Bārī, 2/347, Kitāb al-adhān, bāb khurūj al-nisa' ila'l-masājid; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 5/137, Kitāb al-masājid, bāb waqt al-'isha' wa ta'kḥīriha.

²² Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 4/159, Kitāb al-ṣalāh, bāb tawīyyah al-sufūf wa iqāmatihā.

²³ See Fatḥ al-Bārī, 2/349, Kitāb al-adhān, bāb intidār al-nās qiyām al-imām al-'alim.

²⁴ (Bukhārī and Muslim) See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 3/273, Kitāb al-ṣalāh, bāb al-tasbīḥ idha nabaha shay' fi'l-ṣalāh.

²⁵ Al-Mudawwanah, 1/106.

'Do not prevent the women from going to the mosque at night' One of the sons of 'Abduḥ ibn 'Umar said, 'We will not let them go out because it will give rise to deviation and suspicion.' Ibn 'Umar rebuked him and said, 'I tell you that the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said such-and-such and you say, "No, we will not let them!"'²⁶

Bilāl ibn 'Abduḥ ibn 'Umar reported from his father that the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"Do not deny the women their share of the mosque, if they ask your permission." Bilāl said, "By Allāh (ﷻ), we will most certainly prevent them (from going to the mosque)!" 'Abduḥ (his father) said to him: "I tell you that the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said such-and-such, and you say 'We will most certainly prevent them!'"²⁷

The Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"Do not prevent your women from attending the mosque if they seek your permission to do so."²⁸

"Do not prevent the female servants of Allāh (ﷻ) from attending the mosques of Allāh (ﷻ)."²⁹

"If your womenfolk seek your permission to go to the mosque, then let them do so."³⁰

It is permissible for Muslim women to attend the gatherings of the Muslims in the mosque, and there is much to be gained from them doing so, but certain conditions apply to this permission, the most important of which is that the woman who goes to the mosque should not wear perfume or make-up. Zaynab al-Thaqafiyyah reported that the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said:

"If any of you (women) wishes to attend 'ishā prayer, she should not wear perfume that night."³¹

Numerous other Ḥadīth also forbid women to wear perfume when they go to the mosque, for example: "If any of you (women) goes to the mosque, she should not wear perfume."³² "Any women who has perfumed herself with incense should not attend 'ishā prayers with us."³³

She Attends 'Eid Prayers

Islām has honoured woman and made her equal with man as regards obligatory acts of worship. Women are also encouraged to attend public gatherings on 'Eid al-Fitr and 'Eid al-Adha, so that they may take part in these blessed occasions. This is demonstrated in a number of Ḥadīth reported by Bukhārī and Muslim, in which we see that the Prophet (ﷺ) commanded that all the women should come out on these occasions, including adolescent and prepubescent girls, those who usually remained in seclusion, and virgins; he even commanded that menstruating women should come out, to take part in the joyous occasion, but they were to keep away from the prayer-place itself. His concern that all women should attend the prayer on the two 'Eid was so great that he ordered the one who had more than one jilbāb (outer garment) to give one to her sister who had none. In this way he encouraged both the attendance of all women at 'Eid prayers and mutual support and help to do good and righteous deeds.

Umm 'Aṭiyyah said:

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) commanded us to bring out to the 'Eid prayers the adolescent and prepubescent girls, those who usually remained in seclusion, and virgins, and he ordered those who were menstruating to keep away from the prayer-place."³⁴

"We (women) used to be commanded to go out on the two 'Eids, including those who usually stayed in ²⁶ See Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 4/161, 162, Kitāb al-ṣalāh, bāb khurūj al-nisa' ila'l-masājid.

²⁷ Ibid., 4/162, 163.

²⁸ Ibid., 4/161

²⁹ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 2/382, Kitāb al-jumu'ah, bāb al-idhn li'l-nisa' bi'l-khurūj ila'l-masājid; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 4/161, Kitāb al-ṣalāh, bāb khurūj al-nisa' ila'l-masājid.

³⁰ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 4/161, kitāb al-ṣalāh, bāb khurūj al-nisa' ila'l-masājid.

³¹ Ibid., 4/163

³² Ibid., 4/163

³³ Ibid., 4/163

³⁴ Ibid., 6/178, 179, Kitāb ṣalāh al-'idayn, bāb ibādah khurūj al-nisa' fi'l-'idayn ila'l-musalla.

seclusion, and virgins. The menstruating women went out too, and stayed behind the people, joining in the takbirāt.”³⁵

“The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) commanded us to take them out on ‘Eīd al-Fiṭr’ and ‘Eīd al-Aḍḥā’, the adolescent and prepubescent girls, the menstruating women, and those who usually remained in seclusion, so that they could share in the festive occasions of the Muslims but the menstruating women were not to pray.

I said, ‘O Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ), one of us does not have a jilbāb.’ He said, ‘Let her sister dress her in one of her own jilbābs.’”³⁶

Bukhārī reports:

“Muhammad ibn Salām told us that ‘Abdu’Wahhāb reported from Ayyūb from Ḥafṣah bint Sirīn, who said: ‘We used to prevent our prepubescent girls from going out on the two Eīds.’”

A woman came and stayed at the castle of Banū Khalāf, and reported something from her sister. Her sister’s husband had taken part in twelve military campaigns with the Prophet (ﷺ), and her sister herself had accompanied him on six of them. She said: “We used to take care of the sick and wounded.” Her sister asked the Prophet (ﷺ): “Is there anything wrong if one of us does not have a jilbāb and never goes out for that reason?” He said: “Let her friend give her one of her jilbābs, so that she can come out and join the righteous gatherings of the Muslims.” Ḥafṣah said: ‘When Umm ‘Aṭiyyah arrived, I went to her and asked her, “Did you hear the Prophet (ﷺ) say that?” She said, “May my father be sacrificed for him, yes I did. [She never mentioned him without saying “may my father be sacrificed for him”]. I heard him say, ‘Let the young girls who usually stay in seclusion, or the young girls and those who usually stay in seclusion, and the menstruating women, go out and attend the righteous gathering of the believers, but let the menstruating women keep away from the prayer-place itself.’” Ḥafṣah said: ‘I asked her, “Even the menstruating women?” She said, “Yes, are menstruating women not present at ‘Arafah and on other occasions?’”’³⁷

Bukhārī also narrates another report from Umm ‘Aṭiyyah, in which she says:

“We used to be commanded to go out on the day of ‘Eīd’, and we even brought the virgins out of their seclusion, and the menstruating women, who would stay behind the people, joining in their takbirāt and du‘a’s, hoping for the blessing and purity of that day.”³⁸

These ṣaḥīḥ Ḥadīth give a clear indication of the Prophet’s concern for the intellectual and spiritual benefit of women. He ordered all the women to go out to the ‘Eīd’ prayer, including those who were menstruating, even though menstruating women are excused from praying and are not allowed to enter the prayer-place itself. But his call was addressed to all women, because of his concern that they should take part in these two blessed events and attend the righteous gathering of the Muslims, joining in the takbirāt and du‘a’s, and being a part of the public life of Islām which is discussed in the khutbah following the ‘Eīd’ prayer.

The Prophet (ﷺ) was concerned with the teaching and guidance of women, and wanted them to play a part in building the Muslim society, so he devoted part of his khutbah to women. He would come to the place where the women were gathered, and exhort and remind them, and he made doing this a duty of the imām. We find this in a ḥadīth narrated by Bukhārī and Muslim from Ibn Jurayī, who said:

“‘Aṭa told me: “I heard Jābir ibn ‘Abdu’lāh say: ‘The Prophet (ﷺ) stood up on the occasion of ‘Eīd al-Fiṭr’ and led the people in prayer. He began the prayer before the khutbah. Then he addressed the people. When the Prophet of Allāh (ﷺ) had finished his khutbah, he came to the women and spoke to them, whilst leaning on Bilāl’s arm, and Bilāl spread out his cloak for the women to put their ṣadaqah in it.” I [Ibn Jurayī] said to ‘Aṭa, ‘Was it Zakāt al-fiṭr?’ He said, ‘No, it was the ṣadaqah that they gave at that time; one woman threw her ring into it, then others followed her lead.’ I said to ‘Aṭa, ‘Is it a duty nowadays for

³⁵ Ibid., 6/179, Kitāb ṣalāt al-‘idayn, bāb ibāhah khurūj al-nisa’ fi’l-‘idayn ila’l-musalla.

³⁶ Ibid., 6/180, Kitāb ṣalāt al-‘idayn, bāb ibāhah khurūj al-nisa’ fi’l-‘idayn ila’l-musalla.

³⁷ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 2/469, Kitāb al-‘idayn, bāb idha lam yukun laha jilbāb fi’l-‘id.

³⁸ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 2/469, Kitāb al-‘idayn, bāb idha lam yukun laha jilbāb fi’l-‘id.

the imām to come to the women and address them when he has finished his khutbah?’ He said, ‘It most certainly is. This is a duty on them (māms); what is wrong with them that they do not do that nowadays?’”³⁹

According to this ḥadīth, the Prophet (ﷺ) exhorted and reminded the women, and accepted the sadaqah that they themselves willingly gave. Another ḥadīth, also narrated by Bukhārī and Muslim from Ibn ‘Abbās (رضي الله عنه) via Ibn Tāwūs adds that the Prophet (ﷺ) also reminded the women of their bay‘ah (oath of allegiance) and reconfirmed their adherence to it. Ibn ‘Abbās said:

“I attended ‘Eīd prayers with the Prophet (ﷺ), and (after his death) with Abū Bakr, ‘Umar and ‘Uthmān. All of them used to perform the prayer before he khutbah. The Prophet (ﷺ) came down (from the minbar) - and it is as if I can see him now, gesturing to them to sit down- then he would come through the crowd, until he reached the women. Bilāl was with him, and he recited:

﴿O Prophet! When believing women come to you to take the oath of fealty to you, that they will not associate anything whatever with Allāh...﴾ (Qur’ān 60: 12)

Until the end of the Āyah. Then he said, ‘Are you adhering to that?’ Only one woman answered, ‘Yes, O Prophet of Allāh (ﷺ),’ and he did not know at that time who she was⁴⁰. He said, ‘Then give sadaqah,’ and Bilāl spread out his cloak. The Prophet (ﷺ) said, ‘Come on, may my father and my mother be sacrificed for you!’ So they began to throw their rings and jewellery onto Bilāl’s cloak.”⁴¹

There is no doubt that the Prophet (ﷺ) addressed the women in the ‘Eīd prayer-place, reminding them about their religion, and that he took charity from them, reconfirmed their adherence to their oath of allegiance, enjoined them to remember the teachings of Islām, and motivated them to do good works. All of this was achieved by calling them to attend the congregational prayer on both ‘Eīds. This is indicative of the importance of congregational prayer in the life of the Muslim individual and the Islāmic society.

Although Islām does not oblige women to attend congregational prayer in the mosque, whenever women gather together, they are encouraged to offer the fard prayers in congregation. In this case, the one who is leading them in prayer should stand in the middle of the (first) row, not in front, and they do not have to recite the adhān or iqāmah. This is what Umm Salamah, the wife of the Prophet (ﷺ), used to do when she led other women in prayer.⁴²

She Prays Sunnah and Nafil Prayers

The Muslim woman does not limit herself to the five daily obligatory prayers; she also prays those sunnah prayers which the Prophet (ﷺ) used to perform regularly (al-rawātib), and prays as many of the nafil (supererogatory) prayers as her time and energy allow. These prayers include ṣalāt al-duḥā, sunnah prayers following maghrib, and prayers offered at night. Nafil prayers bring a person closer to Allāh (ﷻ), earn him or her the love and pleasure of Allāh (ﷻ), and make him or her one of the victorious, obedient and righteous ones. There is no clearer indication of the great status attained by the believer who draws closer to Allāh (ﷻ) by performing nafil deeds than the ḥadīth qudsi:

“My servant continues to draw near to Me with supererogatory works so that I will love him. Wān I love him, I am his hearing with which he hears, his seeing with which he sees, his hand with which he strikes, and his foot with which he walks. Were he to ask [something] of Me, I would surely give it to him; and were he to ask Me for refuge, I would surely grant him it.”⁴³

Because of Allāh’s (ﷻ) love for His servant, that person will be loved by the inhabitants of heaven and earth, as is described in a report narrated by Abū Hurayrah in which the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

“When Allāh (ﷻ) loves one of His servants, He calls Jibrīl (جبريل) and tells him: ‘I love so-and-so, so love him.’ Then Jibrīl (جبريل) will love him, and will proclaim to the inhabitants of heaven: ‘Allāh (ﷻ) loves so-and-so, so love him.’ So the inhabitants of heaven will love him too, and he will be well accepted by the inhabitants of

³⁹ Faḥ al-Bārī, 2/466, Kitāb al-‘idayn, bāb maw‘izah al-imām al-nisā’a yawm al-‘id; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 6/174, Kitāb ṣalāt al-‘idayn.

⁴⁰ Ibn Hajar mentioned in Faḥ al-Bārī, 2/468, that she was Asma’ bint Yazīd ibn al-Sakan, who was known as the spokeswoman for the women, and was a very confident woman.

⁴¹ Faḥ al-Bārī, 2/466, Kitāb al-‘idayn, bāb maw‘izat al-imām al-nisā’a yawm al-‘id; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 6/171, Kitāb ṣalāt al-‘idayn.

⁴² See Ibn al-Jawzī, Aḥkām al-nisā’, 186, 204 (Beirut edition); Ibn Qudāmah, al-Mughni, 2/202 (Riyadh edition).

⁴³ Faḥ al-Bārī, 11/341, Kitāb al-riqāq, bāb al-tawadu’

the earth. If Allāh (ﷻ) hates one of His servants, He calls Jibril (ﷺ) and tells him: 'I hate so-and-so, so hate him.' Then Jibril (ﷺ) will hate him and will proclaim to the inhabitants of heaven: 'Allāh (ﷻ) hates so-and-so, so hate him.' Then the inhabitants of heaven will hate him and he will also be detested by the inhabitants of the earth."⁴⁴

The Prophet (ﷺ) used to pray so much at night that his feet would become swollen. 'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) asked him: "Why do you do this, O Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ), when Allāh (ﷻ) has forgiven all your past and future sins?" He answered, "Should I not be a grateful servant?"⁴⁵

The Prophet's wife Zaynab (May Allāh be pleased with her) used to perform nafil prayers, and make them lengthy. She put up a rope between two columns (in the mosque), so that when she felt tired and exhausted she could lean against it and restore her energy. The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) entered the mosque, saw the rope, and asked, "What is this?" The people told him, "It belongs to Zaynab: she prays, and when she feels tired, she leans against it." He said, "Untie it; let any of you pray as long as he has the energy to do so, and if he feels tired, he can sit down (or: let him sit down)."⁴⁶

A woman of Banū Asad, whose name was Aḥwāla bint Tuwayṭ, used to pray all night, and never sleep. One day she called on 'Āishah when the Prophet (ﷺ) was present. 'Āishah told him, "This is Aḥwāla bint Tuwayṭ. They say that she never sleeps at night." The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said: "She never sleeps at night! Do only as much as you can, for by Allāh (ﷻ), Allāh (ﷻ) never gets tired, although you do."⁴⁷

The Prophet (ﷺ) encouraged Muslim men and women to do more nafil deeds, but at the same time he told them to be balanced in their approach to worship, and disliked exaggeration therein. He wanted the Muslims to have a balanced personality, so that their worship would be enthusiastic, but consistent, and would not be so burdensome that people would not be able to persist in it. He also taught that the most beloved deed in the sight of Allāh (ﷻ) is that which is done continuously, even if it is a little, as is stated in the ḥadīth in which 'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) said: "The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said:

'The most beloved deed to Allāh (ﷻ) is that which is continuous, even if it is little.'" If 'Āishah started to do something, she would adhere to it.⁴⁸

This attitude of keeping up the habit of doing righteous deeds was not confined to 'Āishah alone; it was the attitude of all members of the Prophet's household, and of those who were nearest and dearest to him. We see this in the ḥadīth reported by Muslim from 'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her):

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) had a mat which he used for making a compartment at night in which he would pray, and the people began to pray with him; he used to spread the mat during the day time. The people crowded around him one night. He then said, 'O people, perform only such acts as you are capable of doing, for Allāh (ﷻ) does not grow weary but you will get tired. The acts most pleasing to Allāh (ﷻ) are those which are done continuously, even if they are small.' And it was the habit of the family of Muhammad (ﷺ) that whenever they did any deed they did it continuously."⁴⁹

She Performs Her Prayers Properly

The true Muslim tries hard to perform her prayers properly, with deep concentration and precision of physical movements. She thinks about the meaning of the Āyāt she is reciting, and the words of praise and glorification that she is uttering. Her soul is flooded with fear of Allāh (ﷻ), and with gratitude to Him and sincere worship of Him. If the Shaitan happens to whisper some idea to her during the prayer, to distract her from concentrating properly, to keep him away she focuses on the words that she is reciting from the Qur'ān, and the words of praise that she is uttering.

The Muslim woman does not rush back to her housework and chores when she has finished her prayer. Rather, as the Prophet (ﷺ) used to do, she asks Allāh (ﷻ)'s forgiveness by saying "Astaghfir-

⁴⁴ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/184, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-adab wa'l-silah, bāb idha aḥabba Allāhu 'abdan.

⁴⁵ (Bukhārī and Muslim) See Sharḥ al-Sunnah 4/45, Kitāb al-ṣalāt, bāb al-ijtihād fi qiyām al-layl.

⁴⁶ See Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 6/72, 73, Kitāb ṣalāt al-musafirīn, bāb fadilat al-'aml al-da'im.

⁴⁷ Ibid., 6/73.

⁴⁸ Ibid., 6/72.

⁴⁹ See Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 6/70-72, Kitāb ṣalāt al-musafirīn, bāb fadilah al-'aml al-da'im.

Allāh” three times, and repeats the du‘a‘: “Allahumma anta al-salām wa minka al-salām, tabaraka ya dha‘l-jalali wa‘l-ikrām [(O Allāh (ﷻ), You are Peace and from You comes peace, Blessed are You, O Rabb of majesty and honour.)]”⁵⁰ Then she repeats the adhkār and *du‘a‘*s that the Prophet (ﷺ) is known to have recited after completing his prayer. There are many such *adhkār*⁵¹, one of the most important of which is to repeat “Subhān Allāh” thirty-three times, “Al-hamdu lillāh” thirty-three times, “Allāhu akbar” thirty-three times, then to complete one hundred with “La illaha ill-Allāh wahdahu lā sharika lah, lahu‘l-mulk wa lahu‘l-hamd, wa huwa ‘ala kulli shayin qadīr.” According to a ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth, the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

“Whoever glorifies Allāh (ﷻ) (says subhān Allāh) after every prayer thirty three times, praises Allāh (ﷻ) (says al-hamdu lillāh) thirty three times, and magnifies Allāh (ﷻ) (says Allāhu akbar) thirty-three times, which adds up to ninety-nine, then completes one hundred by saying La illaha ill-Allāh wahdahu lā shaika lah, lahu‘l-mulk wa lahu‘l-hamd, wa huwa ‘ala kulli shayin qadīr, his sins will be forgiven, even if they were like the foam of the sea.”⁵²

Then she turns to Allāh (ﷻ) humbly asking Him to correct all her affairs, in this world and the next, and to bless her abundantly and guide her in everything.

Thus the Muslim woman finishes her prayers, purified in heart and mind and reinvigorated with a dose of spiritual energy, which will help her to cope with the burdens of everyday life, knowing that she is under the protection of Allāh (ﷻ). She will not panic if anything bad befalls her, nor will she become miserly if she enjoys good fortune. This is the attitude of those righteous women who pray and fear Allāh (ﷻ):

«Truly man was created very impatient; Fretful when evil touches him; and niggardly when good reaches him. Not so those devoted to Prayer. Those who remain steadfast to their prayer; And those in whose wealth is a recognized right For the [needy] who asks and him who is prevented [for some reason from asking]» (Qur‘ān 70: 19-25)

She Pays Zakāh on Her Wealth

The Muslim woman pays zakāh on her wealth, if she is wealthy enough to be liable for zakāh. Every year at a specified time, she calculates how much she owns and pays what she has to, because zakāh is a pillar of Islām, and there can be no compromise or excuse when it comes to paying it every year, even if the amount comes to thousands or millions. It would never occur to the true Muslim woman to try to avoid paying some of the zakāh that she is obliged to pay.

Zakāh is a clearly-defined financial obligation and act of worship which Allāh (ﷻ) has enjoined upon every Muslim, man or women, who owns the minimum amount (ḥisāb) or more. Withholding zakāh, or denying that it is obligatory, is tantamount to apostasy (īddah) and kufr, for which a person may be fought and even killed, until or unless he pays in full as required by Islām. The words of Abū Bakr (رضي الله عنه) concerning the apostates who withheld their zakāh echo down the centuries to us: “By Allāh (ﷻ) I will fight whoever separates ṣalāt from zakāh.”⁵³

These immortal words demonstrate the greatness of this religion, which made the connection between “religious” and “secular” affairs, and reveal Abū Bakr’s deep understanding of the nature of this integrated, holistic way of life, which combines abstract beliefs with the practical application of their principles. Many Āyāt of the Qur‘ān confirm the interdependence of ṣalāt and zakāh in the structure of faith:

«...Those who establish regular prayer and regular charity...» (Qur‘ān 5: 55)

«And be steadfast in prayer: practise regular charity.» (Qur‘ān 2: 43)

⁵⁰*Ibid.*, 5/89, 90, Kitāb al-masājīd, bāb istiḥbāb al-dhikr ba‘d al-salām.

⁵¹See Imām al-Nawāwī, Riyādh al-Ṣāliḥīn, p. 621, Kitāb al-adhkār, bāb fadl al-dhikr wa‘l-hathth ‘alayhi; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 5/83-95, Kitāb al-masājīd, bāb al-dhikr ba‘d al-salām.

⁵²See Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 5/95, Kitāb al-masājīd, bāb al-dhikr ba‘d al-salām.

⁵³See Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 1/207, Kitāb al-imān, bāb wujūb qitāl tārīk ahad arkān al-Islām.

«...[those who] establish prayers and regular charity» (Qur’ān 2: 277)

It is clear to the true Muslim woman that Islām - although it has given her the right to financial independence, and has not obliged her to support herself or others, which is, rather, the duty of men - has indeed enjoined zakāh on her, and has made zakāh a right to which the poor are entitled. So the Muslim woman would not hesitate to pay it in the ways prescribed by shari’ah. She cannot claim to be excused because she is a woman and no woman is obliged to spend on others. Any woman who makes such a claim has a poor understanding of Islām, her faith is weak and there is some fault in her personality. Or else she is a woman who appears to be religious, but she is ignorant and negligent, or is stingy and loves money, and it would never occur to her to pay zakāh even though she fasts, prays and performs Ḥajj, and occasionally gives a small charitable donation from her great wealth. These types of women - ignorant or stingy - are nothing like the true Muslim woman as envisaged by Islām.

She Fasts During the Day and Prays at Night in Ramaḍān

The true Muslim woman fasts the month of Ramaḍān, and her soul is filled with faith that: “Whoever fasts Ramaḍān out of faith and hope of reward, all his previous sins will be forgiven.”⁵⁴ She has the attitude of one who truly fasts, whose faculties keep away from all kinds of sins that may invalidate the fast or diminish its reward. If she finds herself exposed to the trials of hostility or argument, she follows the Prophet’s advice to men and women who fast:

“When any of you is fasting, he should not utter foul words or raise his voice in anger. If then anyone provokes or fights him, he should say, ‘I am observing a fast.’”⁵⁵

“Whoever does not give up false speech and evil actions, Allāh (ﷻ) has no need of his giving up his food and drink.”⁵⁶

During Ramaḍān, the true Muslim woman feels that she is immersed in the atmosphere of a month unlike any other, when good deeds should be multiplied and the gates of goodness should be opened wide. She knows that her fasting during this month should be only for Allāh (ﷻ), and that He will give the reward for it, for the reward of Allāh (ﷻ), the Bountiful and Munificent, is greater and vaster than anyone could even imagine:

“The reward for every good deed of the sons of Ādam (ﷺ) will be multiplied anywhere between ten and seven hundred times. Allāh (ﷻ) said: ‘Except for fasting, because it is for Me and I Myself will give recompense for it. He gives up his food and his passion for Me.’ For the one who fasts, there are two times of rejoicing, one when he breaks the fast, and one when he meets his Rabb. Verily the smell that comes from the mouth of one who is fasting is more pleasing to Allāh (ﷻ) than the scent of musk.”⁵⁷

Therefore the wise Muslim woman must strike a balance, during this all-too-short blessed month, between her domestic duties and the opportunity this month brings to draw closer to Allāh (ﷻ) through worship and good deeds. She should not let her household chores distract her from performing the obligatory prayers at the appointed times, or from reading Qur’ān or praying nafl prayers. Nor should she let traditional late-night family gatherings keep her from praying Qiyām al-layl and tahajjud, and making du’a. She knows the great reward and abundant forgiveness that Allāh (ﷻ) has prepared for those who stay up to pray during the night in Ramaḍān:

“Whoever spends the night in prayer during Ramaḍān out of faith and hope of reward, all his previous sins will be forgiven.”⁵⁸

The Prophet (ﷺ) used to strive to do more good deeds during Ramaḍān than at other times, especially during the last ⁵⁴(Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 6/217, Kitāb al-ṣiyām, bāb thawāb man sama Ramaḍān.

⁵⁵(Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyāḍ al-Ṣāliḥīn, p. 570, Kitāb al-faḍa’il, bāb fī amr al-ṣā’im bi hifz lisaniḥī wā jawariḥiḥi ‘an al-mukhalifā.

⁵⁶*Fatḥ al-Bārī*, 4/116, Kitāb al-ṣawm, bāb man lam yada’ qawl al-zur wa’l-‘aml biḥīfi’l-ṣawm.

⁵⁷(Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 6/221, Kitāb al-ṣawm, bāb fadl al-ṣawm.

⁵⁸(Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 4/116, Abwāb al-nawāfil, bāb qiyām shahr Ramaḍān wa fadluḥu.

ten days of it: 'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) said:

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) used to strive during Ramaḍān, and especially the last ten days of it, more than he used to at other times."⁵⁹

'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) also said:

"When the last ten days of Ramaḍān began, the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) would stay up for the whole night, wake his family up, strive extra hard, and abstain from marital relations."⁶⁰

The Prophet (ﷺ) used to command the Muslims to seek laylat al-qadr, and encouraged them to spend that night in prayer:

"Seek laylat al-qadr during the last ten days of Ramaḍān."⁶¹

"Whoever spends the night of laylat al-qadr in prayer and worship out of faith and hope of reward, all his previous sins will be forgiven."⁶²

This blessed month is a time that is purely for worship. The serious-minded Muslim woman has no time to spend on chatting and idle pursuits throughout the night. She should not be among those who while away the night until dawn approaches, whereupon she offers her family something to eat and they fall into a deep sleep, and may even miss the fajr prayer!

The true Muslim woman and her family should live an Islāmic life during Ramaḍān, striving to organize themselves in such a way that when they all come back from tarāwīh prayers, they do not stay up for too long, because in a few short hours' time, they will get up to pray qiyām al-layl and then eat suhūr, for the Prophet (ﷺ) commanded us to eat suhūr, as there is much benefit in it:

"Eat suhūr, for in suhūr there is blessing."⁶³

The true Muslim woman helps all the members of her family to get up for suhūr, in obedience to the command of the Prophet (ﷺ) and in the hope of obtaining the blessings of suhūr, such as the reminder to pray qiyām al-layl, and encouragement to go out to the mosque to pray fajr in congregation, as well as the physical benefits of strengthening the body for the day's fast. This is what the Prophet (ﷺ) used to do and trained his Companions to do likewise: Zayd ibn Thābit (رضي الله عنه) said:

"We ate suhūr with the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ), then we got up to pray." Someone asked, "How much time was there between the two?" He said: "Fifty Āyāt [i.e. the time it would take to recite fifty Āyāt]." ⁶⁴

There is no doubt that Allāh (ﷻ) will increase the reward of the Muslim woman who is the means of bringing these blessings to her family during Ramaḍān:

﴿As to those who believe and work righteousness, verily We shall not suffer to perish the reward of any who do a [single] righteous deed.﴾ (Qur'ān 18: 30)

She Observes Nafil Fasts

The true Muslim woman also observes nafil fasts at times other than Ramaḍān, if it is not too difficult for her to do so. So she fasts the day of 'Arafāt, and 'Ashura', and the ninth day of Muḥarram, because fasting on these days and others is one of the righteous deeds that may expiate sins, as the Prophet (ﷺ) told us: Abū Qatādah (رضي الله عنه) said:

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) was asked about fasting on the day of 'Arafāt, and he said: 'It is an expiation for the sins of the previous year and the current year.'"⁶⁵

⁵⁹ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 8/70, Kitāb al-ṣawm, bāb al-ijtihād fi 'l-'ashar al-awākhir min shaḥr Ramaḍān.

⁶⁰ (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 6/389, Kitāb al-ṣiyam, bāb al-ijtihād fi 'l-'ashar al-awākhir.

⁶¹ (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 6/380, Kitāb al-ṣiyam, bāb ma ja'a fi laylat al-adr.

⁶² (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 6/379, Kitāb al-ṣiyam, bāb ma ja'a fi laylat al-qadr.

⁶³ (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 6/251, Kitāb al-ṣiyam, bāb fadl al-suhūr.

⁶⁴ (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 6/253, Kitāb al-ṣiyam, bāb fadl al-suhūr.

⁶⁵ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 8/51, Kitāb al-ṣiyam, bāb istiḥbāb ṣiyam yawm 'Arafāt.

Ibn ‘Abbās (رضي الله عنه) said that the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) fasted the day of ‘Ashura’, and commanded others to fast on this day too.⁶⁶

Abū Qatādah (رضي الله عنه) said that the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) was asked about fasting on the day of ‘Ashura’, and he said: “It is an expiation for the sins of the previous year.”⁶⁷ Ibn ‘Abbās said:

“The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said: ‘If I am still alive next year, I will fast on the ninth day (of Muḥarram).’”⁶⁸

Fasting six days of Shawwāl is also encouraged, as the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

“Whoever fasted Ramaḍān then followed it with six days of Shawwāl, it will be as if he fasted for a lifetime.”⁶⁹

It is also recommended to fast for three days of each month, concerning which Abū Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه) said:

“My dearest friend [(i.e., the Prophet (ﷺ))] advised me to do three things: to fast for three days of each month, to pray two rak’ahs of ḍuḥā prayer, and never to sleep until I pray witr.”⁷⁰

Abū Darda’ (رضي الله عنه) said:

“My beloved friend (ﷺ) advised me to do three things that I shall never give up as long as I live: to fast three days of each month, to pray ḍuḥā, and not to sleep until I have prayed witr.”⁷¹

‘Abdullāh ibn ‘Amr ibn al-‘Ās (رضي الله عنه) said: “The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said: ‘Fasting for three days of each month is like fasting for an entire lifetime.’”⁷²

Some reports describe these three days as being the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth of each month, which are called al-ayyām al-bīd (the white days); other reports state that the Prophet (ﷺ) used to fast on three unspecified days of each month.

Mu‘adhah al-‘Adawiyah said:

“I asked ‘Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her), ‘Did the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) used to fast three days in each month?’ She said, ‘Yes.’ I asked her, ‘In which part of the month did he used to fast?’ She said, ‘He did not mind in which part of the month he would fast.’”⁷³

She Goes on Ḥajj to the Sacred House of Allāh (ﷻ)

The true Muslim woman intends to go on Ḥajj to the House of Allāh (ﷻ) when she is able to do so and it is easy for her to travel. Before she sets out on her journey, she takes the time to study the rules (aḥkām) of Ḥajj in depth, so that when she begins to perform the rituals of Ḥajj, her actions will be based on true understanding and her Ḥajj will be complete according to the conditions laid down by the shari‘ah. It will also be the equivalent of jihād for men, as the Prophet (ﷺ) described it in a ḥadīth narrated by ‘Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her):

“I [‘Āishah] said: ‘O Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ), can we (women) not go out on military expeditions and fight in jihād with you (men)?’ He said, ‘You (women) have the best of jihād, and the best of it is Ḥajj, a blessed Ḥajj.’” ‘Āishah said, “I should never stop going for Ḥajj after I heard this from the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ).”⁷⁴

⁶⁶ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 8/12, Kitāb al-ṣiyām, bāb ṣawm yawm ‘ashura’.

⁶⁷ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 8/51, Kitāb al-ṣiyām, bāb istiḥbāb ṣiyām yawm ‘ashura’.

⁶⁸ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 8/13, Kitāb al-ṣiyām, bāb ṣawm yawm ‘ashura’.

⁶⁹ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 8/56, Kitāb al-ṣiyām: bāb istiḥbāb ṣiyām sittat ayām min shawwāl.

⁷⁰ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 4/226, Kitāb al-ḥawm, bāb ṣiyām ayām al-bid; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 5/234, Kitāb ṣalāt al-musāfirīn, bāb istiḥbāb ṣalāt al-duha.

⁷¹ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 5/235, Kitāb ṣalāt al-musāfirīn, bāb istiḥbāb ṣalāt al-duha.

⁷² (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 6/362, Kitāb al-ṣiyām, bāb ṣawm al-dahr.

⁷³ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 8/48, Kitāb al-ṣiyām, bāb istiḥbāb ṣiyām thalāthat ayām min kulli shaḥr.

⁷⁴ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 4/72, Kitāb jaza’ al-sayd, bāb ḥajj al-nisa’.

She Goes for ‘Umrah

Just as Ḥajj is obligatory for the Muslim woman, so also is ‘Umrah, if she is able to go - especially ‘Umrah during Ramaḍān, the reward for which is equivalent to that for performing Ḥajj with the Prophet (ﷺ). This is seen in the ḥadīth narrated by Imām Bukhārī from Ibn ‘Abbās (رضي الله عنه) who said:

“When the Prophet (ﷺ) came back from Ḥajj, he said to Umm Sirān al-Ansāriyyah, ‘What stopped you from going to Ḥajj?’ She said, ‘Abū so-and-so - meaning her husband - has two camels; he took one to go to Ḥajj, and we need the other to irrigate our land.’ He said, ‘When Ramaḍān comes, go for ‘Umrah, for ‘Umrah in Ramaḍān is a Ḥajj.’” According to another report also narrated by Ibn ‘Abbās, the Prophet (ﷺ) said: “For ‘Umrah in Ramaḍān is equivalent to (performing) Ḥajj with me.”⁷⁵

She is Obedient to the Commands of Allāh (ﷻ)

The true Muslim woman does not forget that she is duty bound to perform all the religious duties that Allāh (ﷻ) has commanded her to do. In this regard her situation is the same as that of a man, and there is no difference between them except in a few regulations which apply exclusively to either men or women. Other than that, women and men are equally responsible before Allāh (ﷻ). Allāh (ﷻ) says:

﴿For Muslim men and women, for believing men and women, for devout men and women, for true men and women, for men and women who are patient and constant, for men and women who humble themselves, for men and women who give in charity, for men and women who fast [and deny themselves], for men and women who guard their chastity, and for men and women who engage much in Allāh's praise - for them has Allāh prepared forgiveness and great reward.﴾ (Qur’ān 33: 35)

﴿Whoever works righteousness, man or woman, and has Faith, verily, to him will We give a new Life, and life that is good and pure, and We will bestow on such their reward according to the best of their actions.﴾ (Qur’ān 16: 97)

﴿And their Rabb has accepted of them, and answered them: ‘Never will I suffer to be lost the work of any of you, be he male or female: you are members, one of another; those who have left their homes and were driven out therefrom, and suffered harm in My Cause, and fought and were slain - verily, I will blot out from them their iniquities, and admit them into Gardens with rivers flowing beneath - a reward from the Presence of Allāh, and from His Presence is the best of rewards.﴾ (Qur’ān 3: 195)

Whenever the phrase “yā ayyuha ’l-nās (O people or O mankind)” appears in the Qur’ān or Ḥadīth, it includes both men and women. Evidence of this may be found in the ḥadīth narrated by Imām Muslim from the Prophet’s wife Umm Salamah (May Allāh be pleased with her), who said:

“I used to hear the people talking about Al-hawḍ (the cistern), and I had never heard about it from the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ). One day, whilst a young girl was combing my hair, I heard the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) saying “O people!” I said to the young girl, “Leave me alone now.” She said, “That call is for men only; he is not calling the women.” I said, “I am one of the people.” The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said: “I am the one who will be at the cistern (in the Hereafter) before you. So be careful, lest one of you should come to me and be driven away like a stray camel. I will ask the reason why, and I will be told, ‘You do not know what innovations they wrought after your death,’ and I will say, ‘Away with them!’” According to another report also narrated by Muslim, he (ﷺ) said: “...and I will say, ‘Away, away with the one who changed (the religion) after my death!’”⁷⁶

Men and women are equal before Allāh (ﷻ), and both must pay heed to His commands and prohibitions. So the Muslim woman does what Allāh (ﷻ) has commanded and keeps away from what He has forbidden, believing that she will be questioned about what she did in this life: if they are good, it will be good for her, and if they are bad, then it will be bad for her. She does not transgress the limits laid down by Allāh (ﷻ), and does not do anything that is ḥarām. She always seeks the ruling of Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger, and accepts it no matter what happens to her in her life.

⁷⁵ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 4/72, Kitāb jaza’ al-sayd, bāb ḥajj al-nisa’

⁷⁶ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 15/56, 54, Kitāb al-faḍā’il, bāb ḥawḍ nabīyyina (ﷺ) wa ṣifātuhu.

Islāmic history is filled with the stories of great women who kept the rule of Allāh (ﷻ) in mind at all times and did not deviate from it or look for alternatives. Among these stories is that of Khawlah bint Tha‘labah and her husband Aws ibn al-Sāmit, narrated by Imām Aḥmad and Abū Dāwūd, and quoted by Ibn Katheer in his tafseer of the beginning of Sūrat al-Mujādilah. Khawlah said:

“By Allāh (ﷻ), concerning me and Aws ibn al-Sāmit, Allāh (ﷻ) revealed the beginning of Sūrat al-Mujādilah. I was married to him, and he was an old man who was badtempered. One day, he came in and I raised a particular issue with him again; he became angry and said, ‘You are to me as the back of my mother.’ Then he went out and sat for a while in the meetingplace of his people. Then he came back, and wanted to resume marital relations with me. I said, ‘No way! By the hand of the One in Whose hand is the soul of Khuwaylah (i.e., Khawlah), you will never get what you want from me after saying what you said, until Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger decide between us.’ He tried to force himself on me, but I was able to resist because I was a young woman and he was a weak old man. I pushed him away then I went to one of my (female) neighbours and borrowed a cloak from her and went to the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ). I sat before him, told him what (my husband) had done to me, and began to complain to him about my sufferings because of my husband’s bad temper. The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said, ‘O Khuwaylah, your cousin is an old man, so fear Allāh (ﷻ) with regard to him.’ I did not leave him until the Qur’an was revealed concerning me: he was overcome as he usually was when the Qur’an was revealed to him, and when it was over, he said: ‘O Khuwaylah, Allāh (ﷻ) has revealed the Qur’an concerning you and your husband.’ Then he recited to me:

﴿Allāh has indeed heard [and accepted] the statement of the woman who pleads with you concerning her husband and carries her complaint [in prayer] to Allāh: and Allāh [always] hears the arguments between both sides among you: for Allāh hears and sees [all things]. If any men among you divorce their wives by dhiḥār ⁷⁷ [calling them mothers], they cannot be their mothers: none can be their mothers except those who gave them birth. And in fact they use words [both] iniquitous and false: but truly Allāh is One that blots out [sins], and forgives [again and again]. But those who divorce their wives by dhiḥār, then wish to go back on the words they uttered - [it is ordained that such a one] should free a slave before they touch each other: this are you admonished to perform: and Allāh is well-acquainted with [all] that you do. And if any has not [the wherewithal], he should fast for two months consecutively before they touch each other. But if any is unable to do so, he should feed sixty indigent ones. This, that you may show your faith in Allāh and His Messenger, those are limits [set by] Allāh. For those who reject [Him], there is a grievous Penalty.﴾ (Qur’ān 58: 1-4)

He told me, ‘Let him release a slave.’ I said, ‘O Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ), he does not have the means to do that.’ He said, ‘Then let him fast for two consecutive months.’ I said, ‘By Allāh (ﷻ), he is an old man, he is not able to do that.’ He said, ‘Then let him feed sixty poor people with wasq ⁷⁸ of dates.’ I said, ‘O Messenger of Allāh (ﷻ), he does not have that much.’ He said, ‘Then we will help him with farāq ⁷⁹ of dates.’ I said, ‘And I will help him with another farāq, O Messenger of Allāh (ﷻ).’ He said, ‘You have done right and done well. Go and give it in charity on his behalf, then take care of your cousin properly.’ And I did so.⁸⁰

Khawlah bint Tha‘labah could not bear to stay for one moment with her husband after he had spoken the words of dhiḥār to her, which was a form of divorce at the time of jāhiliyyah, until she had referred the matter to the Prophet (ﷺ), so that she might know how Allāh (ﷻ) would judge between her and her husband. She did not even have a suitable garment with which to go out and appear before the Prophet (ﷺ), so she borrowed a robe from one of her neighbours, and rushed to where the Prophet (ﷺ) was ⁷⁷A jāhili form of divorce where the husband told his wife “You are to me like the back of my mother.” According to pre-Islāmic Arabian custom, this freed the husband from marital duties, but effectively imprisoned the woman as she was not free to leave her husband’s home or enter into another marriage; the husband was also not obliged to provide for the children of the marriage. The Qur’ān clearly abolished this cruel and oppressive practice. See Yusuf Ali’s Note Number 5330. [Translator]

⁷⁸*Wasq*: The amount of fruit a date-palm would bear in one season. [Author]

⁷⁹*Farāq*: A measurement of weight approximately equivalent to 60 kilograms. [Author]

⁸⁰See Mukhtasar Tafseer Ibn Katheer, 3/459, Sūrat al-Mujādilah 58:1-4 (published by Dār al-Qur’ān al-Karīm, Beirut.)

sitting, so that she could hear Allāh’s ruling concerning her, and follow it.

It comes as no surprise that this great woman enjoyed such high standing among the Ṣahābah who were her contemporaries and knew her virtues, above all ‘Umar ibn al-Khaṭṭāb (رضي الله عنه). She met him one day outside the mosque, when Al-Jarūd al-‘Abdī was with him. ‘Umar, who was the khalīfah at that time, greeted her, and she said to him, “O ‘Umar, I remember you when you were called ‘Umayr in the marketplace of ‘Ukādh, taking care of the sheep with your stick. So fear Allāh (ﷻ) in your role as khalīfah taking care of the people, and know that the one who fears the threat of punishment in the Hereafter realises that it is not far away, and the one who fears death fears missing some opportunity in this life.” Al-Jarūd said, “You have spoken too harshly to Amīr al-Mu‘minīn, woman!” ‘Umar said, “Let her be. Do you not know that this is Khawlah, to whose words Allāh (ﷻ) listened from above the seven heavens? By Allāh (ﷻ), ‘Umar should by right listen to her.”

Ibn Katheer mentions in his Tafseer that a man said to ‘Umar, when he saw him welcoming her warmly and listening to her, “You left a man of Quraysh to come to this old woman?” ‘Umar said, “Woe to you! Do you not know who this is?” The man said, “No.” ‘Umar said, “This is a woman whose complaint Allāh (ﷻ) listened to from above the seven heavens: this is Khawlah bint Tha‘labah. By Allāh (ﷻ), if she did not leave me until night fell, I would not tell her to leave until she had got what she came for, unless the time for prayer came, in which case I would pray, and then come back to her until she had got what she came for.”

The true Muslim woman always bears in mind the words of Allāh (ﷻ):

﴿It is not fitting for a Believer, man or woman, when a matter has been decided by Allāh and His Messenger, to have any option about their decision: if anyone disobeys Allāh and His Messenger, he is indeed on a clearly wrong Path.﴾ (Qur’ān 33: 36)

Obedience to Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger is much more important than one’s own whims and desires; it comes before pleasure and individual choice. Zaynab bint Jahsh (May Allāh be pleased with her) set the best example of obedience to the command of Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger when he asked her to agree to marry his freed slave and adopted son Zayd ibn Ḥārithah. This marriage achieved two legislative (tashrī‘i) aims:

(1) To achieve total equality among people: The beautiful woman of Quraysh, the noblewoman of the sons of ‘Abdu Shams, and the cousin of the Prophet, married a freed slave. Freed slaves were of a lower class than the nobility; indeed, the differences between the classes was so great and so deep that nothing could abolish it except a decisive, public act on the part of the Prophet (ﷺ), that the Muslim community would have to take as an example, so that these barriers might be torn down and people would not be viewed as superior except in terms of their level of taqwa.

(2) To abolish the custom of adoption which was widely spread at the time of jāhiliyyah. Hence the Prophet (ﷺ) married Zaynab, after she had been divorced by his adopted son Zayd, to demonstrate in practical terms that if Zayd had been his real son, Allāh (ﷻ) would not have commanded him in the Qur’ān to marry Zaynab.

The choice fell to Zaynab, the cousin of the Prophet (ﷺ), to achieve these two legislative aims within the environment of the Prophet’s household, so that the people could accept them in obedience to the command of Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger (ﷺ). When he chose her to be the wife of Zayd ibn Ḥārithah, she disliked the idea, and said, “O Messenger of Allāh (ﷻ), I will never marry him, for I am the noblewoman of the tribe of ‘Abdu Shams.” The Prophet (ﷺ) replied, calmly but firmly, “You have to marry him.” Whilst they were discussing the matter, Allāh (ﷻ) revealed to His Messenger (ﷺ):

﴿It is not fitting for a Believer, man or woman, when a matter has been decided by Allāh and His Messenger, to have any option about their decision: if anyone disobeys Allāh and His Messenger, he is indeed on a clearly wrong Path.﴾ (Qur’ān 33: 36)

Then Zaynab accepted the command of Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger, and said: “I will not disobey Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger, and I will give myself in marriage to him.”

Subsequently, the differences between Zaynab and Zayd led to their divorce. When Zaynab had completed her ‘iddah, Allāh (ﷻ) revealed the following Āyah:

﴿Behold! You did say to one who had received the grace of Allāh and your favour: ‘Retain [in wedlock] your wife, and fear Allāh.’ But you did hide in your heart that which Allāh was about to make manifest: you did fear the people, but it is more fitting that you should fear Allāh. Then when Zayd had dissolved [his marriage] with her, with the necessary [formality], We joined her in marriage to you: in order that [in future] there may be no difficulty to the Believers in [the matter of] marriage with the wives of their adopted sons, when the latter have dissolved with the necessary [formality] [their marriage] with them. And Allāh’s command must be fulfilled.﴾ (Qur’ān 33: 37)

The Prophet (ﷺ) recited this Āyah, smiling, then he said, “Who will go to Zaynab and tell her the good news that Allāh (ﷻ) has arranged my marriage to her from heaven?”

It was as if Allāh (ﷻ) was rewarding Zaynab for her absolute obedience to Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger. She had accepted their decision that she should marry Zayd, then she became the wife of the Prophet (ﷺ) by the command of Allāh (ﷻ), in Āyāt which the Muslims will recite when they worship Allāh (ﷻ) by reciting the Qur’ān, until the end of time. This honour was bestowed only on Zaynab, who was unique among the wives of the Prophet (ﷺ). She was proud of the favour of Allāh (ﷻ) to her, and used to boast to the other wives of the Prophet: “Your families arranged your marriages, but Allāh (ﷻ) arranged my marriage from above the seven heavens.”⁸¹

She Does Not Sit Alone With a “Stranger”

Obedience to Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger can only be achieved by following their commands and keeping away from that which they have prohibited. One way in which the Muslim woman obeys Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger is by not sitting alone with a “stranger” (ajnabī) i.e., a man to whom she is not related, because doing so is ḥarām according to the consensus of the scholars, on the basis of the ḥadīth:

“A man should not sit alone with a woman unless amaḥram is with her, and a woman should not travel without a maḥram.” A man stood up and said: “O Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ), my wife has set out for Ḥajj, and I have enlisted for such-and-such a military expedition.” He said, “Go and perform Ḥajj with your wife.”⁸²

The maḥram is a man to whom marriage is forever forbidden for a woman, such as the father, brother, paternal uncle, maternal uncle, etc.

The ajnabī or “stranger” is a man to whom marriage is allowed in principle, even if he is a relative, especially the husband’s brother and other similarly close relatives. It is forbidden for a woman to sit alone with all of these, because the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

“Beware of entering upon women.” A man of the Anṣār asked, “O Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ), what about the brother-in-law?” He said, “The brother-in-law is death.”⁸³

The brother-in-law is the husband’s brother or other similarly close relatives by marriage. The Prophet’s words, “The brother-in-law is death” mean that evil is more likely to occur from these quarters than from elsewhere, because of the ease with which he enters his brother’s house. The word “death” is used for emphasis and as a sharp warning, as if sitting alone with the brother-in-law may lead to immorality and calamitous consequences that would be akin to the calamity of death.

The true Muslim woman does not fall into such errors as are committed by so many careless people nowadays.

She Wears Correct Ḥijāb

The Muslim woman wears correct ḥijāb when she goes out of her house. Ḥijāb is the distinctive Islāmic dress whose features have been clearly defined by the Qur’ān and Sunnah. She does not go out of the house, or appear before non-maḥram men, wearing perfume, make-up or other fineries, because she knows that this is ḥarām according to the Qur’ān:

⁸¹See Fath al-Bārī, 13/402, Kitāb al-Tawhīd, bāb wa kana ‘arshuhu ‘ala’l-ma’.

⁸²(Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 7/18, Kitāb al-Ḥajj, bāb al-mar’ah la takhruj illa ma’a maḥram.

⁸³(Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 9/26, Kitāb al-nikāh, bāb al-nahy ‘an an yakhlu al-rajul bi’l-mar’ah al-ajnabīyah.

﴿And say to the believing women that they should lower their gaze and guard their modesty; that they should not display their beauty and ornaments except what [must ordinarily] appear thereof; that they should draw their veils over their bosoms⁸⁴ and not display their beauty except to their husbands, their fathers, their husbands' fathers, their sons, their husbands' sons, their brothers or their brothers' sons, or their sisters' sons, or their women, or the slaves whom their right hands possess, or male servants free of physical needs, or small children who have no sense of sex; and that they should not strike their feet in order to draw attention to their hidden ornaments. And O you Believers! Turn all together towards Allāh, that you may attain Bliss.﴾ (Qur'ān 24: 31)

The Muslim woman, therefore, is not one of those dressed-but-naked women who abound in societies, which have deviated from the guidance of Allāh (ﷻ). She would tremble with fear at the terrifying picture which the Prophet (ﷺ) drew of those painted and adorned temptresses who have gone astray:

"There are two types of the people of Hell that I have not seen: people with whips like the tails of oxen, with which they beat the people, and women who are dressed yet still appear naked, who are inclined to evil and make their husbands incline towards it also. Their heads are like the humps of camels, leaning to one side. They will not enter Paradise, or even smell its scent, although its scent can be discerned from such-and-such a distance."⁸⁵

The Muslim woman who has been truly guided by her faith and has received a sound Islāmic education does not wear ḥijāb just because it is a custom or tradition inherited from her mother or grandmother, as some foolish men and women try to describe it with no evidence or logic whatsoever. The Muslim woman wears ḥijāb on the basis of her belief that it is a command from Allāh (ﷻ), revealed to protect the Muslim woman, to make her character distinct, and to keep her away from the slippery slope of immorality and error. So she accepts it willingly and with strong conviction, as the women of the Muḥājirīn and Anṣār accepted it on the day when Allāh (ﷻ) revealed His clear and wise command. According to a report narrated by Bukhārī, 'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) said:

"May Allāh have mercy on the Muḥājir women. When Allāh (ﷻ) revealed: ﴿...that they should draw their veils over their bosoms...﴾ (Qur'ān 24: 31), they tore their wrappers and covered their heads and faces with them."

According to another report given by Bukhārī, 'Āishah said:

"They took their wrappers and tore them at the edges, then covered their heads and faces with them."⁸⁶

Ṣafīyyah bint Shaybah said:

"When we were with 'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her), we mentioned the women of Quraysh and their virtues. 'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) said, 'The women of Quraysh are good, but by Allāh (ﷻ) I have never seen any better or more strict in their adherence to the Book of Allāh (ﷻ) than the women of the Anṣār. When Surat al-Nūr was revealed - ﴿that they should draw their veils over their bosoms...﴾ - their menfolk went to them and recited to them the words that Allāh (ﷻ) had revealed. Each man recited it to his wife, his daughter, his sister and other female relatives. Every woman among them got up, took her decorated wrapper, and wrapped herself up in it out of faith and belief in what Allāh (ﷻ) had revealed. They appeared behind the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ), wrapped up, as if there were crows on their heads."⁸⁷

May Allāh (ﷻ) have mercy on the women of the Muḥājirīn and the Anṣār: how strong their faith was, and how sincere their Islām! How beautiful was their obedience to the truth when it was revealed! Every woman who truly believes in Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger cannot but follow the example of these virtuous women, so she herself must wear the distinctive Islāmic dress with no regard to the nakedness and wanton display that surrounds her. I remember a young university student who wore ḥijāb, whose attitude was no less admirable than that of the women of the Muḥājirīn and Anṣār, may Allāh (ﷻ) be pleased with them: when a journalist who was visiting the University of Damascus asked her about her ḥijāb and whether it was

⁸⁴ Juyubihinna includes the face and neck as well as the bosom. [Translator]

⁸⁵ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 14/109, Kitāb al-libās wa 'l-zinah, bāb al-nisa' al-kasiyāt al-'ariyāt.

⁸⁶ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 8/489, Kitāb al-tafseer, bāb walyadribna bi khumurihinna 'ala juyubihinna.

⁸⁷ See Fatḥ al-Bārī Sharḥ Ṣaḥīḥ Bukhari, 8/489, 490, Kitāb al-tafseer, bāb walyadribna bi khumurihinna 'ala juyubihinna.

not too hot for her in the extreme heat of summer, she responded by quoting: ﴿Say: 'The fire of Hell is fiercer in heat.﴾ (Qur'ān 9: 81).

It is Muslim girls such as this who will build Muslim homes and families, and raise a virtuous generation which will fill society with constructive and noble elements. Today there are many such young women, Al-ḥamdu lillāh [Praise be Allah (ﷻ)].

Proper dress for women was not something novel introduced by Islām; it existed in all the laws of Allāh (ﷻ) revealed before Islām. This can be seen in what remains of those laws in the altered books (i.e. the Bible). We also see it in the modest dress of the Christian nuns who live in the Islāmic world and also in the West, and in the fact that the women of the people of the Book cover their heads when they enter their churches. The modern rejection of the idea that women should be covered and modest goes against all divine laws, from the time of Ibrāhīm, Mūsa and 'Eesa (ﷺ), until the ḥaniḩī way brought by Islām. This attitude is an attempt to escape the decree of Allāh (ﷻ), which Allāh (ﷻ) has sent to mankind throughout the ages, brought time after time by His Messengers to guide mankind to truth and righteousness, so that they would become one nation, worshipping and obeying one Lord:

﴿Mankind was but one nation, but differed [later]. Had it not been for a Word that went forth before from your Rabb, their differences would have been settled between them.﴾ (Qur'ān 10: 19)

﴿O messengers! Enjoy [all] things good and pure, and work righteousness; for I am well-acquainted with [all] that you do. And verily this Brotherhood of yours is a single Brotherhood. And I am your Rabb and Cherisher: therefore fear Me [and no other].﴾ (Qur'ān 23: 51-52)

﴿And [remember her who guarded her chastity: We breathed into her of Our Spirit, and We made her and her son a Sign for all peoples. Verily, this Brotherhood of yours is a single Brotherhood, and I am your Rabb and Cherisher: therefore serve Me [and no other].﴾ (Qur'ān 21: 91-92)

The determination of many modern societies that women should be uncovered, living naked and immoral lives, is an indication of how far they have deviated from the guidance of Allāh (ﷻ), not only in the Muslim lands, but in all countries of the world. The Westerners may not care about this, and may go ahead and invent more means of immorality without finding any deterrent in their corrupted books, but the Muslims who worship Allāh (ﷻ) by reciting His perfectly preserved Book night and day will never accept such deviance, no matter how negligent and weak they are in their practice of Islām, because they constantly hear the definitive words of the Qur'ān and Sunnah warning those who disobey Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger of the test in this life and the severe punishment to come in the Hereafter:

﴿Let those beware who withstand the Messenger's order, lest some trial befall them, or a grievous Penalty be inflicted on them.﴾ (Qur'ān 24: 63)

So those men and women who have sold out to the West and called for women to uncover themselves and take off ḥijāb, have failed miserably in the face of the determination of the men and women of the Islāmic revival which is taking place throughout the world. Rightly-guided, educated Muslim women have gone back to their distinctive Islāmic dress and correct, decent ḥijāb, in many Muslim countries which had previously witnessed the call for Westernization and the abolishing of ḥijāb and decency. For example, the followers of Atatürk in Turkey, Reza Pahlevi in Iran, Muhammad Amān in Afghanistan, Ahmed Zogo and Enver Hoxha in Albania, Marcus Fahmi, Qāsim Amīn and Hoda Sha'rawī in Egypt. Some of those who supported women's "liberation" from ḥijāb and modesty have now renounced their former opinions about women's showing off and mixing freely with men.

Dr Nawal al-Sa'dawī, who for a long time attacked ḥijāb and those who wear it, vehemently calling for women to take off ḥijāb, now condemns the vulgarity and scandalous nakedness of women in the West. She says:

"In the streets of London, I see women who are nearly naked, showing off their bodies like merchandise. Clothing has a function, which is to protect the body from the natural environment, not to transmit messages of temptation. If a woman saw herself as a human being, and not as merchandise, she would not need to show her nakedness."⁸⁸

⁸⁸ Al-Mujtama' magazine, Kuwait, issue no. 932.

It became clear to Nawal al-Sa‘dawi after a while, that the veil should be removed from the mind, not the body, especially in the case of those men and women who are educated. Those women of lesser education, but with intelligence and openness of mind, who wear hijāb, are worth tens of those foolish educated women who make a wanton display of themselves, uncovering their faces, heads and bodies whilst veiling their minds and instincts! This is why she describes her future plans as “lifting the veil from the minds of educated men and women.”⁸⁹ She adds: “I know many female professors, doctors and engineers who are politically, socially and culturally illiterate.”⁹⁰

The famous novelist Ihsān ‘Abdul-Quddūs, who flooded the literary marketplace with his stories that called for women to go out of the house and mingle with men, dancing with them at parties and night-clubs, said in an interview with the Kuwaiti newspaper Al-Anbā (18 January 1989):

“I think that the basic responsibility of any woman is her house and children. This applies to me above all. If it were not for my wife, I would not have been able to enjoy success, stability and family life, because she is devoted to the house and children...”

In the same interview, he said: “I never in all my life envisaged marrying a woman who works, and I am well-known for this, because I knew from the beginning that the house is a heavy burden or responsibility for women.”

She Avoids Mixing Freely With Men

The true Muslim woman avoids mixing with men as much as possible; she does not pursue it or encourage it. Thus she follows the example of Fāṭimah, the daughter of the Prophet (ﷺ), the Prophet’s wives, the women of the Salaf (the Ṣahābah and Tabi’īn), and those who followed their way sincerely.

The harm that may be done to both sexes as a result of free mixing, that is obvious to the Muslim woman, is now becoming clear to Westerners who have practised free mixing on the widest scale. They have seen that it leads to a fall in standards of education, so they have now begun to segregate male and female students in some universities and institutes of education. A number of the greatest Muslim educators, who have visited Europe, America and Russia have witnessed this segregation, for example, Professor Aḥmad Madhhar al-‘Adhmah, who was sent by the Syrian Ministry of Education to Belgium, where he visited a number of schools. On a visit to a girls’ elementary school, he asked the principal, “Why do you not let boys and girls mix at this level of education?” She replied, “We noticed the harm that mixing can do to children even at the elementary level.”

There was news that Russia had reached a similar conclusion, and had established separate, segregated branches of universities, where male and female students did not mix.

In America, there are more than 170 university branches in which male and female students do not mix. They were set up because the educators and supervisors noticed the harm that was caused by mixing, even in a society that is used to mixing in every area of social life.

The evidence of the harm caused by mixing is too vast to be enumerated. All of it points to the wisdom of Islām in putting an end to mixing, and protecting the Muslim societies which adhere to Islāmic guidance from its destructive, harmful effects.

She Does Not Shake Hands With a non-Maḥram Man

It is natural that a Muslim woman who does not mix with men would not wish to shake hands with anyone who is not her maḥram, in accordance with the teaching and example of the Prophet (ﷺ). Bukhārī reports that ‘Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) said:

“When the believing women made hijrah (emigration) to the Prophet (ﷺ), he would examine and test them, in accordance with the Āyah:

﴿‘O you who believe! When there come to you believing women refugees, examine [and test] them’...﴾ (Qur’ān 60: 10)

Whoever accepted these conditions required of the believing women has thereby accepted their

⁸⁹ Al-Mujtama’ magazine, Kuwait, issue no. 931.

⁹⁰ Ibid.

bay'ah. When the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) accepted their words, he told them (the women), ‘You may go now, for I have accepted your bay'ah.’ By Allāh (ﷻ), the Prophet’s hand never touched the hand of a woman; he accepted their bay'ah by words only. By Allāh (ﷻ), he never put any conditions on women other than those that Allāh (ﷻ) commanded him, and when he had confirmed the bay'ah he would say ‘I have accepted your bay'ah by your words.’”⁹¹

She Does Not Travel Except With a Maḥram

One of the rulings of Islām concerning women is that a woman should not travel without a maḥram, because travel is full of dangers and hardships and it is not right for a woman to face all this alone, without a maḥram to protect her and take care of her. So the Prophet (ﷺ) forbade women to travel alone without a maḥram; this is recorded in numerous ḥadīth, but it will suffice to quote just two of them here: “A woman should not travel for three days except with amaḥram.”⁹²

“It is not permitted for a woman who believes in Allāh (ﷻ) and the Last Day to travel the walking distance of three days without amaḥram.”⁹³

All the ḥadīth on this topic state that the presence of a maḥram is the condition for women’s travel, except in cases of utter necessity as defined by the scholars, whose points of view differ somewhat.⁹⁴

In this way the Muslim woman is truly obedient to Allāh (ﷻ), following His commands, heeding His prohibitions, and accepting His rulings. She adheres to the teachings of Islām and bears with patience any difficulties that may be involved in obeying Allāh (ﷻ), even if this goes against many of the prevalent social ideas. She is filled with hope that she will ultimately be successful and victorious, as the Qur’ān states:

﴿By [the Token of] Time [through the Ages], Verily Man is in loss, Except such as have Faith, and do righteous deeds, and [join together] in the mutual teaching of Truth, and of Patience and Constancy.﴾ (Qur’ān 103: 1-3)

She Accepts the Will and Decree of Allāh (ﷻ)

The Muslim woman who is obedient to the command of her Lord naturally accepts His will and decree, because this is one of the greatest signs of faith, obedience, taqwā and righteousness in a person. So the Muslim woman who is guided by the teachings of Islām always accepts whatever befalls her in life, whether it is good or bad, because this attitude of acceptance is good for her in all cases, as the Prophet (ﷺ) explained:

“How amazing is the affair of the Muslim! His affairs are all good. If he experiences ease, he is grateful, and that is good for him. If he experiences hardship, he faces it with patience and perseverance, and that is also good for him.”⁹⁵

The Muslim woman is convinced that whatever befalls her in life could not have been avoided, and whatever does not befall her could not have been made to happen. Everything happens according to the will and decree of Allāh (ﷻ), so her affairs are all good. If something good happens to her, she voices her praise to Allāh (ﷻ), the Munificent Bestower, and she becomes one of those who are grateful, obedient and successful; if something bad happens to her, she faces it with patience and fortitude, so she becomes of those who are patient, redeemed and victorious.

With this deep faith, the Muslim woman faces the upheavals and calamities of life with a calm soul that accepts the will and decree of Allāh (ﷻ). She seeks his help with patience and prayer, and hoping for reward from Him. She voices her praise to Allāh (ﷻ) for what He has willed and decreed, as Al-Khansa’ did on the day when she heard the news about her four sons and said: “Praise be to Allāh (ﷻ)

⁹¹ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 9/420, Kitāb al-talāq, bāb idha aslāmat al-mushrikah aw al-naṣrāniyyah taht al-dhimmī aw al-harbī.

⁹² Ṣaḥīḥ Bukhārī; see Fatḥ al-Bārī, 2/566, Kitāb taqṣīr al-ṣalāt, bāb fi kam yaqṣūr al-ṣalāt.

⁹³ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 9/103, Kitāb al-Ḥajj, bāb safar al-mar’ah ma’a maḥram.

⁹⁴ See: Sharḥ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 9/102-109, Kitāb al-Ḥajj, bāb safar al-mar’ah ma’a maḥram.

⁹⁵ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 18/25, Kitāb al-zuhd, bāb fi Ḥadīth mutafarriqah,

Who has honoured me by their martyrdom; I hope that Allāh (ﷻ) will gather me with them under His Mercy.”⁹⁶ She goes to the places where she usually prays, and seeks Allāh’s help with prayer and patience, as Asma’ bint ‘Umays used to do when disasters and tragedies struck one after the other. She lost her first husband, Ja‘far ibn Abī Ṭālib (رضي الله عنه), then she was stricken by the death of her second husband, Abū Bakr al-Ṣiddīq (رضي الله عنه), and of her son, Muḥammad ibn Abī Bakr (رضي الله عنه).

There are many other examples in history of Muslim women who had faith, hoping for reward from Allāh (ﷻ) and facing difficulties with patience and fortitude. Allāh (ﷻ) will reward them greatly:

«Those who patiently persevere will truly receive a reward without measure!» (Qur’ān 39: 10)

She Turns to Allāh (ﷻ) in Repentance

The Muslim woman may find herself becoming neglectful and slipping from the Straight Path, so she may fall short in her practice of Islām in a way that does not befit the believing woman. But she will soon notice her error, seek forgiveness for her mistakes or shortcomings, and return to the protection of Allāh (ﷻ):

«Those who fear Allāh, when a thought of evil from Satan assaults them, Bring Allāh to remembrance when lo! They see [aright]!» (Qur’ān 7: 201)

The heart that is filled with love and fear of Allāh (ﷻ) will not be overcome by negligence. It is those who ignore Allāh’s (ﷻ) commands and guidance who will be led astray. The heart of the sincere Muslim woman is ever eager to repent and seek forgiveness, and rejoices in obedience, guidance and the pleasure of Allāh (ﷻ).

She Feels a Sense of Responsibility for the Members of Her Family

The responsibility of the Muslim woman for the members of her family is no less, in the sight of Allāh (ﷻ), than that of the man. Her responsibility is in fact even greater than a man’s, because of what she knows of the secret life of her children who live with her most of the time: they may tell her things that they do not tell their father. The Muslim woman feels this responsibility every time she hears the words of the Prophet (ﷺ):

“Each of you is a shepherd and each of you is responsible for his flock. The leader is a shepherd and is responsible for his flock; a man is the shepherd of his family and is responsible for his flock; a woman is the shepherd in the house of her husband and is responsible for her flock; the servant is the shepherd of his master’s wealth and is responsible for it. Each of you is a shepherd and is responsible for his flock.”⁹⁷

This sense of responsibility constantly motivates her to put right any faults or shortcomings she finds in her family’s behaviour. A woman does not keep quiet about any deviance, weakness or negligence in her family or home, unless she is lacking in religion, her character is weak, and her understanding is incomplete.

Her Main Concern is the Pleasure of Allāh (ﷻ)

The true Muslim woman always seeks to earn the pleasure of Allāh (ﷻ) in everything she does. So she measures everything against this precise standard, and will retain or discard any practice accordingly.

Whenever there is a conflict between what pleases Allāh (ﷻ), and what pleases other people, she chooses what pleases Allāh (ﷻ), with no hesitation or argument, even if it will anger other people. She does this because she knows, with her deep understanding of Islām and her own common sense, that pleasing the people is a goal that can never be achieved, and it will only bring about the wrath of Allāh (ﷻ). The Prophet (ﷺ) said:

⁹⁶ Al-Isabah, 8/66,67

⁹⁷ (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 10/61, Kitāb al-imarāh wa’l-qāda’, bāb al-ra’i mas’ul ‘an ra’iyatihī

“Whoever seeks the pleasure of Allāh (ﷻ) at the risk of displeasing the people, Allāh (ﷻ) will take care of him and protect him from them. But whoever seeks the pleasure of the people at the risk of displeasing Allāh (ﷻ), Allāh (ﷻ) will abandon him to the care of the people.”⁹⁸

By weighing up her deeds in this precise fashion, the Straight Path will be clearly signposted for the Muslim woman. She will know what she is allowed to do and what she should avoid; her unflinching standard is the pleasure of Allāh (ﷻ). Thus the life of the Muslim women will be free from ridiculous contradiction which have ensnared so many of those who have deviated from the guidance of Allāh (ﷻ).

There are women whom one sees praying perfectly, but in many instances they follow their own desires and deviate from the right path. In social gatherings they involve themselves in gossip and backbiting, criticising people, plotting against anybody they dislike, and putting words in their mouths so as to discredit them. These people are suffering from weakness of faith and a failure to understand the true reality of this holistic religion which Allāh (ﷻ) revealed to guide mankind in all aspects of life, both public and private, so that people might seek the pleasure of Allāh (ﷻ) by obeying His commands and emulating the behaviour of the Prophet (ﷺ).

There are also women who obey Allāh (ﷻ) in some matters, but disobey Him in others, acting according to their own whims and desires. Such people are, as it were, half-Muslims, and the split personality of those who have deviated from the guidance of Islām is one of the most dangerous psychological and spiritual disorders facing modern man.

She Understands the True Meaning of Being a Servant of Allāh (ﷻ)

The true Muslim woman has the firm belief that she has been created to serve an important purpose in life, which Allāh (ﷻ) has defined in the Qur’ān:

﴿I have only created *jinn*s and men, that they should Worship Me.﴾ (Qur’ān 51: 56)

Life, for the true Muslim woman, is not to be spent solely on daily chores or enjoyment of the good things of this world; life is an important mission, in which every believer must take on the responsibility of living in such a way that he or she will be a true and sincere worshipper of Allāh (ﷻ). This can only be achieved by checking one’s intention, in all one’s deeds, to ensure that they are done for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ) and to please Him. According to Islām, all deeds are tied to the intentions behind them, as the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

“Actions are but by intention, and every man shall have but that which he intended. Thus he whose migration was for Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger, his migration was for Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger; and he whose migration was to achieve some worldly benefit or to take some woman in marriage, his migration was for that which he intended.”⁹⁹

Hence the Muslim woman may be in a continuous state of worship, which may encompass all of her deeds, so long as she checks her intentions and ensures that she is carrying out her mission in life, as Allāh (ﷻ) wants her to do. So she may be in a state of worship when she treats her parents with kindness and respect, when she is a good wife to her husband, when she takes care of her children’s upbringing and education, when she goes about her domestic chores, when she upholds the ties of kinship, etc., so long as she does all this in obedience to the commands of Allāh (ﷻ), and with the intention of serving and worshipping Him.

She Works to Support the Religion of Allāh (ﷻ)

The most important act of worship that the Muslim woman can do is to strive to establish the rule of Allāh (ﷻ) on earth, and to follow the way of life that He has prescribed, so that Islām will govern the life of the individual, the family, the community and the nation.

The sincere Muslim woman will feel that her worship is lacking if she does not strive to achieve the purpose for which Allāh (ﷻ) created jinn and men, namely promoting the supremacy of the authority of Allāh (ﷻ) on earth, which is the only way in which mankind can truly worship Allāh (ﷻ):

⁹⁸ Reported by Tirmidhī, 4/34, at the end of the section on zuhd; it is a ḥasan ḥadīth.

⁹⁹ (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 1/401, Kitāb al-tahārah, bāb al-niyyah fi ’l-wudu’ wa ghayrihi min al-’ibādāt.

﴿I have only created *jinn*s and men, that they should worship Me.﴾ (Qur’ān 51: 56)

This is the only way in which the true meaning of the words “la ilaha illā-Allāh” will be realized in our own lives.

The first Muslim women had a sound grasp of this meaning, which penetrated deep into their souls. They were no less enthusiastic than the men when it came to sacrifice and courage for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ). Some of the women of the early generations of this ummah excelled many of the men in this regard.

Asmā bint ‘Umayy, the wife of Ja‘far ibn Abī Ṭālib, hastened to embrace Islām along with her husband in the earliest days of Islām, the days of hardship and suffering. She migrated with him to Abyssinia, in spite of the risks and hardships involved, for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ) and to support His religion. When ‘Umar ibn al-Khaṭṭāb joked with her and said, “O Ḥabashiyyah (Abyssinian woman)! We beat you to Madīnah.” She said, “You have most certainly spoken the truth. You were with the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ), feeding the hungry and teaching the ignorant, whilst we were far away in exile. By Allāh (ﷻ), I shall go to the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) and tell him that.” She came to the Prophet (ﷺ) and said, “O Messenger of Allāh, some men are criticizing us and claiming that we were not among the early muḥajirīn.” The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said, “But you have two ḥijrahs; you migrated to the land of Abyssinia, whilst we were detained in Makkah, then you migrated to me afterwards.”¹⁰⁰

Asmā bint ‘Umayy was successful in establishing the virtue of those who had migrated to Abyssinia in the early days of Islām, and she understood from the Prophet (ﷺ) that this distinguished group would have the reward of two ḥijrahs. This was a great honour which was theirs because they had not hesitated to support the Prophet (ﷺ), even though it meant leaving behind their families and homeland for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ).

Muslim women were also present at the Treaty of ‘Aqabah, which took place in secret, under cover of darkness, and which played such an important role in supporting the Prophet (ﷺ). Among the delegation of Anṣār were two women of status and virtue: Nasibah bint Ka‘b al-Maziniyyah, and Umm Mani‘ Asmā bint ‘Amr al-Sulamiyyah, the mother of Mu‘ādh ibn Jabal (رضي الله عنه); the latter was present with the Prophet (ﷺ) at Khaybar, where she performed extremely well.

When the Prophet (ﷺ) began his Mission, calling for pure Tawheed and the abandonment of idol-worship, the mushrikīn were very angry with him, and plotted to break into his house at night and kill him. The conspirators kept quiet and vowed to let their plot to kill the Prophet remain a secret amongst themselves. Nobody even sensed that there was a plot, apart from one Muslim woman, who was over one hundred years old. Her name was Ruqayqah bint Ṣayfī, and she did not let the weakness of old age stop her from hastening to save the Prophet’s life. She made her way to him, and told him what the people were planning to do. He embarked upon his ḥijrah straight away, leaving the land that was the most beloved to him on earth, and leaving his cousin ‘Alī (رضي الله عنه) sleeping in his bed, so that the conspirators surrounding his house would think that he was there, and this would keep them from following him and killing him on the road.¹⁰¹

What a tremendous service this great woman did for Islām and the Muslims! How great was her jihād to save the life of the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) at the most dangerous time he ever faced.

When the Prophet (ﷺ) and his companion left Makkah, and stayed out of sight in the cave of Ḥirā at the top of Mount Thawr, it was a young girl who brought them food and water, and news of the people who were lying in wait for them. Her name was Asmā bint Abī Bakr al-Ṣiddiq (رضي الله عنه).

This brave young girl used to cover the great distance between Makkah and Mount Thawr at night; the difficulty and isolation of this journey, and the presence of watchful enemies, did not deter her. She knew that by saving the life of the Prophet (ﷺ) and his companion, helping them to reach their goal of going to Madīnah, she was supporting the religion of Allāh (ﷻ), and working towards making His word supreme on earth. So she undertook her difficult mission every day, ever alert and striving to conceal herself as she walked and climbed up the mountain, until she had brought whatever supplies and news she was carrying to the Prophet (ﷺ) and his companion. Then she would go back down to Makkah under cover of darkness.¹⁰²

¹⁰⁰ Tabqāt Ibn Sa‘d, 8/280 (Beirut edition).

¹⁰¹ See Tabaqāt Ibn Sa‘d, 7/35 and al-Isabah, 8/83.

¹⁰² See Sīrat Ibn Hishām: al-ḥijrah ila’l-Madinah.

This mission, which even the strongest of men could have failed to achieve, is not all that Asmā did to support the Prophet (ﷺ) and Islām. She was tested severely, and proved to be as solid as a rock, on the day when the mushrikīn surrounded her and asked about her father. She denied knowing anything, and they placed severe pressure on her, so much so that Abū Jahl struck her a blow that sent her earring flying from her ear. But this did not weaken her resolve or her determination to keep her secret hidden. She kept up her mission of taking food and news to the Prophet (ﷺ) and his companion, until the time came for them to leave the cave and head for Madīnah. She had already brought them provisions for the journey, but when she checked the cloth in which they were wrapped, she found that she had nothing with which to tie it apart from her own girdle. She told her father, who told her to tear it in two and use one piece to tie the water skins and the other to tie the cloth holding the food. Hence Asmā became known as Dhat al-Niṭāqayn (she of the two girdles).¹⁰³

It was the attitude of the early Muslim women to support the religion of Allāh (ﷻ) and join the forces of da'wah, because their hearts were filled with strong, vibrant faith. They could not bear to stay in the land of kufri, far from the centre of Islām, so they migrated - with their husbands, if they were married - and their hijrah, like that of the men, was in obedience to Allāh (ﷻ) and in support of His religion. Their faith was like that of the men, and they made sacrifices just as the men did.

This deep faith is what motivated Umm Kalthūm bint 'Uqbah ibn Abī Mu'ayṭ to migrate to Madīnah alone, at the time of the Treaty of Al-Ḥudaybiyah, where the Prophet (ﷺ) had promised to return to the mushrikīn anyone who came to him to embrace Islām. The Prophet (ﷺ) had already kept his promise and sent two men back. When Umm Kalthūm reached Madīnah, she said to the Prophet (ﷺ): "I have fled to you with my religion, so protect me and do not send me back to them, for they will punish me and torture me, and I do not have the patience and fortitude to endure that. I am a mere woman, and you know the weakness of women. I see that you have already sent two men back." The Prophet (ﷺ) said: "Allāh (ﷻ) has cancelled this treaty with regard to women."¹⁰⁴

Allāh (ﷻ) knew the faith of Umm Kalthūm bint 'Uqbah ibn Abī Mu'ayṭ, and other muḥajir women who had migrated solely out of love for Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger and Islām.

He revealed Qur'ān concerning them, abolishing the treaty between the Prophet and the mushrikīn in the case of women only, and forbidding their being sent back to the mushrikīn once the Prophet (ﷺ) had tested them and ensured that they had not migrated for the sake of a husband or wealth or some other worldly purpose, and that they had indeed migrated for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger:

﴿O you who believe! When there come to you believing women refugees, examine [and test] them: Allāh knows best as to their Faith: if you ascertain that they are Believers, then send them not back to the Unbelievers. They are not lawful [wives] for the Unbelievers, nor are the [Unbelievers] lawful [husbands] for them.﴾ (Qur'ān 60: 10)

One of those virtuous women who were among the first people to support Islām and the Prophet was Umm al-Faḍl bint al-Ḥārith, Lubābah, the full-sister of the Prophet's wife Maymūnah. She was the second woman to embrace Islām: she became Muslim after Khadijah (May Allāh be pleased with her). She was a source of great support and consolation for the Prophet (ﷺ).

Lubābah was the wife of the Prophet's paternal uncle al-'Abbās ibn 'Abdul-Muṭṭalib, and was diametrically opposed to Umm Jamīl bint Ḥarb, the wife of his other paternal uncle Abū Lahab, whom the Qur'ān described as the carrier of firewood who would have a twisted rope of palm-leaf fibre around her neck (see Qur'ān 111: 4-5), because of her determination to harm the Prophet (ﷺ), whilst Lubābah was the first to come to his support and to make sacrifices to support his religion during the most testing days that the early Muslims faced.

Lubābah, her husband Al-'Abbās and their sons used to conceal their Islām, in obedience to the Prophet's command and in accordance with a well-thought-out plan.

Thus they were able to learn the secrets of the mushrikīn and pass them on to the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ). When the battle of Badr was waged between the Muslims and the mushrikīn, and news came of the defeat of Quraysh, Umm Faḍl urged her sons and her freed slave Abū Rafi' to conceal their joy at this defeat, because she feared that the mushrikīn, especially Abū Lahab who was filled with hatred towards Muhammad (ﷺ), his companions and his message, might do them some harm.

¹⁰³ See Fatḥ al-Bārī Sharḥ Ṣaḥīḥ Bukhārī, 7/233, 240, Kitāb manaqib al-Anṣār, bāb ḥijrat al-Nabi wa ashābihi ila 'l-Madīnah, and 6/129, Kitāb al-jihād, bāb haml al-zad fi 'l-ghazw.

¹⁰⁴ Ibn al-Jawzī, Aḥkām al-Nisa', 439.

But her freed slave Abū Rafi‘ was not safe from the wrath of Abū Lahab; when he expressed his joy at the Muslims’ victory, Abū Lahab was enraged and vented his fury on the poor man, beating him in the presence of Umm Faḍl. At this point, Umm Faḍl became like a fierce lioness, and attacked him shouting, “You pick on him when his master is absent!” She struck him with one of the (wooden) pillars of the house and dealt him a fatal blow to the head. Abū Lahab did not live more than seven days after that.

Umm Faḍl bore her separation from her husband Al-‘Abbās with patience, for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ) and in support of His religion, when the Prophet (ﷺ) issued a command that Al-‘Abbās should stay in Makkah, and she should migrate to Madīnah. Their separation was a lengthy and difficult one, but Umm Faḍl bore it patiently, hoping for reward and seeking help from Allāh (ﷻ) through prayer and fasting, waiting for her beloved husband to finish what he had to do in Makkah and come to Madīnah. As it turned out, he was one of the last to migrate to Madīnah. The only thing that helped to ease the pain of this separation was seeing her eldest son ‘Abdullāh, accompanying the Prophet (ﷺ) daily and drinking deeply from the pure wellspring of Islām. It never occurred to her that history was preparing her to enter its widest gate, for she was to be the great mother of the great authority on Islāmic teaching and the interpretation of the Qur’ān: ‘Abdullāh ibn al-‘Abbās (رضي الله عنه).

Another one of the early Muslim women who thought little of the sufferings and torture they endured for the sake of Islām was Sumayyah, the mother of ‘Ammar ibn Yāsir. When the mid-day heat was at its most intense, and the desert sands were boiling, Banū Makhzūm would drag her and her son and husband out to an exposed area, where they would pour burning sand over them, place heated shields on them, and throw heavy rocks at them, until her son and husband sought to protect themselves from this appalling torture by saying some words to agree with the mushrikīn, although they hated to do so. Concerning them and others in similar situations, Allāh (ﷻ) revealed the āyah:

﴿Anyone who, after accepting faith in Allāh, utters Unbelief, except under compulsion, his heart remaining firm in faith...﴾ (Qur’ān 16: 106)

But Sumayyah remained steadfast and patient, and refused to say what the mushrikīn wanted to hear. The despicable Abū Jahl stabbed her with a spear, killing her, and thus she had the honour of being recorded as the first martyr in Islām.

The history of Islām is filled with other women who endured even worse torture for the sake of Islām. This suffering did not weaken their resolve or exhaust their patience; rather they willingly accepted whatever befell them, hoping for reward from Allāh (ﷻ). They never said anything that would undermine their religion, and they never humiliated themselves by begging for mercy. Historians record that many of the men who were oppressed - apart from Bilāl, may Allāh (ﷻ) have mercy on him - were forced to say something that would please their oppressors, in order to save their lives, but not one of the women who were similarly oppressed was reported to have given in.

These brilliant Muslim women welcomed the oppression they suffered for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ) and making His word supreme on earth. They never stopped preaching the word of Islām, no matter what trials and suffering came their way.

In the story of Umm Sharīk al-Qurashiyah al-‘Āmiriyah, ibn ‘Abbās gives an eye-witness account of the depth of the women’s faith and how they rushed to devote themselves to Allāh’s cause, patiently enduring whatever trials this entailed.

Ibn ‘Abbās said:

“Umm Sharīk began to think about Islām whilst she was in Makkah. She embraced Islām, then began to mix with the women of Quraysh in secret, calling them to Islām, until this became known to the people of Makkah. They seized her and said, ‘If it were not for your people, we would have done what we wanted to you, but we will send you back to them.’ She said, ‘So they seated me on a camel with no saddle or cushion beneath me, and left me for three days without giving me anything to eat or drink. After three days I began to lose consciousness. Whenever they stopped, they would leave me out in the sun whilst they sought shade, and keep food and drink away from me until they resumed their journey...’”

This was not all that Muslim women did in support of Islām; they also went out on military expeditions with the Prophet (ﷺ) and his Companions where, when the forces of īmān and the forces of kufir met in armed combat, they performed the important duty of preparing the waterskins and bringing water to the fighters, and tending the wounded, and carrying the dead away from the battlefield.

At the most critical moments, they never shrank from taking up weapons and entering the fray alongside the Prophet (ﷺ) and his Companions.

Bukhārī and Muslim narrate many Ḥadīth which illustrate the brilliance of the Muslim women during that golden age, when hearts were filled with vibrant faith, deep love for Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger, and the desire to make Islām victorious.

One of these reports is the account given by Imām Muslim of Umm ‘Aṭīyyah al-Anṣāriyyah, who said:

“I went out on seven military campaigns with the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ). I stayed behind in the camp, making food for them and tending to the sick and wounded.”¹⁰⁵ Anas ibn Mālik said:

“The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) used to go out on military campaigns accompanied by Umm Sulaym and some of the Anṣār women; they would bring water and tend the wounded.”¹⁰⁶

Imām Bukhārī reported that Al-Rubī‘ bint Mu‘awwadh said:

“We were with the Prophet (ﷺ), bringing water, tending the wounded, and bringing the dead back to Madīnah.”¹⁰⁷

Bukhārī and Muslim report that Anas said:

“On the day of Uḥud, when some of the people ran away from the Prophet (ﷺ), Abū Talḥah stood before the Prophet (ﷺ), defending him with a shield. Abū Talḥah was a highly-skilled archer, and on that day he broke two or three bows. Whenever a man passed by who had a quiver full of arrows, he would say, ‘Give it to Abū Talḥah.’ Whenever the Prophet of Allāh (ﷺ) raised his head to see what was happening, Abū Talḥah told him, ‘O Prophet of Allāh, may my father and mother be sacrificed for you! Do not raise your head, lest an arrow strike you. May it hit my chest rather than yours.’ He [Anas] said: I saw ‘Āishah bint Abū Bakr and Umm Sulaym, both of whom had tucked up their garments so that their anklets were visible. They were carrying waterskins on their backs and were pouring water into the mouths of the people. They would go back and fill the waterskins again, then come and pour water into the mouths of the people again. Abū Talḥah’s sword fell from his hands two or three times because of exhaustion.”¹⁰⁸

What a noble deed these two great women did in quenching the thirst of the mujāhidīn in the midst of a raging battle and in the intense heat of the Ḥijāz climate. They were moving about the battlefield, not caring about the falling arrows and clashing swords that surrounded them.

For this reason, the Rightly-Guided khalīfah ‘Umar ibn al-Khaṭṭāb (رضي الله عنه) preferred Umm Salīṭ over his own wife Umm Kalthūm bint ‘Alī when he was sharing out some garments among the women of Madīnah. Because she had sewn waterskins on the day of Uḥud, and this had played an important role in helping the mujāhidīn and renewing their energy. Bukhārī reports from Tha‘labah ibn Abī Mālik:

“Umar ibn al-Khaṭṭāb shared out some garments among the women of Madīnah. There was one good garment left, and some of the people with him said, ‘O Amir al-Mu‘minīn, give this to your wife, the grand-daughter of the Messenger of Allāh,’ meaning Umm Kalthūm bint ‘Alī. ‘Umar said, ‘Umm Salīṭ has more right to it.’ Umm Salīṭ was one of the Anṣārī women who had pledged their allegiance to the Prophet (ﷺ). ‘Umar said, ‘She carried the waterskins to us on the day of Uḥud.’”¹⁰⁹

At Uḥud, the Prophet’s cheek and upper lip were wounded and his tooth was broken. His daughter Fāṭimah (May Allāh be pleased with her) washed his wounds, whilst ‘Alī (رضي الله عنه) poured the water. When

¹⁰⁵ See Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 12/194, Kitāb al-jihād wa’l-siyar, bāb al-nisā’ al-ghāziyāt.

¹⁰⁶ See Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 12/188, Kitāb al-jihād wa’l-siyar, bāb ghazwāt al-nisā’.

¹⁰⁷ See Fatḥ al-Bārī, 6/80, Kitāb al-jihād, bāb mudawamat al-nisā’ al-jarḥa fi’l-ghazw.

¹⁰⁸ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 7/361, Kitāb al-maghazi, bāb idh hammat ta’ifatan minkum an tufshila; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 12/189, Kitāb al-jihād wa’l-siyar, bāb ghazwāt al-nisā’ ma’a al-rijāl.

¹⁰⁹ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 6/79, Kitāb al-jihād, bāb haml al-nisā’ al-qurab ila’l-nas fi’l-ghazw and 7/366, Kitāb al-maghazi, bāb dhikr Umm Salīṭ.

Fāṭimah saw that the water only made the bleeding worse, she took a piece of matting, burned it, and applied it to the wound to stop the bleeding!¹¹⁰

Among the women who stood firm at the most intense moments of the battle of Uḥud was Ṣafīyyah bint ‘Abdul-Muṭṭalib, the (paternal) aunt of the Prophet (ﷺ). She stood with a spear in her hand, striking the faces of the people and saying, “Are you running away from the Messenger of Allāh?!” When the Prophet (ﷺ) saw her, he gestured to her son Al-Zubayr ibn al -‘Awwām that he should bring her back so that she would not see what had happened to her brother Ḥamzah (رضي الله عنه). She said, “Why? I have heard that my brother has been mutilated, but that is nothing for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ). We accept what has happened, and I shall hope for reward and be patient, inshā Allāh.”

Ṣafīyyah was also present at the battle of Al-Khandaq (the trench). When the Prophet (ﷺ) set out from Madīnah to fight his enemies, he put his wives and womenfolk in the fortress of the poet Ḥassān ibn Thābit, which was the most secure fortress in Madīnah. A Jewish man came by, and began to walk around the fortress. Ṣafīyyah said, “O Ḥassān, this Jew is walking around the fortress, and by Allāh (ﷻ) I fear that he will go and tell the other Jews out there where we are. The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) and his Companions are too busy to come and help us, so go down and kill him.” Ḥassān said, “May Allāh forgive you, O daughter of ‘Abdul-Muṭṭalib. By Allāh (ﷻ), you know that I am not like that.” When Ṣafīyyah heard this, she stood up, took hold of a wooden post, and went down from the fortress herself. She struck the Jew with the wooden post and killed him, then went back to the fortress and said, “O Ḥassān, go down and strip him of his arms and armour; the only thing that is preventing me from doing so is that he is a man.” Ḥassān said, “I have no need of this booty, O daughter of Abdul-Muṭṭalib.” Ṣafīyyah was also present at the battle of Khaybar.

One of the most distinguished women who took part in the battle of Uḥud, if not the most distinguished of them, was Nasībah bint Ka‘b al-Maziniyyah, Umm ‘Umārah (May Allāh be pleased with her). At the beginning of the battle, she was bringing water and tending the wounded, as the other women were doing. When the battle was going in the favour of the Muslims, the archers disobeyed the command of the Prophet (ﷺ), and this turned the victory into defeat, as the Qur’ān described it:

﴿Behold! You were climbing up the high ground, without even casting a side glance at anyone, and the Messenger in your rear was calling you back...﴾ (Qur’ān 3: 153)

At this point, Nasībah went forward, with her sword unsheathed and her bow in her hand, to join the small group who were standing firm with the Prophet (ﷺ), acting as a human shield to protect him from the arrows of the mushrikīn. Every time danger approached the Prophet (ﷺ), she hastened to protect him. The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) noticed this, and later said, “Wherever I turned, to the left or the right, I saw her fighting for me.”

Her son ‘Umārah also described what happened on that tremendous day: “On that day, I was wounded in my left hand. A man who seemed to be as tall as a palm-tree struck me, then went away without pursuing me to finish me off. The blood began to flow copiously, so the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) told me, ‘Bind up your wound.’ My mother came to me, and she was wearing a waist-wrapper, which she had brought, for the purpose of wrapping wounds. She dressed my wound, whilst the Prophet (ﷺ) was looking on. Then she told me, ‘Get up, my son, and fight the people.’ The Prophet (ﷺ) said, ‘Who could bear what you are putting up with, O Umm ‘Umārah?’ She said: The man who had struck my son came by, and the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said, ‘This is the one who struck your son.’ I intercepted him and hit him in the thigh, and he collapsed. I saw the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) smiling so broadly that I could see his back teeth. He said, ‘You have taken your revenge, O Umm ‘Umārah!’ Then we struck him with our weapons until we killed him, and the Prophet (ﷺ) said: ‘Praise be to Allāh (ﷻ), who granted you victory over him, gave you the satisfaction of taking revenge on your enemy, and let you see the vengeance for yourself.”

On this day, Nasībah herself received many wounds whilst she was fighting the people and striking their chests. The Prophet (ﷺ) saw her, and called to her son, “Your mother! Your mother! See to her wounds, may Allāh (ﷻ) bless you and your household! Your mother has fought better than so-and-so.” When his mother heard what the Prophet (ﷺ) said, she said, “Pray to Allāh (ﷻ) that we may accompany you in Paradise.” He said, “O Allāh (ﷻ), make them my companions in Paradise.” She said, “I do not care what befalls me in this world.”¹¹¹

¹¹⁰ See Faṭḥ al-Bārī 9, 7/372, Kitāb al-maghazi, bāb ma asaba al-Nabi min al-jiraḥ yawma Uhud.

Umm ‘Umārah’s jihād was not confined to the battle of Uḥud. She was also present on a number of other occasions, namely the treaty of ‘Aqābah, Al-Ḥudaybiyah, Khaybar and Ḥunayn. Her heroic conduct at Ḥunayn was no less marvellous than her heroic conduct at Uḥud. At the time of Abū Bakr’s khilafah, she was present at Al-Yamāmah where she fought brilliantly and received eleven wounds as well as losing her hand.

It is no surprise that the Prophet (ﷺ) gave her the good news that she would enter Paradise, and that she was later held in high esteem by the khalīfah Abū Bakr al-Ṣiddīq (رضي الله عنه) and his commander Khālīd ibn al-Walīd (رضي الله عنه), and subsequently by ‘Umar ibn al-Khaṭṭāb (رضي الله عنه).¹¹²

During this golden age of the Muslim woman’s history there was another woman who was no less great than Nasībah bint Ka‘b: Umm Sulaym bint Milhan. Like Umm ‘Umārah, ‘Āishah, Fāṭimah and the other women, she also brought water and tended the wounded, but here we will tell another story. When the Muslims were preparing to go out with the Prophet (ﷺ) to conquer Makkah, her husband Abū Ṭalḥah was among them. Umm Sulaym was in the later stages of pregnancy, but this did not stop her from wanting to accompany her husband Abū Ṭalḥah and to earn alongside him the reward for jihād for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ). She did not care about the hardships and difficulties that lay ahead on the journey. Her husband felt sorry for her and did not want to expose her to all that, but he had no choice but to ask the Prophet’s permission. The Prophet (ﷺ) gave his permission, and Umm Sulaym was delighted to accompany her beloved husband and witness the conquest of Makkah with him, on that great day when the hills of Makkah echoed with the cries of the believers and mujāhidīn: “There is no true god but Allāh (ﷻ) alone. He has kept His promise, granted victory to His servant, and alone has defeated the confederates. There is nothing before Him or after Him. There is no true god but Allāh (ﷻ), and we worship Him alone, adhering faithfully to His religion although the disbelievers may hate this.” This was the day when the bastions of idolatry and shirk in the Arabian Peninsula were forever destroyed, and the idols were thrown down by the Prophet (ﷺ), as he declared,

﴿Truth has [now] arrived, and Falsehood perished: for Falsehood is [by its nature] bound to perish.﴾
(Qur’ān 17: 81)

These events filled Umm Sulaym’s soul with faith, and increased her courage and her desire to strive for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ). Only a few days later came the battle of Ḥunayn, which was such a severe test for the Muslims. Some of the people ran away from the battle, not caring about anything. The Prophet (ﷺ) stood to the right and said, “Where are you going, O people? Come to me! I am the Messenger of Allāh, I am Muhammad ibn ‘Abdullāh.” Nobody stayed with him except for a group of Muḥajirīn and Anṣār, and members of his household, and Umm Sulaym and her husband Abū Ṭalḥah were among this group. The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) saw Umm Sulaym wrapping a garment around her waist; she was pregnant with ‘Abdullāh ibn Abī Ṭalḥah, and she was trying to control Abū Ṭalḥah’s camel, which she was afraid would get away from her, so she pulled its head down towards her and took hold of its nose-ring. The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) called her, “O Umm Sulaym!” and she replied, “Yes, may my father and mother be sacrificed for you, O Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ).”

A report in Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim states:

“On the day of Hunayn, Umm Sulaym took hold of a dagger and kept it with her. Abū Ṭalḥah saw her, and said, ‘O Messenger of Allāh, Umm Sulaym has a dagger.’ The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) asked her, ‘What is this dagger?’ She said, ‘I took it so that if any one of them ushrikīn comes near me, I will rip his belly open with it.’ The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) began to laugh. She said, ‘O Messenger of Allāh, kill all of the *tulaqa*¹¹³ who have ran away and left you.’ The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said, ‘Allāh (ﷻ) is sufficient for us and He has taken care of us.’¹¹⁴

¹¹¹ See the reports on the Battle of Uhud in the Sīrah of Ibn Hishām, and in Insān al-‘Uyun, al-Athar al-Muhammadiyah, the Tabaqāt of Ibn Sa‘d, al-Isabah, and Asad al-Ghabah.

¹¹² See Siyar a‘lam al-nubala’, 2/281.

¹¹³ Those who entered Islām on the day of the Conquest of Makkah. [Author]

¹¹⁴ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 12/187, 188, Kitāb al-jihād wa’l-siyar, bāb ghazwāt al-nisā’ ma’a al-rijāl.

Umm Sulaym stood firm with the Prophet (ﷺ) when the battle intensified and even the bravest of men were put to the test. She could not bear even to see those who had run away and left the Prophet (ﷺ), so she told him, “Kill those who ran away and left you...” It comes as no surprise that the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) gave her the glad tidings that she would enter Paradise. In a ḥadīth reported by Bukhārī, Muslim and others from Jabir ibn ‘Abdullāh (رضي الله عنه), he (ﷺ) told her: “I saw myself in Paradise, and suddenly I saw Al-Rumayṣā¹¹⁵ bint Miḥān, the wife of Abū Ṭalḥah...”¹¹⁶

The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) used to visit Umm Sulaym, and her sister Umm Ḥarām bint Miḥān. Just as he gave glad tidings to Umm Sulaym that she would enter Paradise, so he also gave good news to Umm Ḥarām that she would ride the waves of the sea with those who went out to fight for the sake of Allāh (ﷺ). Bukhārī reports that Anas ibn Mālik (رضي الله عنه) said:

“The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) visited the daughter of Miḥān, and rested there for a while. Then he smiled, and she asked him, ‘Why are you smiling, O Messenger of Allāh?’ He said, ‘Some people of my ummah will cross the green sea for the sake of Allāh (ﷺ), and they will look like kings on thrones.’ She said, ‘O Messenger of Allāh, pray to Allāh (ﷻ) that I will be one of them.’ He said, ‘O Allāh (ﷻ), make her one of them.’ Then he smiled again, and she asked him again why he was smiling. He gave a similar answer, and she said, ‘Pray to Allāh (ﷻ) that I will be one of them.’ He said, ‘You will be one of the first ones, not one of the last ones.’”

The Prophet’s words came true, as Anas (رضي الله عنه) reported: “She married ‘Ubādah ibn al-Ṣāmit, and went out for jihād with him, and she travelled across the sea with the daughter of Qarazah!¹⁷ When she came back, her riding-beast threw her, and she fell and died.”¹¹⁸

Her grave in Cyprus remains to this day as a memorial to a Muslim woman who fought in jihād for the sake of Allāh (ﷺ). When people visit the grave they say, “This is the grave of a righteous woman, may Allāh (ﷻ) have mercy on her.”¹¹⁹

Another of the women who took part in military campaigns and jihād with the Prophet (ﷺ), helping to defend Islām, was Umm Ayman, the nurse of the Prophet (ﷺ). She was present at Uḥud, Khaybar, Mūtah and Ḥunayn, where she worked hard, tending the wounded and bringing water to the thirsty.¹²⁰

There was also Kabshah bint Rafī al-Ansāriyyah, the mother of Sa’d ibn Mu’ādh (رضي الله عنه). During the campaign of Uḥud, she came running towards the Prophet (ﷺ), who was on his horse, and Sa’d ibn Mu’ādh (رضي الله عنه) was holding onto its reins. Sa’d said, “O Messenger of Allāh, this is my mother.” The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said, “She is most welcome.” He stopped for her, and she came closer; he offered his condolences for the death of her son ‘Amr ibn Mu’ādh, told her and her family the glad tidings of the martyrs in Paradise, and prayed for them.¹²¹

Among these great women are Al-Furay’ah bint Mālik, and Umm Hishām bint Ḥarithah ibn al-Nu’mān (رضي الله عنه). They were among those who gave their oath of allegiance to the Prophet (ﷺ) under the tree at Ḥudaybiyah. This was Bay’at al-Riḍwān, which the Prophet (ﷺ) called for when the mushrikīn prevented the believers from entering Makkah; the Prophet (ﷺ) had sent ‘Uthmān ibn ‘Affān to Quraysh, and they detained him for so long that the Muslims thought Quraysh had betrayed their trust and killed him. Allāh (ﷻ) honoured His Messenger and those who were present on this blessed occasion, and He bestowed upon them His pleasure which many die before they can attain it, and beside which all other hopes and aspirations pale into insignificance. Allāh (ﷻ) revealed ayāt of the Qur’ān on this occasion, which will be recited until heaven and earth pass away:

﴿Allāh’s Good Pleasure was on the Believers when they swore Fealty to you under the Tree: He knew what was in their hearts, and He sent down Tranquillity to them; and He rewarded them with speedy Victory.﴾ (Qur’ān 48: 18)

¹¹⁵ Al-Rumayṣā: A nickname of Umm Sulaym, on account of a ramas (white secretion) in her eye. [Author]

¹¹⁶ (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 14/86, Kitāb fada’il al-sahābah, bāb fada’il ‘Umar ibn al-Khaṭṭāb.

¹¹⁷ i.e., the wife of Mu’awiyah. [Author]

¹¹⁸ Fatḥ al-Bārī 6/76, Kitāb al-jihād, bāb ghazw al-mar’ah fi’l-bahr.

¹¹⁹ Al-Hilyah, 2/62; Ṣiffat al-ṣafwah, 2/70.

¹²⁰ See Al-Maghāzī, 1/278; Anṣāb al-Ashraf, 1/326; Al-Bayḥāqī, Dala’il al-Nubuwwah, 3/311.

¹²¹ See Al-Maghāzī, 2/301, 310, 316; Adh-Dhahabī, Tarikh al-Islām, 2/201; Al-Sīrah al-Ḥudaibiyah, 2/545, 546.

Umm al-Mundhir Salma bint Qays was present at Bay'at al-Riḍwān, and had previously been present at Bay'ah al-Mu'mināt, hence she was known as Mubaya'at al-Bay'atayn (the one who gave two oaths of allegiance). When the Prophet (ﷺ) and his Companions went out to besiege Banū Quraydhah, this great Ṣaḥabiyyah went with them, and earned the reward for jihād for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ).

Asmā bint Yazīd ibn al-Sakan al-Anṣāriyyah took part in the battle of Al-Khandaq with the Prophet (ﷺ). She was also present at Al-Ḥudaybiyah and Bay'at al-Riḍwān and at the battle of Khaybar. She continued her worthy efforts for the sake of Islām until the Prophet's death, and he died pleased with her. After his death, she never stopped working in support of Islām. In 13 AH, she travelled to Syria and was present at the battle of Yarmūk, when she brought water to the thirsty, tended the wounded and encouraged the fighters to stand firm. Yarmūk is one of the most famous battles in which the Muslim women took part alongside the fighting men. The Muslim army was sorely tested, and some of them retreated. The mujāhid women were fighting a rear-guard action, rushing towards those who were running away with pieces of wood and stones, urging them to go back and stand firm. Ibn Katheer noted the courage of the Muslim women and the important role they played in this battle:

“The Muslim women fought on this day, and killed a large number of Romans. They struck whoever among the Muslims ran away, and said, ‘Where are you going, to leave us at the mercy of these infidels?!’ When they told them off in this manner, they had no choice but to return to the fight.”¹²²

The Muslim woman's stance and encouragement played a major role in making the mujāhidīn stand firm until Allāh (ﷻ) decreed that they would be victorious over the Romans.

On this tremendous day, Asmā bint Yazīd did extremely well, and demonstrated a type of courage that was unknown among many of the men. She went forth into the battle lines, and struck down a number of the mushrikīn. Ibn Ḥijr also noted her bravery:

“Umm Salāmah al-Anṣāriyyah, i.e., Asmā bint Yazīd ibn Sakan, was present at Al-Yarmūk. On that day she killed nine Romans with her tent-pole. She lived for a while after that.”¹²³

It seems that this great heroine spent the rest of her life in Syria, where the battle of Yarmūk took place, as she went with those Ṣaḥābah who went there. She lived until the time of Yazīd ibn Mu'awiyah, and when she passed away, she was buried in the cemetery of Al-Bāb al-Sāghīr. Her grave is still there, bearing proud testimony to the jihād of Muslim women for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ).¹²⁴

These golden pages of Muslim women's history were written by those virtuous women themselves, through the depth of their faith and the completeness of their understanding of the Muslim woman's mission in life and her duty towards her Rabb and her religion. What I have cited represents only a small part of a vast and noble record of rare sacrifice, proud determination, unique talents and deep faith. Undoubtedly Muslim women today may find in these accounts an example worthy of following as they seek to form their own modern Islāmic character and identity.

She is Distinguished by Her Islāmic Character and True Religion

No doubt the true Muslim woman is distinguished by her Islāmic character, and she is proud of the high status which Islām gave her at a very early stage, before women in other nations attained anything like it. Fifteen centuries ago, Islām proclaimed the full rights of women for the first time in history, and Muslim women enjoyed human rights centuries before the world had ever heard of human rights organizations or witnessed any “Declaration of Human Rights.”

At that early stage, Islām declared that women were the twin halves of men, as stated in the ḥadīth narrated by Abū Dāwūd, Tirmidhī, Al-Darimī and Aḥmad. At a time when the Christian world doubted the humanity of women and the nature of her soul, the Qur'ān declared:

﴿And their Rabb has accepted of them, and answered them: ‘Never will I suffer to be lost the work of any of you, be he male or female: you are members, one of another’﴾ (Qur'ān 3: 195)

¹²² Al-bidayah wa'l-nihayah, 7/13; see also At-Tabārī, Al-Tarikh, 2/335ff (published by Dār al-Kutub al-'Ilmiyyah).

¹²³ Al-Isabah, 4/229; see also Majma' al-Zawa'id by Al-Haythami, who quotes this story, stating that it was narrated by Aṭ-Ṭabarānī and that the men of its isnād are thiqat. See also Siyar a'lam al-nubala', 2/297.

¹²⁴ See Siyar a'lam al-nubala', 2/297.

The Prophet (ﷺ) accepted women's oath of Islām and obedience, just as he accepted that of men. The women's bay'ah was independent of and separate from that of their menfolk, and was not done as an act of blind obedience. This is a confirmation of the independence of the Muslim woman's identity, and of their competence to bear the responsibility of giving the oath of allegiance and making the commitment to obey Allāh (ﷻ) and be loyal to Him and His Messenger. All of this happened centuries before the modern world recognized a woman's right to freedom of expression and the right to vote independently. This is in addition to other important rights, such as her independent right to own wealth and her freedom from the responsibility to spend on others, even if she is rich, and her equality with men in human worth, education, and general religious and legal duties. A full discussion of the rights which Islām has given to women, and the respect, which it has bestowed upon them, is not possible here.

The level of respect, rights and competence attained by the Muslim woman is astonishing for Western women. I remember the comment of an American woman at a lecture given in the U.S.A. by the Syrian scholar Sheikh Bahjat al-Biṭār on the rights of women in Islām. This lady was amazed at the rights which the Muslim woman had gained fifteen hundred years ago; she stood up and asked, "Is what you say about the Muslim woman and her rights true or is it just propaganda? If it is true then take me to live with you for a while, then let me die!" Many other Western women have also expressed their astonishment at the status and respect given to women in Islām.

The modern Muslim woman, if she understands all this, is also filled with admiration for her true religion; her faith deepens and her conviction of the greatness and perfection of this divine program for human happiness, the well-being of men and women alike - grows ever stronger. It is sufficient for her to know that fifteen hundred years ago Islām achieved more for women in one blow than any other nation has achieved in the twentieth century.

It is sufficient to know that the French Revolution of the late eighteenth century produced a human-rights document entitled "Declaration of the Rights of Man and Citizens" The first clause of this document states: "Men are born free and equal under the laws." There was an attempt to add the words "and woman," but this was rejected, and the statement remained confined to men only: "Man is born free, and he should not be enslaved." A century later, the great French scholar Gustave le Bon, in the late nineteenth century and early twentieth century, stated in his book "The Psychology of Peoples" that woman had never been equal to man except in periods of decline; this comment came in his refutation of demands that women should be made equal with men by giving them the same right to vote.

This is how the situation remained until the advent of the League of Nations, following the First World War, and the United Nations Organization following the Second World War. Women's-rights advocates succeeded in stating the equality of women with men only after a great deal of hard work, because they were faced with the obstacle of quasi-religious traditions and customs; they did not have access to any text of national or international law that treated women with any measure of justice, which they could have used to overturn these obstacles and free women from the oppressive legacy of the past. Meanwhile, fifteen hundred years ago, Islām had definitively shown, in the Qur'ān and Sunnah, that men and women were equal in terms of reward, punishment, responsibility, worship, human worth and human rights.

When Islām made men and women equal in terms of human rights, it also made them equal in terms of human duties, as they were both charged with the role of khalīfah on earth and were commanded to populate and cultivate it, and to worship Allāh (ﷻ) therein. Islām gave each of them his or her unique role to play in establishing a righteous human society; these roles are complementary, not opposite, and they apply to every man and woman. Each sex must play the role for which it is better suited and qualified, in order to build solid individuals, families and societies and achieve solidarity, mutual assistance and co-operation between the two sexes, without preventing anyone from doing any permitted deed which he or she wishes to do. Men and women are equally governed by whatever is in the interests of humanity, and both will be rewarded in accordance with their deeds in this life, as Allāh (ﷻ) says:

﴿Whoever works righteousness, man or woman, and has Faith, verily, to him will We give a new Life, and life that is good and pure, and We will bestow on such their reward according to the best of their actions.﴾ (Qur'ān 16: 97)

Both men and women are regarded as "shepherds" who are responsible for their "flocks," as is stated in the well-known ḥadīth of the Prophet (ﷺ).

The Muslim woman who understands the high status which Islām gave her fifteen centuries ago knows full well that the position of women in every nation governed by ancient laws was appalling, especially in India and Rome, in the Middle Ages in Europe, and in Arabia prior to the advent of Islām. So her pride in her Islāmic identity, true religion and high human status increases.

The position of women under ancient laws may be summed up in the comment of the Indian leader Jawarharlal Nehru in his book “The Discovery of India”: “The legal position of women, according to Manu, was undoubtedly very bad. They were always dependent on either a father or a husband or a son.” It is known that inheritance in India always passed from male to male, and excluded females completely.

Nehru commented on this: “In any case, the position of women in ancient India was better than that in ancient Greece or Rome, or during the early Christian period.”

The position of a woman in ancient Roman law was based on a complete denial of her civic rights, and on requiring her to be constantly under the tutelage of a guardian, whether she was a minor or had reached the age of majority, simply because she was female. So she was always under her father’s or husband’s tutelage, and had no freedom whatsoever to do as she wished. In general, she could be inherited, but she had no rights of inheritance.

Under Roman law, a woman was simply one of the possessions of her husband, deprived of her own identity and freedom of conduct. The effects of this law are still visible in the twentieth century, in most of the modern states whose laws are still influenced by Roman law.

As a result of the influences of Roman law, women’s position during the early Christian period was as appalling as Nehru suggests. Some religious councils shed doubts on the humanity of woman and the nature of her soul; conferences were held in Rome to debate these matters, and to discuss whether women possessed souls like men, or were their souls like those of animals such as snakes and dogs? One of these gatherings in Rome even decided that women did not possess a soul at all, and that they would never be resurrected in the afterlife.

In the Arabian Peninsula, most tribes prior to the advent of Islām regarded women as something to be despised and abhorred. They were seen as a source of shame, which many would try to avoid by burying infant girls alive as soon as they were born.

Islām condemned this appalling situation of women in more than one place in the Qur’ān. Referring to the low esteem in which women were held at the time of jahiliyyah, Allāh (ﷻ) said:

﴿When news is brought to one of them, of [the birth of] a female [child], his face darkens, and he is filled with inward grief! With shame does he hide himself from his people, because of the bad news he has had! Shall he retain it on [sufferance and] contempt, or bury it in the dust? Ah! What an evil [choice] they decide on!﴾ (Qur’ān 16: 58-59)

Explaining the enormity of the crime of burying alive an innocent infant who has never committed any sin, Allāh (ﷻ) says:

﴿When the female [infant], buried alive, is questioned - For what crime she was killed...﴾ (Qur’ān 81: 8-9)

Women were in the most appalling and humiliating situations, in which their very humanity was in doubt - especially in the Arab world before the advent of Islām, and in most of the civilized world at that time, in Rome, and during the early Christian period. Most of the modern nations/states are still influenced by Roman law, as is well-known to scholars of law.¹²⁵

The Muslim woman understands the great blessing, which Allāh (ﷻ) bestowed upon her the day when the brilliant light of Islām shone upon the Arab world:

﴿“This day have I perfected your religion for you, completed My favour upon you, and have chosen for you Islām as your religion﴾ (Qur’ān 5: 3)

The Muslim woman’s soul is filled with happiness, contentment and pride, and her status and position are raised by the fact that Islām gives the mother a higher status than the father. A man came to the Prophet (ﷺ) and asked him: “O Messenger of Allāh, who among people is most deserving of my good company?” He said, “Your mother.” The man asked, “Then who?” The Prophet (ﷺ) said, “Your mother.” The man asked, ¹²⁵ See Dr. Ma’ruf al-Dawalibi, Al-mar’ah fi’l-Islam, p. 23.

“Then who?” The Prophet (ﷺ) said, “Your mother.” The man asked, “Then who?” The Prophet (ﷺ) said, “Then your father.”¹²⁶

Because of the way she is created, the woman is unique in her ability to bear a child then breast feed and nurture him, a role that is difficult and involves much hard work, as the Qur’ān noted:

﴿And We have enjoined on man [to be good] to his parents: in travail upon travail did his mother bear him, and in years Twain was his weaning: [hear the command], ‘Show gratitude to Me and to your parents: to Me is [your final] Goal.﴾ (Qur’ān 31: 14)

Just as this heavy burden is placed on women’s shoulders, men are given the role of maintaining and protecting the family (qawwamūn); they have the duty of earning money and spending on the family. However, many men still do not understand the status of the mother in Islām, as is reflected in the ḥadīth quoted above, in which a man asked the Prophet (ﷺ) who was most deserving of his good company.

Islām raised the status of women by placing the status of the mother above that of the father, and it has also given women the right to keep their own family names after marriage. The Muslim woman keeps her own surname and identity after marriage, and does not take her husband’s name, as happens in the West where the married woman is known by her husband’s name as “Mrs. So-and-so,” and her maiden name is cancelled from civic records. Thus Islām preserves the woman’s identity after marriage: although the Muslim woman is strongly urged to be a good wife, obeying and respecting her husband, her identity is not to be swallowed up in his.

If we add to this the fact that Islām has given women the right to complete freedom in how they dispose of their own wealth, and that they are not expected to spend on anyone else’s upkeep, the high status to which Islām has raised women becomes crystal-clear. Hence we can understand how much Islām wants women to be free, proud, respected, and able to fulfil their tremendous mission in life.

Her Loyalty is to Allāh (ﷻ) Alone

One of the results of the Muslim woman’s pride in her Islāmic identity is that she will never be loyal to anything or anyone other than Allāh (ﷻ), not even her husband or her father, who are among the closest people to her. We see the epitome of this loyalty (walā) in the life of the Prophet’s wife Umm Ḥabibah (May Allāh be pleased with her), Ramlah bint Abī Sufyan, the chief of Makkah and leader of the mushrikīn. She was married to the Prophet’s cousin (son of his paternal aunt) ‘Ubaydullāh ibn Jaḥsh al-Asadī, the brother of the Prophet’s wife Zaynab. Her husband ‘Ubaydullāh embraced Islām, and she entered Islām with him, whilst her father Abū Sufyan was still a kāfir. She and her husband migrated to Abyssinia with the first Muslims who went there, and left her father in Makkah, boiling with rage because his daughter had embraced Islām and there was no way he could get at her.

But the life of this patient Muslim woman was not free from problems. Sadly, her husband ‘Ubaydullāh left Islām and became a Christian, joining the religion of the Abyssinians. He tried to make her join him in his apostasy, but she refused and remained steadfast in her faith. She had given birth to her daughter Ḥabibah, and was now known as Umm Ḥabibah. She withdrew from people, and felt as if she would die of grief and sorrow because of all the disasters that had befallen her. She and her daughter were alone in a strange land, and all the ties between her and her father and husband had been cut. The father of her small daughter was now a Christian, and the child’s grandfather at that time was a mushrik and an enemy of Islām who had declared all-out war on the Prophet (ﷺ) in whom she believed and the religion that she followed.

Nothing could save her from this distress and grief except the care of the Prophet (ﷺ), who was losing sleep over the believers who had migrated, concerned for their welfare and checking on them. He sent word to the Negus to request him to arrange his marriage to Umm Ḥabibah, the daughter of Abū Sufyan, one of the immigrants to his country, as is explained in the books of Sīrah (biography) and history. Thus Umm Ḥabibah, the daughter of Abū Sufyan, became one of the “Mothers of the Believers.”

Time passed, and as the conquest of Makkah drew closer, the threat to Quraysh, who had broken the treaty of Al-Ḥudaybiyah, became ever more apparent. Their leaders met and realized that Muhammad (ﷺ) would never keep quiet about their betrayal or accept the humiliation they had inflicted on him. So they agreed to send an envoy to Madīnah, to negotiate a renewal and extension of the treaty with Muhammad (ﷺ). The man chosen for this task was Abū Sufyan ibn Ḥarb.

¹²⁶ (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 13/4, Kitāb al-isti’dhan, bāb birra walidayn.

Abū Sufyan came to Madīnah, and was nervous about meeting Muhammad (ﷺ). Then he remembered that he had a daughter in the Prophet's household, so he sneaked into her house and asked her to help him achieve what he had come for.

Umm Ḥabibah (May Allāh be pleased with her) was surprised to see him in her house, as she had not seen him since she had left for Abyssinia. She stood up, filled with confusion, not knowing what to do or say.

Abū Sufyan realised that his daughter was overwhelmed with the shock of his sudden arrival, so he asked for her permission to sit down, and went over to sit on the bed. He was stunned when his daughter Ramlah rushed to grab the mattress and roll it up. He said, "O my daughter, I do not understand. Is this mattress not good enough for me or am I not good enough for it?" She said, "It belongs to the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ), and you are a mushrik, so I do not want you to sit on it."

Ramlah bint Abī Sufyan affirmed her loyalty (walā) to Allāh (ﷻ). She had no regrets about her worthless husband, who had sold his religion for this world. She remained steadfast in her faith, bearing the pain of grief and loneliness in a strange land, where she was most in need of a husband to protect her and take care of her daughter. Allāh (ﷻ), the Munificent Bestower, compensated her with the best that any woman could have hoped for at that time, and made her the wife of the Prophet (ﷺ), and so her status was raised to that of one of the "Mothers of the Believers."

The shock of seeing her father so suddenly after many years did not make her forget her loyalty to Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger (ﷺ). She pulled the Prophet's mattress away from her father because he was a kāfir, and she did not want to let him contaminate it by sitting on it. This is the attitude of a Muslim woman who is proud of her religion: her soul is filled with faith and there is no room for tribalism or loyalty to any other than Allāh (ﷻ) and His religion.

Throughout history, Muslim women's pride in their Islāmic identity gave them the strength and determination to resist temptations and threats, and protected them from being overwhelmed by the forces of kufir and falsehood, no matter how powerful these were. The Muslim women's souls were filled with the unquenchable fire of faith, as we see in the steadfastness of Pharaoh's wife, who challenged the entire Pharaonic world with all its temptations and pleasures, caring little about the punishments heaped upon her by her husband because of her faith, and repeating her prayer:

﴿O my Rabb, Build for me, in nearness to You, a mansion in the Garden, and save me from Pharaoh and his doings, and save me from those that do wrong.﴾ (Qur'ān 66: 11)

Seeking the pleasure of Allāh and striving to make His word supreme on earth come above any other goals or ambitions. The true Muslim woman never forgets this truth, and as time passes her pride in her Islāmic identity, her devotion to this unique, divinely-ordained way of life, and her loyalty to Allāh (ﷻ) grows from strength to strength.

She Enjoins What is Good and Forbids What is Evil

The Muslim woman who understands her religion reads the āyah:

﴿The Believers, men and women, are protectors, one of another: they enjoin what is just, and forbid what is evil: they observe regular prayers, practise regular charity, and obey Allāh and His Messenger. On them will Allāh pour His Mercy: for Allāh is Exalted in Power, All-Wise.﴾ (Qur'ān 9: 71)

-which Allāh (ﷻ) revealed fifteen hundred years ago, and she finds herself on the highest level of intellectual and social status that any woman of any nation or race has ever known. Islām has stated that women are fully human, and are legally competent and independent. There is no difference between women and men when it comes to owning property, buying or selling, or arranging a marriage. This is something, which had never previously been the case in any nation, where women were seen as possessions of men, under their tutelage and command. This āyah, ﴿The Believers, men and women, are protectors, one of another...﴾ raises women to the level of loyalty and friendship with men, and makes them partners in the work of enjoining what is good and forbidding what is evil. Women are responsible for fulfilling this duty on equal terms with men, as both are charged with the duty of populating and cultivating the earth, and worshipping Allāh (ﷻ) therein.

Thus Islām rescued women from their position of being mere chattels of men, which in most cases had given men control over life and death, and raised them to the level of equality and humanity.

When Islām gave women the duty of enjoining what is good and forbidding what is evil, it gave her the status of a human being who, for the first time in history, was giving orders whereas under other systems she was the one to whom orders were always given.

Islām declared that in the sight of Allāh (ﷻ), both sexes were equally qualified to worship Him, and were equally deserving of His mercy. There is a great deal of proof of this in the Qur’ān and Sunnah.

Our history is filled with women whose words and deeds reflect their noble Islāmic character. They spoke the truth, and felt that they had a responsibility before Allāh (ﷻ) to do so, and were never afraid to do so.

One example of the strength and maturity of Muslim women’s character, and the freedom that they had to express their opinions, is the criticism voiced by a woman who was listening to the khalīfah ‘Umar ibn al-Khaṭṭāb forbidding excessive dowries and advocating that they should be limited to a certain amount. This woman stood up and said, “You have no right to do that, O ‘Umar!” He asked, “Why not?” She said, “because Allāh (ﷻ) says:

﴿But if you decide to take one wife in place of another, even if you had given the latter a whole treasure for dower, take not the least bit of it back; would you take it by slander and a manifest wrong?﴾” (Qur’ān 4: 20)

‘Umar said, “The woman is right, and the man is mistaken.”¹²⁷

The khalīfah ‘Umar listened to this woman, and when it became apparent that she was right, he admitted that she was right, and he was mistaken. Thus a Muslim woman set the earliest historic precedent of criticizing the head of state, and what a head of state! This was the rightly-guided khalīfah, the greatest ruler of his age, a man who was feared, the conqueror of Persia and Byzantium. This woman could not have criticized and opposed him if it were not for her deep understanding of the religion that had given her the right to freedom of expression, and commanded her to enjoin that which was good and forbid that which was evil.

She Often Reads the Qur’ān

In order to reach this high level of obedience, righteousness and taqwā, the Muslim woman has no choice but to seek guidance in the blessed Book of Allāh (ﷻ), sheltering herself in its shade every day. She should read Qur’ān regularly, reciting it carefully and thinking about the meaning of the āyāt. Then its meaning may penetrate her mind and emotions, and her heart and soul will be filled with the light of its pure guidance.

It is enough for the Muslim woman to know the status of the one who reads Qur’ān in the sight of Allāh (ﷻ), as the Prophet (ﷺ) described it in a number of ḥadīth. So she should read Qur’ān whenever she has the opportunity, and her days and nights should be filled with recitation of its āyāt and reflection upon its meaning. The Prophet (ﷺ) said:

“The likeness of a believer who reads the Qur’ān is like a citron, whose smell is pleasant and whose taste is pleasant; the likeness of a believer who does not read the Qur’ān is like a date, which has no smell, but its taste is sweet; the likeness of the hypocrite who reads the Qur’ān is like a fragrant flower which has a pleasant smell but whose taste is bitter; and the likeness of a hypocrite who does not read the Qur’ān is like a colocynth (bitter-apple), which has no smell and its taste is bitter.”¹²⁸

“Read the Qur’ān, for it will come forward on the Day of Resurrection to intercede for its readers.”¹²⁹ “The one who reads the Qur’ān fluently is with the honourable pious scribes¹³⁰, and the one who reads the Qur’ān and struggles to read it even though it is difficult for him, will receive a double reward.”¹³¹

¹²⁷ See Fath al-Bārī, Kitāb al-nikah; also Sheikh ‘Ali al-Tantawī, Akhbar ‘Umar, p 393.

¹²⁸ (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah 4/431, Kitāb fada’il al-Qur’ān: bāb fadl tilāwat al-Qur’ān.

¹²⁹ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 6/90, Kitāb ṣalāt al-musafirīn, bāb fadl qira’at al-Qur’ān.

Knowing this, how can any Muslim woman fail to read the Qur'ān, no matter how busy she is with household duties and the role of wife and mother? Can she neglect the Qur'ān and deprive herself of its great blessing and the reward which Allāh (ﷻ) has prepared for those who read it?

In conclusion, this is the attitude of the true Muslim woman towards her Rabb: she has deep faith in Allāh (ﷻ) (and willingly submits to His will and decree; she worships Him sincerely, obeying all His commands and heeding all His prohibitions; she understands what it means to be a true servant of Allāh (ﷻ); she constantly strives to support His religion and to make His word supreme on earth; she is proud of her Muslim identity, which draws its strength from her understanding of the purpose of human existence in this life, as defined by Allāh (ﷻ) in the Qur'ān: ﴿I have only created *jinn*s and men, that they may serve Me.﴾ (Qur'ān 51: 56)

CHAPTER 2

The Muslim Woman and Her Own Self

Introduction

Islām encourages the Muslims to stand out among people, readily distinguishable by their dress, appearance and behaviour, so that they will be a good example, worthy of the great message that they bring to humanity. According to the ḥadīth narrated by the great Ṣaḥābī Ibn al-Ḥanzaliyyah, the Prophet (ﷺ) told his Companions, when they were travelling to meet some brothers in faith:

“You are going to visit your brothers, so repair your saddles and make sure that you are dressed well, so that you will stand out among people like an adornment, for Allāh (ﷻ) does not love ugliness.”¹³²

The Prophet (ﷺ) considered an unkempt and careless appearance, and scruffy clothes and furnishings, to be forms of ugliness, which is hated and forbidden by Islām.

Islām encourages the Muslims in general to stand out among the people; the Muslim woman, in particular, is encouraged to be distinct from other people in her appearance, because this reflects well on her, and on her husband, family and children.

The Muslim woman does not neglect her appearance, no matter how busy she is with her domestic chores and the duties of motherhood. She is keen to look good, without going to extremes, because a good appearance is an indication of how well she understands herself, her Islāmic identity, and her mission in life. The outward appearance of a woman cannot be separated from her inner nature: a neat, tidy and clean exterior reflects a noble and decent inner character, both of which go to make up the character of the true Muslim woman.

The smart Muslim woman is one who strikes a balance between her external appearance and internal nature. She understands that she is composed of a body, a mind and a soul, and gives each the attention it deserves, without exaggerating in one aspect to the detriment of others. In seeking to strike the right balance, she is following the wise guidance of Islām, which encourages her to do so.

How can the Muslim woman achieve this balance between her body, mind and soul?

¹³⁰ i.e., the angels who record the deeds of man. The meaning is that one who is well-versed in Qur'ān will enjoy such a high status in the Hereafter that he will be in the exalted company of these pious scribes. [Translator]

¹³¹ (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 4/429, 430, Kitāb fada'il al-Qur'ān, bāb fadl tilāwat al-Qur'ān.

¹³² Reported by Abū Dāwūd, 4/83, in Kitāb al-libās, bāb ma ja'a fi isbal al-izar; its isnād is Ṣaḥīḥ.

1 - HER BODY

Moderation in Food and Drink

The Muslim woman takes good care of her body, promoting its good health and strength. She is active, not flabby or overweight. So she does not eat to excess; she eats just enough to maintain her health and energy. This is in accordance with the guidance of Allāh (ﷻ) in the Qur’ān:

﴿...Eat and drink: but waste not by excess, for Allah loves not the wasters.﴾ (Qur’ān 7: 31)

The Prophet (ﷺ) also advised moderation in food and drink:

“There is no worse vessel for the son of Ādam to fill than his stomach, but if he must fill it, then let him allow one-third for food, one-third for drink, and one-third for air.”¹³³

‘Umar (رضي الله عنه) said:

“Beware of filling your stomachs with food and drink, for it is harmful to the body and causes sickness and laziness in performing prayers. Be moderate in both food and drink, for that is healthier for your bodies and furthest removed from extravagance. Allāh (ﷻ) will hate the fat man (one who revels in a life of luxury), and a man will not be condemned until he favours his desires over his religion.”¹³⁴

The Muslim woman also steers clear of drugs and stimulants, especially those which are clearly known to be ḥarām, and she avoids the bad habits that many women have fallen into in societies that have deviated from the guidance of Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger, such as staying up late at night to waste time in idle pursuits. She goes to sleep early and gets up early to start the day’s activities with energy and enthusiasm. She does not weaken her energy with late nights and bad habits; she is always active and efficient, so that her household chores do not exhaust her and she can meet her targets.

She understands that a strong believer is more loved by Allāh (ﷻ) than a weak believer, as the Prophet (ﷺ) taught, so she always seeks to strengthen her body by means of a healthy lifestyle.

She Exercises Regularly

The Muslim woman does not forget to maintain her physical fitness and energy by following the healthy practices recommended by Islām. But she is not content only with the natural, healthy diet referred to above: she also follows an organized exercise program, appropriate to her physical condition, weight, age and social status. These exercises give her body agility, beauty, good health, strength and immunity to disease; this will make her more able to carry out her duties, and more fit to fulfil her role in life, whether it be as a wife or mother, young girl or old woman.

Her Body and Clothes are Clean

The Muslim woman who truly follows the teachings of Islām keeps her body and clothes very clean. She bathes frequently, in accordance with the teachings of the Prophet (ﷺ), who advised Muslims to take baths, especially on Fridays: “Have a bath on Fridays and wash your heads, even if you are not in a state of janābah (impurity, e.g. following marital relations), and wear perfume.”¹³⁵

“Whoever attends Friday prayer, man or woman, should take a bath (ghusl).”¹³⁶

The Prophet (ﷺ) placed such a great emphasis on cleanliness and bathing that some of the Imāms considered performing ghusl before Friday prayer to be obligatory (wājib).

Abū Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه) reported that the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

¹³³ A Ṣaḥīḥ hasan ḥadīth narrated by Aḥmad, 4/132, and Tirmidhī, 4/18, in Kitāb al-zuhd, bāb ma ja’a fi karahiyyah kathirat al-akl.

¹³⁴ Kanz al-ammāl, 15/433. See also the valuable article on the harmful effects of over-filling the stomach on a person’s body, mind and soul, by Muhammad Nāzim Nasimī MD in Hadarah al-Islām, Nos. 5, 6, Vol. 15.

¹³⁵ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 2/370, Kitāb al-jumu’ah, bāb al-dahn li’l-jumu’ah. Note: The command to wear perfume applies to men only; it is forbidden for women to wear perfume when they go out. [Translator]

¹³⁶ A ḥadīth narrated by ‘Abdullāh ibn ‘Umar and recorded as ṣaḥīḥ by Abū ‘Awanah, Ibn Khazimah and Ibn Ḥibbān. See also Fatḥ al-Bārī, 2/356, Kitāb al-jumu’ah, bāb fadl al-ghusl yawm al-jumu’ah.

"It is the duty of every Muslim to take a bath (at least) once every seven days, and to wash his head and body."¹³⁷

Cleanliness is one of the most essential requirements of people, especially women, and one of the clearest indicators of a sound and likeable character. Cleanliness makes a woman more likeable not only to her husband, but also to other women and her relatives.

Imām Aḥmad and Al-Nisā'ī report that Jābir (رضي الله عنه) said:

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) came to visit us, and saw a man who was wearing dirty clothes. He said 'Could this person not find anything with which to wash his clothes?'"

The Prophet (ﷺ) hated to see people come out in public wearing dirty clothes when they were able to clean them; he drew attention to the fact that the Muslim should always be clean, smart and pleasing to look at.

This teaching which is directed at men, is directed even more so at women, who are usually thought of as being cleaner, the source of joy and tranquillity in the home. There is no doubt that the woman's deep sense of cleanliness reflects on her home, her husband and her children, because it is by virtue of her concern for cleanliness that they will be clean and tidy.

No researcher, of whatever era or country, can fail to notice that this teaching which encourages cleanliness and bathing, came fifteen hundred years ago, at a time when the world knew next to nothing of such hygienic habits. A thousand years later, the non-Muslim world had still not reached the level of cleanliness that the Muslims had reached.

In her book Min al-riqq ila'l-sayādah, Samīḥah A. Wirdī says: "There is no need for us to go back to the time of the Crusades in order to know the level of civilization in Europe at that time. We need go back no further than a few hundred years, to the days of the Ottoman Empire, and compare between the Ottomans and the Europeans to see what level the Ottoman civilization had reached.

"In 1624, Prince Brandeboug wrote the following on the invitations to a banquet that he sent to other princes and nobles: Guests are requested not to plunge their hands up to the elbow in the dishes; not to throw food behind them; not to lick their fingers; not to spit on their plates; and not to blow their noses on the edges of the tablecloths."

The author adds: "These words clearly indicate the level of civilization, culture, knowledge and manners among the Europeans. At the same time, in another part of Europe, the situation was not much different. In the palace of the King of England (George I), the ugly smell emanating from the persons of the King and his family overpowered the grandeur of their fine, lace-edged French clothes. This is what was happening in Europe. Meanwhile in Istanbul, the seat of the khilafah, it is well-known that the European ambassadors who were authorized by the Ottoman state would be thrown into baths before they could approach the sultan. Sometime around 1730, during the reign of Sultān Aḥmad III, when the Ottoman state entered its political and military decline, the wife of the English ambassador in Istanbul, Lady Montague, wrote many letters which were later published, in which she described the level of cleanliness, good manners and high standards among the Muslims. In one of her memoirs she wrote that the Ottoman princess Ḥāfīdah had given her a gift of a towel that had been hand-embroidered; she liked it so much that she could not even bear to wipe her mouth with it. The Europeans were particularly astounded by the fact that the Muslims used to wash their hands before and after every meal. It is enough to read the words of the famous English nurse Florence Nightingale, describing English hospitals in the mid-nineteenth century, where she describes how these hospitals were full of squalor, negligence and moral decay, and the wings of these hospitals were full of sick people who could not help answering the call of nature on their beds...."¹³⁸

What a great contrast there is between the refined civilization of Islām and other, human civilizations!

She Takes Care of her Mouth and Teeth

The intelligent Muslim woman takes care of her mouth, for no-one should ever have to smell an unpleasant odour coming from it. She does this by cleaning her teeth with a siwāk, toothbrush, toothpaste and mouthwash after every meal. She checks her teeth and visits the dentist at least once a year, even if she does not feel any pain, in order to keep her teeth healthy and strong. She consults otolaryngologists (“ear, nose and throat” doctors) if necessary, so that her breath will remain clean and fresh. This is undoubtedly more befitting for a woman.

¹³⁷ Agreed upon. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 2/166, Kitāb al-hayd, bāb ghusl al-jumu'ah.

¹³⁸ See Samīḥah A. Wirdī, Min al-riqq il'al'sayadah, Damla Yayinevi No. 89, p. 28ff.

‘Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) used to be very diligent in taking care of her teeth: she never neglected to clean them with siwāk, as Bukhārī and Muslim reported from a number of the Ṣaḥābah.

Bukhārī reported from ‘Urwah (May Allāh be pleased with her) via ‘Aṭā:

“We heard ‘Āishah the Mother of the Believers cleaning her teeth in the room...”¹³⁹

Muslim also reports from ‘Urwah (May Allāh be pleased with her) via ‘Aṭā: “We heard her using the siwāk...”¹⁴⁰

‘Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) said:

“The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) never woke from sleeping at any time of day or night without cleaning his teeth with a siwāk before performing wudū”¹⁴¹

The Prophet’s concern for oral hygiene was so great that he said:

“If it were not for the fact that I did not want to overburden my ummah, I would have ordered them to use the siwāk before every prayer.”¹⁴²

‘Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) was asked what the Prophet (ﷺ) used to do first when he came home. She said, “Use siwāk.”¹⁴³

It is very strange to see that some Muslim women neglect these matters, which are among the most important elements of a woman’s character, besides being at the very heart of Islām.

They are among the most important elements of a woman’s gentle nature, and they reveal her feminine elegance and beauty. They are also at the heart of Islām because the Prophet (ﷺ) urged cleanliness on many occasions, and he detested unpleasant odours and an ugly appearance. He said:

“Whoever eats onions, garlic or leeks should not approach our mosque because whatever offends the sons of Ādam may offend the angels.”¹⁴⁴

The Prophet (ﷺ) banned those who had eaten these pungent vegetables from coming anywhere near the mosque, lest the people and the angels be offended by their bad breath, but these smells pale into insignificance beside the stench of dirty clothes, filthy socks, unwashed bodies and unclean mouths that emanates from some careless and unkempt individuals who offend others in gatherings.

She Takes Care of Her Hair

The Prophet (ﷺ) also taught Muslims to take care of their hair, and to make it look attractive and beautiful, within the limits of Islāmic rulings.

This is reported in the ḥadīth quoted by Abū Dāwūd from Abū Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه), who said: “The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said: ‘Whoever has hair, let him look after it properly.’”¹⁴⁵

Looking after one’s hair, according to Islāmic teaching, involves keeping it clean, combing it, perfuming it, and styling it nicely.

The Prophet (ﷺ) did not like people to leave their hair uncombed and unkempt, so that they looked like wild monsters; he likened such ugliness to the appearance of the Shayṭān. In Al-Muwattā, Imām Mālik reports a ḥadīth with a mursal isnād from ‘Aṭā ibn Yasār, who said:

¹³⁹ Fath al-Bārī, 3/599, Kitāb al-‘umrah, bāb kam a ‘tamara al-Nabi.

¹⁴⁰ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 8/236, Kitāb al-Ḥajj, bāb ‘adād ‘amar al-Nabi wa zamanihinna.

¹⁴¹ A ḥasan ḥadīth, narrated by Aḥmad (6/160) and Abū Dāwūd (1/46) in Kitāb al-taharah, bāb al-siwāk.

¹⁴² Fath al-Bārī, 2/374, Kitāb al-jumu‘ah, bāb al-siwāk yawm al-jumu‘ah; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 3/143, Kitāb al-taharah, bāb al-siwāk.

¹⁴³ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 3/143, Kitāb al-taharah, bāb al-siwāk.

¹⁴⁴ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 5/50, Kitāb al-masājid, bāb nahi akil al-thum wa ‘l-basal ‘an hudur al-masjid.

¹⁴⁵ Reported by Abū Dāwūd, 4/108, in Kitāb al-tarajjul, bāb fi islah al-sha‘r; its isnād is ḥasan.

“The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) was in the mosque, when a man with unkempt hair and an untidy beard came in. The Prophet (ﷺ) pointed to him, as if indicating to him that he should tidy up his hair and beard. The man went and did so, then returned. The Prophet (ﷺ) said, ‘Is this not better than that any one of you should come with unkempt hair, looking like the Shaytān?’”¹⁴⁶

The Prophet’s likening a man with untidy hair to the Shaytān clearly shows how concerned Islām is with a neat and pleasant appearance, and how opposed it is to scruffiness and ugliness.

The Prophet (ﷺ) always took note of people’s appearance, and he never saw a scruffily-dressed man with untidy hair but he criticized him for his self-neglect. Imām Aḥmad and Al-Nisā’ī report that Jābir (رضي الله عنه) said:

“The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) came to visit us, and he saw an unkempt man whose hair was going in all directions, so he said, ‘Could he not find anything with which to calm his head?’”¹⁴⁷

If this is how he Prophet (ﷺ) taught men to take care of themselves, then how much more applicable are his teachings to women, for whom beauty and elegance are more befitting, as they are the ones to whom men draw close and seek comfort, tranquillity and happiness in their company! It is obvious to the sensitive Muslim woman that the hair is one of the most important features of a woman’s beauty and attractiveness.

Good Appearance

It is no surprise that the Muslim woman is concerned with her clothes and appearance, without going to extremes or making a wanton display of herself. She presents a pleasing appearance to her husband, children, maḥram relatives and other Muslim women, and people feel comfortable with her. She does not put them off with an ugly or untidy appearance and she always checks herself and takes care of herself, in accordance with the teachings of Islām, which asks its followers to look good in ways that are permitted. In his commentary on the āyah:

﴿Say: Who has forbidden the beautiful [gifts] of Allāh, which He has produced for His servants, and the things, cleans and pure, [which He has provided] for sustenance?...﴾ (Qur’ān 7: 32)

Al-Qurtubī said: “Makhūl reported from ‘Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her): ‘A group of the Companions of the Prophet (ﷺ) were waiting at the door for him, so he prepared to go out to meet them. There was a vessel of water in the house, and he peered into it, smoothing his beard and his hair. (‘Āishah said) I asked him, “O Messenger of Allāh, even you do this?” He said, “Yes, when a man goes out to meet his brothers, let him prepare himself properly, for Allāh (ﷻ) is beautiful and loves beauty.”’”¹⁴⁸

The Muslim does all of this in accordance with the Islāmic ideal of moderation, avoiding the extremes of either exaggeration or negligence:

﴿Those who, when they spend, are not extravagant and not niggardly, but hold a just [balance] between those [extremes].﴾ (Qur’ān 25: 67)

Islām wants its followers, and especially its advocates (du‘āt), to stand out in gatherings in an attractive fashion, not to appear unsightly or unbearable. Neglecting one’s appearance to the extent of being offensive to one’s companions in the name of asceticism and humility is not part of Islām. The Prophet (ﷺ), who was the epitome of asceticism and humility, used to dress in decent clothes and present a pleasant appearance to his family and companions. He regarded dressing well and looking good to be a demonstration of the Blessings of Allāh (ﷻ): “Allāh (ﷻ) loves to see the signs of His gifts on His servant.”¹⁴⁹

Ibn Sa‘d reports in Al-Tabaqāt (4/346) that Jundūb ibn Makith (رضي الله عنه) said:

“Whenever a delegation came to meet the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ), he would wear his best clothes and order his leading Companions to do likewise. I saw the Prophet (ﷺ) on the day that the delegation of ¹⁴⁶ Al-Muwattā, 2/949, Kitāb al-sha‘r, bāb islah al-sha‘r.

¹⁴⁷ A ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth reported by Aḥmad (3/357) and Al-Nisā’ī (8/183) in Kitāb al-zinah, bāb taskīm al-sha‘r.

¹⁴⁸ See Tafseer al-Qurtubī, 7/197.

¹⁴⁹ A ḥasan ḥadīth narrated by Tirmidhī, 4/206, in Kitāb al-isti’dhan, bāb athar al-ni‘mah ‘ala’l-‘abd.

Kindah came to meet him; he was wearing a Yemenī garment, and Abū Bakr and ‘Umar were dressed similarly.”

Ibn al-Mubarak, Tabaranī, Al-Ḥākim, Al-Bayhaqī and others report that ‘Umar (رضي الله عنه) said: “So long as this taking care of one’s outward appearance does not go to extremes, then it is part of the beauty that Allāh (ﷻ) has allowed for His servants and encouraged them to adopt”:

﴿O children of Ādam! Wear your beautiful apparel at every time and place of prayer: eat and drink: but waste not by excess, for Allāh loves not the wasters. Say, Who has forbidden the beautiful [gifts] of Allāh, which He has produced for His servants, and the things, clean and pure, [which He has provided] for sustenance? Say: They are, in the life of this world, for those who believe, [and] purely for them on the Day of Judgement. Thus do We explain the Signs in detail for those who understand.﴾ (Qur’ān 7: 31-32)

Muslim reports from Ibn Mas‘ud (رضي الله عنه) that the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

“No-one who has even an atom’s-weight of pride in his heart will enter Paradise.” A man asked him, “What if a man likes his clothes and shoes to look good?” (Meaning, is this counted as pride?) The Prophet (ﷺ) said: “Allāh (ﷻ) is beautiful and loves beauty. Pride means denying the truth and looking down on other people.”¹⁵⁰

This is the understanding adopted by the Ṣahābah and those who followed them sincerely. Therefore Imām Abū Ḥanīfah (رضي الله عنه) always took care to dress well and to ensure that he smelled clean and fresh, and urged others to do likewise. One day he met a man who used to attend his circle, who was dressed in scruffy clothes. He took him to one side and offered him a thousand dirhams with which to smarten himself up. The man told him, “I have money; I do not need this.” Abū Ḥanīfah admonished him: “Have you not heard the ḥadīth, ‘Allāh (ﷻ) loves to see the signs of His gifts on His servant’? So you have to change yourself, and not appear offensive to your friend.”

Naturally, those who call people to Allāh (ﷻ) should be better and smarter in appearance than others, so that they will be better able to attract people and make their message reach their hearts.

Indeed they, unlike others, are required to be like this even if they do not go out and meet people, because those who proclaim the word of Allāh (ﷻ) should take care of their appearance and pay attention to the cleanliness of their bodies, clothes, nails and hair. They should do this even if they are in a state of isolation or retreat, in response to the call of the natural inclination of man (fiṭrah) which the Prophet (ﷺ) told us about and outlined its requirements:

“Five things are part of the fiṭrah: circumcision, removing the pubic hair, plucking hair from the armpits, cutting the nails, and trimming the moustache.”¹⁵¹

Taking care of oneself in accordance with this fiṭrah is something encouraged by Islām and supported by every person of common sense and good taste.

She Does Not Go to Extremes of Beautification or Make a Wanton Display of Herself

Paying attention to one’s appearance should not make a Muslim woman fall into the trap of wanton display (tabarruj) and showing her beauty to anyone other than her husband and maḥram relatives. She should not upset the balance which is the basis of all Islāmic teaching, for the Muslim woman always aims at moderation in all things, and is on the alert to prevent any one aspect of her life from taking over at the expense of another.

She never forgets that Islām, which encourages her to look attractive within the permitted limits, is also the religion that warns her against going to such extremes that she becomes a slave to her appearance, as the ḥadīth says:

¹⁵⁰ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 2/89, Kitāb al-imān, bab taḥrīm al-kibr.

¹⁵¹ Faṭḥ al-Bārī, 10/334, Kitāb al-libās, bāb qass al-sharīb; Muslim, 3/146, Kitāb al-taharah, bāb khisal al-fiṭrah.

“Wretched is the slave of the dinār, dirham and fancy clothes of velvet and silk! If he is given, he is pleased, and if he is not given, he is displeased.”¹⁵²

Our women today, many of whom have been influenced by the international fashion houses to such an extent that a rich women will not wear an outfit more than once, have fallen into that slavery of which the Prophet (ﷺ) warned and, as a result, they are trapped in the misery of that senseless enslavement to excessively luxurious clothing and accessories. Such women have deviated from the purpose for which humanity was created in this world.

One of the worst excesses that many modern Muslim women have fallen into is the habit of showing off expensive outfits at wedding parties, which have become fashion shows where competition is rife and is taken to extremes far beyond the realms of common sense and moderation. This phenomenon becomes clearest when the bride herself wears all her outfits, which may number as many as ten, one after the other: each time she changes, she comes out and shows it off to the other women present, exactly like the fashion models in the West. It does not even occur to the women among whom this habit is common, that there may be women present who are financially unable to buy such outfits, and who may be feeling depressed and jealous, or even hostile towards the bride and her family, and other rich people. Nothing of this sort would happen if brides were more moderate, and just wore one or two outfits at their wedding parties. This is better than that extravagant showing-off which is contradictory to the balanced, moderate spirit of Islām.

No doubt the Muslim woman who has surrounded herself with the teachings of this great religion is spared and protected from such foolish errors, because she has adopted its principles of moderation.

2 - HER MIND

She Takes Care of Her Mind by Pursuing Knowledge

The sensitive Muslim woman takes care of her mind just as she takes care of her body, because the former is no less important than the latter. Long ago, the poet Zuhayr ibn Abī Sulmā said:

“A man’s tongue is half of him, and the other half is his heart; What is left is nothing more than the image of flesh and blood.”¹⁵³

This means that a person is essentially composed of his heart and his tongue, in other words what he thinks and what he says. Hence the importance of taking care of one’s mind and supplying it with all kinds of beneficial knowledge is quite clear.

The Muslim woman is responsible just as a man is, so she is also required to seek knowledge, whether it is “religious” or “secular”, that will be of benefit to her. When she recites the āyah ﴿But say, ‘O my Rabb ! Advance me in knowledge.’﴾ (Qur’ān 20: 114) and hears the ḥadīth, “Seeking knowledge is a duty on every Muslim,”¹⁵⁴ she knows that the teachings of the Qur’ān and Sunnah are directed at men and women equally, and that she is also obliged to seek the kinds of knowledge that have been made obligatory for individuals and communities (farḍ ‘ayn and farḍ kifāyah) to pursue them from the time that this obligation was made known to the Muslim society.

The Muslim woman understands the high value that has been placed on knowledge since the earliest days of Islām. The women of the Anṣār asked the Prophet (ﷺ): “Appoint a special day for us when we can learn from you, for the men have taken all your time and left nothing for us.” He told them, “Your time is in the house of so-and-so (one of the women).” So he came to them at that place and taught them there.¹⁵⁵

The Muslim women had a keen desire for knowledge, and they never felt too shy to ask questions about the teachings (aḥkām) of Islām, because they were asking about the truth, and ﴿Allāh is not ashamed [to tell you] the truth﴾ (Qur’ān 33: 53). Many reports illustrate the confidence and maturity with which the early Muslim women posed questions to the Prophet (ﷺ), this great teacher, seeking to understand their religion more fully.

¹⁵² Fatḥ al-Bārī, 6/81, Kitāb al-jihād, bāb al-hirasah fi’l-ghazw fi sabil-Allāh.

¹⁵³ See Hāshimī (ed.), Jumharah Ash‘ar al-‘Arab, 1/300, published by Dār al-Qalam, 1406 AH.

¹⁵⁴ A ḥasan ḥadīth narrated by Ibn Mājah, 1/81, in Al-Muqaddimah, bāb fadl al-‘ulama’ wa’l-hath ‘ala talab al-‘ilm.

¹⁵⁵ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 1/195, Kitāb al-‘ilm, bāb ḥal yuj‘al li’l-nisa’ yawm ‘ala hidah fi’l-‘ilm.

'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) reported that Asmā bint Yazīd ibn al-Sakan al-Anṣāriyyah asked the Prophet (ﷺ) about performing ghusl after a period. He said, "Let one of you (who has finished her period) take her water and purify herself properly, then pour water over herself, then take a piece of cloth that has been perfumed with musk, and clean herself with it." Asmā (May Allāh be pleased with her) asked, "How should she clean herself?" The Prophet (ﷺ) said, "Subḥān Allāh! You clean yourself with it!" 'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) told her in a whisper, "Wipe away the traces of blood."

Asmā also asked him about performing ghusl when one is in a state of janābah. He said, "You should take your water and purify yourself with it properly, and clean yourself all over, then pour water on your head and rub it so that the water reaches the roots of the hair, then pour water all over yourself."¹⁵⁶ 'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) said, "How good are the women of the Anṣār! Shyness did not prevent them from understanding their religion properly."¹⁵⁷

Umm Sulaym bint Miḥān, the mother of Anas ibn Mālik, came to the Prophet (ﷺ) and said, "O Messenger of Allāh, Allāh (ﷻ) is not ashamed (to tell) the truth, so tell me, does a woman have to perform ghusl if she has an erotic dream?" The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said, "Yes, if she sees water (i.e., a discharge)." Umm Sa'lamah covered her face out of shyness, and said, "O Messenger of Allāh, could a woman have such a dream?" He said, "Yes, may your right hand be covered with dust, otherwise how could her child resemble her?"¹⁵⁸

Muslim reports that Umm Sulaym came to the Prophet (ﷺ), when 'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) was with him, and when Umm Sulaym asked this question, 'Āishah said, "O Umm Sulaym, you have exposed women's secret, may your right hand be rubbed with dust!" The Prophet (ﷺ) said to 'Āishah, "Rather your hand should be rubbed with dust; O Umm Sulaym, let a woman perform ghusl if she saw such a dream."¹⁵⁹

The women of that unique generation never hesitated to strive to understand their religion; they would put questions directly to the Prophet (ﷺ) about whatever happened to them. If they doubted a person's opinion (fatwā), or were not convinced of it, they would enquire further until they were sure that they understood the matter properly. This is the attitude of the wise and intelligent woman. This was the attitude of Subay'ah bint al-Ḥārith al-Aslamiyyah, the wife of Sa'd ibn Khawlah, who was from Banū 'Amir ibn Lu'ayy and had been present at Badr. He died during the Farewell Pilgrimage; she was pregnant, and gave birth shortly after his death. When harnifās ended, she prepared herself to receive offers of marriage. Abū'l-Sanābil ibn Ba'kak (a man from Banū 'Abdul-Dār) came to her and said, "Why do I see you preparing to receive offers of marriage? By Allāh (ﷻ), you will never get married until four months and tens days have passed." Subay'ah (later) narrated: "When he said this to me, I got dressed and went to see the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) in the evening. I asked him about it, and he told me that my 'iddah had ended when I gave birth to my child, and said that I could get married if I wished."¹⁶⁰

Subay'ah's efforts to understand the shar'ī ruling precisely represents a blessing and benefit not only for Subay'ah herself, but for all Muslim women until the Day of Judgement. Her ḥadīth was accepted by the majority of earlier and later scholars, above all the four imāms, who said that the 'iddah of a widowed woman, if she is pregnant, lasts until she gives birth, even if she were to give birth so soon after her husband's death that his body had not yet been washed and prepared for burial, and it becomes permissible for her to re-marry.¹⁶¹

What a great service Subay'ah did to the scholars of the Muslim ummah by seeking to understand the shar'ī rulings precisely and to reach a level of certainty about this issue.

¹⁵⁶ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 1/414, Kitāb al-ḥayd, bāb dalk al-mar'ah nafsaha idha tatahharat min al-muhid; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 4/15, 16, Kitāb al-ḥayd, bāb istiḥbab isti'mal al-mutaḥsilah min al-ḥayd al-misk.

¹⁵⁷ See Fatḥ al-Bārī, 1/228, Kitāb al-'ilm, bāb al-ḥaya' fi'l-'ilm; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 4/16, Kitāb al-ḥayd, bāb ghusl al-mustahadah wa salatiha.

¹⁵⁸ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 1/228, Kitāb al-'ilm, bāb al-ḥaya' fi'l-'ilm; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 3/223, 224, Kitāb al-ḥayd, bāb wujub al-ghusl 'ala'l-mar'ah bi khuruj al-maniy minha.

¹⁵⁹ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 3/220, Kitāb al-ḥayd, bāb wujub al-ghusl 'ala'l-mar'ah bi khuruj al-maniy minha.

¹⁶⁰ See Fatḥ al-Bārī, 7/310, Kitāb al-maghazi, bāb istiḥfā' Subay'ah bint al-Ḥārith al-Aslamiyyah; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 10/110, Kitāb al-talāq, bāb inqida' 'iddah al-mutawafa' anha zawjuha wa ghayruha.

¹⁶¹ See Sharḥ al-Nawawī li Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 10/109, Kitāb al-talāq, bāb inqida' 'iddah al-mutawafa' anha zawjuha bi wad' al-haml.

Islām has made the pursuit of knowledge obligatory on women and men alike, as the Prophet (ﷺ) said: “Seeking knowledge is a duty on every Muslim.”¹⁶² In other words, it is a duty on every person, man or woman, who utters the words of the shahādah, so it comes as no surprise to see Muslim women thirsting for knowledge, devoting themselves to its pursuit. Muslim women of all times and places have understood the importance of seeking beneficial knowledge, and the positive effects this has on their own characters and on their children, families and societies. So they seek knowledge enthusiastically, hoping to learn whatever will benefit them in this world and the next.

What a Muslim Woman Needs to Know

The first thing that the Muslim woman needs to know is how to read the Qur’ān properly (with tajwīd), and to understand its meaning. Then she should learn something of the sciences of ḥadīth, the sīrah of the Prophet (ﷺ), and the history of the women of the Ṣaḥābah and Ṭabi‘īn, who are prominent figures in Islām. She should acquire as much knowledge of fiqh as she needs to ensure that her worship and daily dealings are correct, and she should ensure that she has a sound grasp of the basic principles of her religion.

Then she should direct her attention to her primary speciality in life, which is to take proper care of her house, husband, family and children, for she is the one whom Allāh (ﷻ) has created specially to be a mother and to give tranquillity and happiness to the home. She is the one to whom Islām has given the immense responsibility of raising intelligent and courageous children. Hence there are many proverbs and sayings nowadays which reflect the woman’s influence on the success of her husband and children in their working lives, such as, “Look for the woman,” “Behind every great man is a woman,” and “The one who rocks the cradle with her right hand rocks the world with her left,” etc. No woman can do all of that unless she is open-minded and intelligent, strong of personality and pure of heart. So she is more in need of education, correction and guidance in forming her distinct Islāmic personality.

It is unwise for women’s education to be precisely the same as that of men. There are some matters that concern women only, that men cannot deal with; and there are matters that concern men only, that women cannot deal with. There are things for which women were created, and others for which men were created, and each person should do that for which he or she was created, as the Prophet (ﷺ) taught. When the Muslim woman seeks to learn and specialize in some field, she should bear in mind the Islāmic teaching regarding her intellectual, psychological and social make-up, so that she will prepare herself to fulfil the basic purpose for which she was created, and will become a productive and constructive member of her family, society and ummah, not an imitation of men, competing with them for work and taking up a position among men, as we see in those societies which do not differentiate between males and females in their educational curricula and employment laws.

Whatever a woman’s academic speciality is, she tries to understand it thoroughly and do her work perfectly, in accordance with the teaching of the Prophet (ﷺ):

“Allāh (ﷻ) loves for any of you, when he does something, to do it well.”¹⁶³

Muslim Women’s Achievements in the Field of Knowledge

The gates of knowledge are open to the Muslim woman, and she may enter whichever of them she chooses, so long as this does not go against her feminine nature, but develops her mind and enhances her emotional growth and maturity. We find that history is full of prominent examples of remarkable women who sought knowledge and became highly proficient.

Foremost among them is the Mother of the Believers ‘Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her), who was the primary source of ḥadīth and knowledge of the sunnah, and was the first faqīhah in Islām when she was still a young woman no more than nineteen years of age.

Imām al-Zuhrī said: “If the knowledge of ‘Āishah were to be gathered up and compared to the knowledge of all the other wives of the Prophet (ﷺ) and all other women, ‘Āishah’s knowledge would be greater.”¹⁶⁴

¹⁶² A ḥasan ḥadīth, narrated by Ibn Mājah, 1/81, in Al-Muqaddimah, bāb fadl al-‘ulama’ wa’l-hathth ‘ala talab al-‘ilm.

¹⁶³ A ḥasan ḥadīth reported by Al-Bayhāqī in Shu‘ab al-imān, 4/334, from ‘Āishah.

How often did the greatest of the Ṣaḥābah refer to her, to hear the final word on matters of the fundamentals of Islām and precise meanings of the Qur’ān.

Her knowledge and deep understanding were not restricted only to matters of religion; she was equally distinguished in poetry, literature, history and medicine, and other branches of knowledge that were known at that time. The faqīh of the Muslims, ‘Urwah ibn al-Zubayr, was quoted by his son Hishām as saying: “I have never seen anybody more knowledgeable in fiqh or medicine or poetry than ‘Āishah.”¹⁶⁵

Imām Muslim reports that she heard her nephew Al-Qāsim ibn Muhammad ibn Abū Bakr (رضي الله عنه) make a grammatical mistake, when he and his (paternal) cousin were talking in front of her, and she told him off for this mistake. Imām Muslim commented on this incident: “Ibn ‘Aṭq said: ‘Al-Qāsim and I were talking in front of ‘Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her), and Al-Qāsim was one who made frequent mistakes in grammar, as his mother was not an Arab. Āishah said to him, “Why do you not speak like this son of my brother? I know where the problem comes from: he was brought up by his mother, and you were brought up by your mother...”¹⁶⁶

Among the reports in which the books of literature speak of the vast knowledge of ‘Āishah is that which describes how ‘Āishah bint Ṭalḥah was present in the circle of Hishām ibn ‘Abdul-Mālik, where the sheikhs of Banū Umayyah were present. They did not mention any point of Arab history, wars and poetry but she did not contribute to the discussion, and no star appeared but she did not name it. Hishām said to her, “As for the first (i.e., knowledge of history etc.), I find nothing strange (in your knowing about it), but where did you get your knowledge about the stars?” She said, “I learnt it from my (maternal) aunt ‘Āishah.”¹⁶⁷

‘Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) had a curious mind and was always eager to learn. Whenever she heard about something she did not know, she would ask about it until she understood it. Her closeness to the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) meant that she was like a vessel full of knowledge.

Imām Bukhārī reports from Abū Mulaykah that ‘Āishah, the wife of the Prophet (ﷺ) never heard anything that she did not know, but she would keep going over it until she understood it. The Prophet (ﷺ) said, “Whoever is brought to account will be punished.” Āishah said: “I said, ‘But does Allāh (ﷻ) not say ‘Soon his account will be taken by an easy reckoning’ (Qur’ān 84: 8)” He said, “That refers to al-‘ard (when everyone is brought before Allāh [(ﷻ) on the Day of Judgement]); but whoever is examined in detail is doomed.”¹⁶⁸

In addition to her great knowledge, ‘Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) was also very eloquent in her speech. When she spoke, she captured the attention of her audience and moved them deeply. This is what made Al-Aḥnaf ibn Qays say:

“I heard the speeches of Abū Bakr, ‘Umar, ‘Uthmān, ‘Ali and the khulafa’ who came after them, but I never heard any speech more eloquent and beautiful than that of ‘Āishah.”

Mūsā ibn Ṭalḥah said: “I never saw anyone more eloquent and pure in speech than Āishah.”¹⁶⁹

Another of these brilliant women who achieved a high level of knowledge was the daughter of Sa‘īd ibn al-Musayyab, the scholar of his age, who refused to marry his daughter to the khalfah, ‘Abdul-Mālik ibn Marwān, and instead married her to one of his righteous students, ‘Abdullāh ibn Wada‘ah. ‘Abdullāh went in to his wife, who was one of the most beautiful of people, and one of the most knowledgeable in Qur’ān, Sunnah and the rights and duties of marriage. In the morning, ‘Abdullāh got up and was preparing to go out. His wife asked him, “Where are you going?” He said, “To the circle of your father Sa‘īd ibn al-Musayyab, so that I may learn.” She said, “Sit down; I will teach you what Sa‘id knows.” For ¹⁶⁴ Al-Isti‘ab, 4/1883; Al-Isābah, 8/140.

¹⁶⁵ Tārikh aṭ-Ṭabarī. Ḥawadīth 58; Al-Samt al-Thamin, 82; Al-Isti‘ab, 4/1885.

¹⁶⁶ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 5/47, Kitāb al-masājīd, bāb karahah al-ṣalāt bi hadrat al-ta‘am.

¹⁶⁷ Al-Aghānī, 10/57.

¹⁶⁸ Faḥ al-Bārī, 1/196, Kitāb al-‘ilm, bāb man sami‘a shay‘an fa rajī‘ hatta ya‘rifuhu.

¹⁶⁹ Reported by Tirmidhī, 5/364, in Kitāb al-munaqib, bāb min fadl ‘Āishah; he said that it is ḥasan ṣaḥīḥ gharīb.

one month, ‘Abdullāh did not attend Sa‘id’s circle because the knowledge that this beautiful young girl had learned from her father (and was passing on to him) was sufficient.

Another of these prominent female scholars was Fāṭimah, the daughter of the author of Tuḥfat al-fuqahā, ‘Alā al-Dīn al-Samarqandī (d. 539 AH). She was a faqīhah and scholar in her own right: she had learned fiqh from her father and had memorized his book Al-Tuḥfah. Her father married her to his student ‘Alā al-Dīn al-Kasanī, who was highly distinguished in the fields of Al-usūl and Al-furū’. He wrote a commentary on Tuḥfat al-fuqahā entitled Badā’i’ al-sanā’i, and showed it to his sheikh, who was delighted with it and accepted it as a mahr for his daughter, although he had refused offers of marriage for her from some of the kings of Byzantium.. The fuqahā of his time said, “He commentated on his Tuḥfah and married his daughter.” Before her marriage, Fāṭimah used to issue fatwas along with her father, and the fatwas would be written in her handwriting and that of her father. After she married the author of Al-Badā’i’, the fatwas would appear in her handwriting and that of her father and her husband. Her husband would make mistakes, and she would correct them.¹⁷⁰ ‘Āishah, the other wives of the Prophet (ﷺ), the daughter of Sa‘īd ibn al-Musayyab, Fāṭimah al-Samarqandī and other famous women scholars were not something unique or rare among Muslim women. There were innumerable learned women, who studied every branch of knowledge and became prominent in many fields. Ibn Sa‘d devoted a chapter of Al-Ṭabaqāt to reports of Ḥadīth transmitted by women, in which he mentioned more than seven hundred women who reported Hadith from the Prophet (ﷺ), or from the trustworthy narrators among the ṣaḥābah; from these women in turn, many prominent scholars and imāms also narrated ḥadīth.

Al-Ḥāfidh ibn ‘Asakir (d. 571 AH), one of the most reliable narrators of ḥadīth, who was so trustworthy that he was known as ḥāfiz al-ummah, counted eighty-odd women among his sheikhs and teachers.¹⁷¹ If we bear in mind that this scholar never left the eastern part of the Islāmic world, and never visited Egypt, North Africa or Andalusia - which were even more crowded with women of knowledge - we will see that the number of learned women he never met was far greater than those from whom he did receive knowledge.

One of the phrases used by scholars in the books of ḥadīth is: “Al-sheikhah al-musnidah al-ṣaliḥah so-and-so the daughter of so-and-so told me...” Among the names mentioned by Imām Bukhārī are: Sitt al-Wuzarā, Wazīrah bint Muhammad ibn ‘Umar ibn As‘ad ibn al-Munajjī al-Tunukhiyyah and Karīmah bint Aḥmad al-Maruziyyah. They are also mentioned by Ibn Hajar al-‘Asqallānī in the introduction to Fath al-Bārī.¹⁷²

The position of these great women is enhanced by the fact that they were sincere and truthful, far above any hint of suspicion or doubt - a status that many men could not reach. This was noted by Imām al-Ḥāfidh Adh-Dhahabī in Mizan al-I’tidāl, where he states that he found four thousand men about whose reports he had doubts, then follows that observation with the comment: “I have never known of any woman who was accused (of being untrustworthy) or whose ḥadīth was rejected.”¹⁷³

The modern Muslim woman, looking at the magnificent heritage of women in Islāmic history is filled with the desire for knowledge, as these prominent women only became famous and renowned throughout history by virtue of their knowledge. Their minds can only be developed, and their characters can only grow in wisdom, maturity and insight, through the acquisition of useful, beneficial and correct knowledge.

She is not Superstitious

The knowledgeable Muslim woman avoids all the foolish superstitions and nonsensical myths that tend to fill the minds of ignorant and uneducated women. The Muslim woman who understands the teachings of her religion believes that consulting and accepting the words of fortune-tellers, soothsayers, magicians and other purveyors of superstition and myths is one of the major sins that annul the good deeds of the believer and spell doom for him or her in the Hereafter. Muslim reports from some of the wives of the Prophet (ﷺ) that he said:

¹⁷⁰ Tuḥfat al-fuqaha, 1/12.

¹⁷¹ Ṭabaqāt al-shafi’iyyah, 4/273.

¹⁷² Fath al-Bārī, 1/7.

¹⁷³ Mizan al-i’tidal, 3/395.

“Whoever goes to a fortune-teller and asks him about anything, his prayers will not be accepted for forty days.”¹⁷⁴

Abū Dāwūd reports the ḥadīth of Abū Hurayrah in which the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

“Whoever goes to a fortune-teller and believes in what he says, has disbelieved in that which was revealed to Muhammad.”¹⁷⁵

She Never Stops Reading and Studying

The Muslim woman does not let her household duties and the burdens of motherhood prevent her from reading widely, because she understands that reading is the source, which will supply her mind with nourishment, and knowledge, which it needs in order to flourish and grow.

The Muslim woman who understands that seeking knowledge is a duty required of her by her faith can never stop nourishing her mind with knowledge, no matter how busy she may be with housework or taking care of her children. She steals the odd moment, here and there, to sit down with a good book, or a useful magazine, so that she may broaden her horizons with some useful academic, social or literary knowledge, thus increasing her intellectual abilities.

3 - HER SOUL

The Muslim woman does not neglect to polish her soul through worship, dhikr (remembrance), and reading Qur’ān; she never neglects to perform acts of worship at the appointed times. Just as she takes care of her body and mind, she also takes care of her soul, as she understands that the human being is composed of a body, a mind and a soul, and that all three deserve appropriate attention. A person may be distinguished by the balance he or she strikes between body, mind and soul, so that none is cared for at the expense of another. Striking this balance guarantees the development of a sound, mature and moderate character.

She Performs Acts of Worship Regularly and Purifies her Soul

The Muslim woman pays due attention to her soul and polishes it through worship, doing so with a pure and calm approach that will allow the spiritual meanings to penetrate deep into her being. She removes herself from the hustle and bustle of life and concentrates on her worship as much as she is able to. When she prays, she does so with calmness of heart and clearness of mind, so that her soul may be refreshed by the meaning of the words of Qur’ān, dhikr and tasbeeh that she is mentioning. Then she sits alone for a little while, praising and glorifying Allāh, and reciting some āyāt from His Book, and meditating upon the beautiful meanings of the words she is reciting. She checks her attitude and behaviour every now and then, correcting herself if she has done anything wrong or fallen short in some way. Thus her worship will bring about the desired results of purity of soul, cleansing her of her sins, and freeing her from the bonds of Shaytān whose constant whispering may destroy a person. If she makes a mistake or stumbles from the Straight Path, the true Muslim woman soon puts it right, seeks forgiveness from Allāh (ﷻ), renounces her sin or error, and repents sincerely. This is the attitude of righteous, Allāh-fearing Muslim women:

﴿Those who fear Allāh, when a thought of evil from Shaytān assaults them, bring Allāh to remembrance, when lo! They see aright.﴾ (Qur’ān 7: 201)

Therefore, the Prophet (ﷺ) used to tell his Companions: “Renew your faith.” He was asked, “O Messenger of Allāh, how do we renew our faith?” He said, “By frequently repeating lā ilāha illā Allāh.”¹⁷⁶

The Muslim woman always seeks the help of Allāh (ﷻ) in strengthening and purifying her soul by constantly worshipping and remembering Allāh (ﷻ), checking herself, and keeping in mind at all times

¹⁷⁴ See Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 14/227, Kitāb al-salām, bāb taḥrīm al-kahanah wa ityan al-kahan.

¹⁷⁵ A ḥasan ḥadīth narrated by Abū Dāwūd, 4/21, in Kitāb al-ḥibb, bāb fi’l-kahin.

¹⁷⁶ Reported by Aḥmad (2/359) with a jayyid isnād.

what will please Allāh (ﷻ). So whatever pleases Him, she does, and what angers Him, she refrains from. Thus she will remain on the Straight Path, never deviating from it or doing wrong.

She Keeps Company with Righteous People and Joins Religious Gatherings

In order to attain this high status, the Muslim woman chooses righteous, Allāh-fearing friends, who will be true friends and offer sincere advice, and will not betray her in word or deed. Good friends have a great influence in keeping a Muslim woman on the Straight Path, and helping her to develop good habits and refined characteristics. A good friend - in most cases - mirrors one's behaviour and attitudes:

"Do not ask about a man: ask about his friends, for every friend follows his friends."¹⁷⁷

Mixing with decent people is an indication of one's good lineage and noble aims in life:

"By mixing with noble people you become one of them, so you should never regard anyone else as a friend."¹⁷⁸

So it is as essential to choose good friends as it is to avoid doing evil:

"If you mix with people, make friends with the best of them, do not make friends with the worst of them lest you become like them."¹⁷⁹

The Muslim woman is keen to attend gatherings where there is discussion of Islām and the greatness of its teachings regarding the individual, family and society, and where those present think of the power of Almighty Allāh (ﷻ) and His bountiful blessings to His creation, and encourage one another to obey His commandments, heed His prohibitions and seek refuge with Him. In such gatherings, hearts are softened, souls are purified, and a person's whole being is filled with the joy of faith.

So 'Abdullāh ibn Rawāḥah (رضي الله عنه), whenever he met one of the Companions of the Prophet (ﷺ), used to say, "Come, let us believe in our Rabb for a while." When the Prophet (ﷺ) heard about this, he said, "May Allāh have mercy on Ibn Rawāḥah, for he loves the gatherings that the angels feel proud to attend."¹⁸⁰

The rightly-guided khalīfah 'Umar al-Fārūq (رضي الله عنه) used to make the effort to take a regular break from his many duties and the burden of his position as ruler. He would take the hand of one or two men and say, "Come on, let us go and increase our faith," then they would remember Allāh (ﷻ).¹⁸¹

Even 'Umar (رضي الله عنه), who was so righteous and performed so many acts of worship, felt the need to purify his soul from time to time. He would remove himself for a while from the cares and worries of life, to refresh his soul and cleanse his heart. Likewise, Mu'ādh ibn Jabal (رضي الله عنه) would often say to his companions, when they were walking, "Let us sit down and believe for a while."¹⁸²

The Muslim is responsible for strengthening his soul and purifying his heart. He must always push himself to attain a higher level, and guard against slipping down:

﴿By the Soul, and the proportion and order given to it; and by its enlightenment as to its wrong and its right - truly he succeeds that purifies it, and he fails that corrupts it!﴾ (Qur'ān 91: 7-10)

So the Muslim woman is required to choose with care the best friends and attend the best gatherings, so that she will be in an environment which will increase her faith and taqwā:

﴿And keep your soul content with those who call on their Lord morning and evening, seeking His Face; and let not your eyes pass beyond them, seeking the pomp and glitter of this Life; nor obey any whose heart We have permitted to neglect the remembrance of Us, one who follows his own desires, whose case has gone beyond all bounds.﴾ (Qur'ān 18: 28)

¹⁷⁷ See 'Adiyy ibn Zāyd al-'Ibādi by the author, 172.

¹⁷⁸ Anonymous.

¹⁷⁹ See 'Adiyy ibn Zāyd al-'Ibādi by the author, 172.

¹⁸⁰ Reported by Aḥmad (3/265) with a ḥasan isnād.

¹⁸¹ Ḥayāt al-Ṣaḥābah, 3/329.

¹⁸² Ibid.

She Frequently Repeats du‘ā’s and Supplications Described in Ḥadīth

Another way in which the Muslim woman may strengthen her soul and connect her heart to Allāh (ﷻ) is by repeating the supplications which it is reported that the Prophet (ﷺ) used to say on various occasions. So there is a du‘ā for leaving the house, and others for entering the house, starting to eat, finishing a meal, wearing new clothes, lying down in bed, waking up from sleep, saying farewell to a traveller, welcoming a traveller back home, etc. There is hardly anything that the Prophet (ﷺ) did that he did not have a du‘ā for, through which he asked Allāh (ﷻ) to bless him in his endeavour, protect him from error, guide him to the truth, decree good for him and safeguard him from evil, as is explained in the books of ḥadīth narrated from the Prophet (ﷺ).¹⁸³ He used to teach these du‘ā’s and adhkār to his Companions, and encouraged them to repeat them at the appropriate times.

The true Muslim woman is keen to learn these du‘ā’s and adhkār, following the example of the Prophet (ﷺ) and his distinguished Companions, and she keeps repeating them at the appropriate times, as much as she is able. In this way, her heart will remain focused on Allāh (ﷻ), her soul will be cleansed and purified, and her īmān will increase.

The modern Muslim woman is in the utmost need of this spiritual nourishment, to polish her soul and keep her away from the temptations and unhealthy distractions of modern life, that could spell doom for women in societies which have deviated from the guidance of Allāh (ﷻ) and sent groups of women to Hell, as the Prophet (ﷺ) indicated: "I looked into Hell, and saw that the majority of its inhabitants were women."¹⁸⁴ The Muslim woman who understands the teachings of her religion looks where she is going and strives to increase her good deeds, so that she may be saved from the terrifying trap into which the devils among mankind and jinn in all times and places try to make women fall.

CHAPTER 3

The Muslim Woman and Her Parents

She Treats Them with Kindness and Respect (birr)

One of the main distinguishing characteristics of the true Muslim woman is her respectful and kind treatment of her parents. Islām encourages respect towards and kind treatment of parents in many definitive texts of the Qur’ān and Sunnah; any Muslim woman who reads these texts has no choice but to adhere to their teachings and treat her parents with kindness and respect, no matter what the circumstances or the state of the relationship between daughter and parents.

She Recognizes Their Status and Knows her Duties Towards Them

From her reading of the Qur’ān, the Muslim woman understands the high status to which Allāh (ﷻ) has raised parents, and that it is a status which mankind has never known except in Islām, which has placed respect for parents just one step below belief in Allāh (ﷻ) and true worship of Him. Many āyāt of the Qur’ān describe pleasing one’s parents as coming second only to pleasing Allāh (ﷻ), and confirm that treating parents well is the best of good deeds after having faith in Allāh (ﷻ).

﴿Worship Allāh, and join not any partners with Him; and do good, to parents...﴾ (Qur’ān 4: 36)

So the Muslim woman who truly understands the teachings of her religion is kinder and more respectful towards her parents than any other woman in the world; this does not stop when she leaves the home to marry and start her own family, and has her own, independent, busy life. Her respect and kindness towards her parents are ongoing and will remain an important part of her behaviour until the end of her life, in accordance with the Qur'ānic teaching which has enjoined kind treatment of parents for life, especially when they reach old age and become incapacitated and are most in need of kind words and good care:

¹⁸³ See, for example, Al-Adhkar by Al-Nawawī and Fortification of the Muslim by Sa‘eed Ibn ‘Ali Ibn Wahf Al-Qahtānī.

¹⁸⁴ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 17/53, Kitāb al-riqaq, bāb akthar ahl al-jannah al-fuqarā wa akthar ahl al-nār al-nisā’.

﴿Your Rabb has decreed that you worship none but Him, and that you be kind to parents. Whether one or both of them attain old age in your life, say not to them a word of contempt, nor repel them, but address them in terms of honour. And, out of kindness, lower to them the wing of humility, and say, 'My Rabb ! Bestow on them Your Mercy even as they cherished me in childhood.'﴾ (Qur'ān 17: 23-24)

The Muslim woman whose heart has been illuminated with the light of Qur'ānic guidance is always receptive and responsive to this divine instruction, which she reads in the āyāt that enjoin good treatment of parents. So her kindness and respect towards them will increase, and she will be even more devoted to serving them. She will do her utmost to please them, even if she has a husband, house, children and other responsibilities of her own:

﴿Worship Allāh, and join not any partners with Him; and do good - to parents...﴾ (Qur'ān 4: 36)

﴿We have enjoined on man kindness to parents...﴾ (Qur'ān 29: 8)

﴿And We have enjoined on man [to be good] to his parents: in travail upon travail did his mother bear him﴾ (Qur'ān 31: 14)

Anyone who looks into the Islāmic sources regarding the kind treatment of parents will also find plenty of ḥadīth that reinforce the message of the āyāt quoted above and reiterate the virtue of kindness and respect towards one's parents, as well as warning against disobedience or mistreatment of them for any reason whatsoever.

'Abdullāh ibn Mas'ūd said:

"I asked the Prophet (ﷺ), 'Which deed is most liked by Allāh (ﷻ)?' He said, 'Prayer offered on time.' I asked him, 'Then what?' He said, 'Kindness and respect towards parents.' I asked him, 'Then what?' He said, 'Jihād for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ).'"¹⁸⁵

The Prophet (ﷺ), this great educator, placed kindness and respect towards parents between two of the greatest deeds in Islām: prayer offered on time and jihād for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ). Prayer is the pillar or foundation of the faith, and jihād is the pinnacle of Islām. What a high status the Prophet (ﷺ) has given to parents!

A man came to the Prophet (ﷺ) to "make bay'ah" and to pledge to undertake hijrah and jihād in the hope of receiving reward from Allāh (ﷻ). The Prophet (ﷺ) did not rush to accept his bay'ah, but asked him, "Are either of your parents alive?" The man said, "Yes, both of them." The Prophet (ﷺ) asked, "And do you wish to receive reward from Allāh (ﷻ)?" The man replied, "Yes." So the kindhearted and compassionate Prophet (ﷺ) told him, "Go back to your parents and keep them company in the best possible way."¹⁸⁶

According to a report narrated by Bukhārī and Muslim, a man came and asked the Prophet (ﷺ) for permission to participate in jihād. He asked him, "Are your parents alive?" The man said, "Yes," so the Prophet (ﷺ) told him, "So perform jihād by taking care of them."¹⁸⁷

In the midst of preparing his army for jihād, the Prophet (ﷺ) did not forget the weakness of parents and their claims on their children, so he gently discouraged this volunteer and reminded him to take care of his parents, despite the fact that he needed all the manpower he could get for the forthcoming jihād. This is because he understood the importance of respect and kind treatment of parents, and knew its position in the overall Islāmic framework that Allāh (ﷻ) has designed for the well being and happiness of mankind.

When the mother of Sa'd ibn Abī Waqqas objected to her son's embracing Islām, she told him: "Give up Islām, or I will go on hunger strike until I die. Then you will feel shame before the Arabs, as they will say that he killed his mother.” Sa’d told her, “You should know that, by Allāh (ﷻ), even if you had a hundred souls, and they left your body one by one, I would never give up Islām.” Then Allāh (ﷻ) revealed an āyah which the Prophet (ﷺ) recited to the Muslims, in which Sa’d was rebuked for the harshness of his reply to his mother:

¹⁸⁵ (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 2/176, Kitāb al-ṣalāh, bāb fadl al-ṣalawāt al-khams.

¹⁸⁶ (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyād al-Ṣaliḥīn, 191, bāb birr al-wālidayn.

¹⁸⁷ See Riyād al-saliḥīn, 191, bāb birr al-wālidayn

﴿But if they strive to make you join in worship with Me things of which you have no knowledge, obey them not; yet bear them company in this life with justice [and consideration]...﴾ (Qur’ān 31: 15)

The story of the devoted worshipper Jurayj, which was told by the Prophet (ﷺ), is a vivid illustration of the importance of respecting one’s parents and being quick to obey them. One day his mother called him whilst he was praying, and he wondered, “My Rabb, my mother or my prayer?” He chose to continue his prayer (rather than answering his mother). She called him a second time, but he continued praying and did not answer her. Then she called him a third time, and when he did not respond she prayed to Allāh (ﷻ) not to let him die until he had seen the face of a prostitute. There was a prostitute in that locality who had committed adultery with a shepherd and become pregnant. When she realised that she was with child, the shepherd told her: “If you are asked about the father of the baby, say it is Jurayj, the devoted worshipper.” This is what she said, so the people went and destroyed the place where he used to pray. The ruler brought him to the public square, and on the way Jurayj remembered his mother’s prayer and smiled. When he was brought forth to be punished, he asked for permission to pray two rak‘ahs, then he asked for the infant to be brought forth and whispered in his ear, “Who is your father?” The infant said, “My father is so-and-so, the shepherd.”¹⁸⁸ The people exclaimed “Lā ilaha illa-Allāh” and “Allāhu akbar!” They told Jurayj, “We will rebuild your prayer-place with silver and gold!” He said, “No, just rebuild it as it was, with bricks and mortar.” Concerning this story, which is reported by Bukhārī, the Prophet (ﷺ) said: “If Jurayj had sound knowledge, he would have known that answering his mother was more important than continuing his prayer.”¹⁸⁹ Hence the fuqahā suggested that if one is praying a nafl prayer and one of one’s parents calls one, one is obliged to stop one’s prayer and answer them.

The duty to treat one’s parents with kindness and respect sunk into the consciousness of the Muslims, so they hastened to treat their parents well both during their lives and after their deaths. There are many reports and Ḥadīth that indicate this, for example the report that describes how a woman of Juhaynah came to the Prophet (ﷺ) and said: “My mother made a vow (ḥadhr) to perform Ḥajj but she did not perform Ḥajj before she died. May I perform Ḥajj on her behalf?” He said, “Yes, go and perform Ḥajj on her behalf. If you knew that your mother had a debt, would you not pay it off for her? Pay off what is due to Allāh (ﷻ), for Allāh (ﷻ) has more right to be paid off.”¹⁹⁰

According to a report given by Muslim, she asked, “She owed a month’s fasting, so may I fast on her behalf?” The Prophet (ﷺ) said, “Fast on her behalf.” She said, “She never performed Ḥajj, so may I perform Ḥajj on her behalf?” He said, “Perform Ḥajj on her behalf.”¹⁹¹

She is Kind and Respectful Towards Her Parents Even if They Are Not Muslim

The Prophet (ﷺ) raised his teachings to a new peak when he enjoined his followers to treat their parents with kindness and respect even if they were adherents of a religion other than Islam. This is clear from the ḥadīth of Asmā bint Abī Bakr al-Ṣiddīq, who said:

“My mother came to me, and she was amushrik at the time of the Prophet (ﷺ). I asked the Prophet (ﷺ), ‘My mother has come to me and needs my help, so should I help her?’ He said, ‘Yes, keep in touch with your mother and help her.’”¹⁹²

¹⁸⁸ This child is one of the three who spoke in the cradle. The other two are ‘Eesa ibn Maryam (Jesus the son of Mary) and the child who was with his mother among the people of Al-Ukhduḍ (the ditch). [Author]

¹⁸⁹ See Fatḥ al-Bārī, 3/78, Kitāb al-‘aml fi’l-ṣalāh, bāb idha da‘at al-umm waladaha fi’l-ṣalāh, and 5/136, Kitāb al-mazalim, bāb idha hadama ha’itan falyabni ghayrahu.

¹⁹⁰ See Fatḥ al-Bārī, 4/64, Kitāb juz’ al-sayd, bāb al-hajj wa’l-nudhur.

¹⁹¹ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 8/25, Kitāb al-ṣīyam, bāb qada’ al-ṣawm ‘an al-mayit.

¹⁹² (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 13/13, Kitāb al-birr wa’l-silah, bāb ṣilat al-wālid al-mushrik.

The true Muslim who understands the meaning of this Qur'ānic guidance and the teachings of the Prophet (ﷺ) cannot but be the best and kindest of all people towards his parents, at all times. This is the practice of the Ṣaḥābah and those who followed them sincerely. A man asked Sa'īd ibn Musayyab (رضي الله عنه): "I understood all of the ayāh about kindness and respect towards parents, apart from the phrase 'but address them in terms of honour.' How can I address them in terms of honour?" Sa'īd replied: "It means that you should address them as a servant addresses his master." Ibn Sīrīn (رضي الله عنه) used to speak to his mother in a soft voice, like that of a sick person, out of respect for her.

She is Extremely Reluctant to Disobey Them

Just as the Muslim woman hastens to treat her parents with kindness and respect, she is also afraid to commit the sin of disobeying them, because she realises the enormity of this sin which is counted as one of the major sins (Al-kabā'ir). She is aware of the frightening picture which Islām paints of the one who disobeys her parents, and this stirs her conscience and softens any hardness of heart or harsh feelings that she might be harbouring.

Islām draws a comparison between disobedience towards one's parents and the crime of associating partners with Allāh (ﷻ), just as it establishes a link between true faith in Allāh (ﷻ) and respectful treatment of parents. Disobedience to one's parents is a heinous crime, which the true Muslim woman is loath to commit, for it is the greatest of major sins and the worst of errors.

Abū Bakrah Nufay' ibn al-Hārith said:

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) asked us three times, 'Shall I tell you the greatest sins?' We said, 'Yes, O Messenger of Allāh.' He said, 'Associating partners with Allāh (ﷻ) and disobeying one's parents.'"¹⁹³

Her Mother Comes First, Then Her Father

Islām has encouraged respect and kindness towards parents. Some texts deal with the mother and father separately, but taken all together, the texts enjoin a healthy balance in children's attention to their parents, so that respect to one parent will not be at the expense of the other. Some texts further confirm that the mother should be given precedence over the father.

So, as we have seen, when a man came to give bay'ah and pledge to take part in jihād, the Prophet (ﷺ) asked him, "Are either of your parents alive?" This indicates that the Muslim is obliged to treat both parents equally well. Similarly, Asmā was ordered to keep in contact with her mushrik mother.

A man came to the Prophet (ﷺ) and asked him, "O Messenger of Allāh (ﷻ), who among people is most deserving of my good company?" He said, "Your mother." The man asked, "Then who?" The Prophet (ﷺ) said, "Your mother." The man asked, "Then who?" The Prophet (ﷺ) said, "Your mother." The man asked, "Then who?" The Prophet (ﷺ) said, "Then your father."¹⁹⁴

This Ḥadīth confirms that the Prophet (ﷺ) gave precedence to kind treatment of one's mother over kind treatment of one's father, and the Ṣaḥābah used to remind the Muslims of this after the death of the Prophet (ﷺ). Ibn 'Abbās, a great scholar and faqīh of this ummah, considered kind treatment of one's mother to be the best deed to bring one closer to Allāh (ﷻ). A man came to him and said, "I asked for a woman's hand in marriage, and she refused me. Someone else asked for her hand and she accepted and married him. I felt jealous, so I killed her. Will my repentance be accepted?" Ibn 'Abbās asked, "Is your mother still alive?" He said, "No." So he told him, "Repent to Allāh (ﷻ) and do your best to draw close to Him."

'Atā ibn Yassar, who narrated this report from Ibn 'Abbās, said: "I went and asked Ibn 'Abbās, 'Why did you ask him if his mother was still alive?' He said, 'Because I know of no other deed that brings people closer to Allāh (ﷻ) than kind treatment and respect towards one's mother.'"¹⁹⁵

Imām Bukhārī opens his book Al-Adab al-Mufrad with a chapter on respect and kindness towards parents (birr ul-wālidayn), in which he places the section on good treatment of the mother before that on good treatment of the father, consistent with the teachings of the Prophet (ﷺ).

¹⁹³ (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 13/15, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-ṣilah, bāb taḥrīm al-'uqūq.

¹⁹⁴ (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 13/4, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-ṣilah, bāb birr al-wālidayn.

¹⁹⁵ Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adab al-Mufrad, 1/45, bāb birr ul-umm.

The Qur'ān evokes feelings of love and respect in the heart of the child, and encourages him or her to treat parents well. It refers to the mother being given precedence because of pregnancy and breast-feeding, and the pains and trials that she suffers during these two stages, in a most gentle and compassionate way. It recognizes her noble sacrifice and great tenderness and care:

﴿And We have enjoined on man [to be good] to his parents: in travail upon travail did his mother bear him, and in years twain was his weaning: [hear the command]: 'Show gratitude to Me and to your parents: to Me is [your final] Goal.'﴾ (Qur'ān 31: 14)

What supreme teaching! What humane, compassionate direction: "Show gratitude to Me and to your parents." Showing gratitude to parents for what they have done for their child comes second only to showing gratitude to Allāh (ﷻ), and is one of the best righteous deeds. What a high status this religion gives to parents!

Ibn 'Umar saw a Yemerī man circumambulating the Ka'bah, carrying his mother. The man said to him, "I am like a tame camel for her: I have carried her more than she carried me. Do you think I have paid her back, O Ibn 'Umar?" He replied, "No, not even one contraction!"¹⁹⁶

Every time 'Umar ibn al-Khaṭṭāb (رضي الله عنه) saw the reinforcements from Yemen, he asked them, "Is Uways ibn 'Āmir among you?" - until he found Uways. He asked him, "Are you Uways ibn 'Āmir?" Uways said, "Yes." 'Umar asked, "Are you from the clan of Murād in the tribe of Qaran?" Uways said, "Yes." 'Umar asked, "Did you have leprosy, then you were cured of it except for an area the size of dirham? Uways said, "Yes." 'Umar asked, "Do you have a mother?" Uways said, "Yes." 'Umar said: "I heard the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) say: 'There will come to you with the reinforcements from Yemen a man called Uways ibn 'Āmir of the clan of Murād from the tribe of Qaran. He had leprosy but has been cured of it except for a spot the size of a dirham. He has a mother, and he has always treated her with kindness and respect. If he prays to Allāh (ﷻ), Allāh (ﷻ) will fulfil his wish. If you can ask him to pray for forgiveness for you, then do so.' So ask Allāh (ﷻ) to forgive me." Uways asked Allāh (ﷻ) to forgive him, then 'Umar asked him, "Where are you going?" Uways said, "To Kūfah." 'Umar said, "Shall I write a letter of recommendation for you to the governor there?" Uways said, "I prefer to be anonymous among the people."¹⁹⁷

What a high status Uways reached by virtue of his kindness and respect towards his mother, so that the Prophet (ﷺ) recommended his Ṣaḥābah to seek him out and ask him to pray for them!

All of this indicates the high status to which Islām has raised the position of motherhood, and given the mother precedence over the father. At the same time, Islām has given importance to both parents, and has enjoined kindness and respect to both.

A woman may enjoy a life of ease and luxury in her husband's home, and may be kept so busy with her husband and growing children that she has little time to spare for her parents, and neglects to check on them and treat them well.

But the true Muslim woman is safe from such errors, as she reads the recommendations of the Qur'ān and Sunnah concerning parents. So she pays attention to them, constantly checking on them and hastening to treat them well, as much as her energy, time and circumstances permit, and as much as she can.

She Treats Parents Kindly

The Muslim woman who has embraced the values of Islām is kind and respectful towards her parents, treating them well and choosing the best ways to speak to them and deal with them. She speaks to them with all politeness and respect, and surrounds them with all honour and care, lowering to them the wing of humility, as commanded by Allāh (ﷻ) in the Qur'ān. She never utters a word of contempt or complaint to them, no matter what the circumstances, always heeding the words of Allāh (ﷻ):

﴿Your Rabb has decreed that you worship none but Him, and that you be kind to parents. Whether one or both of them attain old age in your life, say not to them a word of contempt, nor repel them, but address them in terms of honour. And, out of kindness, lower to them the wing of humility, and say: 'My Rabb ! Bestow on them Your mercy even as they cherished me in childhood.' ﴿Qur'ān 17: 23-24﴾

¹⁹⁶ Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adab al-Mufrad, 1/62, bāb jaza' al-wālidayn.

¹⁹⁷ See Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/95, Kitāb fada'il al-ṣaḥābah, bāb min fada'il Uways al-Qarani.

If one or both parents are deviating from true Islām in some way, the dutiful Muslim daughter should, in this case, approach them in a gentle and sensitive manner, so as to dissuade them from their error. She should not condemn them harshly, but should try to convince them with solid proof, sound logic, wise words and patience, until they turn to the truth in which she believes.

The Muslim woman is required to treat her parents well, even if they are mushrikān. She does not forget that she is obliged to treat them well in spite of their shirk. Although she knows that shirk is the worst of major sins, this does not prevent her from treating her parents well according to the uniquely tolerant sharī'ah of Islām:

﴿And We have enjoined on man [to be good] to his parents: in travail upon travail did his mother bear him, and in years twain was his weaning: [hear the command], 'Show gratitude to Me and to your parents: to Me is [your final] Goal.' But if they strive to make you join in worship with Me things of which you have no knowledge, obey them not; yet bear them company in this life with justice [and consideration], and follow the way of those who turn to Me [in love]: in the End the return of you all is to Me, and I will tell you the truth [and meaning] of all that you did.﴾ (Qur'ān 31: 14-15)

Kindness and respect towards parents is an important matter in Islām, because it springs from the strongest of human ties, the bond of a child to his or her mother and father. But this bond, great as it is, must come second to the bonds of faith. If the parents are mushrikān, and order their son or daughter to join them in their shirk, then the child must not obey them. There is no obedience to a created being in disobeying the Creator; no other bond may supersede that of faith and belief in Allāh (ﷻ). However, children are still obliged to honour and take care of their parents.

The Muslim woman is kind and respectful towards her parents in all circumstances, and she spares no effort to make them happy, as much as she can and within the limits of Islām. So she checks on them from time to time, offers her services, visits them often and greets them with a cheerful smile, a loving heart, delightful gifts and words of kindness.

This is how she cares for them during their lives. After their death, she shows her love and respect by praying for them, giving charity on their behalf, and paying off whatever debts they may owe to Allāh (ﷻ) or to other people.

Treating parents with kindness and respect is one of the essential attitudes of Muslim men and women. This noble attitude should be ongoing and should continue, no matter how complicated life becomes, no matter how high the cost of living rises, and no matter how many burdens or responsibilities a person has.

This attitude is an indication of the rich emotions that still exist in Muslim lands, Al-ḥamdu-lillāh, and it is proof of the gratitude which Muslim men and women feel towards the older generation which has made so many sacrifices for them when they themselves were most in need of kind words, consolation and a helping hand.

This attitude will protect a person, man or woman, from hard-heartedness and ingratitude. What is more, it will open to them the gates of Paradise.

CHAPTER 4

The Muslim Woman and Her Husband Marriage in Islām

In Islām, marriage is a blessed contract between a man and a woman, in which each becomes "permitted" to the other, and they begin the long journey of life in a spirit of love, co-operation, harmony and tolerance, where each feels at ease with the other, and finds tranquillity, contentment and comfort in the company of the other. The Qur'ān has described this relationship between men and women, which brings love, harmony, trust and compassion, in the most moving and eloquent terms:

﴿And among His Signs is this, that He created for you mates from among yourselves, that you may dwell in tranquillity with them, and He has put love and mercy between your [hearts]...﴾ (Qur'ān 30: 21)

This is the strongest of bonds, in which Allāh (ﷻ) unites the two Muslim partners, who come together on the basis of love, understanding, co-operation and mutual advice, and establish a Muslim family in which children will live and grow up, and they will develop the good character and behaviour taught by Islām. The Muslim family is the strongest component of a Muslim society when its members are productive and constructive, helping and encouraging one another to be good and righteous, and competing with one another in good works.

The righteous woman is the pillar, cornerstone and foundation of the Muslim family. She is seen as the greatest joy in a man's life, as the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"This world is just temporary conveniences, and the best comfort in this world is a righteous woman."¹⁹⁸

A righteous woman is the greatest blessing that Allāh (ﷻ) can give to a man, for with her he can find comfort and rest after the exhausting struggle of earning a living. With his wife, he can find incomparable tranquillity and pleasure.

How can a woman be the best comfort in this world? How can she be a successful woman, true to her own femininity, and honoured and loved? This is what will be explained in the following pages:

She Chooses a Good Husband

One of the ways in which Islām has honoured woman is by giving her the right to choose her husband. Her parents have no right to force her to marry someone she dislikes. The Muslim woman knows this right, but she does not reject the advice and guidance of her parents when a potential suitor comes along, because they have her best interests at heart, and they have more experience of life and people. At the same time, she does not forego this right because of her father's wishes that may make him force his daughter into a marriage with someone she dislikes.

There are many texts that support the woman in this sensitive issue, for example the report quoted by Imām Bukhārī from al-Khansā bint Khidam:

"My father married me to his nephew, and I did not like this match, so I complained to the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ). He said to me: 'Accept what your father has arranged.' I said, 'I do not wish to accept what my father has arranged.' He said, 'Then this marriage is invalid, go and marry whomever you wish.' I said, 'I have accepted what my father has arranged, but I wanted women to know that fathers have no right in their daughter's matters (i.e. they have no right to force a marriage on them).'"¹⁹⁹

At first, the Prophet (ﷺ) told Al-Khansā to obey her father, and this is as it should be, because the concern of fathers for their daughters' well-being is well-known. But when he realized that her father wanted to force her into a marriage she did not want, he gave her the freedom to choose, and saved her from the oppression of a father who wanted to force her into an unwanted marriage.

Islām does not want to impose an unbearable burden on women by forcing them to marry a man they dislike, because it wants marriages to be successful, based on compatibility between the partners; there should be common ground between them in terms of physical looks, attitudes, habits, inclinations and aspirations. If something goes wrong, and the woman feels that she cannot love her husband sincerely, and fears that she may commit the sin of disobeying and opposing this husband whom she does not love, then she may ask for a divorce. This is confirmed by the report in which the wife of Thābit ibn Qays ibn Shammās, Jamīlah the sister of 'Abdullāh ibn Ubayy, came to the Prophet (ﷺ) and said:

"O Messenger of Allāh, I have nothing against Thābit ibn Qays as regards his religion or his behaviour, but I hate to commit any act of kufr when I am a Muslim. The Prophet (ﷺ) said: "Will you give his garden back to him?"

¹⁹⁸ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim 10/56, Kitāb al-rida', bāb istiḥbāb nikah al-bikr.

¹⁹⁹ See Fatḥ al-Bārī, 9/194, Kitāb al-nikah, bāb ikrah al-bint 'ala al-zawaj; Ibn Mājah, 1/602, Kitāb al-nikah, bāb man zawwaja ibnatahu wa hiya karihah; Al-Mabsūṭ 5/2.

- her mahr had been a garden. She said, "Yes." So the Messenger of Allāh sent word to him: "Take back your garden, and give her one pronouncement of divorce."²⁰⁰

According to a report given by Bukhārī from Ibn ‘Abbās, she said, "I do not blame Thābit for anything with regard to his religion or his behaviour, but I do not like him."

Islām has protected woman’s pride and humanity, and has respected her wishes with regard to the choice of a husband with whom she will spend the rest of her life. It is not acceptable for anyone, no matter who he is, to force a woman into a marriage with a man she does not like.

There is no clearer indication of this than the story of Barirah, an Ethiopian slave-girl who belonged to ‘Utbah ibn Abū Lahab, who forced her to marry another slave whose name was Mughīth. She would never have accepted him as a husband if she had been in control of her own affairs. ‘Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) took pity on her, so she bought her and set her free. Then this young woman felt that she was free and in control of her own affairs, and that she could take a decision about her marriage. She asked her husband for a divorce. Her husband used to follow her, weeping, whilst she rejected him. Bukhārī quotes Ibn ‘Abbās describing this freed woman who insisted on the annulment of her marriage to someone she did not love; the kind-hearted Prophet (ﷺ) commented on this moving sight, and sought to intervene.

Ibn ‘Abbās said:

"Barirah's husband was a slave, who was known as Mughīth. I can almost see him, running after her and crying, with tears running down onto his beard. The Prophet (ﷺ) said to 'Abbās, 'O 'Abbās, do you not find it strange, how much Mughīth loves Barirah, and how much Barirah hates Mughīth?' The Prophet (ﷺ) said (to Barirah), 'Why do you not go back to him?' She said, 'O Messenger of Allāh, are you commanding me to do so?' He said, 'I am merely trying to intervene on his behalf.' She said, 'I have no need of him.'"²⁰¹

The Prophet (ﷺ) was deeply moved by this display of human emotion: deep and overwhelming love on the part of the husband, and equally powerful hatred on the part of the wife. He could not help but remind the wife, and ask her why she did not go back to him, as he was her husband and the father of her child. This believing woman asked him, whether he was ordering her to do so: was this a command, a binding obligation? The Prophet (ﷺ), this great law-giver and educator, replied that he was merely trying to intercede and bring about reconciliation if possible; he was not trying to force anybody to do something they did not wish to.

Let those stubborn, hard-hearted fathers who oppress their own daughters listen to the teaching of the Prophet (ﷺ)!

The Muslim woman who understands the teachings of her religion has wise and correct standards when it comes to choosing a husband. She does not concern herself just with good looks, high status, a luxurious lifestyle or any of the other things that usually attract women. She looks into his level of religious commitment and his attitude and behaviour, because these are the pillars of a successful marriage, and the best features of a husband. Islām teaching indicates the importance of these qualities in a potential husband, as Islām obliges a woman to accept the proposal of anyone who has these qualities, lest fitnah and corruption become widespread in society:

"If there comes to you one with whose religion and attitude you are satisfied, then give your daughter to him in marriage, for if you do not do so, fitnah and mischief will become widespread on earth."²⁰²

Just as the true Muslim young man will not be attracted to the pretty girls who have grown up in a bad environment, so the Muslim young woman who is guided by her religion will not be attracted to stupid "play-boy" types, no matter how handsome they may be. Rather she will be attracted to the serious, educated, believing man who is clean-living and pure of heart, whose behaviour is good and whose understanding of religion is sound. No-one is a suitable partner for the good, believing woman except a good, believing man; and no-one is a suitable partner for the wayward, immoral woman but a wayward, immoral man, as Allāh (ﷻ) has said:

²⁰⁰ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 9/395, Kitāb al-talāq, bāb al-khul'.

²⁰¹ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 9/408, Kitāb al-talāq, bāb shafa'at al-Nabi (ﷺ) fi zawj Barirah.

²⁰² A ḥasan ḥadīth narrated by Tirmidhī, 2/274, Abwāb al-nikāh, 3; And by Ibn Mājah, 1/633, Kitāb al-nikāh, bāb al-akfā.

﴿Women impure are for men impure, and men impure for women impure, and women of purity are for men of purity, and men of purity are for women of purity...﴾ (Qur'ān 24: 26)

This does not mean that the Muslim woman should completely ignore the matter of physical appearance, and put up with unattractiveness or ugliness. It is her right - as stated above - to marry a man for whom her heart may be filled with love, and who is pleasing to her both in his appearance and in his conduct. Appearance should not be neglected at the expense of inner nature, or vice versa. A woman should choose a man who is attractive to her in all aspects, one who will gain her admiration and respect. The true Muslim woman is never dazzled by outward appearances, and she never lets them distract her from seeing the essence of a potential spouse.

The Muslim woman knows that the man has the right of qiwāmah over her, as the Qur'ān says:

﴿Men are the protectors and maintainers [qawwāmūn] of women, because Allāh has given the one more [strength] than the other, and because they support them from their means...﴾ (Qur'ān 4: 34)

Hence she wants to marry a man of whose qiwāmah over her she will feel proud, one whom she will be happy to marry and never regret it. She wants a man who will take her hand in his and set out to fulfil their life's mission of establishing a Muslim family and raising a new generation of intelligent and caring children, in an atmosphere of love and harmony, which will not be impeded by conflicting attitudes or religious differences. Believing men and believing women are supposed to walk side-by-side on the journey of life, which is a serious matter for the believer, so that they may fulfil the great mission with which Allāh (ﷻ) has entrusted mankind, men and women alike, as the Qur'ān says:

﴿For Muslim men and women - for believing men and women, for devout men and women, for true men and women, for men and women who are constant and patient, for men and women who humble themselves, for men and women who give in charity, for men and women who fast [and deny themselves], for men and women who guard their chastity, and for men and women who engage much in Allāh's praise - for them has Allāh prepared forgiveness and great reward.﴾ (Qur'ān 33: 35)

In order to achieve this great goal of strengthening the marriage bond, and establishing a stable family life, it is essential to choose the right partner in the first place.

Among the great Muslim women who are known for their strength of character, lofty aspirations and far-sightedness in their choice of a husband is Umm Sulaym bint Miḥān, who was one of the first Anṣār women to embrace Islām. She was married to Mālik ibn Naḍar, and bore him a son, Anas. When she embraced Islām, her husband Mālik was angry with her, and left her, but she persisted in her Islām. Shortly afterwards, she heard the news of his death, and she was still in the flower of her youth. She bore it all with the hope of reward, for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ), and devoted herself to taking care of her ten-year-old son Anas. She took him to the Prophet (ﷺ), so that he could serve him (and learn from him).

One of the best young men of Madīnah, one of the best-looking, richest and strongest, came to seek her hand in marriage. This was Abū Ṭalḥah - before he became Muslim. Many of the young women of Yathrib (Madīnah) liked him because of his wealth, strength and youthful good looks, and he thought that Umm Sulaym would joyfully rush to accept his offer. But to his astonishment, she told him, "O Abū Ṭalḥah, do you not know that your god whom you worship is just a tree that grew in the ground and was carved into shape by the slave of Banū so-and-so." He said, "Of course." She said, "Do you not feel ashamed to prostrate yourself to a piece of wood that grew in the ground and was carved by the slave of Banū so-and-so?" Abū Ṭalḥah was stubborn, and hinted to her of an expensive dowry and luxurious lifestyle, but she persisted in her point of view, and told him frankly: "O Abū Ṭalḥah, a man like you could not be turned away, but you are a disbelieving man, and I am a Muslim woman. It is not permitted for me to marry you, but if you were to embrace Islām, that would be my dowry (mahr), and I would ask you for nothing more."²⁰³

He returned the following day to try to tempt her with a larger dowry and more generous gift, but she stood firm, and her persistence and maturity only enhanced her beauty in his eyes. She said to him, "O Abū Ṭalḥah, do you not know that your god whom you worship was carved by the carpenter slave of so-and-so?"

²⁰³ Reported by An-Nisā'ī with a ṣaḥīḥ isnād, 6/114, Kitāb al-nikāḥ, bāb al-tazwīj 'ala'l-Islām.

If you were to set it alight, it would burn.” Her words came as a shock to Abū Ṭalḥah, and he asked himself, Does the Lord burn? Then he uttered the words: “Ashhadu an lā ilaha illā-Allāh wa ashhadu anna Muhammadan rasul-Allāh.”

Then Umm Sulaym said to her son Anas, with joy flooding her entire being, “O Anas, marry me to Abū Ṭalḥah.” So Anas brought witnesses and the marriage was solemnized.

Abū Ṭalḥah was so happy that he was determined to put all his wealth at Umm Sulaym’s disposal, but hers was the attitude of the selfless, proud, sincere believing woman. She told him, “O Abū Ṭalḥah, I married you for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ), and I will not take any other dowry.” She knew that when Abū Ṭalḥah embraced Islām, she did not only win herself a worthy husband, but she also earned a reward from Allāh (ﷻ) that was better than owning red camels (the most highly-prized kind) in this world, as she had heard the Prophet (ﷺ) say:

“If Allāh (ﷻ) were to guide one person to Islām through you, it is better for you than owning red camels.”
204

Such great Muslim women are examples worthy of emulation, from whom Muslim women may learn purity of faith, strength of character, soundness of belief and wisdom in choosing a husband.

She is Obedient to her Husband and Shows him Respect

The true Muslim woman is always obedient to her husband, provided that no sin is involved. She is respectful towards him and is always eager to please him and make him happy. If he is poor, she does not complain about his being unable to spend much. She does not complain about her housework, because she remembers that many of the virtuous women in Islāmic history set an example of patience, goodness and a positive attitude in serving their husbands and taking care of their homes despite the poverty and hardships they faced. One of the foremost of these exemplary wives is Fāṭimah al-Zahrā, the daughter of Muhammad (ﷺ) and the wife of ‘Ali ibn Abī Ṭālib (ﷺ). She used to complain of the pain in her hands caused by grinding grain with the hand-mill. Her husband ‘Ali ibn Abī Ṭālib said to her one day, “Your father has brought some female slaves, so go and ask him for one of them to come and serve you.” She went to her father, but she felt too shy to ask him for what she wanted. ‘Ali went and asked him to provide a servant for his beloved daughter, but the Prophet (ﷺ) could not respond to those who were most dear to him whilst ignoring the needs of the poor among the Muslims, so he came to his daughter and her husband and said: “Shall I not teach you something that is better than that for which you asked me? When you go to bed at night, say ‘Subḥān Allāh’ thirty-three times, ‘Al-hamdu lillāh’ thirty-three times, and ‘Allāhu akbar’ thirty-four times. This is better for you than a servant.”

Then he bid them farewell and left, after instilling in them this divine help which would make them forget their tiredness and help them to overcome their exhaustion.

‘Ali (ﷺ) began to repeat the words that the Prophet (ﷺ) had taught him. He said, “I never stopped doing that after he had taught me these words.” One of his companions asked him, “Not even on the night of Ṣiffīn?” He said, “Not even on the night of Ṣiffīn.”²⁰⁵

Asmā bint Abī Bakr al-Ṣiddīq served her husband Al-Zubayr, and took care of the house. Her husband had a horse, which she took care of, feeding it and exercising it. She also repaired the water-bucket, made bread, and carried dates on her head from far away. Bukhārī and Muslim report this in her own words:

“Al-Zubayr married me, and he had no wealth, no slaves, nothing except his horse. I used to feed his horse, looking after it and exercising it. I crushed datestones to feed his camel. I used to bring water and repair the bucket, and I used to make bread but I could not bake it, so some of my Anṣārī neighbours, who were kind women, used to bake it for me. I used to carry the dates from the garden that the Prophet (ﷺ) had given to Al-Zubayr on my head, and this garden was two-thirds of a farsakh (more than a kilometre) away. One day I was coming back with the dates on my head. I met the Messenger of Allāh, who had a group of his Companions with him. He called me, then told his camel to sit down so that I could ride behind him. I told (Al-Zubayr), 'I felt shy, because I know that you are a jealous man.' He said, 'It is worse for me to see you carrying the dates on your head than to see you riding behind him.' Later, Abū Bakr sent me a servant, who relieved me of having to take care of the horse; it was as if I had been released from slavery."²⁰⁶

²⁰⁴ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 7/476, Kitāb al-maghazi, bāb ghazwat Khaybar.

²⁰⁵ See Fatḥ al-Bārī, 7/71, Kitāb fada’il al-Ṣaḥābah, bāb manaqib ‘Ali ibn Abī Ṭālib; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 17/45, Kitāb al-dhikr wa’l-du’a’, bāb al-tasbīḥ awwal al-nahar wa’ind al-nawm.

The true Muslim woman devotes herself to taking care of her house and husband. She knows her husband's rights over her, and how great they are, as was confirmed by the Prophet's words:

"No human being is permitted to prostrate to another, but if this were permitted I would have ordered wives to prostrate to their husbands, because of the greatness of the rights they have over them."²⁰⁷

And:

"If I were to order anyone to prostrate to anyone else, I would have ordered women to prostrate to their husbands."²⁰⁸

'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) asked the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ): "Who has the greatest rights over a woman?" He said, "Her husband." She asked, "And who has the greatest rights over a man?" He said, "His mother."²⁰⁹

A woman came to ask the Prophet (ﷺ) about some matter, and when he had dealt with it, he asked her, "Do you have a husband?" She said, "Yes." He asked her, "How are you with him?" She said, "I never fall short in my duties, except for that which is beyond me." He said, "Pay attention to how you treat him, for he is your Paradise and your Hell."²¹⁰

How can the Muslim woman complain about taking care of her house and husband when she hears these words of Prophetic guidance? She should fulfil her household duties and take care of her husband in a spirit of joy, because she is not carrying a tiresome burden, she is doing work in her home that she knows will bring reward from Allāh (ﷻ).

The Ṣahābah, may Allāh (ﷻ) be pleased with them, and those who followed them understood this Islāmic teaching and transmitted it from the Prophet (ﷺ). When a bride was prepared for marriage, she would be told to serve her husband and take care of his rights. Thus the Muslim woman knew her duties towards her husband, and down through the ages caring for her husband and being a good wife were established womanly attributes. One example of this is what was said by the faqīh Al-Ḥanbalī ibn al-Jawzī in his book Aḥkām al-Nisā (p. 331): In the second century AH there was a righteous man called Shu'ayb ibn Ḥarb, who used to fast and spend his nights in prayer. He wanted to marry a woman, and told her humbly, "I am a bad-tempered man." She replied, tactfully and cleverly, "The one who makes you lose your temper is worse than you." He realized that there stood before him a woman who was intelligent, wise and mature. He immediately said to her, "You will be my wife."

This woman had a clear understanding of how to be a good wife, which confirmed to the man who had come to seek her hand that she was a woman who would understand the psychology and nature of her husband and would know what would please him and what would make him angry; she would be able to win his heart and earn his admiration and respect, and would close the door to every possible source of conflict that could disrupt their married life. The woman who does not understand these realities does not deserve to be a successful wife; through her ignorance and shortcomings she may provoke her husband to lose his temper, in which case, she would be worse than him, for being the direct cause of his anger.

The tactful Muslim woman is never like this. She helps her husband to be of good character, by displaying different types of intelligence, cleverness and alertness in the way she deals with him. This opens his heart to her and makes him fond of her, because being a good wife is not only a quality that she may boast about among her friends, but it is also a religious obligation for which Allāh (ﷻ) will call her

²⁰⁶ See Fath al-Bārī, 9/319, Kitāb al-nikāḥ, bāb al-ghirah.

²⁰⁷ Reported by Aḥmad and Al-Bazzār; the men of its isnād are Rijal al-ṣaḥīḥ. See Majma' al-Zawā'id, 9/4, Bāb ḥaqq al-zawj 'ala'l-mār'ah.

²⁰⁸ A ḥasan ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth, narrated by Tirmidhī, 2/314, in Abwāb a-rida, 10.

²⁰⁹ Reported by Al-Bazzār with a ḥasan isnād. See Majma' al-Zawā'id, 4/308, Bāb ḥaqq al-zawj 'ala'l-mār'ah.

²¹⁰ Reported by Aḥmad and An-Nisā'ī with Jayyid isnāds, and by Al-Ḥakīm, who said that its isnād was ṣaḥīḥ. See Al-Mundhirī, Al-Tarḥīb wa'l-Tarḥīb, 3/52, Kitāb al-nikāḥ.

to account: if she has done well, she will be rewarded, but if she has fallen short she will have to pay the penalty.

One of the most important ways in which the Muslim woman obeys her husband is by respecting his wishes with regard to the permissible pleasures of daily life, such as social visits, food, dress, speech, etc. The more she responds to his wishes in such matters, the happier and more enjoyable the couple's life becomes, and the closer it is to the spirit and teachings of Islām.

The Muslim woman does not forget that her obedience to her husband is one of the things that may lead her to Paradise, as the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"If a woman prays her five daily prayers, fasts her month (of Ramadān), obeys her husband and guards her chastity, then it will be said to her: 'Enter Paradise by whichever of its gates you wish.'" ²¹¹

Umm Salamah (May Allāh be pleased with her) said:

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said: 'Any woman who dies, and her husband is pleased with her, will enter Paradise.'" ²¹²

The Prophet (ﷺ) drew a clear and delightful picture of the well-behaved, easy-going, loving, righteous Muslim wife, one who will be happy in this world and the next:

"Shall I not tell you about your wives in Paradise?" We said, "Of course, O Messenger of Allāh." He said, "They are fertile and loving. If she becomes angry or is mistreated, or her husband becomes angry, she says, 'My hand is in your hand; I shall never sleep until you are pleased with me.'" ²¹³

The true Muslim woman knows that Islām, which has multiplied her reward for obeying her husband and made it a means of her admittance to Paradise, has also warned every woman who deviates from the path of marital obedience and neglects to take care of her husband, that she will be guilty of sin, and will incur the wrath and curses of the angels.

Bukhārī and Muslim report from Abū Hurayrah that the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"If a man calls his wife to his bed and she does not come, and he goes to sleep angry with her, the angels will curse her until the morning." ²¹⁴

Muslim reports from Abū Hurayrah that the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"By the One in Whose hand is my soul, there is no man who calls his wife to his bed, and she refuses him, but the One Who is in heaven will be angry with her, until the husband is pleased with her once more." ²¹⁵

The angels' curse will befall every woman who is rebellious and disobedient; this does not exclude those who are too slow and reluctant to respond to their husbands:

"Allāh (ﷻ) will curse those procrastinating women who, when their husbands call them to their beds, say 'I will, I will...' until he falls asleep." ²¹⁶

Marriage in Islām is intended to protect the chastity of men and women alike, therefore it is the woman's duty to respond to her husband's requests for conjugal relations. She should not give silly excuses and try to avoid it. For this reason, several ḥadīth urge a wife to respond to her husband's needs as much as she is able, no matter how busy she may be or whatever obstacles there may be, so long as there is no urgent or unavoidable reason not to do so.

In one of these ḥadīth, the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"If a man calls his wife to his bed, let her respond, even if she is riding her camel [i.e., very busy]." ²¹⁷ And:

²¹¹ Reported by Aḥmad and Aṭ-Ṭabarānī; its narrators are thiqat. See Majma' al-Zawa'id, 4/306, Bāb ḥaqq al-zawj 'ala 'l-mār'ah.

²¹² Ibn Mājah, 1/595, Kitāb al-nikāh, bāb ḥaqq al-zawj 'ala 'l-mār'ah; Al-Ḥakīm, 4/173, Kitāb al-birr wa 'l-silah; he said its isnād is ṣaḥīḥ.

²¹³ Reported by Aṭ-Ṭabarānī. Its narrators are those, whose reports are accepted as ṣaḥīḥ. See Majma' al-Zawa'id, 4/312.

²¹⁴ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 9/294, Kitāb al-nikāh, bāb idha batat al-mār'ah muḥājirah firash zawjiha; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 10/8, Kitāb al-nikāh, bāb taḥrīm imtina' al-mār'ah min firash zawjiha.

²¹⁵ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 10/7, Kitāb al-nikāh, bāb taḥrīm imtina' al-mār'ah min firash zawjiha.

²¹⁶ A ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth narrated by Aṭ-Ṭabarānī in Al-Awsat and Al-Kabīr. See Majma' al-Zawa'id, 4/296, bāb fi man yad'u zawjahu fa ta'talla.

²¹⁷ Reported by Al-Bazzār, whose narrators are Rijal al-ṣaḥīḥ. See Majma' al-Zawa'id, 4/312.

"If a man calls his wife, then let her come, even if she is busy at the oven."²¹⁸

The issue of protecting a man's chastity and keeping him away from temptation is more important than anything else that a woman can do, because Islām wants men and women alike to live in an environment which is entirely pure and free from any motive of fitnah or ḥarām pleasures. The flames of sexual desire and thoughts of pursuing them through ḥarām means can only be extinguished by means of discharging that natural energy in natural and lawful ways. This is what the Prophet (ﷺ) meant in the ḥadīth narrated by Muslim from Jābir:

"If anyone of you is attracted to a woman, let him go to his wife and have intercourse with her, for that will calm him down."²¹⁹

The warning given to the woman whose husband is angry with her reaches such an extent that it would shake the conscience of every righteous wife who has faith in Allāh (ﷻ) and the Last Day: she is told that her prayer and good deeds will not be accepted, until her husband is pleased with her again. This is stated in the ḥadīth narrated by Jābir from 'Abdullāh:

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said: 'There are three people whose prayers will not be accepted, nor their good works: a disobedient slave until he returns to his masters and puts his hand in theirs; a woman whose husband is angry with her, until he is pleased with her again; and the drunkard, until he becomes sober.'²²⁰

When these ḥadīth refer to the husband being angry with his wife, they refer to cases in which the husband is right and the wife is wrong. When the opposite is the case, and the husband is wrong, then his anger has no negative implications for her; in fact, Allāh (ﷻ) will reward the wife for her patience. But the wife is still required to obey her husband, so long as no sin is involved, because there should be no obedience to a created being if it entails disobedience to the Creator. Concerning this, the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"It is not permitted for a woman who believes in Allāh (ﷻ) to allow anyone into her husband's house whom he dislikes; or to go out when he does not want her to; or to obey anyone else against him; or to forsake his bed; or to hit him. If he is wrong, then let her come to him until he is pleased with her, and if he accepts her then all is well, Allāh (ﷻ) will accept her deeds and make her position stronger, and there will be no sin on her. If he does not accept her, then at least she will have done her best and excused herself in the sight of Allāh (ﷻ)."²²¹

Another aspect of wifely obedience is that she should not fast at times other than Ramaḍān except with his permission, that she should not allow anyone to enter his house without his permission, and that she should not spend any of his earnings without his permission. If she spends anything without him having told her to do so, then half of the reward for that spending will be given to him. The true Muslim woman takes heed of this teaching which was stated by the Prophet (ﷺ) in the ḥadīth:

"It is not permitted for a woman to fast when her husband is present, except with his permission; or to allow anyone into his house except with his permission; or to spend any of his earnings unless he has told her to do so, otherwise half of the reward will be given to him."²²²

According to a report given by Muslim, he (ﷺ) said:

"A woman should not fast if her husband is present, except with his permission. She should not allow anyone to enter his house when he is present without his permission. Whatever she spends of his wealth without him having told her to do so, half of the reward for it will be given to him."²²³

The point here is the permission of the husband. If a wife gives some of his money in voluntary charity without his permission, then she will not receive any reward; on the contrary, it will be recorded as a sin

²¹⁸ A ḥasan ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth narrated by Tirmidhī, 2/314, Abwāb al-rida', 10, and by Ibn Ḥibbān, Ṣaḥīḥ, 9,473, Kitāb al-nikāḥ.

²¹⁹ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 9/178, Kitāb al-nikāḥ, bāb nadab man ra'a imra'atan fa waqa'at fi nafsihi ila an ya'ti imra'atahu.

²²⁰ Reported by Ibn Ḥibbān in his ṣaḥīḥ, 12/178, Kitāb al-ashribah, 2, fasl fi'l-ashribah.

²²¹ Reported by Al-Ḥakīm, 2/190, Kitāb al-nikāḥ; he said its isnād is ṣaḥīḥ.

²²² Fath al-Bārī, 9/295, Kitāb al-nikāḥ, bāb la ta'dhan al-mār'ah fi bayt zawjiha li aḥad illa bi idhnihi.

²²³ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 7/115, Kitāb al-zakāh, bāb ajr al-khazin wa'l-mār'ah idha tasaddaqat min bayt zawjaha.

on her part. If she wants to spend in his absence, and she knows that if he knew about it he would give his permission, then she is allowed to do so, otherwise it is not permitted.

Mutual understanding and harmony between husband and wife cannot be achieved unless there is understanding between them on such matters, so that neither of them will fall into such errors and troubles as may damage the marriage which Islām has built on a basis of love and mercy, and sought to maintain its purity, care and harmony.

If the husband is a miser, and spends too little on her and her children, then she is allowed to spend as much as she needs from his wealth on herself and her children, in moderation, without his knowledge. The Prophet (ﷺ) stated this to Hind bint ‘Utbah, the wife of Abū Sufyān, when she came to him and said, “O Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ), Abū Sufyān is a stingy man. What he gives me is not enough for me and my child, unless I take from him without his knowledge.” He told her, “Take what is enough for you and your child, in moderation.”²²⁴ Thus Islām has made women responsible for good conduct in their running of the household affairs.

The Muslim woman understands the responsibility that Islām has given her, to take care of her husband’s house and children by making her a “shepherd” over her husband’s house and children. She has been specifically reminded of this responsibility in recognition of her role, in the ḥadīth in which the Prophet (ﷺ) made every individual in the Islāmic society responsible for those under his or her authority in such a way that no-one, man or woman, may evade responsibility:

“Each of you is a shepherd, and each is responsible for those under his care. A ruler is a shepherd; a man is the shepherd of his family; a woman is the shepherd of her husband’s house and children. For each of you is a shepherd and each of you is responsible for those under his care.”²²⁵

The true Muslim woman is always described as being loving towards her children and caring towards her husband. These are two of the most beautiful characteristics that a woman of any time or place may possess. The Prophet (ﷺ) praised these two characteristics, which were embodied by the women of Quraysh, who represented the best women among the Arabs in terms of loving their children, caring for their husbands, respecting their rights and looking after their wealth with care, honesty and wisdom:

“The best women who ride camels are the women of Quraysh. They are the most compassionate towards their children when they are small, and the most careful with regard to their husbands’ wealth.”²²⁶

This is a valuable testimony on the part of the Prophet (ﷺ), attesting to the psychological and moral qualities of the women of Quraysh which enhanced their beauty and virtue. This testimony represents a call to every Muslim woman to emulate the women of Quraysh in loving her children and taking care of her husband. These two important characteristics contribute to the success of a marriage, make individuals and families happy, and help a society to advance.

It is a great honour for a woman to take care of her husband every morning and evening, and wherever he goes, treating him with gentleness and good manners which will fill his life with joy, tranquillity and stability. Muslim women have the best example in ‘Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her), who used to accompany the Prophet (ﷺ) on Ḥajj, surrounding him with her care, putting perfume on him with her own hands before he entered iḥrām, and after he finished his iḥrām, before he performed ṭawāf al-ifādah.²²⁷ She chose for him the best perfume that she could find. This is stated in a number of ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth reported by Bukhārī and Muslim, for example:

“I applied perfume to the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) with my own hands before he entered the state of iḥrām and when he concluded it before circumambulating the House.”²²⁸

²²⁴ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 9/327, Kitāb al-‘iddah, bāb nafaqah al-awlad wa’l-aqārib.

²²⁵ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 9/327, Kitāb al-imārah wa’l-qada’: bāb al-ra’i mas’ul ‘an ra’iyatihi.

²²⁶ See Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/81, Kitāb fadā’il al-Ṣaḥābah, bāb min fadā’il nisa’ Quraysh.

²²⁷ Ṭawāf al-ifādah is one of the important rites of Hajj. It is done on the tenth day of Dhu’l-Hijjah after sacrificing an animal and shaving one’s head. [Translator]

²²⁸ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 8/99, Kitāb al-Hajj, bāb istiḥbāb al-tib qabl al-iḥrām.

"I applied perfume to the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) with these two hands of mine when he entered iḥrām and when he concluded it, before he performed ṭawāf," - and she spread her hands.²²⁹ 'Urwah said:

"I asked 'Āishah, 'With what did you perfume the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) at the time when he entered iḥrām?' She said, 'With the best of perfume.'"²³⁰

According to another report also given by Muslim, 'Āishah said:

"I applied the best perfume I could find to the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) before he entered iḥrām and when he concluded it, before he performed ṭawāf al-ifādah."²³¹

When the Prophet (ﷺ) was in seclusion (i'tikaf), he would lean his head towards 'Āishah, and she would comb and wash his hair. Bukhari and Muslim both report this in ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth narrated from 'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her), such as:

"When the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) was in i'tikaf, he inclined his head towards me and I combed his hair, and he did not enter the house except to answer the call of nature."²³²

"I used to wash the Prophet's head when I was menstruating."²³³

'Āishah urged women to take good care of their husbands and to recognize the rights that their husbands had over them. She saw these rights as being so great and so important that a woman was barely qualified to wipe the dust from her husband's feet with her face, as she stated: "O womenfolk, if you knew the rights that your husbands have over you, every one of you would wipe the dust from her husband's feet with her face."²³⁴

This is a vivid expression of the importance of the husband's rights over his wife. 'Āishah wanted to bring this to women's attention, so as to remove from the hearts of arrogant and stubborn women all those harsh, obstinate feelings that all too often destroy a marriage and turn it into a living hell.

Honouring and respecting one's husband is one of the characteristic attitudes of this ummah. It is one of the good manners known at the time of jāhiliyyah that were endorsed by Islām and perpetuated by the Arabs after they embraced Islām. Our Arab heritage is filled with texts that eloquently describe the advice given by mothers to their daughters, to care for, honour and respect their husbands; these texts may be regarded as invaluable social documents.

One of the most famous and most beautiful of these texts was recorded by 'Abdul-Mālik ibn 'Umayr al-Qurashī, who was one of the outstanding scholars of the second century A.H. He quotes the words of advice given by Umamah bint al-Ḥārith, one of the most eloquent and learned women, who possessed wisdom and great maturity, to her daughter on the eve of her marriage. These beautiful words deserve to be inscribed in golden ink.

'Abdul-Mālik said: "When 'Awf ibn Muḥallim al-Shaybanī, one of the most highly respected leaders of the Arab nobility during the jāhiliyyah, married his daughter Umm Iyās to Al-Ḥārith ibn 'Amr al-Kindī, she was made ready to be taken to the groom, then her mother Umamah came in to her, to advise her, and said:

'O my daughter, if it were deemed unnecessary to give you this advice because of good manners and noble descent, then it would have been unnecessary for you, because you possess these qualities, but it will serve as a reminder to those who are forgetful, and will help those who are wise.'

'O my daughter, if a woman were able to do without a husband by virtue of her father's wealth and her need for her father, then you of all people would be most able to do without a husband, but women were created for men just as men were created for them.'

²²⁹ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 3/585, Kitāb al-Hajj, bāb al-tib.

²³⁰ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 8/100, Kitāb al-Hajj, bāb istiḥbāb al-tib qabl al-iḥrām.

²³¹ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 8/100, Kitāb al-Hajj, bāb istiḥbāb al-tib qabl al-iḥrām.

²³² Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 3/208, Kitāb al-ḥayd, bāb jawaz ghusl al-ha'id ra'as zawjiha wa tarjiluhu.

²³³ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 1/403, Kitāb al-ḥayd, bāb mubāshirah al-ḥa'id; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 3/209, Kitāb al-ḥayd, bāb jawaz ghusl al-ha'id ra'as zawjiha.

²³⁴ Reported as ṣaḥīḥ by Ibn Ḥibbān, and with a Jayyid isnād by Al-Bazzār; its narrators are well-known and are thiqat. See Ibn al-Jawzi, Aḥkām al-nisā', p. 311.

‘O my daughter, you are about to leave the home in which you grew up, where you first learned to walk, to go to a place you do not know, to a companion with whom you are unfamiliar. By marrying you he has become a master over you, so be like a servant to him, and he will become like a servant to you.’

Take from me ten qualities, which will be a provision and a reminder for you.

‘The first and second of them are: be content in his company, and listen to and obey him, for contentment brings peace of mind, and listening to and obeying one’s husband pleases Allāh.’

‘The third and fourth of them are: make sure that you smell good and look good; he should not see anything ugly in you, and he should not smell anything but a pleasant smell from you. Kohl is the best kind of beautification to be found, and water is better than the rarest perfume.’

‘The fifth and the sixth of them are: prepare his food on time, and keep quiet when he is asleep, for raging hunger is like a burning flame, and disturbing his sleep will make him angry.’

‘The seventh and eighth of them are: take care of his servants (or employees) and children, and take care of his wealth, for taking care of his wealth shows that you appreciate him, and taking care of his children and servants shows good management.’

‘The ninth and tenth of them are: never disclose any of his secrets, and never disobey any of his orders, for if you disclose any of his secrets you will never feel safe from his possible betrayal, and if you disobey him, his heart will be filled with hatred towards you.’

‘Be careful, O my daughter, of showing joy in front of him when he is upset, and do not show sorrow in front of him when he is happy, because the former shows a lack of judgement, whilst the latter will make him unhappy.’

‘Show him as much honour and respect as you can, and agree with him as much as you can, so that he will enjoy your companionship and conversation.’

‘Know, O my daughter, that you will not achieve what you would like to until you put his pleasure before your own, and his wishes before yours, in whatever you like and dislike. And may Allāh (ﷻ) choose what is best for you and protect you.’²³⁵

She was taken to her husband, and the marriage was a great success; she gave birth to kings who ruled after him.

This advice clearly included everything that one could think of as regards the good manners that a young girl needs to know about in order to treat her husband properly and be a suitable companion for him. The words of this wise mother deserve to be taken as the standard for every young girl who is about to get married.

If she is rich, the true Muslim woman does not let her wealth and financial independence make her blind to the importance of respecting her husband’s rights over her. She still takes care of him and honours him, no matter how rich she is or may become. She knows that she is obliged to show gratitude to Allāh for the blessings He has bestowed upon her, so she increases her charitable giving for the sake of Allāh. The first person to whom she should give generously is her own husband, if he is poor; in this case she will receive two rewards, one for taking care of a family member, and another for giving charity, as the Prophet (ﷺ) stated in the ḥadīth narrated by Zaynab al-Thaqafiyyah, the wife of ‘Abdullah ibn Mas‘ūd (رضي الله عنه):

‘The Prophet (ﷺ) told us: ‘O women, give in charity even if it is some of your jewellery.’ She said, ‘I went back to ‘Abdullah ibn Mas‘ūd and told him. ‘You are a man of little wealth, and the Prophet (ﷺ) has commanded us to give charity, so go and ask him whether it is permissible for me to give you charity. If it is, I will do so; if it is not, I will give charity to someone else.’ ‘Abdullah said, ‘No, you go and ask.’ So I went, and I found a woman of the Anṣār at the Prophet’s door, who also had the question. We felt too shy to go in, out of respect, so Biṭāl came out and we asked him, ‘Go and tell the Messenger of Allāh that there are two women at the door asking you: Is it permissible for them to give sadaqah to their husbands and the orphans in their care? But do not tell him who we are.’ So Biṭāl went in and conveyed this message to the Prophet (ﷺ), who asked, ‘Who are they?’ Biṭāl said, ‘One of the women of the Anṣār, and Zaynab.’ The Prophet (ﷺ) asked, ‘Which Zaynab is it?’ Biṭāl said, ‘The wife of ‘Abdullah.’ The Prophet (ﷺ) said: ‘They will have two rewards, the reward for upholding the relationship, and the reward for giving charity.’²³⁶

²³⁵ Jamharat khutab al-‘arab, 1/145.

²³⁶ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 3/328, Kitāb al-zakāt, bāb al-zakāt ‘ala’l-zawj wa’l-aytam fi’l-hijr; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 7/86, Kitāb al-zakāt, bāb al-zakāt ‘ala’l-aqārib.

According to a report given by Bukhārī, he said, "Your husband and your child are more deserving of your charity."²³⁷

The true Muslim woman is always careful to give thanks for Allāh's blessings if her life is easy, and she never loses her patience if she encounters difficulty. She never forgets the warning that the Prophet (ﷺ) issued to women in general, when he saw that most of the inhabitants of Hell will be women, and so she seeks refuge with Allāh from becoming one of them.

Bukhārī and Muslim narrated from Ibn 'Abbās (رضي الله عنه) that the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"O women, give charity, for I have surely seen that you form the majority of the inhabitants of Hell." They asked, 'Why is this so, O Messenger of Allāh?' He said, "Because you curse too much, and are ungrateful for good treatment (on the part of your husbands)."²³⁸

According to another report given by Bukhārī, he said, "because they are ungrateful for good and kind treatment. Even if you treated one of them (these ungrateful women) well for an entire lifetime, then she saw one fault in you, she would say, 'I have never seen anything good from you!'"²³⁹

According to a report given by Aḥmad, a man said, "O Messenger of Allāh, are they not our mothers and sisters and wives?" He said, "Of course, but when they are treated generously they are ungrateful, and when they are tested, they do not have patience."²⁴⁰

When the true Muslim woman thinks about these ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth which describe the fate of most women in the Hereafter, she is always on the alert lest she fall into the sins of ingratitude towards her husband, or frequent cursing, or denying her husband's good treatment of her, or forgetting to give thanks for times of ease, or failing to be patient at times of difficulty. In any case, she hastens to give charity as the Prophet (ﷺ) urged all women to do, in the hope that it may save them from that awful fate which will befall most of those women who deviate from truth and let trivial matters distract them from remembering Allāh (ﷻ) and the Last Day, and whose bad qualities will ultimately lead them into the Fire of Hell. The Muslim woman, on the other hand, sets the highest example of respect towards one's husband and taking note of his good qualities. This is the attitude of loyalty that befits the true Muslim woman who respects her husband's rights and does not ignore his virtues.

Muslim women's history is full of stories, which reflect this loyalty and recognition of the good qualities of the husband. One of these stories is that of Asmā bint 'Umayy, who was one of the greatest women in Islām, and one of the first women to migrate to Madīnah. She was married to Ja'far ibn Abī Ṭālib, then to Abū Bakr al-Siddīq, then to 'Ali (may Allāh be pleased with them all). On one occasion, her two sons Muhammad ibn Ja'far and Muhammad ibn Abī Bakr were competing with one another, each of them saying, "I am better than you, and my father is better than your father." 'Ali said to her, "Judge between them, O Asmā." She said, "I have never seen a young man among the Arabs who was better than Ja'far, and I have never seen a mature man who was better than Abū Bakr." 'Ali said, "You have not left anything for me. If you had said anything other than what you have said, I would have hated you!" Asmā said: "These are the best three, and you are one of them even if you are the least of them."²⁴¹

What a clever and eloquent answer this wise woman gave! She gave each of her three husbands the respect he deserved, and pleased 'Ali, even though he was the least of them, because she included all of them in that group of the best.

She Treats his Mother and Family with Kindness and Respect

One of the ways in which a wife expresses her respect towards her husband is by honouring and respecting his mother.

²³⁷ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 3/325, Kitāb al-zakāt, bāb al-zakāt 'ala'l-aqārib.

²³⁸ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 3/325, Kitāb al-zakāt, bāb al-zakāt 'ala'l-aqārib; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 2/65, Kitāb al-imān, bāb bayan naqsān al-īmān bi naqs al-ta'at.

²³⁹ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 1/83, Kitāb al-īmān, bāb kufran al-'āshir.

²⁴⁰ Reported by Aḥmad, 3/428; its narrators are Rijal al-ṣaḥīḥ.

²⁴¹ Al-tabaqat al-kubra, 7/208-209.

The Muslim woman who truly understands the teachings of her religion knows that the person who has the greatest right over a man is his mother, as we have seen in the ḥadīth of ‘Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) quoted above. So she helps him to honour and respect his mother, by also honouring and respecting her. In this way she will do herself and her husband a favour, as she will be helping him to do good deeds and fear Allāh (ﷻ), as commanded by the Qur’ān. At the same time, she will endear herself to her husband, who will appreciate her honour and respect towards his family in general, and towards his mother in particular. Nothing could please a decent, righteous and respectful man more than seeing strong ties of love and respect between his wife and his family, and nothing could be more hateful to a decent man than to see those ties destroyed by the forces of evil, hatred and conspiracy. The Muslim family which is guided by faith in Allāh (ﷻ) and follows the pure teachings of Islam is unlikely to fall into the trap of such jāhiliyyah behaviour, which usually flourishes in an environment that is far removed from the true teachings of this religion.

A Muslim wife may find herself being tested by her mother-in-law and other in-laws, if they are not of good character. If such is the case, she is obliged to treat them in the best way possible, which requires a great deal of cleverness, courtesy, diplomacy and repelling evil with that which is better. Thus she will maintain a balance between her relationship with her in-laws and her relationship with her husband, and she will protect herself and her marriage from any adverse effects that may result from the lack of such a balance.

The Muslim woman should never think that she is the only one who is required to be a good and caring companion to her spouse, and that nothing similar is required of her husband or that there is nothing wrong with him mistreating her or failing to fulfil some of the responsibilities of marriage. Islām has regulated the marital relationship by giving each partner both rights and duties. The wife’s duties of honouring and taking care of her husband are balanced by the rights that she has over him, which are that he should protect her honour and dignity from all kinds of mockery, humiliation, trials or oppression. These rights of the wife comprise the husband’s duties towards her: he is obliged to honour them and fulfil them as completely as possible.

One of the Muslim husband’s duties is to fulfil his role of qawwām (maintainer and protector) properly. This is a role that can only be properly fulfilled by a man who is a successful leader in his home and family, one who possesses likeable masculine qualities. Such a man has a noble and worthy attitude, is tolerant, overlooks minor errors, is in control of his married life, and is generous without being extravagant. He respects his wife’s feelings and makes her feel that she shares the responsibility of running the household affairs, bringing up the children, and working with him to build a sound Muslim family, as Islām wants it to be.

CHAPTER 5

The Muslim Woman and Her Children Introduction

Undoubtedly children are a source of great joy and delight; they make life sweet, bring more rizq (sustenance) into a family’s life and give hope. A father sees his children as a future source of help and support, as well as representing an increase in numbers and perpetuation of the family. A mother sees her children as a source of hope, consolation and joy in life, and as hope for the future. All of these hopes rest on the good upbringing of the children and giving them a sound preparation for life, so that they will become active and constructive elements in society, a source of goodness for their parents, community and society as a whole. Then they will be as (ﷻ) described them:

﴿Wealth and sons are allurements of the life of this world...﴾ (Qur’ān 18: 46)

If their education and upbringing are neglected, they will become bad characters, a burden on their family, community and society as a whole.

She Understands the Great Responsibility That She Has Towards Her Children

The Muslim woman never forgets that the mother's responsibility in bringing up the children and forming their characters is greater than that of the father, because children tend to be closer to their mother and spend more time with her; she knows all about their behavioural, emotional and intellectual development during their childhood and the difficult years of adolescence.

Hence the woman who understands the teachings of Islām and her own educational role in life, knows her complete responsibility for the upbringing of her children, as is referred to in the Qur'ān:

﴿O you who believe! Save yourselves and your families from a Fire whose fuel is Men and Stones...﴾
(Qur'ān 66: 6)

The Prophet (ﷺ) also referred to this responsibility in his ḥadīth:

"Each of you is a shepherd and each of you is responsible for his flock. The leader is a shepherd and is responsible for his flock; a man is the shepherd of his family and is responsible for his flock; a woman is the shepherd in the house of her husband and is responsible for her flock; a servant is the shepherd of his master's wealth and is responsible for it. Each of you is a shepherd and is responsible for his flock."²⁴²

Islām places responsibility on the shoulders of every individual; not one person is left out. Parents - especially mothers - are made responsible for providing their children with a solid upbringing and sound Islāmic education, based on the noble characteristics that the Prophet (ﷺ) declared that he had been sent to complete and spread among people: "I have only been sent to make righteous behaviour complete."²⁴³

Nothing is more indicative of the greatness of the parents' responsibility towards their children and their duty to give them a suitable Islāmic upbringing than the verdict of the 'ulamā that every family should heed the words of the Prophet (ﷺ):

"Instruct your children to pray when they are seven and hit them if they do not do so when they are ten."²⁴⁴

Any parents who are aware of this ḥadīth but do not teach their children to pray when they reach seven or hit them if they do not do so when they reach ten, are parents who are sinners and failing in their duty; they will be responsible before Allāh (ﷻ) for their failure.

The family home is a microcosm of society in which the children's mentality, intellect, attitudes and inclinations are formed when they are still very small and are ready to receive sound words of guidance. Hence the parents' important role in forming the minds of their sons and daughters and directing them towards truth and good deeds is quite clear.

Muslim women have always understood their responsibility in raising their children, and they have a brilliant record in producing and influencing great men, and instilling noble values in their hearts. There is no greater proof of that than the fact that intelligent and brilliant women have produced more noble sons than have intelligent and brilliant men, so much so that you can hardly find any among the great men of our ummah who have controlled the course of events in history who is not indebted to his mother.

Al-Zubayr ibn al-'Awwām was indebted for his greatness to his mother Ṣafīyyah bint 'Abdul-Muṭṭalib, who instilled in him his good qualities and distinguished nature.

'Abdullāh, al-Mundhir and 'Urwah, the sons of Al-Zubayr were the products of the values instilled in them by their mother, Asmā bint Abī Bakr, and each of them made his mark in history and attained a high status.

'Ali ibn Abī Ṭālib (ﷺ) received wisdom, virtue and good character from his distinguished mother, Fāṭimah bint Asad.

'Abdullāh ibn Ja'far, the master of Arab generosity and the most noble of their leaders, lost his father at an early age, but his mother Asmā bint 'Umayyad took care of him and gave him the virtues and noble characteristics by virtue of which she herself became one of the great women of Islām.

²⁴² (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 10/61, Kitāb al-imārah wa'l-qada', bāb al-ra'i mas'ul 'an ri'atihi.

²⁴³ Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adab al-Mufrad, 1/371, bāb ḥusn al-khulq.

²⁴⁴ Reported by Aḥmad, 2/187, and by Abū Dāwūd with a ḥasan isnād, 1/193, Kitāb al-ṣalāt, bāb mata yu'mar al-ghulam bi'l-ṣalāt

Mu'āwiyah ibn Abī Sufyān inherited his strength of character and intelligence from his mother, Hind bint 'Utbah, not from his father Abū Sufyān. When he was a baby, she noticed that he had intelligent and clever features. Someone said to her, "If he lives, he will become the leader of his people." She responded, "May he not live if he is to become the leader of his people alone!"

Mu'āwiyah was unable to instil his cleverness, patience and skills in his own son and heir, Yazīd, because the boy's mother was a simple Bedouin woman, whom he had married for her beauty and because of the status of her tribe and family.

Mu'āwiyah's brother Ziyād ibn Abī Sufyān, who was a prime example of intelligence, shrewdness and quick-witness, was similarly unable to pass these qualities on to his son 'Ubaydullāh, who grew up to be stupid, clumsy, impotent and ignorant. His mother was Marjanah, a Persian woman who possessed none of the qualities that might entitle her to be the mother of a great man.

History records the names of two great men of Banū Umayyah, the first of whom was known for his strength of character, capability, intelligence, wisdom and decisiveness, and the second of whom took the path of justice, goodness, piety and righteousness.

The first was 'Abdul-Mālik ibn Marwān, whose mother was 'Āishah bint al-Mughīrah ibn Abī'l-'Aṣ ibn Umayyah, who was well-known for her strength of character, resolution and intelligence. The second was 'Umar ibn 'Abdul-'Azīz (رضي الله عنه), the fifth of the Khulafā al-rashidūn, whose mother was Umm 'Aṣim bint 'Aṣim ibn 'Umar ibn al-Khaṭṭāb, who was the most noble in character of the women of her time. Her mother was the righteous worshipper of Allāh (ﷻ) whom 'Aṣim saw was honest and truthful, and clearly following the right path, when she refused to add water to the milk as her mother told her to, because she knew that Allāh (ﷻ) could see her.

If we turn towards Andalusia, we find the brilliant, ambitious ruler 'Abdul-Raḥmān al-Nāṣir who, having started life as an orphan, went on to establish an Islāmic state in the West, to which the leaders and kings of Europe surrendered and to whose institutes of learning the scholars and philosophers of all nations came to seek knowledge. This state made a great contribution to world-wide Islāmic culture. If we were to examine the secret of this man's greatness, we would find that it lay in the greatness of his mother who knew how to instil in him the dynamic spirit of ambition.

During the 'Abbāsīd period there were two great women who planted the seeds of ambition, distinction and ascendancy in their sons. The first was the mother of Ja'far ibn Yaḥya, who was the wazīr of the khalīfah Harūn al-Rashīd. The second was the mother of Imām al-Shāfi'ī: he never saw his father who died whilst he was still a babe in arms; it was his mother who took care of his education.

There are many such examples of brilliant women in our history, women who instilled in their sons nobility of character and the seeds of greatness, and who stood behind them in everything they achieved of power and status.

She Uses the Best Methods in Bringing Them up

The intelligent Muslim woman understands the psychology of her children, and is aware of their differences in attitudes and inclination. She tries to penetrate their innocent world and plant the seeds of noble values and worthy characteristics, using the best and most effective methods of parenting.

The mother is naturally close to her children, and she endears herself to them so that they will be open with her and will share their thoughts and feelings with her. She hastens to correct them and refine their thoughts and feelings, taking into account each child's age and mental level. She plays and jokes with them sometimes, complimenting them and letting them hear words of love, affection, compassion and self-denial. Thus their love for her increases, and they will accept her words of guidance and correction eagerly. They will obey her out of love for her, for there is a great difference between sincere obedience that comes from the heart, which is based on love, respect and trust, and insincere obedience that is based on oppression, violence and force. The former is lasting obedience, strong and fruitful, whilst the latter is shallow and baseless, and will quickly vanish when the violence and cruelty reach extreme levels.

She Demonstrates her Love and Affection for Them

The Muslim woman is not ignorant of the fact that her children need her warm lap, deep love and sincere affection in order to develop soundly, with no psychological problems, crises or complexes. This sound upbringing will fill them with optimism, trust, hope and ambition. Thus the caring Muslim mother demonstrates her love and affection for her children on every occasion, flooding their lives with joy and happiness and filling their hearts with confidence and security.

The true Muslim woman is compassionate towards her children, for compassion is a basic Islāmic characteristic, one that was encouraged by the Prophet (ﷺ) in word and deed as Anas (رضي الله عنه) tells us:

"I never saw anyone who was more compassionate towards children than the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ). His son Ibrāhīm was in the care of a wet-nurse in the hills around Madīnah. He would go there, and we would go with him, and he would enter the house, pick up his son and kiss him, then come back."²⁴⁵

The Prophet's compassion and love towards Muslim children included little ones at play. He would flood them with his compassion and affection. Anas (رضي الله عنه) reported that whenever the Prophet (ﷺ) passed by a group of boys he would smile fondly and greet them.²⁴⁶

An example of the Prophet's enduring wisdom with regard to the upbringing of children is the ḥadīth:

"He is not one of us who does not show compassion to our little ones and recognize the rights of our elders."²⁴⁷

Abū Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه) narrated that the Prophet (ﷺ) kissed Al-Ḥasan ibn 'Alī. Al-Aqra' ibn Ḥabis said, "I have ten children and I have never kissed any of them." The Prophet (ﷺ) said: "He who does not show mercy will not be shown mercy."²⁴⁸

The Prophet (ﷺ), this great educator, always sought to instil the quality of mercy and compassion in people's hearts, and to awaken their potential for love and affection, which are the most basic of human characteristics.

One day a Bedouin came and asked the Prophet (ﷺ), "Do you kiss your sons? We do not." The Prophet (ﷺ) said, "What can I do for you if Allāh (ﷻ) has removed mercy from your heart?"²⁴⁹

‘Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) reported:

"Whenever Fāṭimah came into the room, the Prophet (ﷺ) would stand up, welcome her, kiss her and offer her his seat, and whenever he came into the room, she would stand up, take his hand, welcome him, kiss him and offer him her seat. When she came to see him during his final illness, he welcomed her and kissed her."²⁵⁰

The Prophet (ﷺ) praised the women of Quraysh, because they were the most compassionate of women towards their children, the most concerned with raising them properly and making sacrifices for them, in addition to taking good care of their husbands. This may be seen in the words narrated by Bukhārī from Abū Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه), who said:

"I heard the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) say: 'The women of Quraysh are the best women ever to ride camels. They are compassionate towards their children and the most careful with regard to their husbands' wealth'"²⁵¹

In the light of this guidance, the true Muslim woman cannot be stern towards her children and treat them in a rough or mean fashion, even if it is her nature to be grim and reserved, because this religion, ²⁴⁵ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 15/75, Kitāb al-fadā'il, bāb raḥmatihī wa tawadu'ihī.

²⁴⁶ (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 12/264, Kitāb al-isti'dhan, bāb al-taslīm 'ala'l-subyan.

²⁴⁷ Reported by Aḥmad, 2/185, and by Al-Ḥākim, 1/62, Kitāb al-īmān; its isnād is ṣaḥīḥ.

²⁴⁸ (Bukhārī and Muslim), Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 13/34, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah, bāb rahmah al-walad wa taqbilihi.

²⁴⁹ Faṭḥ al-Bārī, 10/426, Kitāb al-adab, bāb rahmah al-walad wa taqbilihi.

²⁵⁰ See Faṭḥ al-Bārī, 8/135, Kitāb al-maghazi, bāb maraduhu wa wafatuhu; Abū Dāwūd, 4/480, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb ma ja'a fi'l-qiyām.

²⁵¹ Faṭḥ al-Bārī, 6/472, Kitāb aḥādīth al-anbiya', bāb qawlihi ta'ala, 45-48 min Al 'Imrān.

with its enlightenment and guidance, softens hearts and awakens feelings of love and affection. So our children are a part of us, going forth into the world, as the poet Ḥiṭṭan ibn al-Mu'allā said:

“Our children are our hearts, walking among us on the face of the earth, if even a little breeze touches them, we cannot sleep for worrying about them.”²⁵²

Parents should be filled with love, affection and care, willing to make sacrifices and do their best for their children.

Undoubtedly the wealth of emotion that the Muslim mother feels for her children is one of the greatest causes of her happiness in life. This is something, which has been lost by Western women, who are overwhelmed by materialism and exhausted by the daily grind of work, which has caused them to lose the warmth of family feelings. This was vividly expressed by Mrs. Salma al-Ḥaffar, a member of the Syrian women's movement, after she had visited America:

“It is truly a shame that women lose the most precious thing that nature²⁵³ has given them, i.e. their femininity, and then their happiness, because the constant cycle of exhausting work has caused them to lose the small paradise which is the natural refuge of women and men alike, one that can only flourish under the care of a mother who stays at home. The happiness of individuals and society as a whole is to be found at home, in the lap of the family; the family is the source of inspiration, goodness and creativity.”²⁵⁴

She Treats her Sons and Daughters Equally

The wise Muslim woman treats all her children fairly and equally. She does not prefer one of them over another in any way, because she knows that Islām forbids such actions on the part of the parents, and because of the negative psychological impact that this may have over the child whose sibling is preferred over him. The child who feels that he is not treated equally with his brothers and sisters will grow up with complexes and anxiety, eating his heart out with jealousy and hatred. In contrast, the child who grows up feeling that he and his siblings are treated equally will grow up healthy and free from jealousy and hatred; he will be content, cheerful, tolerant and willing to put others before himself. This is what Islām requires of parents and urges them to do.

Bukhārī, Muslim and others report that the father of AḥNu'mān ibn Bashīr (رضي الله عنه) brought him to the Prophet (ﷺ) and said, “I have given this son of mine a slave I have.” The Prophet (ﷺ) said, “Have you given each of your children the same?” He said, “No.” The Prophet (ﷺ) told him, “Then take the slave back.”

According to another report:

“The Prophet (ﷺ) asked, ‘Have you done the same for all your children?’ [My father] said, ‘No,’ so the Prophet (ﷺ) said, ‘Fear Allāh (ﷻ) and treat all of your children equally.’”

According to a third report:

“The Prophet (ﷺ) asked, ‘O Bishr, do you have any other children?’ He said, ‘Yes.’ The Prophet (ﷺ) asked, ‘Will you give a similar gift to each of them?’ He said, ‘No.’ So the Prophet (ﷺ) said, ‘Do not ask me to witness this, because I do not want to witness unfairness.’ Then he added, ‘Would you not like all your children to treat you with equal respect?’ [Bishr] said, ‘Of course.’ The Prophet (ﷺ) told him, ‘So do not do it.’”²⁵⁵

So the Muslim woman who truly fears Allāh (ﷻ) treats all her children with equal fairness, and does not favour one above the other in giving gifts, spending money on them, or in the way she treats them. Then all of them will love her, will pray for her and will treat her with kindness and respect.

²⁵² Abū Tammam, Al-Ḥamasah, 1/167.

²⁵³ In fact it is Allāh (ﷻ) Who gives these things, not nature. This expression is one of the effects of Westernization. [Author]

²⁵⁴ From an article by Salma al-Ḥaffar in the Damascus newspaper Al-Ayyam, 3/9/1962.

²⁵⁵ (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 8/296, Kitāb al-'ataya wa'l-hadaya, bāb al-ruju 'fi hibbah al-walad wa'l-taswiyyah bayna al-awlad fi'l-nahl.

She Does not Discriminate Between Sons and Daughters in her Affection and Care

The true Muslim woman does not discriminate between her sons and daughters in her affection and care, as do some women who are not free from the effects of a jāhiliyyah mentality. She is fair to all her children, boys and girls alike, and cares for them all with compassion and love. She understands that children are a gift from Allāh (ﷻ), and that Allāh's gift, be it of sons or daughters, cannot be rejected or changed:

﴿...He bestows [children] male or female according to His Will [and Plan], or He bestows both males and females, and He leaves barren Whom He will: for He is full of knowledge and power.﴾
(Qur'ān 42: 49-50)

The Muslim woman who is truly guided by her religion does not forget the great reward that Allāh (ﷻ) has prepared for the one who brings up daughters and takes care of them properly, as is stated in numerous ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth, for example the ḥadīth narrated by Bukhārī from 'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) in which she says:

"A woman came to me with her two daughters and asked me (for charity). She found that I had nothing except for a single date, which I gave to her. She took it and divided it between her two daughters, and did not eat any of it herself, then she got up and left with her daughters. The Prophet (ﷺ) came in and I told him what had happened. The Prophet (ﷺ) said, "Whoever is tested with daughters and treats them well, they will be for him a shield against the Fire of Hell."²⁵⁶

According to another report narrated by Muslim from 'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her), she said:

"A poor woman came to me carrying her two daughters. I gave her three dates to eat. She gave each child a date, and raised the third to her own mouth to eat it. Her daughters asked her to give it to them, so she split the date that she had wanted to eat between them. I was impressed by what she had done, and told the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) about it. He said, "Allāh (ﷻ) has decreed Paradise for her because of it," or, "He has saved her from Hell because of it."²⁵⁷

Abū Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه) reported that the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"Whoever has three daughters, and shelters them, bearing their joys and sorrows with patience, Allāh (ﷻ) will admit him to Paradise by virtue of his compassion towards them." A man asked, "What if he has only two, O Messenger of Allāh?" He said, "Even if they are only two." Another man asked, "What if he has only one, O Messenger of Allāh?" He said, "Even if he has only one."²⁵⁸

Ibn 'Abbās (رضي الله عنه) said:

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said: 'Whoever had a daughter born to him, and he did not bury her alive or humiliate her, and he did not prefer his son over her, Allāh (ﷻ) will admit him to Paradise because of her.'²⁵⁹

The Prophet's compassion extended to females, and included sisters as well as daughters, as is seen in the ḥadeeth narrated by Bukhārī in Al-Adab al-Mufrad from Abū Sa'īd al-Khudrī, who said: "The Prophet (ﷺ) said:

'There is no-one who has three daughters, or three sisters, and he treats them well, but Allāh (ﷻ) will admit him to Paradise.'²⁶⁰

According to a report given by Aṭ-Ṭabarānī, the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

²⁵⁶ (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 6/187, Kitāb al-zakāh, bāb fadl al-ṣadaqah 'ala 'l-awlād wa 'l-aqārib.

²⁵⁷ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/179, Kitāb al-birr wa 'l-silah, bāb al-iḥsan ila 'l-banāt.

²⁵⁸ Reported by Aḥmad, 2/335 and Al-Ḥākim, 4/176, Kitāb al-birr wa 'l-silah. He said: its isnād is ṣaḥīḥ.

²⁵⁹ Reported by Al-Ḥākim in Al-Mustadrak 4/177, Kitāb al-birr wa 'l-silah. He said: its isnād is ṣaḥīḥ.

²⁶⁰ Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adab al-Mufrad, 1/162, bāb man 'ala thalatha ihkawāt.

"There is no one among my ummah who has three daughters, or three sisters, and he supports them until they are grown up, but he will be with me in Paradise like this," and he held up his index and middle fingers together.²⁶¹

No wise mother complains about bringing up daughters, or prefers her sons over them, if she listens to the teachings of the Prophet (ﷺ) which raise the status of daughters and promise Paradise as wide as heaven and earth and the company of the Prophet (ﷺ) to the one who brings them up and treats them properly!

In the Muslim family, and in the true Islāmic society, girls are protected, loved and respected. In the warm bosom of her parents - especially her mother - a girl will always find protection and care, no matter how long she stays in the home of her parents, brothers or other family members who should support her, whether she is married or not. Islām has guaranteed girls a life of protection, pride and support, and has spared them from a life of humiliation, need, want and having to earn a living, such as is the lot of women living in societies that have gone astray from the guidance of Allāh (ﷻ). In those countries, a girl barely reaches the age of eighteen before she leaves the comfort of her parents' home to face the hardships of a life filled with difficulties and risks at the time when she is most in need of protection, compassion and care.

There is a huge difference between the laws of Allāh (ﷻ), which came to bring happiness to mankind, and the imperfect man-made laws which cause nothing but misery.

It comes as no surprise that in the West, as a result of these materialistic laws, we see armies of promiscuous young men and hordes of unfortunate, miserable, unmarried young mothers, the numbers of which are increasing exponentially day by day.

She Does not Pray Against her Children

The wise Muslim woman does not pray against her own children, heeding the words of the Prophet (ﷺ) who forbade such prayers lest they be offered at a time when prayers are answered. This was stated in the lengthy ḥadīth narrated by Jābir in which the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"Do not pray against yourselves, or against your children, or against your wealth, in case you say such words at a time when Allāh (ﷻ) will answer your prayer."²⁶²

Praying against one's own children is not a good habit. No mother does so at a time of anger, but she will regret it later on after she has calmed down. I do not think that a mother who has truly sought the guidance of Islām would lose her mind and her equilibrium to such an extent that she would pray against her own children, no matter what they did. Such a woman would not allow herself to indulge in something that is done only by foolish, hot-tempered women.

She is Alert to Everything that May Have an Influence on Them

The smart Muslim mother keeps her eyes open as far as her children are concerned. She knows what they are reading and writing, the hobbies and activities they pursue, the friends they have chosen, and the places they go to in their free time. She knows all of this without her children feeling that she is watching them. If she finds anything objectionable in their hobbies, reading-materials, etc., or if she sees them hanging around with undesirable friends, or going to unsuitable places, or taking up bad habits such as smoking, or wasting time and energy on ḥarām games that teach them to get used to trivialities, she hastens to correct her children in a gentle and wise manner, and persuades them to return to the straight and narrow. The mother is more able to do this than the father, because she spends much more time with the children, and they are more likely to open up and share their thoughts and feelings with her than with their father. Hence it is quite clear that the mother has a great responsibility to bring up her children properly and form their characters in a sound fashion, in accordance with Islāmic principles, values and traditions.

²⁶¹ Reported by Aṭ-Ṭabarānī in Al-Awsat with two isnāds; the narrators of the first isnād are Rijal al-ṣaḥīḥ. See Majma' al-Zawa'id, 8/157.

²⁶² Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 18/139, Kitāb al-zuhd, bāb ḥadīth Jābir aṭ-ṭawīl.

Every child is born in a state of fiṭrah (the natural, good, disposition of mankind), and it is the parents who make him into a Jew, a Christian or a Magian, as the Prophet (ﷺ) said in the ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth narrated by Bukhārī.

There is no secret about the enormous impact the parents have on the personality and psychological development of their child from the earliest years until the child attains the age of reason.

The books that children read should open their minds and form their personalities well, giving them the highest examples to follow; they should not corrupt their minds and extinguish the light of goodness in their souls.

Hobbies should help to develop the positive aspects of a child's nature and reinforce good tastes, not encourage any negative tendencies.

Friends should be of the type that will lead one to Paradise, not to Hell; they should influence a child in a positive way and encourage him to do good, to strive to improve himself and to succeed, not drag him down into sin, disobedience and failure. How many people have been brought to the slippery slope of destruction and perdition by their friends, whilst their mothers and fathers were unaware of what was happening to their own children! How wise are the words of the poet 'Adiyy ibn Zayd al-'Ibadī concerning friends:

“If you are among people, then make friends with the best of them.

Do not make friends with the worst of them lest you become as bad as he is.

Do not ask about the man, but ask about his friends, for every person is influenced by his friends.”²⁶³

The true Muslim mother takes notice of her children's books, magazines, hobbies, school, teachers, clubs, media interests, and everything that may have an impact on their personalities, minds, souls and faith. She intervenes when necessary, either to encourage or to put a stop to something, so that the children's upbringing will not be affected by corruption or sickness.

Successful upbringing of children depends on a mother who is alert and intelligent, and understands her responsibility towards her children, so that she does a good job and raises children who will be a boon to their parents and society in general. Families that fail to raise their children properly usually do so because the mother does not understand her responsibility towards her children, so she neglects them and they become a source of evil and a torment to their parents and others.

Children would not become a source of evil if their parents, especially the mother, knew their responsibility and took it seriously.

She Instils Good Behaviour and Attitudes in Them

The Muslim woman tries hard to instil in her children's hearts the best qualities, such as loving others, upholding the ties of kinship, caring for the weak, respecting elders, showing compassion to little ones, deriving satisfaction from doing good, being sincere in word and deed, keeping promises, judging fairly, and all other good and praiseworthy characteristics.

The wise Muslim woman knows how to reach her children's hearts and instil these worthy qualities, using the best and most effective methods, such as setting a good example, coming down to their level, treating them well, encouraging them, advising and correcting them, and being compassionate, kind, tolerant, loving, and fair. She is gentle without being too lenient, and is strict without being harsh. Thus the children receive a proper upbringing, and grow up open-minded, mature, righteous, sincere, good, able to give and prepared to make a constructive contribution in all aspects of life. Not surprisingly, the Muslim mother's upbringing produces the best results, for she is the first school and the first teacher, as the poet said:

“The mother is a school: if you prepare her properly, you will prepare an entire people of good character, The mother is the first teacher, foremost among them, and the best of teachers.”²⁶⁴

²⁶³ See Adiyy ibn Zayd al-'Ibadī: Al-Sha'ir al-Mubtakir, by the author, pp. 171-172.

²⁶⁴ Diwan Ḥafidh Ibrāhīm, 282. Published by Dār al-Kutub al-Miṣriyyah.

CHAPTER 6

The Muslim Woman and Her Sons and Daughters-In-Law

A - Her Daughter-In-Law

Her Attitude Towards her Daughter-In-Law

The Muslim woman who understands the teachings of her religion and who is of a high character, regards her daughter-in-law as she regards her own daughters. Fate has made this woman the wife of her son, and she has joined the family and become one of its members. Similarly, when the young Muslim woman who has been brought up with Islāmic values and attitudes leaves her parents' home and goes to live with her new husband, she regards her mother-in-law as she does her own mother.

She Knows how to Make a Good Choice in Selecting a Daughter-In-Law

Thus before any marriage takes place, it is very important for both parties (both potential mothers-in-law and potential daughters-in-law) to be very careful in making the right choice. When seeking spouses for her sons and daughters, a mother must examine each candidate's religious commitment and character, and look for a sound upbringing and good reputation.

When the wise Muslim woman looks for a wife for her son, she always bears in mind the fact that this will be a new daughter joining her family, one who should enjoy the same respect and love as her own daughters, and who will share their duties within the framework of the greater family. She should want for her new daughter-in-law nothing but success, happiness and stability in marriage. So the wise mother will not be attracted by those girls who appear pretty and cheerful on the outside only; she will also require her future daughter-in-law first and foremost to be strong in her commitment to Islām, and to be of a good and balanced character. This is in accordance with the teaching of the Prophet (ﷺ):

"A woman may be married for four reasons: her wealth, her lineage, her beauty or her religion; choose the one who is religious, may your hands be rubbed with dust!"²⁶⁵

She Knows her Place

On the basis of this correct understanding of the daughter-in-law's position in marriage and her position in her new family, the mother-in-law treats her daughter-in-law properly and fairly in all circumstances and at all times.

It never crosses the mind of the Muslim mother-in-law who is filled with Islāmic values, that this woman has stolen the son whom she spent long years bringing up only to be taken away, when he reached the age of manhood and became able to work and make sacrifices, by a wife who would lead him into a happy home where he would forget everything that his mother had ever done for him. Such evil thoughts never occur to the righteous Muslim woman, because she understands the laws of Allāh (ﷻ) that apply in this life, and she knew that her son, to whom she taught Islāmic values from early childhood, cannot be made to forget his mother by his beautiful wife, just as the daughter-in-law whom she chose for her son from among the good, believing young women, would never accept for her husband to forget his mother in this way, which is precisely that disobedience which has been forbidden by Islām.

If she feels any stirrings of jealousy at some moment of human weakness, she seeks refuge in her faith and fear of Allāh (ﷻ), and so she sheds these hateful feelings and returns to a proper opinion of her daughter-in-law. This is the attitude of the righteous believers, men and women alike, when they are struck by some evil thought they turn to Allāh (ﷻ):

²⁶⁵ (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 9/8, Kitāb al-nikāḥ, bāb ikhtiyar dhā al-dīn.

﴿Those who fear Allāh, when a thought of evil from Satan assaults them, bring Allāh to remembrance, when lo! They see [aright]!﴾ (Qur’ān 7: 201)

Hence a balance is struck between the daughter-in-law, the mother-in-law and the husband, and matters may run their natural, peaceful course unaffected by misguided whims and desires and governed instead by religion, reason and wisdom.

She Gives Advice but Does not Interfere in Their Private Life

From the moment her daughter-in-law is brought as a bride to her son, the wise Muslim woman remembers that her daughter-in-law has the right to live her married life in all aspects - so long as it remains within the limits of Islāmic teaching - and that no-one has the right to interfere in the private life of the spouses except in cases where it is essential to do so, as every Muslim is required to give sincere advice in accordance with the Prophet’s words: “Religion is sincere advice (ḥasīḥah)...”²⁶⁶

The Muslim mother-in-law’s standard in her behaviour towards her daughter-in-law is her behaviour towards her own daughter: just as she wants her daughter to have a happy, successful and independent marriage, undisturbed by any interference in her private life, so she wishes the same for her daughter-in-law, with no exceptions.

She Respects her and Treats her Well

The good Muslim mother-in-law respects her daughter-in-law and treats her well; she makes her feel that she is loved and appreciated; she listens to her thoughts and opinions, approving and encouraging those that are good, and gently correcting those that are mistaken. In all of this, the mother-in-law’s aim is to be fair and just, so she judges her daughter-in-law exactly as she would judge her daughter if she were in her place giving her opinion to her mother, in accordance with the words of the Qur’ān:

﴿O you who believe! Fear Allāh, and [always] say a word directed to the Right.﴾ (Qur’ān 33: 70)

She does not omit to express the joy that she feels from time to time, when she sees that her son is happy with his wife, and this adds to the best feelings that her son and daughter-in-law feel. Similarly, she does not forget to include her daughter-in-law on various occasions, just as she thinks of her daughters, so she lets her accompany them, and makes her feel that she is one of them, and that she is a beloved member of the family since she is married to her beloved son.

In this way the mother-in-law becomes dear to her daughter-in-law, because she shows that her daughter-in-law is dear to her. This is in direct contrast to the practice in those backward, jāhiliyyah societies that have deviated from the guidance of Allāh (ﷻ), where hatred and despicable plots between mothers-in-law and daughters-in-law are the norm, to such an extent that this enmity has become a traditional, inevitable phenomenon, about which there are many folk sayings and popular songs. None of this could have happened if both mothers-in-law and daughters-in-law had really respected one another’s rights as outlined by Islām, and had stayed within the limits prescribed by Allāh (ﷻ). This is why the traditional enmity between the mother-in-law and her daughter-in-law disappeared in those societies that truly embraced Islām and adhered to its teachings and values.

She is Wise and Fair in her Judgement of her Daughter-In-Law

A mother-in-law may find herself being tested by a daughter-in-law who is not of good character, one who does not treat others well. Here we see the need for the mother-in-law to exercise wisdom and sophistication by repelling evil with something better, as stated in the Qur’ān:

﴿Nor can Goodness and Evil be equal. Repel [Evil] with what is better: then will he between whom and you was hatred become as it were your friend and intimate! And no one will be granted such goodness except those who exercise patience and self-restraint – none but persons of the greatest good fortune.﴾ (Qur’ān 41: 34-35)

One way in which a mother-in-law may repel evil with something better is by concealing her daughter-in-law’s negative qualities and mistakes from her son as much as possible, advising her daughter-in-law on her own and explaining how keen she is for the marriage to continue on the basis of love and good works. The mother-in-law should continue to advise her daughter-in-law until she rids herself of those negative qualities, or at least minimizes them. Thus the daughter-in-law will feel that she has a sincere, loving mother-in-law, not a fearsome enemy who is just waiting for her to stumble.

²⁶⁶ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 2/37, Kitāb al-imān, bāb bayan an al-dīn al-nasīḥah.

The wise Muslim mother-in-law remains fair and just when she judges between her daughter-in-law and her son, if she sees her son mistreating her daughter-in-law. Her awareness and fear of Allāh (ﷻ) prevent her from siding with her son at the expense of the truth, so she does not support him in oppressing his wife or in doing wrong. This is in accordance with the words of the Qur'ān:

﴿...Whenever you speak, speak justly, even if a near relative is concerned...﴾ (Qur'ān 6: 152)

﴿...And when you judge between man and man, that you judge with justice...﴾ (Qur'ān 4: 58)

The Muslim woman who is truly following this guidance will never commit the sin of oppression, and will never be content to give any judgement except that which is fair, even if this means judging in favour of her daughter-in-law and against her son.

B - Her Son-In-Law

Her Attitude Towards her Son-In-Law

The attitude of the truly-guided Muslim woman towards her sons-in-law is no different than her attitude towards her daughters-in-law. She treats her daughter-in-law as if she were one of her own daughters, and similarly she treats her son-in-law as if he were one of her own sons. Just as she wants her own son to be one of the best of people, so she also wants her son-in-law to be one of the best of people too.

She Knows How to Make a Good Choice in Selecting a Son-In-Law

So she makes a good choice when selecting a son-in-law, accepting none but one who is religious, well-mannered and has a good reputation, as the Prophet (ﷺ) encouraged Muslims to do in the ḥadīth:

"If there comes to you one with whose religious commitment and character you are pleased, then marry your daughter to him; if you do not do so, it will be a cause offitnah and widespread mischief on earth."

²⁶⁷

In seeking a spouse for her daughter, she is not attracted only by a smart appearance, high status or plentiful wealth, because she knows that by marrying her daughter to this man she is going to gain a son, to whom she will entrust her daughter's honour, life and happiness, none of which may be protected or properly taken care of except by a man who is well-mannered, religious, noble, chivalrous and moral.

She Respects and Honours him

Not surprisingly, her son-in-law is on the receiving end of her honour, respect and appreciation. At every opportunity she makes him feel that he has become a member of the family by marrying her daughter, so she wishes him and her daughter happiness and success in their life together. She lets him know that he is the one to whom she has entrusted the precious honour of her daughter, and in whom she places her hopes for the achievement of her daughter's fondest wishes. She makes him feel that she is a second mother to him, so she does not withhold any advice, or spare any effort to do whatever will bring happiness to him, his wife and his children.

She Helps her Daughter to be a Good Wife to her Husband

The wise Muslim woman never ceases to offer advice to her daughter in ways that will be of benefit to her in running her household and taking care of her husband and children. She always points out to her daughter anything that will please her husband and make him happy, and encourages her to undertake the duties of a wife and mother in the best way possible. If she notices any shortcoming, negligence or carelessness on the part of her daughter, she hastens to correct and advise her, and helps her to make up for the shortcoming, so that there will be no reason for her son-in-law to look down on her daughter. She does not neglect to mention her son-in-law's good characteristics from time to time, so that her daughter will become more fond of him, and more content with what Allāh (ﷻ) has given her. In this way, a mother becomes the greatest help to her daughter in consolidating her marriage and making it happy.

²⁶⁷ A ḥasan ḥadīth narrated by Tirmidhī, 2/274, Abwāb al-nikāḥ, 3; Ibn Mājah, 1/633, Kitāb al-nikāḥ, bāb al-akfā.

She is Fair, and is Never Biased in Favour of her Daughter

The Muslim mother-in-law is always fair in her opinions and judgements if any misunderstanding arises between her daughter and son-in-law, or if she notices any failure on her daughter's part to be a good wife or to perform her domestic duties or to take care of her husband's legitimate desires. She does not stand by her daughter, rather she speaks words of fairness and truth, as commanded by Allāh (ﷻ) in the Qur'ān:

﴿...Whenever you speak, speak justly, even if a near relative is concerned...﴾ (Qur'ān 6: 152)

﴿...And when you judge between man and man, that you judge with justice...﴾ (Qur'ān 4: 58)

If she notices that her daughter tends to take a lot of money from her husband or spends extravagantly, and that her words of advice to her daughter are not heeded, then she speaks out, explaining to her daughter the error of her ways and pointing out how she has transgressed the limits laid down by Islām with regard to spending, as has been outlined in the Qur'ānic description of the honoured, truly-guided servants of Allāh (ﷻ):

﴿Those who, when they spend, are not extravagant and not niggardly, but hold a just [balance] between those [extremes].﴾ (Qur'ān 25: 67)

If what she notices on her daughter's part is excessive power and a tendency to undermine her husband's honour and qawwāmah, she hastens to explain to her daughter in the clearest terms that men are qawwāmūn over women, as the Qur'ān says:

﴿Men are the protectors and maintainers of women, because Allāh has given the one more [strength] than the other, and because they support them from their means...﴾ (Qur'ān 4: 34)

And that men have been given this role of protecting and maintaining women for two essential reasons which women should never forget: the precedence given to men, and the wealth that they spend on women:

﴿...but men have a degree [of advantage] over them.﴾ (Qur'ān 2: 228)

The mother-in-law who is adhering to Islām and who is wise and fair does not differentiate between her son and her son-in-law. Just as she wants her son to fulfil his role as qawwām over his wife and to conduct his marriage wisely, seriously and in a manly fashion, so she wants the same thing for her son-in-law too, even if that means that her daughter has to face some strictness, because justice demands that of every woman who believes in Allāh (ﷻ) and the Last Day.

Just as the Muslim mother-in-law will criticize her daughter-in-law if necessary for any extravagance that she may notice, out of compassion towards her son, she will also criticize her own daughter if she oversteps the limits, in order to be fair and just, and in obedience to the words of the Qur'ān:

﴿...Whenever you speak, speak justly, even if a near relative is concerned...﴾ (Qur'ān 6: 152)

She Deals With Problems Wisely

A son-in-law may be of a certain mentality with which his wife and mother-in-law do not feel at ease, which may result in mutual dislike and arguments. In such cases, the duty of the mother-in-law who understands the teachings of Islām is to approach her son-in-law in a sensitive manner, taking into account his particular mentality and nature, to deal with him wisely, and never to despair of reaching her goal with a measure of patience and persistence.

She is always very careful never to exaggerate her son-in-law's negative points to her daughter; rather, so long as those negative aspects do not affect his religion or moral character and do not warrant the end of the marriage, she tries to make them look as small as possible, whilst striving to deal with them by legitimate means and wise methods.

Thus the mother-in-law who is truly guided by Islām becomes a blessing and a source of goodness for her daughter and her husband, offering solid support to their marriage and proving by her fairness and piety that she is indeed a second mother to the husband, not the traditional enemy of the couple, as she is often described in backward, jāhiliyyah societies where comedians tell funny stories of that everlasting enmity which in fact is the result of the Muslims' failure to properly apply the laws and values of their religion.

We may well imagine the great happiness felt by both families - her son's family and her daughter's family - towards this wise, sensitive, pious mother-in-law, when she is sincere and loved by both her son-in-law and her daughter-in-law, and this love is reflected in the happiness of both families.

By virtue of her taqwā, fairness and goodness to her son- and daughter-in-law, she increases the happiness of her daughter and son, and contributes to the comfort and tranquillity of their families.

How beautiful are the deeds of the intelligent, believing mother-in-law, and how great is the need of her sons' and daughters' families for her!

CHAPTER 7

The Muslim Woman and Her Relatives

The Muslim woman who is guided by the teachings of her religion never forgets that her relatives have rights over her, and that she is required to uphold the ties of kinship and to treat them well. The relatives (in Arabic Arḥām, which literally means "wombs") are those to whom a person is linked by ties of blood, whether they are his heirs or not.

Islāmic View of Kinship Ties

Islām has recognized the ties of kinship in a way that is unparalleled in other religions or "isms"; it enjoins Muslims to uphold the ties of kinship and condemns the one who breaks this tie.

There is no greater proof of the emphasis placed by Islām on the ties of kinship than the vivid picture painted by the Prophet (ﷺ), who described kinship (raḥm) as standing in the vast arena of creation and seeking refuge with Allāh (ﷻ) from being cut off. Allāh (ﷻ) answers its prayer, taking care of those who maintain the ties of kinship, and cutting off those who cut off these ties. This is seen in the ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth narrated by Abū Hurayrah who said, "The Prophet (ﷺ) said:

'Allāh (ﷻ) created the universe, and when He had finished, kinship (raḥm) stood up and said, "This is the standing up of one who seeks Your protection from being cut off." Allāh (ﷻ) said, "Yes, would it please you if I were to take care of those who take care of you and cut off those who cut you off?" It said, "Of course." Allāh (ﷻ) said, "Then your prayer is granted." Then the Prophet (ﷺ) said, 'Recite, if you wish:

﴿Then, is it to be expected of you, if you were put in authority, that you will do mischief, in the land, and break your ties of kith and kin? Such are the men whom Allāh has cursed for He has made them deaf and blinded their sight.﴾ (Qur'ān 47: 22-23)²⁶⁸

268 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 13/20, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah, bāb thawab silah al-raḥm wa ithm man qata'aha.

Many āyāt of the Qur’ān reiterate and affirm the position of arḥām in Islām, encouraging people to uphold the ties of kinship and instilling a strong sense of the importance of recognizing kinship rights and avoiding neglect of those rights, and warning against abuse of them. One of these āyāt is:

﴿Fear Allāh, through Whom you demand your mutual [rights], and [reverence] the wombs [that bore you]...﴾ (Qur’ān 4: 1)

This āyah commands man to fear Allāh (ﷻ) first and foremost, then places respect for arḥām second to that of taqwā in order to emphasize its importance.

For the true Muslim, the fact that rahīm is often mentioned in conjunction with belief in Allāh (ﷻ) and good treatment of parents, is enough to confirm its status and importance:

﴿Your Rabb has decreed that you worship none but Him, and that you be kind to parents...﴾ (Qur’ān 17: 23)

﴿And render to the kindred their due rights, as [also] to those in want, and to the wayfarer: but squander not [your wealth] in the manner of a spendthrift.﴾ (Qur’ān 17: 26)

﴿Worship Allāh, and join not any partners with Him; and do good - to parents, kinsfolk, orphans, those in need. Neighbours who are near, neighbours who are strangers, the companion by your side, the wayfarer [you meet]...﴾ (Qur’ān 4: 36)

Hence kind treatment of relatives comes one degree below kind treatment of parents on the scale of human relationships as defined by the Qur’ān; from there, kindness and respect extends to encompass all those needy members of the greater human family. This suits human nature, which is more inclined to start with kind treatment of those who are closer; it is also in harmony with the overall Islāmic system of social organization and mutual responsibility which starts with the family then is readily extended first to relatives and then to society at large, in a spirit of mercy and friendship which makes life more pleasant and beautiful for mankind.

Upholding the ties of kinship is one of the major principles of Islām, one of the fundamentals that this religion has promoted from the first day the Prophet (ﷺ) began to preach his message. It is one of the most characteristic features of Islāmic law. When the emperor asked Abū Sufyān, "What does your Prophet order you to do?" he answered, "He tells us: 'Worship Allāh (ﷻ) alone and do not associate anything with Him. Give up the religion of your forefathers.' He tells us to pray, to give charity, to be chaste and to uphold the ties of kinship." 269

Upholding the ties of kinship is counted as one of the major characteristics of this religion, along with pure monotheistic belief in Allāh (ﷻ), establishing prayer, and adherence to truthfulness and chastity, which were being explained to those questioners for the very first time.

In the lengthy ḥadīth of ‘Amr ibn ‘Anbasah (رضي الله عنه), which includes many of the basic teachings of Islām, he said:

"I entered upon the Prophet (ﷺ) in Makkah (meaning at the beginning of his Prophethood), and asked him, 'What are you?' He said, 'A Prophet.' I asked, 'What is a Prophet?' He said, 'Allāh (ﷻ) has sent me.' I asked, 'With what has He sent you?' He said, 'He has sent me to uphold the ties of kinship, to break the idols and to teach that Allāh (ﷻ) is One and has no partner whatsoever..." 270

In this summary of the most important principles of Islām, the Prophet (ﷺ) clearly gave precedence to upholding the ties of kinship and mentioned this among the foremost features of the faith. This is indicative of its high status in the framework of this religion which Allāh (ﷻ) has revealed as a mercy to the Worlds.

The sources of Islām go to great lengths to encourage upholding the ties of kinship, and warn against cutting them off. Abū Ayyūb al-Anṣārī (رضي الله عنه) said:

269 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyādh al-Ṣāliḥīn, 51, Bāb al-ṣidq.

270 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 6/115, Kitāb ṣalāt al-musafirīn, bāb al-awqāʿ allatī nuhiya ‘an al-ṣalāʿ fiha.

“A man said, ‘O Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ), tell me of a good deed that will grant me entrance to Paradise.’ The Prophet (ﷺ) said: ‘Worship Allāh (ﷻ) and do not associate anything with Him, establish regular prayer, pay zakāh, and uphold the ties of kinship.’”²⁷¹

How great is the tie of kinship, and how heavily will it weigh in the balance of a person’s deeds (on the Day of Judgement)! For it appears in the same context as worshipping Allāh (ﷻ), believing in His absolute unity, establishing regular prayer and paying zakāh. Hence it is one of the best of righteous deeds that will guarantee Paradise and save one from Hell. Anas (رضي الله عنه) said:

“The Prophet (ﷺ) said, ‘Whoever would like his rizq (provision) to be increased and his life to be extended, should uphold the ties of kinship.’”²⁷²

So it is a blessing for the one who upholds the ties of kinship, a blessing which affects both his rizq and his life: his wealth will increase and he will live a longer and more blessed life.

Ibn ‘Umar used to say: “Whoever fears his Lord and upholds the ties of kinship, his life will be extended, his wealth will increase and his family will love him more.”²⁷³

The Muslim woman does not forget that upholding the ties of kinship is a duty required of women just as it is required of men, and that the words concerning it are addressed to every Muslim, whether man or woman, as is the case with all the general duties of Islām. So the Muslim woman upholds the ties of kinship sincerely and earnestly, and does not let her busy life of responsibilities distract her from doing so.

The Muslim woman who understands the teachings of her religion realizes that upholding the ties of kinship brings blessing in a woman’s rizq and in her life, mercy from Allāh (ﷻ) in this world and the next, and makes people love her and praise her. In contrast, breaking those ties will spell disaster and misery for her, earning her the dislike of Allāh (ﷻ) and the people, and keeping her far from Paradise in the Hereafter. It is misery and deprivation enough for such a woman to hear the words of the Prophet (ﷺ): “The person who breaks the ties of kinship will never enter Paradise.”²⁷⁴

It is sufficient to know that the mercy of Allāh (ﷻ) will be denied to the one who breaks the ties of kinship; moreover, it will be denied to others in a group among whom is a person who breaks the ties of kinship, as in the ḥadīth reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adab al-Mufrad 275:

“Mercy will not descend upon a people among whom is one who breaks the ties of kinship.”

Hence the great Ṣaḥābī Abū Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه) never liked to make supplication to Allāh (ﷻ) in a gathering in which a person who had broken the ties of kinship was present, because that would prevent mercy from descending and the du‘ā’ from being answered. In one Thursday night gathering, he said: “I urge everyone who has broken the ties of kinship to get up and leave us.” No-one got up until he had said this three times. Then a young man got up and went to see a (paternal) aunt of his whom he had forsaken for two years. When he entered, she said, “O son of my brother, what brings you here?” He said, “I heard Abū Hurayrah say such-and-such.” She told him, “Go back to him and ask him why he said that.” (Abū Hurayrah) said: “I heard the Prophet (ﷺ) say: ‘The deeds of the sons of Ādam are shown to Allāh (ﷻ) every Thursday evening before Jama‘ah, and the deeds of the one who breaks the ties of kinship are not accepted.’”²⁷⁶

The sensitive Muslim woman who is hoping to earn the pleasure of her Lord and attain salvation in the Hereafter will be deeply shaken by the news given in these texts, that breaking the ties of kinship will cause mercy to be withheld from her and her du‘ā’ not to be answered. It will be a source of great misery to her to be in such a position, to do deeds, which are of no avail, to seek the mercy of her Rabb and not receive it. It is unimaginable that a true Muslim woman would ever break the ties of kinship.

271 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyād al-Ṣaliḥīn, 195, bāb bīrr l-wālidayn wa silah al-arḥām.

272 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 13/19, Kitāb al-bīrr wa’l-silah, bāb thawab silah al-raḥm.

273 Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adab al-Mufrad, 1/140, Bāb man wasala raḥmahu ahabbahu Allāh.

274 (Bukhari and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 13/26, Kitāb al-bīrr wa’l-silah, bāb thawab silah al-raḥm wa ithm man qata ‘aha.

275 Al-Adab al-Mufrad 1/144, bāb la tanzil al-raḥmah ‘ala qawm fihim qati’ raḥm.

276 Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adab al-Mufrad, 1/142, Bāb bīrr al-aqrab fa’l-aqrab.

Breaking the ties of kinship is a sin which the Muslim woman whose heart is filled with true guidance and the desire to obey Allāh (ﷻ) and earn His pleasure would never commit, because it is one of the sins that Allāh (ﷻ) has said will bring punishment; indeed, it is one of the foremost sins for which Allāh (ﷻ) will punish the one who is guilty of them both in this world and the next, as is stated in the ḥadīth:

“There is no worse sin for which Allāh (ﷻ) will hasten the punishment of one who commits it in this world in addition to what awaits him in the Hereafter- than oppressing others and breaking the ties of kinship.”
277

The acts of oppressing others and breaking the ties of kinship are very much like one another, so the Prophet (ﷺ) mentioned them together in this ḥadīth. For breaking the ties of kinship is a kind of dhulm (wrongdoing, oppression), and what dhulm can be worse than breaking off relations with one’s own kin and destroying the ties of love and affection?

The Prophet (ﷺ) described the oppression that befalls the ties of kinship when they are cut off:

“The tie of kinship (rahm) is a close-knit relationship that comes from Allāh (ﷻ), the Most Merciful (Ar-Raḥmān).²⁷⁸ It says: ‘O my Rabb, I have been oppressed, O my Rabb, I have been cut off.’ He answers, ‘Will you not be content if I cut off the one who cuts you off and take care of the one who takes care of you?’”²⁷⁹

Allāh (ﷻ) raised the status of the tie of kinship and honoured it by deriving its name, rahm, from one of His own names, Ar-Raḥmān. For He said (in a ḥadīth qudsī):

“I am Ar-Raḥmān (the Most Merciful) and I have created rahm and derived its name from My name. Whoever takes care of it, I will take care of him, and whoever cuts it off, I will forsake him.”²⁸⁰

These texts clearly confirm that the one who upholds the ties of kinship will be happy, loved and honoured and will enjoy the cool shade of his Rabb’s mercy; The one who breaks those ties will be denied that shade, and will be forsaken and abandoned, denied the mercy, forgiveness and pleasure of his Rabb.

The Muslim Woman Upholds the Ties of Kinship According to the Teachings of Islām

The Muslim woman who is truly guided by the teachings of her religion does not neglect to uphold the ties of kinship, and never lets the responsibilities of motherhood or the burden of caring for her house and husband distract her from always upholding these ties. So she organizes her time so that she may visit her relatives, following Islāmic teaching, which regulates these relationships and ranks them in order of priority and degree of closeness, starting with the mother, then moving on to the father, then other relatives, from the most closely-related to others who are more distantly related.

A man came to the Prophet (ﷺ) and asked, “O Messenger of Allāh (ﷻ), who is most deserving of my good company?” He said, “Your mother, then your mother, then your mother, then your father, then those who are most closely related to you.”²⁸¹

The Muslim woman earns two rewards when she treats her relatives with kindness and respect: one reward for maintaining the relationship, and another reward for giving charity, if she is rich and can spend money on them. This gives her a greater incentive to give to her relatives, if they are in need. By doing so, she will earn two rewards from Allāh (ﷻ), and will also win the affection of her relatives. This is what the ²⁷⁷ Reported by Aḥmad, 5/38, and Ibn Mājah, 2/37, Kitāb al-zuhd, bāb al-baghy. Its isnād is ṣaḥīḥ.

²⁷⁸ The connection is clearer in Arabic, as rahm and Ar-Raḥmān are derived from the same root. [Translator]

²⁷⁹ Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adab al-Mufrad, 1/146, Bāb ithm qati’ al-rahm.

²⁸⁰ Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adab al-Mufrad, 1/132, Bāb fadl silat al-rahm.

²⁸¹ (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyāḍ al-Ṣaliḥīn, 189, Bāb birr al-wālidayn wa silat al-rahm.

Prophet (ﷺ) encouraged Muslims to do, in the ḥadīth narrated by Zaynab al-Thaqafiyyah, the wife of ‘Abdullāh ibn Mas‘ūd (رضي الله عنه), who said:

“The Prophet (ﷺ) said: ‘O women, give in charity even if it is some of your jewellery.’ She said, I went back to ‘Abdullāh ibn Mas‘ūd and told him, ‘You are a man of little wealth, and the Prophet (ﷺ) has commanded us to give charity, so go and ask him whether it is permissible for me to give you charity. If it is, I will do so; if not, I will give charity to someone else.’ ‘Abdullāh said, ‘No, you go and ask.’ So I went, and I found a woman of the Anṣār at the Prophet’s door, who also had the same question. We felt too shy to go in, out of respect, so Bilāl came out and we asked him, ‘Go and tell the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) that there are two women at the door asking: Is it permissible for them to give sadaqah to their husbands and the orphans in their care? But do not tell him who we are.’ So Bilāl went in and conveyed this message to the Prophet (ﷺ), who asked, ‘Who are they?’ Bilāl said, ‘One of the women of the Anṣār, and Zaynab.’ The Prophet (ﷺ) asked, ‘Which Zaynab is it?’ Bilāl said, ‘The wife of ‘Abdullāh.’ The Prophet (ﷺ) said, ‘They will have two rewards, the reward for upholding the relationship, and the reward for giving charity.’” 282

The Prophet (ﷺ) said:

“Charity given to a poor person is charity, and charity given to a relative earns two rewards: one for giving charity and one for upholding the ties of kinship.” 283

The Prophet (ﷺ) used to reaffirm the priority given to kind treatment of relatives at every opportunity. When the āyah (By no means shall you attain righteousness unless you give [freely] of that which you love...) (Qur’ān 3: 92) was revealed, Abū Ṭalḥah went to the Prophet (ﷺ) and said: “O Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ), Allāh (ﷻ) says: (‘By no means shall you attain righteousness unless you give [freely] of that which you love...’). The most beloved of my properties is Bayrahā (a date orchard), which I now give up as sadaqah to Allāh (ﷻ), hoping to store up reward with Him. O Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ), dispose of it as you will.” The Prophet (ﷺ) said: “Bravo! You have got the best deal for your property. I have heard what you said, and I think that you should divide it among your relatives.” Abū Ṭalḥah (رضي الله عنه) said, “I will do so, O Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ).” He divided it among his relatives and (paternal) cousins. 284

The Prophet (ﷺ) looked far back into history and evoked ties of kinship going back centuries, when he enjoined good treatment of the people of Egypt, as is recorded in the ḥadīth narrated by Muslim:

“You will conquer Egypt, which is known as the land of Al-qirāt (i.e. where coins are minted) so when you conquer it, treat its people well, for they have protection (ḥimmah) and the ties of kinship (raḥm).” Or he said: “...protection and the relationship by marriage (ṣiḥr).” 285

The ‘ulamā explained that raḥm here referred to Hajar, the mother of Ismā‘īl, and siḥr referred to Maryah, the mother of the Prophet’s son Ibrāhīm - both of whom came from Egypt.

What a display of loyalty, faithfulness and good treatment, which extends to the kinsfolk and countrymen of those two noble women down throughout the ages! The Muslim woman who hears these wise teachings of the Prophet (ﷺ) cannot but uphold her ties with her relatives, offering them her sincere love, keeping in constant contact with them and treating them with kindness and respect.

She Maintains the Ties of Kinship Even if her Relatives are not Muslim

When the Muslim woman looks into the guidance of Islām, she sees that it reaches new heights of gentleness and humanity by enjoining its followers to uphold the ties of kinship even if one’s relatives follow a religion other than Islām. ‘Abdullāh ibn ‘Amr ibn al-‘Āṣ (رضي الله عنه) said:

282 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 6/187, Kitāb al-zakāh, Bāb fadl al-ṣadaqah ‘ala l-awlād wa l-aqārib.

283 Reported by At-Tirmidhī, 2/84, Abwāb al-zakāh, 26; he said it is a ḥasan ḥadīth.

284 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 6/189, Kitāb al-zakāh, bāb fadl al-ṣadaqah ‘ala al-aqārib.

285 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/97, Kitāb fadā’il al-Ṣaḥābah, bāb wasiyyah al-Nabi bi ahl misr.

"I heard the Prophet (ﷺ) openly saying: 'The family of Abī so-and-so are not my friends, for my friends are Allāh (ﷻ) and the righteous believers. But they have ties of kinship with me, which I will recognize and uphold.'" 286

When the āyah ﴿And admonish your nearest kinsmen﴾ (Qur'ān 26: 214) was revealed, the Prophet (ﷺ) summoned Quraysh. They gathered and he addressed them both in general and specific terms: "O Banū Ka'b ibn Lu'ayy, save yourselves from the Fire. O Banū Murrah ibn Ka'b, save yourselves from the Fire. O Banū 'Abdu Shams, save yourselves from the Fire. O Banū 'Abdu Manāf, save yourselves from the Fire. O Banū Hāshim, save yourselves from the Fire. O Banū 'Abdul Muṭṭalib, save yourselves from the Fire. O Fāṭimah, save yourself from the Fire. I cannot do anything to protect you from the punishment of Allāh (ﷻ), but there are ties of kinship between us that I will recognize and uphold."²⁸⁷

The Prophet's teachings reached the hearts of the first Muslim men and women, and had an effect upon them, so that they were kind to their non-Muslim relatives. Evidence of this may be seen in the report given by Ibn 'Abdul-Barr in Al-Isti'ab and by Ibn Hajar in Al-Isabah, which describes how a female maid of Umm al-Mu'minīn Ṣafīyyah came to the khalīfah 'Umar ibn al-Khaṭṭāb (رضي الله عنه) and said, "O Amīr al-Mu'minīn, Ṣafīyyah loves the Sabbath (Saturday) and treats the Jews well." 'Umar sent for Ṣafīyyah and questioned her about that. She replied: "As far as the Sabbath is concerned, I have not loved it since Allāh (ﷻ) replaced it with Jama'ah (Friday) for me. As for the Jews, I have relatives among them with whom I uphold the ties of kinship." Then she turned to her maid and asked her what had made her tell such a lie. The slave woman answered, "Shayṭān." Ṣafīyyah's response was to tell her: "Go, you are free."²⁸⁸

'Umar (رضي الله عنه) did not see anything wrong with giving a garment that the Prophet (ﷺ) had sent him to his half-brother (through his mother), who was amushrik.²⁸⁹

Hence the Muslim woman sees that the spring of human emotion does not dry up when a person utters the Shahadah, but rather his or her heart overflows with love and good treatment towards his or her relatives, even if they are not Muslim. The expression of the Prophet (ﷺ), "but there are ties of kinship between us which I will recognize and uphold (literally 'moisten')"²⁸⁷ is an example of Arabic eloquence, a metaphor in which the kinship tie (rahīm) is likened to the earth, and is "irrigated" by upholding it, so that it bears fruits of love and purity; if it is cut off, it becomes barren and produces only hatred and animosity. The true Muslim is on good terms with everyone and is liked by everyone, as they see good characteristics embodied in him.

Islām encourages us to treat our parents with kindness and respect, even if they are mushrikīn, and here we see how it encourages us to treat our relatives equally well, even if they are not Muslims either, based on the gentleness, humanity and mercy which this religion brings to the whole of mankind:

﴿We sent you not, but as a Mercy for all creatures.﴾ (Qur'ān 21: 107)

She Fully Understands the Meaning of Upholding the Tie of Kinship

For the Muslim woman, the tie of kinship is multi-faceted. Sometimes it may involve spending money to ward off poverty and relieve hardship; at other times it may mean making visits to strengthen the ties of love; or speaking and smiling kindly and offering a warm welcome; or giving advice, showing compassion or making a selfless gesture... i.e., acts of goodness which will awaken and increase human feelings of love, compassion and mutual support between those who are related to one another.

Hence the Prophet (ﷺ) urged Muslims to uphold the ties of kinship even in the simplest of ways:

"Maintain your ties of kinship even if it is merely with a greeting (i.e., saying Al-salām 'alaykum)."²⁹⁰

286 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 13/29, Kitāb al-birr wa 'l-silat, bāb thawab silat al-rahīm.

287 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 3/79, Kitāb al-īmān, bāb man mata 'ala 'l-kufr la talhaquhu al-shafa'ah.

288 Ibn 'Abdul-Barr, Al-Isti'ab, 4/1872; Ibn Hajar, Al-Isabah, 8/127.

289 Fatḥ al-Bārī, 10/414, Kitāb al-adab, bāb silat al-akh al-mushrik.

She Maintains the Ties of Kinship Even if Her Relatives Fail To Do So

The Muslim woman whose soul is infused with the true teachings of this religion upholds the ties of kinship and does not break them. She does not treat like with like, upholding the tie if her relatives uphold it and breaking it if they break it. The Muslim woman is one who always upholds the ties of kinship, because by doing so she is seeking the pleasure and reward of Allāh (ﷻ), not equal treatment in return. In this way she sets the highest example of that refined human behaviour which Islām is always keen to instil in the souls of Muslim men and women. It is, in fact, a most difficult level to achieve, except for those whom Allāh (ﷻ) has guided and who have devoted themselves to seeking His pleasure. The Muslim woman who is truly guided by the teachings of her religion is among this noble group of women who are eager to treat their relatives well in accordance with the teachings of the Prophet (ﷺ):

"The one who maintains a relationship with his relatives only because they maintain a relationship with him is not truly upholding the ties of kinship. The one who truly upholds those ties is the one who does so even if they break off the relationship." 291

This is the refined human attitude to which Islām wants all Muslim men and women to aspire in their dealings with their relatives. Hence the Prophet (ﷺ) reinforced the attributes of kindness, patience and tolerance in the Muslims, especially in the case of the one who upholds the ties of kinship and receives nothing in return but harshness, mistreatment and cruelty. He (ﷺ) stated that Allāh (ﷻ) is with the one who upholds the ties of kinship and does not receive similar treatment in return, and he drew a frightening picture of the punishment that awaits the hard-hearted person who harshly denies and breaks the ties of kinship.

A man came to the Prophet (ﷺ) and said, "O Messenger of Allāh (ﷻ), I have relatives with whom I try to keep in touch, but they cut me off. I treat them well, but they abuse me; I am patient and kind towards them, but they insult me." The Prophet (ﷺ) said: "If you are as you say, then it is as if you are putting hot dust in their mouths. Allāh (ﷻ) will continue to support you as long as you continue to do that." 292

How important is the tie of kinship, and how heavily will it weigh in the balance of the believer! How unfortunate are those who neglect it and cut off the ties of love and kinship! How great will be the reward of the woman who upholds the ties of kinship and bears her relatives' harshness with patience, so that Allāh (ﷻ) Himself will support her against them, filling her heart with patience when they treat her badly and helping her to persevere in her noble attitude. How great is the sin of those men and women who break the ties of kinship, so that the Prophet (ﷺ) likened such a person to one who eats hot dust as a punishment for breaking the ties of kinship when others are seeking to maintain it.

The true Muslim woman is one who upholds the ties of kinship no matter what the circumstances; she does not cut them off even if they cut her off. Thus she seeks the pleasure of her Rabb, rising above the petty issues that may arise between relatives from time to time, and avoiding the insignificant matters that occupy the minds of lesser people and fill their hearts with hatred. She believes that she is above going down to the level of insignificant, foolish issues that cancel out good deeds and affect the purity of the kinship tie. It never occurs to her to sink to such a level when she listens to the words of the Prophet (ﷺ):

"The tie of kinship (rahm) is suspended from the throne of Allāh (ﷻ), and says, 'Whoever supports me, Allāh (ﷻ) will support him, and whoever cuts me off, Allāh (ﷻ) will cut him off.'" 293

290 Reported by Al-Bazzār from Ibn 'Abbās, as stated by Al-Ḥaythamī in Kashf al-astār, 2/373; its isnāds strengthen one another, as stated by Al-Sakhāwī in Al-maqāsid al-ḥasanah, 146.

291 Fatḥ al-Bārī, 10/423, Kitāb al-adab, bāb laysa al-wasil bi'l-mukāfī.

292 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/115, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silat wa'l-adab, bāb taḥrīm al-tahasud wa'l-tabaghud.

293 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyādh al-Ṣāliḥīn, 191, Bāb birra al-wālidayn wa silat al-arḥam.

CHAPTER 8

The Muslim Woman And Her Neighbours

The Muslim Woman is Kind and Friendly Towards her Neighbours

One of the attributes of the Muslim woman who understands the teachings of her religion is that she treats her neighbours well and respects them.

She Adheres to the Islāmic Teachings Regarding Good Treatment of Neighbours

The true Muslim woman understands the teachings of Islām which strongly urge good treatment of neighbours and gives the neighbour such a high status in the scale of human relationships, such as has never been equalled in any other religion or system before or since.

Allāh (ﷻ) has clearly commanded the good treatment of neighbours in the Qur’ān:

﴿Worship Allāh, and join not any partners with Him; and do good - to parents, kinsfolk, orphans, those in need, neighbours who are near, neighbours who are strangers, the companion by your side, the wayfarer [you meet], and what your right hands possess...﴾ (Qur’ān 4: 36)

The “neighbour who is near” is one with whom one shares ties of kinship or religion; the “neighbour who is a stranger” is one with whom one shares no such ties; and the “companion by your side” is a friend, colleague or travelling-companion.

Everyone whose home neighbours yours has the rights of a neighbour over you, even if you are not connected by kinship or religion. This honouring of the neighbour is an example of the tolerance promoted by Islām.

There are many ḥadīths of the Prophet (ﷺ) which enjoin good treatment of neighbours in general, regardless of kinship or religious factors, and confirm the importance of the neighbourly relationship in Islām. For example:

“Jibrīl kept on enjoining the good treatment of neighbours to such an extent that I thought he would include neighbours as heirs.”²⁹⁴

Islām gives such a high status to neighbours that when Jibrīl reiterated the importance of treating them well, the Prophet (ﷺ) thought that he would raise neighbours to the level of kinship and give them similar rights of inheritance.

The Prophet (ﷺ) followed Jibrīl’s urging, and encouraged Muslims to honour neighbours and treat them well. In his historical khutbah (sermon) during the Farewell Pilgrimage, in which he summarized the most important points of his teachings, he did not omit to mention neighbours and emphasized their rights to such an extent that the eminent Ṣaḥābī Abū Umamah also thought that the Prophet (ﷺ) would make neighbours heirs:

“I heard the Prophet (ﷺ), when he was seated on his she-camel during the Farewell Pilgrimage, saying, ‘I enjoin you to treat your neighbours well,’ and urging their good treatment so much that I thought, he is going to give them the rights of inheritance.”²⁹⁵

The Prophet (ﷺ) sometimes used to stir up the emotions of the Ṣaḥābah when he encouraged them to do good deeds, so he would start by saying, “Whoever believes in Allāh (ﷻ) and the Last Day, let him do such-and-such...” He would use this emotive phrase to command or encourage some good deed or desirable characteristic. One of the ḥadīths that use this method of conveying a message is:

“Whoever believes in Allāh (ﷻ) and the Last Day, let him treat his neighbour well; whoever believes in Allāh (ﷻ) and the Last Day, let him honour his guest; whoever believes in Allāh (ﷻ) and the Last Day, let him speak good or else remain silent.”²⁹⁶

²⁹⁴ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 13/71, Kitāb al-birr wa’l-silat, bāb ḥaqq al-jār.

²⁹⁵ Reported by Aṭ-Ṭabarānī with a Jayyid isnād. See Majmā al-Zawā’id, 8/165.

²⁹⁶ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Riyād al-Ṣalīḥīn, 185, Bāb fi ḥaqq al-jār wa’l-wasiyyah bihi.

According to a report given by Bukhārī, he (ﷺ) said: "Whoever believes in Allāh (ﷻ) and the Last Day, let him not harm or annoy his neighbour . . ." ²⁹⁷

Good treatment of neighbours is enjoined at the beginning of the ḥadīth, and is identified as one of the signs and most beneficial results of belief in Allāh (ﷻ) and the Last Day.

She Likes for her Neighbours What she Likes for Herself

The Muslim woman who is truly open to the teachings of her religion is soft-hearted, easy-going and tolerant. She is loving towards her neighbours, sensitive to everything that could disturb, annoy or offend them. She wishes them well, just as she wishes herself well, and she shares their joys and sorrows, in accordance with the teachings of the Prophet (ﷺ): "None of you truly believes until he likes for his brother what he likes for himself." ²⁹⁸

According to a report given by Muslim from Anas (رضي الله عنه), the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"By the One in Whose hand is my soul, no servant truly believes until he likes for his neighbour (or he said: his brother) what he likes for himself." ²⁹⁹

The true Muslim woman does not fail to think of her neighbours who may be faced with difficulties from time to time, so she gives them gifts occasionally. She recognizes that they may be affected by the smell of cooking or barbecues emanating from her house, and she understands their desire for delicious food which they may not be able to afford, so she sends some of it to them, thereby fulfilling the spirit of social responsibility which the Prophet (ﷺ) encouraged in his words to Abū Dharr: "O Abū Dharr, if you cook some broth, add extra water to it, and take care of your neighbour." ³⁰⁰

According to another report, he (ﷺ) said:

"If you cook some broth, add extra water to it, then think of the families in your neighbourhood and send some of it to them." ³⁰¹

The Muslim woman's conscience will not let her ignore her neighbour's poverty and difficulty without making the effort to do good and offer some generous gifts of food and other things, especially if she is well-off and living a life of ease, enjoying the bounties that Allāh (ﷻ) has bestowed upon her. How can she do otherwise, when the words of the Prophet (ﷺ) are ringing in her ears?

"He does not believe in me, who eats his fill while his neighbour beside him is hungry, and he knows about it." ³⁰²

"He is not a believer, who eats his fill while his neighbour is hungry." ³⁰³

She Treats her Neighbour in the Best Way That She Can

The Muslim woman who truly understands the teachings of her religion never thinks that any favour is too small to be worth doing for her neighbour; she does whatever favours she can for her, no matter how insignificant they may appear. She does not let shyness or her desire to show off prevent her from doing the little that she can afford, or make her withhold it on the basis that that it is not good enough, so that she waits until she is able to offer more. Such an attitude deprives both her and her neighbour of much good, because by waiting for some hoped-for bounty that may never arrive, she wastes the opportunity to do good. The Prophet (ﷺ) drew the attention of women in particular to the importance of even the smallest gifts and favours between neighbours: "O Muslim women, do not think that any gift is too insignificant to give to a neighbour, even if it is only a sheep's foot." ³⁰⁴

²⁹⁷ Fath al-Bārī, 10/445, Kitāb al-adab, bāb man kana yu'min bi-Allāh wa'l-yawm al-akhir fala yu'dhījārahu.

²⁹⁸ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 13/60, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silat, bāb ḥaq al-jār.

²⁹⁹ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 2/18, Kitāb al-īmān, bāb min khidālat al-īmān an tuhibb li akhika ma tuhibbu li nafsika.

³⁰⁰ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 2/188, Kitāb al-adab, bāb al-wasiyah bi'l-jār wa'l-ihsan ilayhi.

³⁰¹ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 2/188, Kitāb al-adab, bāb al-wasiyah bi'l-jār wa'l-ihsan ilayhi.

³⁰² Reported by Aṭ-Ṭabarānī and Al-Bazzār with a ḥasan isnād. See Majma' al-Zawa'id, 8/167.

³⁰³ Reported by Aṭ-Ṭabarānī and Abū Ya'lā; its narrators are thiqāt. See Majma' al-Zawa'id, 8/167.

³⁰⁴ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 6/141, Kitāb al-zakāt, bāb al-tasadduq bi'l-shay' al-yasir.

A sheep's foot is a thing of little value, but it is better than nothing, and no woman should feel that any gift is not worth giving to a neighbour. Allāh (ﷻ) says: ﴿“Then shall anyone who has done an atom's-weight of good, see it!”﴾ (Qur'ān 99: 7)

And the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

“Save yourself from the Fire even by giving half a date in charity, and if you do not find (half a date), then by saying a good word.”³⁰⁵

But this ḥadīth, which is general in application, may also be taken to mean that the recipient should not look down on the gift. The meaning then is: No (female) neighbour should scorn the gift given to her by another (female) neighbour, even if it is just a sheep's foot. Rather, she should thank her for it, because gratitude engenders friendship among neighbours and encourages mutual support and help. This is in addition to the fact that thanking people for favours is a basic Islāmic trait which the Prophet (ﷺ) strongly encouraged: “The one who does not give thanks to people does not give thanks to Allāh (ﷻ).”³⁰⁶

Islām wants to spread mutual love and affection among neighbours. The ways in which people may achieve this are many, and include the exchange of gifts. Hence the Prophet (ﷺ) forbade women, in particular, to look down on any gift that she may give to or receive from her neighbour, no matter how small, because women are very sensitive in such matters and this may affect her feelings towards her neighbours. Thus he drew women's attention to the fact that what matters is the noble and worthy thought behind the gift, not the material value of the gift itself. The Muslim woman should not forget this and think any gift is too insignificant, because in Islām thoughts and intentions are more important than material values.

She Treats Her Neighbours Well Even if They Are Not Muslim

The true Muslim woman does not restrict her good treatment only to neighbours who are related to her or who are Muslims, but she extends it to non-Muslim neighbours too, in accordance with the tolerant teachings of Islām which encourage kindness towards all people, regardless of their race or religion, so long as they do not commit any acts of hostility or aggression towards Muslims:

﴿“Allāh forbids you not, with regard to those who fight you not for [your] Faith nor drive you out of your homes, from dealing kindly and justly with them: for Allāh loves those who are just.”﴾ (Qur'ān 60: 8)

On the basis of this, the great Ṣaḥābi ‘Abdullāh ibn ‘Amr asked his slave, after slaughtering a sheep, “Did you give some to our Jewish neighbour? Did you give some to our Jewish neighbour? For I heard the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) saying, ‘Jibrīl kept on enjoining the good treatment of neighbours to such an extent that I thought he would include neighbours as heirs.’”³⁰⁷

How great is the mercy of Islām towards all people, and how kind is its concern towards those who live under its shade! History bears witness to the fact that the People of the Book have lived alongside Muslims in many regions of the Islāmic world, secure in the knowledge that they, their honour and their wealth were safe, enjoying a good neighbourly relationship, good treatment and freedom of worship. Their ancient churches still exist in Muslim villages clinging to mountaintops, surrounded by thousands of Muslims who uphold the well-being of their Jewish and Christian neighbours.

She Starts With the Neighbour Whose Home is Closest to Her Own

The true Muslim woman does not forget the precise system that Islām set out when it enjoined the good treatment of neighbours. Islām has told her to give priority to the one whose house is closest, then the one who is next closest, and so on. This takes into account the closeness of the neighbours whose homes are beside one another, the issues which may frequently arise between them, and the importance of maintaining friendship and harmony.

³⁰⁵ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 6/140, Kitāb al-zakā, bāb al-tasadduq bi shay' al-yasir.

³⁰⁶ Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adab al-Mufrad, 1/310, Bāb man lam yashkur al-nās.

³⁰⁷ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-sunnah, 13/71, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silat, bāb ḥaqq al-jār.

'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) said: "O Messenger of Allāh, I have two neighbours, so to which one should I send a gift?" He said, "To the one whose door is closest to yours."³⁰⁸

This system of priority in the good treatment of neighbours does not mean that the Muslim woman should ignore the neighbours who are further away from her home. Everyone around her home is considered to be a neighbour and thus enjoys the rights of a neighbour. This system is merely the matter of organization, by means of which the Prophet (ﷺ) encouraged taking care of the closest neighbour because he or she is the one with whom there is usually ongoing contact and interaction.

The True Muslim Woman is the Best Neighbour

It comes as no surprise that the Muslim woman who truly understands the teachings of her religion is the best of neighbours, because good treatment of neighbours is a basic Islamic attitude that is deeply engrained in the conscience of the Muslim woman who has been brought up with the teachings of Islām, which state that the one who is kindest to her neighbour is the best neighbour in the sight of Allāh (ﷻ):

"The best of companions in the sight of Allah (ﷻ) is the one who is best to his companion, and the best of neighbours in the sight of Allāh (ﷻ) is the one who is best to his neighbour."³⁰⁹

The Prophet (ﷺ) stated that a good neighbour is one of the joys of a Muslim's life, because he or she guarantees comfort, security and safety:

"Among the things that bring happiness to a Muslim in this life are a righteous neighbour, a spacious house and a good steed."³¹⁰

The salāf appreciated the value of good neighbours so much that they considered having a good neighbour to be a precious blessing. One story which reflects this tells that the neighbour of Sa'īd ibn al-'Aṣ wanted to sell his house for 100,000 dirhams, and told the would-be purchaser, "This is the price of the house, but what would you give for having Sa'īd as a neighbour?" When Sa'īd heard about this, he sent his neighbour the price of the house and told him to stay there.

This is the status of neighbours in Islām, and the attitude and behaviour of a good Muslim neighbour. But what about bad neighbours?

Bad Neighbours

Having a bad neighbour is something, which is so appalling that the sensitive Muslim woman cannot think of it without shuddering and being filled with a sense of fear, loathing and dread.

The Bad Neighbour is a Person Who is Deprived of the Blessing of Faith

It is sufficient misery for a bad neighbour to know that she is deprived of the blessing of faith, which is the greatest blessing in a person's life. The Prophet (ﷺ) confirmed the fact that this blessing is stripped away from every person who persists in mistreating his or her neighbour to the extent that he or she is counted as a bad neighbour, and stated in no uncertain terms when he swore by Allāh (ﷻ) three times that such a person would be stripped of the blessing of faith:

"By Allāh (ﷻ), he does not believe. By Allāh (ﷻ), he does not believe. By Allāh (ﷻ), he does not believe." He was asked, "Who, O Messenger of Allāh?" He said, "The one from whose evils (or troubles) his neighbour does not feel safe."³¹¹

According to a report given by Muslim: "He will not enter Paradise whose neighbour is not safe from his evil (or trouble)."³¹²

³⁰⁸ Reported by Bukhārī in al-Adab al-Mufrad, 1/198, Bāb tahdīl ilā aqrabihim bāban.

³⁰⁹ Reported with a ṣaḥīḥ isnād by Tirmidhī, 3/224, Abwāb al-birr wa'l-silat, bāb ma jā'a fi ḥaqq al-jiwār.

³¹⁰ Reported with a ṣaḥīḥ isnād by Al-Ḥākim, 4/166, in Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silat.

³¹¹ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Riyāḍ al-Ṣāliḥīn, 185, Bāb fi ḥaqq al-jār wa'l-waṣīyah bihi.

³¹² Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 2/18, Kitāb al-īmān, bāb bayān taḥrīm idha' al-jār

How great must be the crime of the bad neighbour, if his mistreatment of his neighbour is depriving him of the blessings of faith and denying him entrance to Paradise!

The true Muslim woman who is pure of heart contemplates the meaning of these texts and the deep impression they leave in her mind concerning bad neighbours. It never occurs to her to mistreat her neighbour, no matter what the circumstances, because mistreating neighbours or becoming involved in disputes and conspiracies is not a thing to be taken lightly: it is a major sin which destroys faith and places one's ultimate fate in jeopardy. This would be the greatest loss, and the mere thought of it makes the true Muslim woman tremble.

The Bad Neighbour is a Person Whose Good Deeds are not Accepted

The bad neighbour is a person who has lost her faith, as stated in the ḥadīth quoted above; she is also a person whose good deeds are all cancelled, so that from now on no act of obedience or righteousness will be of any benefit to her, so long as she persists in her mistreatment of her neighbour. Good deeds are essentially based on faith in Allāh (ﷻ), and faith in Allāh (ﷻ) is not the matter of mere words: what counts is the practical implementation of that which Allāh (ﷻ) requires of His servants. If a bad neighbour has lost her faith by persisting in her mistreatment of her neighbour, then there is no hope that Allāh (ﷻ) will accept her good deeds, no matter how great or how many they may be. They will be utterly wiped out, even if she spends her nights and days performing good deeds.

The Prophet (ﷺ) was asked: "O Messenger of Allāh, such-and-such a woman spends her nights in prayer, fasts during the day, and so on, and she gives in charity, but she offends her neighbours with her sharp tongue." The Prophet (ﷺ) said: "Her good deeds will be of no avail: she is among the people of Hell." They said, "And so-and-so prays only the obligatory prayers, gives charity in the form of leftover curds, but does not offend anyone." The Prophet (ﷺ) said: "She is among the people of Paradise."³¹³

The Prophet (ﷺ) described the bad neighbour as being one of the worst types of people:

"There are three worst types of people: a ruler who, if you do well, does not appreciate it, and if you do wrong, he does not forgive you for it; a bad neighbour who, if he sees something good, he conceals it, and if he sees something bad he broadcasts it; and a wife who, when you are present she annoys you and if you go away, she betrays you."³¹⁴

The Ḥadīth paint such an ugly picture of the bad neighbour that the true Muslim woman would be so shaken that she will avoid committing the sin of mistreating a neighbour and it will be most unlikely that she will let any dispute or hostility arise between her and her neighbour, or become involved in schemes and plots. The Prophet's warning against harming or arguing with neighbours is always echoing in her ears, and she never forgets it any time she feels the stirrings of anger or hostility towards a neighbour:

"The first two disputing parties to appear before Allāh (ﷻ) on the Day of Judgement will be two neighbours."³¹⁵

Her Good Treatment of Her Neighbour is Enough

Not only does the Muslim woman refrain from harming or disturbing her neighbour, she also does not spare any effort to help her neighbour, opening wide the doors of care, friendship and generosity. She is careful not to fall short in her duties whenever she is called upon to take care of her neighbours, and to honour them and treat them well, lest the words of the Prophet (ﷺ) concerning the miserly, unhelpful neighbour become applicable to her:

"How many people will be hanging on to their neighbours on the Day of Judgement, saying: 'O my Rabb! He shut his door in my face and denied me his kind treatment and help!'³¹⁶

What a miserable position the miserly, uncaring neighbour will be in on the Day of Judgement!

³¹³ Reported by Bukhārī in al-Adab al-Mufrad, 1/210, Bāb lā yu'dhi jārāhu.

³¹⁴ Reported by Aṭ-Ṭabarānī in Al-Kabīr, 18/267; its narrators are thiqāt.

³¹⁵ Reported with a ḥasan isnād by Aḥmad and Aṭ-Ṭabarānī. See Majma' al-Zawa'id, 8/170.

³¹⁶ Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adab al-Mufrad, 1/200, Bāb man aghlaqa al-bāb 'ala 'l-jār

According to Islām, the Muslim men and women are like a high wall, whose bricks are the people of this ummah. Each brick must be sound, and strongly bonded with the others, to make this wall sturdy and durable, otherwise it will become weak and prone to collapse. Thus Islām surrounds this wall with strong spiritual ties, to preserve its integrity and strength, so that it will not be shaken no matter what events befall it.

The Prophet (ﷺ) gave a marvellous metaphor of the solidarity and mutual support among Muslim men and women:

“Believers are like a structure, parts of which support other parts.”³¹⁷

“The believers, in their mutual friendship, mercy and affection, are like one body: if any part of it complains, the rest of the body will also stay awake in pain.”³¹⁸

If a religion places such an amazing emphasis on the solidarity of its followers, it is natural that it should strengthen neighbourly ties and base them on a solid foundation of friendship, kindness, mutual support and good treatment.

She Puts up With her Neighbour’s Mistakes and Bad Treatment

The Muslim woman who is guided by her religion is patient with her neighbour and does not get angry or bear a grudge if she makes a mistake or has some shortcomings. She is tolerant and forgiving towards her, thus hoping to earn reward from Allāh (ﷻ) and to attain His love and pleasure. This is proven by the ḥadīth of Abū Dharr: when Mutārrif ibn ‘Abdullāh met him, he said, “O Abū Dharr, I heard about what you said and wanted to meet you.” Abū Dharr said, “Your father was a great man! Now you have met me.” Mutārrif said: “I heard that you have said that the Prophet (ﷺ) said: ‘Allāh (ﷻ) loves three and hates three.’” Abū Dharr said, “I do not think that I would tell lies about the Messenger of Allāh.” Mutārrif said, “Then who are the three whom Allāh (ﷻ) loves?” Abū Dharr [quoting the Prophet (ﷺ)] said: ‘A man who fights for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ), with perseverance and hoping for reward from Him, and fights until he is killed, and you find this in the Book of Allāh (ﷻ).’ Then he recited: ﴿“Truly Allāh loves those who fight in His cause in battle array, as if they were a solid cemented structure.”﴾ (Al-Ṣaff 61:4) Mutārrif asked, “Then who?” He said,

“A man who has a bad neighbour who annoys and disturbs him, but he bears it with patience and forbearance until Allāh (ﷻ) ends the matter either during his lifetime or upon the death of either of them.”³¹⁹

One of the characteristics of the Muslim woman whose soul has truly been cleansed and moulded by Islām is that she patiently bears the annoyances caused by her neighbours, as much as she is able. She repels their bad treatment with something that is better, and by being patient and behaving properly she sets the highest example of good treatment of one’s neighbours and removes the roots of evil and hatred from their souls. Even more importantly, she is acting in accordance with the teachings of the Prophet (ﷺ):

“Whoever believes in Allāh (ﷻ) and the Last Day, let him not harm or annoy his neighbour...”³²⁰

Let them hear this, those women who lose their minds when their child fights with the neighbours’ children so that they turn a blind eye to their own child’s faults and insult their neighbours with bad language and hurtful accusations, thus destroying the ties of neighbourliness and friendship in a moment of anger. Let them know that they are going against all the Islāmic teachings regarding the good treatment of neighbours and that they are showing themselves to be content to be bad neighbours.

Let those women rejoice who are wise, polite and forbearing neighbours, who respond in kind to their neighbours’ good treatment, because they are among the righteous neighbours with whose wise and rightly-guided conduct Allāh (ﷻ) is pleased.

³¹⁷ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 13/47, Kitāb al-birr wa’l-silat, bāb tā’awun al-mū’minīn wa tarahumuhum.

³¹⁸ Ibid.

³¹⁹ Reported with a ṣaḥīḥ isnād by Aḥmad and Aṭ-Ṭabarānī. See Majmā’ al-Zawā’id, 8/171.

³²⁰ Faṭḥ al-Bārī, 10/445, Kitāb al-adab, bāb man kana yu’min bi-Allāh wa’l-yawm al-ākhir falā yu’dhījārahu.

CHAPTER 9

The Muslim Woman and Her Friends and Sisters in Islām

She Loves Her Friends as Sisters for the Sake of Allāh (ﷻ)

The way in which the true Muslim woman relates to her friends and sisters in Islām is different from the way in which other women conduct their social affairs. Her relationship with her sisters is based on Tākhī (brotherhood or sisterhood) for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ). This love for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ) is the highest bond that may exist between one human being and another, whether man or woman. It is the bond of faith in Allāh (ﷻ) which Allāh (ﷻ) established between all believers when He (ﷻ) said:

﴿The Believers are but a single brotherhood...﴾ (Qur'ān 49: 10)

The brotherhood of faith is the strongest of bonds between hearts and minds. It comes as no surprise to see that Muslim sisters enjoy a strong, enduring relationship that is based on love for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ), which is the noblest and purest form of love between human beings. This is a love, which is untainted by any worldly interest or ulterior motive. It is the love in which Muslim men and women find the sweetness of faith:

"There are three things that whoever attains them will find the sweetness of faith: if Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger are dearer to him than anyone or anything else; if he loves a person solely for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ); and if he would hate to return to kufr after Allāh (ﷻ) has rescued him from it, as much as he would hate to be thrown into the Fire."³²¹

The Status of Two Who Love One Another For the Sake of Allāh (ﷻ)

Many ḥadīths describe the status of two people who love one another for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ), whether they are men or women, and describe the high position in Paradise which Allāh (ﷻ) has prepared for them and the great honour which He will bestow upon them on the Day when mankind is resurrected to meet the Rabb of the Worlds.

It is sufficient honour for those who love one another for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ), men and women alike, to know that their almighty Rabb will take care of them on the Day of Judgement and will say: "Where are those who loved one another for My glory? Today I will shade them in My shade on the Day when there is no shade but Mine."³²²

Such is the magnificent honour and tremendous reward that will be bestowed upon those who truly loved one another for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ), on that awesome Day.

Love for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ), and not for the sake of anything else in life, is very difficult, and none can attain it except the one who is pure of heart, for whom this world and all its pleasures are as nothing in comparison with the pleasure of Allāh (ﷻ). It is not surprising that Allāh (ﷻ) should give them a status and blessing which is commensurate with their position in this world, above whose concerns they have risen. We see proof of this in the ḥadīth of Mu'ādh, who said that the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"Allāh (ﷻ) said: 'Those who love one another for My glory will have minbars of light, and the Prophets and martyrs will wish that they had the same.'³²³

Allāh (ﷻ) bestows upon those who love one another for His sake a gift, which is even greater than this ³²¹ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 1/49, Kitāb al-īmān, bāb halāwat al-īmān.

³²² Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/123, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah wa'l-adab, bāb fadl al-ḥubb fi Allāh.

³²³ Reported by Tirmidhī, 4/24, Bāb ma ja'a fi al-ḥubb fi-Allāh; he said, it is a ṣaḥīḥ ḥasan ḥadīth.

status and blessing: that is His precious love which is very difficult to attain. This is proven by the ḥadīth of Abū Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه) in which the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"A man went to visit a brother of his in another village. Allāh (ﷻ) sent an angel to wait for him on the road. When the man came along, the angel asked him, 'Where are you headed?' He said, 'I am going to visit a brother of mine who lives in this village.' The angel asked, 'Have you done him any favour (for which you are now seeking repayment)?' He said, 'No, I just love him for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ).' The angel told him, 'I am a messenger to you from Allāh (ﷻ), sent to tell you that He loves you as you love your brother for His sake.'" ³²⁴

What a great love, that raises a person to a position where Allāh (ﷻ) loves him and is pleased with him!

The Prophet (ﷺ) understood the impact of this strong, pure love in building societies and nations, so he never let any occasion pass without advocating this love and commanding the Muslims to announce their love for one another, in order to open hearts and spread love and purity among the ranks of the ummah.

Anas (رضي الله عنه) said that a man was with the Prophet (ﷺ), when another man passed by. The first man said, "O Messenger of Allāh (ﷻ), indeed I truly love this man." The Prophet (ﷺ) asked him, "Have you let him know that?" He said, "No." The Prophet (ﷺ) said, "Tell him." He caught up with him and told him, "Truly I love you for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ)," and the man said, "May Allāh (ﷻ) love you who loves me for His sake." ³²⁵

The Prophet (ﷺ) used to do the same thing himself, teaching the Muslims how to build a society based on pure love and brotherhood. One day he took Mu'adh by the hand and said, "O Mu'adh, by Allāh (ﷻ) I love you, so I advise you, O Mu'adh, never forget to recite, after every prayer, 'O Allāh (ﷻ), help me to remember You and to give thanks to You and to worship You properly Allāhumma, a'innī 'alā dhikrika wa shukrika wa ḥusni 'abādatika.'" ³²⁶

Mu'adh began to spread this pure love among the Muslims throughout the Muslim lands, telling them what he had learned from the Prophet (ﷺ) about the great reward that Allāh (ﷻ) had prepared for those who loved one another for His sake, and about His great love for them. In Al-Muwattā', Imām Mālik gives a report with a ṣaḥīḥ isnād from Abū Idrīs al-Khulanī who said:

"I entered the mosque of Damascus, where I saw a young man who had a bright smile, and I saw the people gathered around him. When they disagreed on some matter, they referred it to him, and accepted his opinion. I asked who he was, and they told me, 'This is Mu'adh ibn Jabal (رضي الله عنه).' Early the next day, I went to the mosque but I found that he had arrived even earlier than I. He was praying, so I waited until he had finished, then I approached him from in front, greeted him and said, 'By Allāh (ﷻ), I love you.' He asked, 'For the sake of Allāh (ﷻ)?' I said, 'For the sake of Allāh (ﷻ).' He repeated his question, 'For the sake of Allāh (ﷻ)?' And I said, 'For the sake of Allāh (ﷻ).' So he took hold of my collar, pulled me towards him and said, 'I have good news for you. I heard the Prophet (ﷺ) say: "Allāh (ﷻ) says: "My love is granted to those who love one another for My sake, who visit one another for My sake, and who spend on one another for My sake.'" ³²⁷

The Effect of Love for the Sake of Allāh (ﷻ) on the Life of Muslim Men and Women

Islām came to build an ideal society based on sincere love and brotherhood, so it had to plant the seeds of love in the hearts of the individuals of which society is composed. Therefore it made this love among believing men and among believing women one of the conditions of faith that will grant admittance to Paradise. This may be seen in the ḥadīth narrated by Imām Muslim from Abū Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه) in which the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

³²⁴ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/124, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah wa'l-adāb, bāb fadl al-ḥubb fi-Allāh.

³²⁵ Reported with a ṣaḥīḥ isnād by Abū Dāwūd, 4/452, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb akbar al-rajul bi maḥabbatihi ilayh.

³²⁶ Reported with a ṣaḥīḥ isnād by Aḥmad, 5/245.

³²⁷ Reported by Mālik in Al-Muwattā', 2/953, Kitāb al-shi'r, bāb ma ja'a fi'l-muḥabbayn fi-Allāh.

“By the One in Whose hand is my soul, you will not enter Paradise until you believe, and you will not believe until you love one another. Shall I not tell you of something that if you do it, you will love one another? Spread salām amongst yourselves.”³²⁸

The Prophet (ﷺ), with his brilliant and deep insight, understood that nothing could eliminate hatred, jealousy and rivalry from people’s hearts but true brotherhood, based on sincere love, friendship and mutual advice, and free of feuds, hatred, insincerity and envy. The way to achieve this is through spreading salām, so that hearts may be opened to sincere love and friendship.

So the Prophet (ﷺ) frequently repeated this teaching to his Ṣaḥābah, aiming to sow the seed of love in their hearts and nurture them until they bore fruits of that great love that Islām wants for the Muslims, men and women alike.

With this sincere love, the Prophet (ﷺ) built the first generation of Muslims, who formed the solid foundation on which the great structure of Islām was built and lit the way for the rest of humanity to follow.

With this sincere love, the Prophet (ﷺ) was able to build a model human society, based on the brotherhood of faith, a society that was remarkable both in its strength, durability and ability to make sacrifices in the cause of jihād to spread Islām throughout the world, and in the solidarity of its members, which the Prophet (ﷺ) described in the most marvellous way:

“Believers are like a structure, parts of which support one another.”³²⁹

“The believers, in their mutual friendship, mercy and affection, are like one body: if any part of it complains, the rest of the body will also stay awake in pain.”³³⁰

From the very beginning and throughout history, the Muslim woman has always participated in the building of the Islāmic society that is based on the brotherhood of faith, and she is still doing her share of the efforts to spread the blessed virtue of love for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ) in Muslim society, turning to her sisters and friends with an overflowing heart to strengthen the ties of love and sisterhood for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ).

She Does not Forsake or Abandon her Sister

The Muslim woman who truly understands the teachings of Islām does not ignore the fact that Islām, which encourages brotherly love and mutual affection, is also the religion that has forbidden brothers and sisters in faith to hate or abandon one another. Islām has explained that two people who truly love one another for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ) will not be separated by the first minor offence that either of them may commit, because the bond of love for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ) is too strong to be broken by such minor matters. The Prophet (ﷺ) said:

“No two people who love one another for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ), or for the sake of Islām, will let the first minor offence of either of them come between them.”³³¹

Anger may strike a woman in moments of human weakness, and she may hurt her sister, which could provoke harsh feelings and conflicts. In such cases, the Muslim woman should not forget that Islām does not ignore human nature and its vulnerability to changing emotions. For this reason, Islām has defined the length of time during which anger may subside. This time is considered to be three days. After this time has passed, it is forbidden for the two conflicting parties to refuse to seek a reconciliation. The Prophet (ﷺ) said:

“It is not permissible for a Muslim to be estranged from his brother for more than three days, both of them turning away from one another when they meet. The better of them is the one who is first to greet the other.”³³²

³²⁸ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 2/35, Kitāb al-īmān, bāb bayān annahu la yadkhul al-jannah illa 'l-mu'minīn.

³²⁹ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 13/47, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah, bāb ta'awun al-mu'minīn wa tarahumuhum.

³³⁰ Ibid.

³³¹ Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 1/493, Bāb hijrah al-Muslim.

³³² Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 13/100, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah, bāb al-nahy 'an hijran al-ikhwan.

The word “Muslim” obviously includes both men and women when it occurs in a ḥadīth like this, which set out the regulations governing the lives of individuals, families and societies in the world of Islām.

Hence we can see that the Muslim woman whose soul has been shaped by Islām does not persist in ignoring her sister, no matter what the reason. Rather, she will hasten to bring about a reconciliation and greet her with salām, because she knows that the better of them is the one who is the first to greet the other. If her sister returns her salām, both of them will share the reward for the reconciliation, but if she does not return the greeting, then one who gave the greeting will be absolved of the sin of forsaking her sister, while the one who refused to return the salām will have to bear the burden of that sin alone. This is made clear by the ḥadīth in which Abū Hurayrah said:

“I heard the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) say: ‘It is not permissible for a man to be estranged from a believer for more than three days. If three days have passed, then he should go and give salām to him; if he returns the salām, then both of them will have shared in the reward, and if he does not respond then the one who gave the salām will be absolved of the sin of estrangement.’”³³³

It goes without saying that the word “man” in the context of this ḥadīth refers to both men and women. The longer the period of estrangement lasts, the greater the sin of both parties becomes, as the Prophet (ﷺ) said: “Whoever forsakes his brother for a year, it is as if he had shed his blood.”³³⁴

How evil is the crime of forsaking one’s brother or sister, according to Islām! How heavy is the burden of the one who is guilty of this crime that is likened to the shedding of blood! The Islamic system of education is based on mutual love and affection, and ongoing contact. Therefore Islām wants Muslim men and women to eliminate hatred and envy from their lives, and not to give any room to those evil characteristics that contradict the brotherhood of faith. Hence Islām is filled with teachings that describe the best ethics ever known since man first walked on the face of the earth:

“Do not break off ties with one another, do not turn away from one another, do not hate one another, do not envy one another. Be brothers, as Allāh (ﷻ) has commanded you.”³³⁵

“Beware of suspicion, for speaking on the basis of suspicion is the worst kind of lie. Do not seek out one another’s faults, do not spy on one another, do not compete with one another, do not envy one another, do not hate one another, and do not turn away from one another. O slaves of Allāh (ﷻ), be brothers.”³³⁶

“Do not envy one another, do not outbid one another (in order to inflate prices), do not hate one another, do not turn away from one another, and do not enter into a transaction when others have already entered into it. O slaves of Allāh (ﷻ), be brothers. A Muslim is the brother of a Muslim. He does not oppress him, humiliate him or look down upon him. Taqwa is here” - and so saying, he pointed to his chest three times. “It is evil enough for a man to look down upon his Muslim brother. The whole of a Muslim’s being is sacred to another Muslim- his blood, his wealth and his honour are inviolable.”³³⁷

The Muslim woman who has received a sound Islāmic education thinks deeply about these teachings of the Prophet (ﷺ), which contain all the most noble characteristics such as love, friendship, brotherhood, sincerity, compassion and selflessness. She will not be able to persist in her hatred, for nobody can do so except the one who is mean and narrow-minded, or has a diseased heart or twisted nature. The true Muslim woman is far removed from such evil characteristics.

Therefore Islām issues a stern warning to those hard-hearted people, men and women alike, who are deviating from true Islām and its spirit of tolerance by insisting on remaining estranged. They are risking an awful fate in the Hereafter: their actions may prevent them from attaining the mercy and forgiveness of Allāh (ﷻ), and may close the doors of Paradise to them. The Prophet (ﷺ) said:

“The doors of Paradise are opened on Monday and Thursday, and every servant who does not associate

³³³ Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 1/505, Bāb inna al-salam yujzi’ min al-ṣawm.

³³⁴ Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 1/497, Bāb man hajara akhahu sanah.

³³⁵ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/120, Kitāb al-birr wa’l-silah wa’l-adāb, bāb taḥrīm al-zann wa’l-tajassus wa’l-tanafus.

³³⁶ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 13/109, Kitāb al-birr wa’l-silah, bāb ma la yajuz min al-zann.

³³⁷ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/120, Kitāb al-birr wa’l-silah wa’l-adāb, bāb taḥrīm zulm al-Muslim wa khadhaluhu wa ihtiqarahu.

anything with Allāh (ﷻ) will be forgiven, except for the man who bears a grudge against his brother. It will be said, 'Wait for these two until they reconcile, wait for these two until they reconcile, wait for these two until they reconcile.'"³³⁸

The great Ṣaḥābī Abū'l-Dardā' (رضي الله عنه) used to say: "Shall I not tell you about something that is better for you than charity and fasting? Reconcile between your brothers, for hatred diminishes reward."³³⁹

How important it is for women to understand and meditate upon this great Ṣaḥābī's penetrating insight into the spirit of this religion, which is based on brotherhood and love, when they have arguments and conflicts. Abū'l-Dardā', whose intelligence and good sense the Prophet (ﷺ) used to trust, understood that hatred cancels out good deeds and destroys rewards, so reconciling the estranged Muslim with his brother is better for him than charity and fasting, because if he were to continue bearing a grudge against his brother, this would negate any reward he might receive for those acts of worship.

She is Tolerant and Forgiving

The Muslim woman who is truly guided by Islām is tolerant towards her friends and sisters, and does not bear grudges against them. If she becomes angry with one of her sisters, she restrains her anger and freely forgives the one who has committed an error, without seeing any shame in doing so. In fact, she sees this as a good deed, which will bring her closer to Allāh (ﷻ):

﴿...[those] who restrain anger and pardon (all) men - for Allāh loves those who do good.﴾ (Qur'ān 3: 134)

If a person suppresses his or her seething anger, and does not forgive, that anger will turn into resentment and malice, which are more dangerous than anger. When a person forgives and forgets, the flames of anger are extinguished, and his or her soul is cleansed of the effects of anger and hatred. This is the level of iḥsān which earns Allāh's love for those who attain it: ﴿for Allāh loves those who do good.﴾ (Qur'ān 3: 134)

The Muslim woman who truly adheres to the teachings of Islām is one of this group of muḥsināt. She does not allow anger to continue boiling in her heart, because suppressed resentment is a very heavy burden on the soul; rather, she hastens to forgive and forget, thus freeing herself from this burden, and filling her soul with tranquillity and peace of mind.

Something that may help the Muslim woman to reach this difficult level of iḥsān is the knowledge that forgiving one's sister is not a source of humiliation or shame, rather it will raise her in status and honour in the sight of Allāh (ﷻ), as the Prophet (ﷺ) described:

"Allāh (ﷻ) will not increase His servant when he forgives except in honour. No one humbles himself for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ) but Allāh (ﷻ) will raise his status."³⁴⁰

If we compare this honour and status with the status of iḥsān reached by the woman who is tolerant and forgiving, we will realize what an honour she has attained, for in the sight of Allāh (ﷻ) she is one of the muḥsināt, and in the sight of people she is a respected, beloved example.

The Muslim woman who has truly understood the teachings of Islām cannot have any trace of hatred or resentment in her heart towards anybody, because she understands precisely the value of forgiveness and purity of heart, and their importance if she seeks Allāh's forgiveness and pleasure, as the Prophet (ﷺ) explained:

"There are three sins, whoever dies free of these sins will be forgiven for anything else, if Allāh (ﷻ) wills: associating anything with Allāh (ﷻ); practising magic or witchcraft; and bearing resentment towards his brother."³⁴¹

³³⁸ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/122, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah wa'l-adāb, bāb al-nahy 'an al-shahna'.

³³⁹ Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 1/505, Bāb al-shahna'.

³⁴⁰ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/141, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah wa'l-adāb, bāb istiḥāb al-'afw wa'l-tawadu'.

³⁴¹ Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 1/505, Bāb al-shahna'.

She Meets Them with a Smiling Face

The true Muslim woman is cheerful of countenance, always greeting her sisters with warmth and smiles, as the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"Do not think little of any good deed, even if it is just greeting your brother with a cheerful countenance."³⁴²

Having a cheerful and friendly face is a good characteristic which Islam encourages and considers to be a good deed which will bring reward, because a cheerful face mirrors a pure soul. This inward and outward purity is one of the distinguishing features of the sincere Muslim. Hence the Prophet (ﷺ) said: "Your smiling at your brother is an act of charity (ḥadaqah)."³⁴³

The Prophet (ﷺ) was cheerful of countenance, always greeting his Ṣaḥābah with warmth and smiles whenever he saw them, as the great Ṣaḥābī Jarīr ibn ‘Abdullāh described:

"From the time I embraced Islām, the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) never refused to see me and he never saw me except with a smile on his face."³⁴⁴

Islām wants the ties of friendship and brotherhood /sisterhood to remain strong among the Muslims, so it encouraged them to spread salām, to be cheerful of countenance, to speak gently and to greet one another warmly, so that hearts will remain pure and open, ready to work together in kindness to do good deeds, and capable of carrying out the duties of Islām no matter what effort and sacrifices may be required.

She is Sincere Towards Them

One of the virtues of the true Muslim woman is that she is completely sincere, towards Allāh (ﷻ), His Prophet, and to the leaders and the masses of the Muslims, as is stated in the ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth:

"Religion is sincerity."³⁴⁵ We [the Ṣaḥābah] asked, "To whom?" He [the Prophet (ﷺ)] said: "To Allāh (ﷻ) (by obeying Him, attributing to Him what He deserves and performing jihād for His sake); to His Book (by reading it, understanding it and applying it to one's daily life); to His Prophet (by respecting him greatly and fighting on his behalf both in his lifetime and after his death, and by following his sunnah); to the rulers of the Muslims (by helping them in their task of leading Muslims to the right path and alerting them if they are heedless); and to their common folk (by being merciful towards them)."³⁴⁶

This attitude makes the Muslim woman sincere towards her sisters. She does not cheat them, mislead them, or conceal anything good from them. If she is always sincere towards them, it is not merely for the sake of courtesy or to show off her social manners; she behaves in this way because sincerity is one of the fundamental bases of Islām which the first believers used to pledge to observe in their oath of allegiance (bay‘ah) to the Prophet (ﷺ), as Jarīr ibn ‘Abdullāh stated:

"I gave allegiance to the Prophet (ﷺ) and pledged to observe regular prayer, to pay zaka‘ah, and to be sincere towards every Muslim."³⁴⁷

In the ḥadīth quoted above, we see that the Prophet (ﷺ) summed up Islām in one word, nasiḥah, showing that sincerity is the central foundation of the faith. For without sincerity, a person's faith is invalid and his or her Islām is worthless. This is the meaning of the ḥadīth of the Prophet (ﷺ): "None of you truly believes until he likes for his brother what he likes for himself."³⁴⁸

This is impossible to achieve unless one loves one's brother with all sincerity.

³⁴² Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/177, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah wa'l-adāb, bāb istiḥbāb talāqah al-wajh 'ind al-liqa'.

³⁴³ Reported by Tirmidhī, 3/228, Abwāb al-birr, 36. He said it is ḥasan gharib.

³⁴⁴ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 10/504, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb al-tabassum wa'l-dahk; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/35, Kitāb fada'il al-ṣaḥābah, bāb fada'il Jarir ibn 'Abdullāh.

³⁴⁵ Nasiḥah is an Arabic word that may be translated by a number of words in English. The most common translation is "good advice," but it also carries connotations of sincerity, integrity, and "doing justice to a person or situation." [Translator]

³⁴⁶ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 2/37, Kitāb al-īmān, bāb bayān an al-dīn nasiḥah. The explanations in brackets are adapted from those given in the English translation of Ṣaḥīḥ Bukhārī by Dr. Muhammad Muhsin Khān (Vol. 1, p. 48). [Translator]

³⁴⁷ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 1/63, Kitāb al-īmān, bāb al-bay'ah 'ala'l-Islām.

³⁴⁸ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 13/60, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah, bāb yuḥibbu li akhihi ma yuḥibbu li nafsihi.

A person's liking for his brother what he likes for himself is no easy matter. It is very difficult to attain, and no man or woman can attain it except the one who has received a sound Islāmic education, whose heart has been cleansed of all selfishness, hatred, envy and malice, and who is infused with love for others.

The true Muslim woman who feels in the depths of her soul that her love for her sister is one of the conditions of true faith and that her religion is based on sincerity, is more likely to attain that difficult level; indeed, it is something that comes naturally to her in her dealings with her friends and sisters, and she becomes a truthful mirror to them, advising and correcting them, and wishing them nothing but good, as Abū Hurayrah used to say: "The believer is the mirror of his brother. If he sees any fault in him, he corrects it."

349

In these words, Abū Hurayrah was echoing the ḥadīth of the Prophet (ﷺ):

"The believer is the mirror of his brother. The believer is the brother of a believer: he protects him from ruin and guards his back."³⁵⁰

It is natural that the true Muslim woman should have this noble attitude towards her sister. She could not do otherwise, even if she wanted to: the person who is living on such an exalted level of purity, love, loyalty and sisterhood cannot come down to the level of hatred, betrayal, malice, selfishness and jealousy. A vessel will leak whatever is in it; musk cannot but smell beautiful; and good soil cannot but bring forth good produce. How beautifully the poet Zuhayr ibn Abī Sulmā expressed this:

"Does any plant produce large flowers but the washīj (a plant with spear-like leaves)? Are palm-trees planted anywhere except in the soil which is suitable for them?"³⁵¹

She is Faithful and Kind

Islām does not stop at encouraging its followers to respect and be kind to their friends; it also encourages them to be kind to their parents' friends too, in recognition of the virtue of kindness and loyalty and in order to establish these values as an essential part of Islāmic life. The books of our heritage are filled with reports of loyalty and kindness that the salāf embodied in their daily lives, so that they became a fine example for all of mankind.

An example of this is the ḥadīth narrated by Imām Muslim in his Ṣaḥīḥ from Ibn 'Umar (رضي الله عنه), in which the Prophet (ﷺ) said: "The best kind of goodness (birr) is that a man should keep in touch with and respect his father's friend."³⁵²

The Prophet (ﷺ) used to nurture the souls of the Muslims and plant the seeds of faithfulness in them whenever he found an opportunity to tell them something of his guidance.

A man of Banū Salāmah came to him and asked: "O Messenger of Allāh, is there any deed of kindness and respect that I can do for my parents after they die?" He said, "Yes, pray for them, ask forgiveness for them, fulfil their promises after they die, keep in contact with your relatives- for you have no relatives except through them- and honour their friends."³⁵³

The Prophet (ﷺ) set the highest example of faithfulness and kindness by taking care of Khadeeja's friends after she died. He never forgot them or neglected to treat them kindly. The Prophet's concern for the friends of Khadeeja (May Allāh be pleased with her) upset 'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her), who felt jealous of her. This is clear from the words of 'Āishah:

"I never felt jealous of any of the wives of the Prophet (ﷺ) as I did of Khadeeja (May Allāh be pleased with her), although I had never seen her. But he used to mention her often, and sometimes he would slaughter a sheep, butcher the meat and send it to Khadeeja's friends. One time I said to him, 'It is as if there were no other woman in the world but Khadeeja!' He said, 'She was suck-and-such, and I had children by her.'"³⁵⁴

³⁴⁹ Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 1/333, Bāb al-Muslim mir'ah akhihi.

³⁵⁰ Ibid.

³⁵¹ Sharḥ Diwān Zuhayr, 115, published by Dār al-Kutub al-Misriyyah.

³⁵² Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/110, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah wa'l-adāb, bāb fadl silah asdiqa' al-abb wa'l-umm.

³⁵³ Reported by Ibn Hibbān in his Ṣaḥīḥ, 2/162, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-iḥsan, bāb ḥaqq al-walidayn.

³⁵⁴ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 7/133, Kitāb manaqib al-Anṣār, bāb tazwij al-Nabi Khadeejah wa fadliha; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 15/201, Kitāb al-fada'il, bāb fada'il Khadeejah.

According to another report: "He used to slaughter a sheep and send to her friends a goodly amount of it." ³⁵⁵

By this example, the Prophet (ﷺ) expanded the concept of faithfulness and kindness to include the distant friends of deceased parents and wives. So what about our own friends who are still alive!

She is Kind to Them

The Muslim woman who is truly guided by Islām is never arrogant towards her sisters and friends; she is never sullen towards them, and never uses harsh words with them. She is always kind, gentle and friendly towards them, treating them well and speaking nicely to them. The words of Allāh (ﷻ) describing the believers, men and women, as being «lowly [or humble] with the believers, mighty against the kāfirūn...» (Qur'ān 5: 54) are sufficient to give her the most vivid picture of how the Muslim woman should be with her friends and sisters. The ideal situation is to be so gentle and kind that it almost looks like humility.

When the Muslim woman hears the Prophet's teachings she finds strong evidence in support of kindness towards others; it is described as something that may adorn every aspect of life, as the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"There is no kindness in a thing but it adds beauty to it, and there is no absence of kindness but it disfigures a thing." ³⁵⁶

When the Muslim woman studies the life of the Prophet (ﷺ), she is impressed by the magnificent nature of his character, his overwhelming gentleness and his utmost kindness in his dealings with people. He was never known to scowl at anybody, or to speak harshly, or to be severe or harsh-hearted. Allāh (ﷻ) indeed spoke the truth when He said:

«...Were you severe or harsh-hearted, they would have broken away from about you...» (Qur'ān 3: 159)

Anas (رضي الله عنه), his servant and constant companion, described his noble character thus:

"I served the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) for ten years, and he never said to me Uff! (The smallest word of contempt or anger). If I did something, he never said 'Why did you do that?' and if I did not do something, he never said 'Why did you not do that?'" ³⁵⁷

Anas (رضي الله عنه) also said:

"The Prophet (ﷺ) never used obscene language, or uttered curses and insults. If he wanted to rebuke someone, he would say, 'What is the matter with him, may his forehead be covered with dust!'" ³⁵⁸

She Does not Gossip About Them

The alert Muslim woman does not allow herself to be drawn into gossip or to attend gatherings where gossip takes place. She restrains her tongue and refrains from gossiping in general, and avoids backbiting about her friends and sisters in particular. She regards it as her duty to prevent gatherings from sinking to the level of cheap gossip, because gossip is clearly ḥarām according to the words of the Qur'ān:

«Nor speak ill of each other behind their back. Would any of you like to eat the flesh of his dead brother? Nay, you would abhor it. But fear Allāh, for Allāh is Oft-Returning, All-Merciful.» (Qur'ān 49: 12)

The Muslim woman always refrains from indulging in any talk that could lead to gossip. From her understanding of Islām, she knows that it is the tongue that may lead its owner to Hell, as stated in the ḥadīth in which the Prophet (ﷺ) warned Mu'ādh ibn Jabal. He took hold of his tongue and said,

"Restrain this." Mu'ādh said, "O Messenger of Allāh, will we be held responsible for what we say?" The Prophet (ﷺ) said: "May your mother be bereft of you! Is there anything that causes people to be thrown

³⁵⁵ Faḥ al-Bārī, 7/133, Kitāb manaqib al-Anṣār, bāb tazwīj al-Nabi Khadeejah wa fadliha.

³⁵⁶ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/146, Kitāb al-birr wa 'l-silah wa 'l-adāb, bāb fadl al-rifq.

³⁵⁷ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Riyāḍ al-Ṣaliḥīn, 336, Bāb ḥusn al-khalq.

³⁵⁸ It has been suggested that what was meant by this expression was that the Prophet (ﷺ) was praying that the person would increase his sujūd, i.e. pray more, as this would guide and reform him. [Author]

³⁵⁹ Faḥ al-Bārī, 10/452, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb lam yakun al-Nabi fashishan wa la mutafahhishan.

into Hell on their faces (or he said: on their noses) but the harvest of their tongues?³⁶⁰

Gossip is an evil characteristic which does not befit the Muslim woman who has been guided by Islām. Such a woman refuses to be two-faced, hypocritical or fickle, gossiping about her friends and sisters in their absence, then when she meets them, she smiles warmly and makes a display of friendship. She knows that such fickleness is ḥarām according to Islām, which is based on straightforwardness, honesty and frankness. Such good qualities come naturally to believing men and women, for Islām has made them despise inconsistency, fickleness and hypocrisy. These characteristics are regarded as so loathsome by Islām that the one who possesses them is described as being two-faced, and those who are two-faced, men and women alike, are among the worst of people in the sight of Allāh (ﷻ), as the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

“You will find among the worst people in the sight of Allāh (ﷻ) on the Day of Judgement, the one who is two-faced, who approaches some people in one way and some in another.”³⁶¹

The true Muslim woman is straightforward and consistent, never two-faced. She is always bright and cheerful, and treats all people in the same, noble, manner. She never forgets that the woman who is two-faced is a hypocrite: Islām and hypocrisy do not go together, and the woman who is a hypocrite will be in the lowest level of Hell.

She Avoids Arguing With Them, Making Hurtful Jokes and Breaking Promises

Among the good manners of the true Muslim woman are a sense of moderation, wisdom and tact. She does not exhaust her friends with irritating arguments, she does not annoy them with hurtful jokes, and she does not break a promise that she has made to them. In this, she follows the guidance of the Prophet (ﷺ):

“Do not argue with your brother, do not joke excessively with him, do not make a promise to him then break it.”³⁶²

Excessive arguing is a repulsive habit that fills people’s hearts with hatred and disgust; making hurtful jokes destroys the purity of a friendship between two sisters; and breaking promises weakens the ties of sisterhood and friendship, and destroys mutual respect. The alert Muslim woman avoids behaving in such a way that makes a person despicable.

She is Generous and Honours her Sisters

The Muslim woman who understands the teachings of her religion is generous and gives freely to her friends and sisters. Her approach is friendly and sincere when she invites them, she welcomes them warmly and offers them food generously.

Friendly gatherings over food strengthen the ties of sisterhood and friendship between sisters, filling their lives with the sense of noble human emotions that have been lost by the Western woman raised in a materialistic culture, who has been filled with the spirit of opportunism, selfishness and individualism. The Western woman is suffering from spiritual emptiness and emotional dryness, which result in a feeling of being deprived of true friendship and sincere friends. This is the situation of Westerners in general, and Western women in particular, and they compensate for it by devoting themselves to caring for their dogs, to make up for the lack of human emotional warmth drained from them by their materialistic philosophy. A French report states that there are seven million dogs in France, a country whose population is fifty-two million. These dogs live with their owners like one of the family. It is no longer strange in French restaurants to see a dog and its owner eating together at the same table. When an official of the ‘Animal Welfare Organization’ in Paris was asked, “Why do the French treat their dogs like they treat themselves?” he answered, “Because they want someone to love, but they cannot find any person to love.”³⁶³

The materialistic man, whether in the West or in the East, can no longer find a true, sincere friend in his own society on whom to bestow his love and affection. So he turns to these animals in whom he finds more ³⁶⁰ A Ṣaḥīḥ ḥasan ḥadīth narrated by Ibn Mājah, 2/1315, Kitāb al-ḥajj.

³⁶¹ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 10/474, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb ma qila fi dhi'l-wajhayn; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/157, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah wa'l-adāb, bāb dhamm dhi'l-wajhayn.

³⁶² Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 1/485, bāb la ta'id akhaka shay'an fa tukhlifahu.

³⁶³ Prof. Wahīd al-Dīn Khān, Wujūb tatbiq al-shari'ah alislamiyyah fi kulli zaman wa makān (“The necessity of applying Islāmic shari'ah in every time and place”), in Al-Mujtama', No. 325, Kuwait, 24 Dhu'l-Qai'dah 1396/16 November 1976.

gentleness and faithfulness than in the people around him. Can man become any more emotionally degenerate than this extreme love for animals when he has lost the blessing of faith and guidance?

This emotional degeneration from which Westerners are suffering and which has dried up the human feelings in their souls, is one of the first things that attracted the attention of emigrant Arab writers, both Muslim and non-Muslim. They noticed that the materialistic lifestyle that has overtaken Western societies has made men into machines who know nothing in life but work, productivity and fierce competition, who do not know what it is to smile warmly at a friend. They are overwhelmed by the haste and crowds of this machine-like existence. Seeing all of this alarmed those Arab writers, who had grown up in the Islāmic world and breathed its spirit of tolerance, and whose hearts were filled with brotherly love. So they began earnestly calling the Westerners towards the values of love and brotherhood. One of them was Nasīb Aridah, who raised the banner of this humane call to the Westerner whose heart was stained with materialism and who had been blinded and deafened by the roar of the machines: “O my friend, O my companion, O my colleague, my love for you is not out of curiosity or a desire to impose on you. Answer me with the words ‘O my brother!’ O my friend, and repeat it, for these are the sweetest words. If you wish to walk alone, or if you grow bored of me, then go ahead, but you will hear my voice, calling ‘O my brother,’ bearing the message, and the echo of my love will reach you wherever you are, so you will understand its beauty and its glory.”³⁶⁴

The burden of materialistic life in the West became too much for Yūsuf As‘ad Ghanim to bear, and he could no longer stand this life which was full of problems and sinking in the ocean of materialism, and was devoid of the fresh air of spirituality, brotherhood and affection. So he began to long for the Arab countries of the Islāmic world, the lands of Prophethood and spirituality, the home of love, brotherhood and purity. He wished that he could live in an Arab tent, and leave behind the civilized world with all its noise and glaring lights: “If I were to live a short life in any Arab land, I would thank Allāh (ﷻ) for a short but rich life in a world where He is loved in the hearts of its people. I got so tired of the West that tiredness itself got bored of me. Take your cars and planes, and give me a camel and a horse. Take the Western world, land, sea and sky, and give me an Arab tent which I will pitch on one of the mountains of my homeland Lebanon, or on the banks of Barada or the shores of the Tigris and Euphrates, in the suburbs of ‘Amman, in the deserts of Saudi Arabia, in the unknown regions of Yemen, on the slopes of the Pyramids, in the oases of Libya.... Give me an Arab tent, and I will weigh it against the entire world and emerge a winner...”³⁶⁵

Many writings by emigrant Arab writers share the same tone, but it is sufficient to give just a few examples here. All of their writings express the emigrants’ longing for the emotional richness that they missed when they came to the West, an experience which awoke in them feelings of longing for the East where Islām had spread love, brotherhood, mutual affection and solidarity.

Islām planted the seeds of love and brotherhood in the souls of its followers, and encouraged them to make friends and exchange invitations and visits. Those who invite others to these kinds of gatherings are described as being among the best of people:

“The best of you is the one who offers food freely and returns the greeting of salām.”³⁶⁶

The Prophet (ﷺ) gave good news to those who are generous, men and women alike, that they will be among those who will enter Paradise in peace:

“Spread salām, offer food generously, uphold the ties of kinship, stand in prayer at night when people are sleeping, and enter Paradise in peace.”³⁶⁷

The Prophet (ﷺ) further encouraged these generous people with the promise of special chambers in Paradise:

³⁶⁴ Diwān al-arwāh al-hā'irah, qism al-naz'ah al-insāniyyah.

³⁶⁵ See 'Isa al-Na'uri, Adāb al-Mahjar, Dār al-Ma'arif bi Misr, p. 527

³⁶⁶ A ḥasan ḥadīth narrated by Aḥmad, 6/16.

³⁶⁷ A ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth narrated by Aḥmad, 2/295, and Al-Ḥākim 4/129, Kitāb al-at'amah.

“In Paradise there are rooms whose outside can be seen from the inside, and whose inside can be seen from the outside. Allāh (ﷻ) has prepared them for those who feed others generously, who are gentle in speech, who fast continuously, and who stand in prayer at night when people are sleeping.”³⁶⁸

She Prays for Her Sisters in Their Absence

The sincere Muslim woman whose heart is filled with the sweetness of faith likes for her Muslim sister what she likes for herself. So she never forgets to pray for her in her absence, a du‘ā that is filled with the warmth of sincere love and sisterhood. She knows that such du‘ā's are the quickest to be answered because of their sincerity and warmth of feeling and the noble intention behind them. This is confirmed by the words of the Prophet (ﷺ):

“The quickest prayer to be answered is a man's supplication for his brother in his absence.”³⁶⁹

The Ṣaḥābah understood this and used to ask their brothers to pray for them whenever they were in a situation where their prayers would be answered. Men and women alike shared this virtue, which is indicative of the high level of the entire society during that golden period of our history. Bukhārī reports, in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, from Ṣafwān ibn ‘Abdullāh ibn ‘Ṣafwān, whose wife was Al-Dardā’ bint Abī’l-Dardā’. He said:

“I came to visit them in Damascus, and found Umm al-Dardā’ in the house, but Abū’l-Dardā’ was not there. She said, ‘Do you want to go for Ḥajj?’ I said, ‘Yes.’ She said, ‘Pray for me, for the Prophet (ﷺ) used to say, “The Muslim's prayer for his absent brother will be answered. There is an angel at his head who, whenever he prays for his brother, says, Āmīn, and you shall have likewise.”’ He (Ṣafwān) said, “I met Abū’l-Dardā’ in the market and he told me something similar, reporting from the Prophet (ﷺ).”³⁷⁰

The Prophet (ﷺ) instilled team spirit in the souls of Muslim men and women at every opportunity, strengthening the ties of love for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ) between them, spreading an attitude of selflessness, and uprooting the inclination towards individualism and selfishness, in order that the Muslim society should be infused with feelings of love, close ties, solidarity and selflessness.

One of the brilliant ways in which he instilled this team spirit was his response to the man who prayed out loud: “O Allāh (ﷻ), forgive me and Muhammad only.” He told him, “You have denied it to many people.”³⁷¹

In this way, the Prophet (ﷺ) did not just correct this man alone, but he effectively instilled team spirit in the entire ummah of Islām, and taught every Muslim man and women, no matter when or where they lived, that it is not right for anyone who has uttered the words of the Shahadah to keep goodness to himself, because the believer should always like for his brother what he likes for himself.

In conclusion, then, this is how the Muslim woman who has received a sound Islāmic education should be: she loves her sisters for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ), and her sisterly love towards them is sincere and in their best interests; she likes for them what she likes for herself; she is keen to maintain the ties of love and sisterhood between them, and she does not cut them off or forsake them; she is tolerant and forgiving of their mistakes and faults; she does not bear any hatred, envy or malice towards them; she always greets them with a cheerful, smiling face; she is kind and loyal towards them; she does not gossip about them; she does not hurt their feelings by being hostile or arguing with them; she is generous to them; she prays for them in their absence.

It is no surprise that the Muslim woman whose personality has been cleansed and moulded by Islām should have such noble characteristics. This is the miracle that Islām has wrought in educating and forming human character, no matter where or when a man or woman lives.

³⁶⁸ A ḥasan ḥadīth narrated by Aḥmad, 5/343 and Ibn Ḥibbān, 2/262, Kitāb al-birr wa’l-iḥsan, bāb ifsha’ al-salām wa it’am al-ta’am.

³⁶⁹ Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 2/83, Bāb du‘ā’ al-akh bi dhahr al-ghayb.

³⁷⁰ Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 2/84, Bāb al-du‘ā’ bi dhahr al-ghayb.

³⁷¹ Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 2/85, Bāb al-du‘ā’ bi dhahr al-ghayb.

CHAPTER 10

The Muslim Woman and Her Community/Society

Introduction

When it comes to Islāmic duties, the Muslim woman is just like a man: she has a mission in life, and so she is required to be as effective, active and social as her particular circumstances and capabilities allow, mixing with other women as much as she can and dealing with them in accordance with the worthy Islāmic attitudes and behaviour that distinguish her from other women.

Wherever the Muslim woman is found, she becomes a beacon of guidance, and a positive source of correction and education, through both her words and her deeds.

The Muslim woman who has been truly guided by the Qur'ān and Sunnah has a refined social personality of the highest degree, which qualifies her to undertake her duty of calling other women to Islām, opening their hearts and minds to the guidance of this great religion which elevated the status of women at a remarkably early stage in their history and furnished them with a vast range of the best of characteristics which are outlined in the Qur'ān and Sunnah. Islām has made the acquisition of these characteristics a religious duty for which a person will be rewarded, and will be called to account if he or she fails to attain them. These texts succeeded in making the personality of the woman who is sincere towards Allāh (ﷻ) into a brilliant example of the decent, chaste, polite, God-fearing, refined, sociable woman.

The Muslim woman who understands the teachings of Islām stands out in every women's gathering she attends, as she demonstrates the true values of her religion and the practical application of those values by her attaining those worthy attributes. The make-up of her distinct social character represents a huge store of those Islāmic values, which can be seen in her social conduct and dealings with people. From this rich, pure source, the Muslim woman draws her own customs, habits and ways of dealing with others and she cleanses her soul and forms her own Muslim, social personality from the same source.

She has a Good Attitude Towards Others and Treats Them Well

The Muslim woman is of good and noble character, friendly, humble, gentle of speech and tactful. She likes others and is liked by them. By doing so, she is following the example of the Prophet (ﷺ) who, as his servant Anas (رضي الله عنه) reported, was "the best of people in his attitude towards others."³⁷²

Anas (رضي الله عنه) saw more than anyone else of the Prophet's good attitude, and witnessed such good attitudes that no-one could imagine it existed in any human being. He told us of one aspect of that noble attitude of the Prophet (ﷺ):

"I served the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) for ten years, and he never said to me Uff! (The smallest word of contempt or anger). If I did anything, he never said, 'Why did you do that?' And if I did not do something, he never said, 'Why did you not do such-and-such?'"³⁷³

The Prophet (ﷺ) was of the best character, as Allāh (ﷻ) said:

﴿And you [stand] on an exalted standard of character.﴾ (Qur'ān 68: 4)

He (ﷺ) repeatedly told his Ṣaḥābah of the effect a good attitude would have in forming an Islāmic personality and in raising a person's status in the sight of Allāh (ﷻ) and of other people. He (ﷺ) told them:

"Among the best of you are those who have the best attitude (towards others)."³⁷⁴

"The most beloved to me and the closest to me on the Day of Resurrection will be those of you who have the best attitudes. And the most hateful to me and the furthest from me on the Day of Resurrection will be the prattlers and boasters and Al-mutafayhiqān." The Ṣaḥābah said, "O Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ), we understand who the prattlers and boasters are, but who are Al-mutafayhiqān?" He (ﷺ) said, "The proud and arrogant."³⁷⁵

³⁷² Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah 13/235, Kitāb al-fada'il, bāb ḥusn khalqihī.

³⁷³ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Riyād al-Ṣalīḥīn, 336, Bāb ḥusn al-khalq.

³⁷⁴ Faṭḥ al-Bārī, 10/456, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb ḥusn al-khalq; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 15/78, Kitāb al-fada'il, bāb kathrah haya'ihī.

The Ṣaḥābah - men and women alike - used to hear the Prophet's noble moral teachings, and they would see with their own eyes the excellent way in which he used to deal with people. So they would obey his words and follow his example. Thus was established their society which has never been equalled by any other in the history of mankind. Anas (رضي الله عنه) said:

"The Prophet (ﷺ) was merciful. Nobody came to him without receiving a promise of his help, which he would fulfil if he had the means to do so. On one occasion, the iqāmah for prayer had been given, when a bedouin came to him, took hold of his cloak, and said, 'I still have some matter outstanding, and I do not want to forget it.' So the Prophet (ﷺ) went with him and resolved the matter, then he came back and prayed."³⁷⁶

The Prophet (ﷺ) did not see anything wrong with listening to the bedouin and resolving his issue, even though the iqāmah had already been given. He did not get upset with the man for pulling on his cloak, or object to resolving the matter before the prayer, because he was building a just society, teaching the Muslims by his example how a Muslim should treat his brother, and showing them the moral principles that should prevail in a Muslim community.

If good attitudes and manners among non-Muslims are the result of a good upbringing and solid education, then among Muslims such good attitudes come, above all, from the guidance of Islām, which makes good attitudes a basic characteristic of the Muslim, one which will raise his status in this world and will weigh heavily in his favour in the Hereafter. No deed will count for more on the Day of Judgement than a man's good attitude, as the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"Nothing will weigh more heavily in the balance of the believing servant on the Day of Resurrection than a good attitude (towards others). Verily Allāh (ﷻ) hates those who utter vile words and obscene speech."³⁷⁷

Islām has made this good attitude towards others an essential part of faith, and those who have the best attitude towards others are the most complete in faith, as the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"The most perfect in faith of the believers are those who are best in their attitude towards others."³⁷⁸

Islām also describes those who have the best attitude towards others as being the most beloved to Allāh (ﷻ) of His slaves. This is seen in the ḥadīth of Usamah ibn Shurayk, who said:

"We were sitting with the Prophet (ﷺ) as if there were birds on our heads: none of us were talking. Some people came to him and asked, 'Who is the most beloved to Allāh (ﷻ) of His Slaves?' He said, 'Those who are the best in attitude towards others.'³⁷⁹

It comes as no surprise that the person who has the best attitude towards others should also be the one who is most beloved to Allāh (ﷻ), for good treatment of others is an important feature of Islāmic law. It is the most significant deed that can be placed in the balance of the Muslim on the Day of Judgement, as we have seen. It is equivalent to prayer and fasting, the two greatest bases of Islām, as the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"No greater deed will be placed in the balance than a good attitude towards others. A good attitude towards others will bring a person up to the level of fasting and prayer."³⁸⁰ According to another report, he (ﷺ) said: "By virtue of his good attitude towards others, a person may reach the level of one who habitually fasts (during the day) and stands in prayer (at night)."

³⁷⁵ Reported by Tirmidhī, 4/249, in Abwāb al-birr, 70. He said it is a ḥasan ḥadīth.

³⁷⁶ Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 1/375, Bāb sakhawah al-nafs.

³⁷⁷ Reported by Tirmidhī 3/244, in Abwāb al-birr, bāb ḥusn al-khalq. He said it is a ḥasan ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth.

³⁷⁸ Reported by Tirmidhī, 2/315, in Abwāb al-rida, 11. He said it is a ḥasan ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth.

³⁷⁹ Reported by Aṭ-Ṭabarānī in Al-Kabīr, 1/181, 183. The men of its isnād are rijal al-ṣaḥīḥ.

³⁸⁰ Reported by Tirmidhī, 3/245, in Abwāb al-birr wa'l-silah, 61. The men of its isnād are thiqān.

So the Prophet (ﷺ) repeatedly emphasized the importance of a good attitude and encouraged his Companions to adopt it, using various methods to instil it in their hearts by his words and deeds. He understood the great impact this good attitude would have in purifying their souls and enhancing their morals and manners. For example, he told Abū Dharr:

“O Abū Dharr, shall I not tell you of two qualities which are easy to attain but which will weigh more heavily in the balance?” He said, “Of course, O Messenger of Allāh.” He said, “You should have a good attitude towards others and remain silent for lengthy periods. By the One in Whose hand is my soul, nothing that people have ever attained is better than these two.”³⁸¹

And he (ﷺ) said:

“A good attitude is a blessing and a bad attitude is a calamity. Piety (birr) lengthens life, and charity will prevent a bad death.”³⁸²

One of his du‘ā’s was:

“Allahumma ahsanta khalqī fa aḥsin khulqī [(O Allāh (ﷻ)], You have made my physical constitution good, so make my attitude and behaviour good also).”³⁸³

The prayer of the Prophet (ﷺ), asking Allāh (ﷻ) to make his attitude good when Allāh (ﷻ) had described him in the Qur’ān as being ﴿on an exalted standard of character﴾ (Qur’ān 68: 4), is a clear indication of his deep concern and earnest desire that the Muslims should continue to seek to increase in good attitudes, no matter what heights they had already scaled, just as their Prophet (ﷺ) continued to seek to increase in good attitudes through this du‘ā’. “Good attitudes” is a comprehensive term which includes all the good characteristics that human beings may acquire, such as modesty, patience, gentleness, forgiveness, tolerance, cheerfulness, truthfulness, trustworthiness, sincerity, straightforwardness, purity of heart, and so on.

The one who sets out to explore the Islāmic teachings on social issues will find himself confronted with a host of teachings that encourage every single one of these noble attitudes. This is an indication of the intense concern that Islām has to form the social personality of the Muslim in the most precise fashion. So it does not stop at mentioning generalities, but it also deals with every minor moral issue that may form individual aspects of the integrated social personality. This comprehensiveness does not exist in other social systems as it does in Islām.

The researcher who sets out to explore the character of the Muslim woman has no alternative but to examine all these texts, and to understand the guidance and legislation contained therein. Only then will he be able to fully comprehend the noble social personality that is unique to the true Muslim, man or woman.

She is Truthful

The Muslim woman is truthful with all people, because she has absorbed the teachings of Islām which encourages truthfulness and regards it as the chief of virtues, whilst lying is forbidden and regarded as the source of all evils and bad deeds. The Muslim woman believes that truthfulness naturally leads to goodness, which will admit the one who practices it to Paradise, while falsehood leads to iniquity which will send the one who practices it to Hell. The Prophet (ﷺ) said:

“Truthfulness leads to piety (birr), and piety leads to Paradise. A man continues to speak the truth until he is recorded in the sight of Allāh (ﷻ) as a sincere lover of truth (ṣiddiq). Falsehood leads to iniquity and iniquity leads to Hell. A man will continue to speak falsehood until he is recorded in the sight of Allāh (ﷻ) as a liar.”³⁸⁴

³⁸¹ Reported by Abū Ya‘la and Aṭ-Ṭabarānī in Al-Awsat; the men of Abū Ya‘la are thiqāṭ. See Majmā‘ al-Zawā‘id, 8/22.

³⁸² Reported by Aḥmad, 3/502; its men are thiqāṭ.

³⁸³ Reported by Aḥmad, 1/403; its men are rijāl al-ṣaḥīḥ.

³⁸⁴ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Riyāḍ al-Ṣaliḥīn, 50, Bāb al-ṣidq.

Therefore the Muslim woman is keen to be a sincere lover of truth (ṣiddīqah), striving to be true in all her words and deeds. This is a sublime status which is achieved only by God-fearing Muslim woman by means of truthfulness, purity of heart and by virtue of which she is recorded in the sight of Allāh (ﷻ) as an honoured lover of truth.

She Avoids Giving False Statements

The true Muslim woman whose personality has been moulded by the teachings and guidance of Islām does not give false statements, because to do so is ḥarām:

﴿...And shun the word that is false.﴾ (Qur’ān 22: 30)

Bearing false witness³⁸⁵, besides being ḥarām, does not befit the Muslim woman. It damages her honour and credibility, and marks a person as twisted and worthless in the sight of others. So the Qur’ān completely forbids this attitude for the chosen servants of Allāh (ﷻ), men and women alike, just as it forbids other major sins:

﴿Those who witness no falsehood and, if they pass by futility, they pass it by with honourable [avoidance].﴾ (Qur’ān 25: 72)

Nothing is more indicative of the enormity of this sin than the fact that the Prophet (ﷺ) mentioned it as coming after the two most serious sins on the scale of major sins: associating partners with Allāh (ﷻ), and disobedience to parents. Then he repeated it to the Muslims, warning them with the utmost fervour. He (ﷺ) said:

"Shall I not tell you of the most serious of the major sins?" We said: "Of course, O Messenger of Allāh." He said: "Associating anything with Allāh (ﷻ), and disobeying parents." He was reclining, but then he sat up and said: "And bearing false witness," and he kept repeating this until we wished that he would stop (i.e., so that he would not exhaust himself with his fervour)."³⁸⁶

She Gives Sincere Advice

The true Muslim woman does not only strive to free herself of negative characteristics; she also seeks to offer sincere advice to every woman she comes into contact with who has deviated from the guidance of Allāh (ﷻ) - and how many women there are who have wronged themselves and are in great need of someone to offer them sincere advice and guide them back towards the straight path which Allāh (ﷻ) has commanded all of us to follow.

For the true Muslim woman, offering sincere advice is not just the matter of volunteering to do good out of generosity; it is a duty enjoined by Islām, as the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"Religion is sincerity [or sincere advice]." The Ṣaḥābah asked, "To whom?" He said, "To Allāh (ﷻ), to His Book, to His Messenger, to the leaders of the Muslims and to their common folk."³⁸⁷

When the Ṣaḥābah swore allegiance (bay‘ah) to the Prophet (ﷺ), they would pledge to observe salāh and zakāh, and to be sincere towards every Muslim, as is shown in the statement of Jarīr ibn ‘Abdullāh (رضي الله عنه):

"I swore allegiance to the Prophet (ﷺ) with the pledge that I would establish regular prayer, payzakāh and be sincere to every Muslim."³⁸⁸

How brilliantly the Prophet (ﷺ) expressed the meaning of nasīḥah when he said, "Religion is sincerity [or sincere advice]"! He summed up the entire religion in just one word, "nasīḥah," indicating to every Muslim the value of sincerity and sincere advice, and the great impact that sincere advice has on the lives

³⁸⁵ Shahadat al-zur may be interpreted in the following ways: bearing false witness by giving evidence that is false; assisting in something which implies fraud or falsehood; attending the gatherings of the kuffār on the occasion of their festivals. [Translator] of individuals, families and societies. When sincerity spreads among a people, they are guided to the straight path; if sincerity is withheld, they will go far astray.

³⁸⁶ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Riyād al-Ṣāliḥīn, 689, Bāb ghalaz taḥrīm shahadah al-zur.

³⁸⁷ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 2/37, Kitāb al-īmān, bāb bay‘ān an al-dīm al-nasīḥah.

³⁸⁸ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 13/92, Kitāb al-birr wa ‘l-silah, bāb al-nasīḥah.

Therefore nasīḥah was one of the most important matters that Muslims pledged to observe when they swore allegiance to the Prophet (ﷺ): it comes after salāh and zakāh, as we have seen in the ḥadīth of Jabīr ibn Abdullāh quoted above.

The fact that sincere advice is mentioned in conjunction with salāh and zakāh in the oath of allegiance given by the great Ṣaḥābī Jarīr ibn ‘Abdullāh to the Prophet (ﷺ) is an indication of its importance in the Islāmic scheme of things and in deciding a person’s fate in the Hereafter. It is therefore a basic characteristic of the true Muslim who is concerned about his destiny on the Day of Judgement.

In Islām, responsibility is a general duty that applies to men and women alike, each person has responsibilities within his or her own social sphere, as the Prophet (ﷺ) explained:

“Each of you is a shepherd and each of you is responsible for his flock. The leader is a shepherd and is responsible for his flock; a man is the shepherd of his family and is responsible for his flock; a woman is the shepherd in the house of her husband and is responsible for her flock; a servant is the shepherd of his master’s wealth and is responsible for it. Each of you is a shepherd and is responsible for his flock.”³⁸⁹

If we understand this, we will realize that the woman’s responsibility includes offering sincere advice to everyone around her who can benefit from it.

She Guides Others to Righteous Deeds

The Muslim woman whose soul has been purified by Islām and cleansed of the stains of selfishness and love of show guides others to righteous deeds when she knows of them, so that goodness will come to light and people will benefit from it. It is all the same to her whether the good deed is done by herself or by others, because she knows that the one who guides others to do righteous deeds will be rewarded like the one who does the actual deed, as the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

“Whoever guides others to do good will have a reward like that of the person who does the good deed.”³⁹⁰

The Muslim woman is the least likely to keep goodness to herself, or to boast to others about doing good, which is the attitude of selfish women who love to show off. It is enough for the Muslim woman who guides others to do good to know that she will be rewarded by Allāh (ﷻ) in either case, and for the true Muslim woman, storing up reward with Allāh (ﷻ) is more important than fame and a good reputation. In this way, goodness spreads throughout the community, and every person will have the opportunity to do whatever Allāh (ﷻ) helps him or her to do.

How many of these deadly psychological disorders are preventing good from being spread in society! For the people who are suffering from them hope that they alone will undertake good deeds to the exclusion of others, but circumstances prevent them from doing so. So goodness and benefits remain locked up waiting for the opportunity that never comes. The true Muslim, man or woman, who seeks to please Allāh (ﷻ) and earn reward from Him is free from such disorders. The true Muslim guides people to do good deeds as soon as he or she is aware of an opportunity, and thus he or she earns a reward from Allāh (ﷻ) equal to the reward of the one who does the good deed itself.

She Does not Cheat, Deceive, or Stab in the Back

The sincere Muslim woman for whom truthfulness has become a deeply-rooted characteristic does not cheat, deceive or stab in the back, because these worthless characteristics are beneath her. They contradict the values of truthfulness, and do not befit the Muslim woman. Truthfulness requires an attitude of sincerity, straightforwardness, loyalty and fairness, which leaves no room for cheating, lying, trickery, deceit or betrayal.

³⁸⁹ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 10/61, Kitāb al-imarah wa’l-qada’, bāb al-ra’i mas’ul ‘an ri’atihi.

³⁹⁰ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 13/38, Kitāb al-imarah, bāb fadl i’anah al-ghazi fi sabil-Allāh.

The Muslim woman who is filled with the guidance of Islām is truthful by nature, and has a complete aversion to cheating, deceiving and back-stabbing, which she sees as a sign of a person's being beyond the pale of Islām, as the Prophet (ﷺ) stated in the ḥadīth narrated by Muslim:

"Whoever bears arms against us is not one of us, and whoever cheats us is not one of us."³⁹¹

According to another report, also narrated by Muslim, the Prophet (ﷺ) passed by a pile of food (in the market), put his hand in it and felt dampness (although the surface of the pile was dry). He said, "O owner of the food, what is this?" The man said, "It was damaged by rain, O Messenger of Allāh." He said, "And you did not put the rain-damaged food on top so that people could see it! Whoever cheats us is not one of us."³⁹²

Muslim society is based on purity of human feeling, sincerity towards every Muslim, and fulfilment of promises to every member of the society. If any cheats or traitors are found in that society, they are most certainly alien elements whose character is in direct contrast to the noble character of true Muslims.

Islām views cheating, deception and back-stabbing as heinous crimes which will be a source of shame to the guilty party both in this world and the next. The Prophet (ﷺ) announced that on the Day of Resurrection, every traitor would be raised carrying the flag of his betrayal and a caller will cry out in the vast arena of judgement, pointing to him and drawing attention to him:

"Every traitor will have a banner on the Day of Resurrection, and it will be said: 'This is the betrayer of so-and-so.'" ³⁹³

How great will be the shame of those traitors, men and women, who thought that their betrayal was long since forgotten, and now here it is, spread out for all to see and carried aloft on banners held by their own hands.

Their shame on the Day of Judgement will increase when they see the Prophet (ﷺ), who is the hope of intercession on that great and terrible Day, standing in opposition to them, because they have committed the heinous crime of betrayal, which is a crime of such enormity that it will deprive them of the mercy of Allāh (ﷻ) and the intercession of the Prophet (ﷺ):

"Allāh (ﷻ), may He be exalted, said: 'There are three whom I will oppose on the Day of Resurrection: a man who gave his word, and then betrayed; a man who sold a free man into slavery and kept the money; and a man who hired someone, benefited from his labour, then did not pay his wages.'" ³⁹⁴

The Muslim woman who has been truly guided by Islām steers clear of all forms of deceit and back-stabbing. They exist in many forms in the world of modern women, but the Muslim woman values herself too highly to include herself among those cheating, deceiving women whom the Prophet (ﷺ) considered to be hypocrites:

"There are four features, whoever has all of them is a true hypocrite, and whoever has one of them has one of the qualities of a hypocrite until he gives it up: when he is trusted, he is unfaithful; when he speaks, he tells lies; when he makes a promise, he proves treacherous; and when he disputes, he resorts to slander."³⁹⁵

She Keeps her Promises

One of the noble attitudes of the true Muslim woman is that she keeps her promises. This attitude is the companion of truthfulness and indeed stems naturally from it.

Keeping promises is a praiseworthy attitude, one that indicates the high level of civility attained by the woman who exhibits it. It helps her to succeed in life, and earns her the love, respect and appreciation of others.

³⁹¹ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 2/108, Kitāb al-īmān, bāb qawl al-Nabi man ghashshana fa laysa minna.

³⁹² Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 2/109, Kitāb al-īmān, bāb man ghashshana fa laysa minna.

³⁹³ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 10/71-73, Kitāb al-imarāh wa 'l-qada', bāb wa 'id al-ghadr; Riyāḍ al-Salīḥīn, 705, bāb taḥīm al-ghadr.

³⁹⁴ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 4/417, Kitāb al-buyu', bāb ithm man ba'a hurran.

³⁹⁵ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 1/74, Kitāb al-īmān, bāb 'alamat al-nifāq.

The effects of this attitude in instilling moral and psychological virtues in girls and boys are not unknown; if they see their mothers always keeping their promises, this is the best example that they can be given.

For the Muslim woman, keeping promises is not just the matter of social niceties, something to boast about among her friends and peers; it is one of the basic Islāmic characteristics and one of the clearest indicators of sound faith and true Islām. Many texts of the Qur’ān and Sunnah emphasize the importance of this quality: ﴿O you who believe! Fulfil all obligations.﴾ (Qur’ān 5: 1)

﴿And fulfil every engagement, for [every] engagement will be enquired into [on the Day of Reckoning].﴾ (Qur’ān 17: 34)

This is a definitive command from Allāh (ﷻ) to His believing servants, men and women alike, to keep their promises and to fulfil whatever obligations those promises entail. There is no room for escaping or dodging this responsibility. It does not befit the Muslim who has committed himself or herself to then try to get out of keeping the promise. It is his duty to keep his word. In some āyāt, the word for “promise” is connected by the grammatical structure of iḍāfah (genitive) to Allāh (ﷻ) Himself, as an indication of its dignity and sanctity, and of the obligation to keep promises:

﴿Fulfil the Covenant of Allāh, when you have entered into it...﴾ (Qur’ān 16: 91)

Islām dislikes those prattlers who carelessly make promises without following through and keeping their word:

﴿O you who believe! Why say you that which you do not? Grievously odious is it in the sight of Allāh that you say that which you do not.﴾ (Qur’ān 61: 2-3)

Allāh (ﷻ) does not like His believing servants, male or female, to sink to the level of empty words, promises given with no intention of fulfilment, and all manner of excuses to avoid upholding the commitments made. Such conduct does not befit believing men and women. The tone of the question asked in this āyāh is an expression of the extreme disapproval incurred by those believers who commit the sin of saying that which they do not do.

The Prophet (ﷺ) said:

“The signs of a hypocrite are three: when he speaks, he lies; when he makes a promise, he breaks it and when he is entrusted with something, he betrays that trust.”³⁹⁶

According to a report given by Muslim, he (ﷺ) added:

“Even if he fasts, prays and thinks that he is a Muslim.”³⁹⁷

The level of a woman’s Islām is not determined only by acts of worship and rituals, but also the extent to which her character is influenced by the teachings and high values of Islām. She does only that which will please Allāh (ﷻ). The Muslim woman who understands and adheres to the teachings of Islām does not break her promises, or cheat others, or betray them, because such acts contradict the morals and values of true Islām, and such attitudes are only found among men and women who are hypocrites.

Let them know this, those women who tell lies to their own children, who make promises then go back on their word, thus planting the seeds of dishonesty and promise-breaking in their children’s hearts. Let them know this, those women who make empty, meaningless promises and attach no importance to the word of honour to which they have committed themselves, lest by such carelessness they become hypocrites themselves and earn the punishment of the hypocrites which, as is well known, is a place in the lowest level of Hell.

³⁹⁶ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 1/72, Kitāb al-īmān, bāb ‘alamāt al-nifāq.

³⁹⁷ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 2/48, Kitāb al-īmān, bāb bayān khiṣāl al-munāfiq.

She is Not a Hypocrite

The true Muslim woman is frank and open in her words and opinions, and is the furthest removed from hypocrisy, flattery and false praise, because she knows from the teachings of Islām that hypocrisy is ḥarām, and does not befit the true Muslim.

The Prophet (ﷺ) has protected us from falling into the mire of hypocrisy and flattery. When Barī 'Āmir came to him and praised him, saying, "You are our master," he said, "The only Master is Allāh (ﷻ)." When they said, "You are the most excellent and greatest of us," he said, "Say what you want, or a part of it, but do not speak like agents of Shayṭān. I do not want you to raise me above the status to which Allāh (ﷻ) has appointed me. I am Muhammad ibn 'Abduḥ, His Slave and Messenger." ³⁹⁸

The Prophet (ﷺ) prevented people from exaggerating in their praise of others, some of whom may not even be deserving of praise, when he forbade them to describe him as "master," "excellent" and "great," at the time when he was without doubt the greatest of the Messengers, the master of the Muslims and the greatest and most excellent of them. He did this because he understood that if the door of praise was opened to its fullest extent, it might lead to dangerous types of hypocrisy which are unacceptable to a pure Islāmic spirit and the truth on which this religion is based. He forbade the Ṣaḥābah to praise a man to his face, lest the one who spoke the words crossed the boundary of hypocrisy, or the object of his admiration be filled with feelings of pride, arrogance, superiority and self-admiration.

Bukhārī and Muslim narrate that Abū Bakrah (رضي الله عنه) said:

"A man praised another man in the presence of the Prophet (ﷺ), who said: 'Woe to you! You have cut your companion's throat!' several times. Then he said: 'Whoever of you insists on praising his brother, let him say: "I think So-and-so is such-and-such, and Allāh (ﷻ) knows the exact truth, and I do not confirm anyone's good conduct before Allāh (ﷻ), but I think him to be such-and-such," if he knows that this is the case.'" ³⁹⁹

If praising a person cannot be avoided, then it must be sincere and based on truth. The praise should be moderate, reserved and without any exaggeration. This is the only way in which a society can rid itself of the diseases of hypocrisy, lies, deceit and sycophancy.

In Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, Bukhārī reports from Rajā' from Mihjan al-Aslamī that the Prophet (ﷺ) and Mihjan were in the mosque when the Prophet (ﷺ) saw a man praying, bowing and prostrating, and asked, "Who is that?" Mihjan began to praise the man, saying, "O Messenger of Allāh, he is so-and-so, and is such-and-such." The Prophet (ﷺ) said: "Stop. Do not let him hear you, or it will be his downfall!" ⁴⁰⁰

According to a report given by Ahmad, Mihjan said: "O Messenger of Allāh, this is so-and-so, one of the best people of Madīnah," or "one of the people who prays the most in Madīnah." The Prophet (ﷺ) said: "Do not let him hear you, or it will be his downfall!" - two or three times - "You are an ummah for whom I wish ease." ⁴⁰¹

The Prophet (ﷺ) described hearing praise as being a person's downfall, because of its profound psychological impact on the human mind which by nature loves to hear such words. So the one who is praised begins to feel superior to and to look down on other people. If such praise is repeated by the hypocrites and flatterers - and how many of them there are surrounding those in positions of power and authority! - this will satisfy a strong desire in his heart and will become something he wants to hear regularly. Then he will hate to hear criticism and advice, and will only accept praise, thanks and adulation. No wonder, then, that truth will be lost, justice will be eliminated, morality will be destroyed and society will be corrupted.

³⁹⁸ Ḥayāt al-Ṣaḥābah 3/99.

³⁹⁹ Fath al-Bārī, 10/476, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb ma yukrah min al-tamaduh; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 18/126, Kitāb al-zuhd, bāb al-nahī 'an ifrat fi'l-madh.

⁴⁰⁰ See Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 1/433, Bāb yuhtha fi wujūh al-maddāhīn.

⁴⁰¹ Reported by Ahmad, 5/32; its isnād is ṣaḥīḥ.

For this reason the Prophet (ﷺ) ordered his Companions to throw dust in the faces of those who praise others, lest their number, and hence flattery and hypocrisy, increase, which would have had disastrous consequences for the whole Muslim society.

The Ṣaḥābah, may Allāh (ﷻ) be pleased with them, used to feel upset when they heard others praising them, although they were the most deserving of such praise, because they feared its disastrous consequences and adhered to the basic principles of Islām that abhor such cheap, empty expressions. Nafi' (رضي الله عنه) and others said: "A man said to Ibn 'Umar (رضي الله عنه): 'O you who are the best of people!' or 'O son of the best of people!' Ibn 'Umar said: 'I am not the best of people, neither am I the son of the best of people. I am just one of the servants of Allāh (ﷻ): I hope for His (mercy) and I fear His (wrath). By Allāh (ﷻ), you will continue to pursue a man (with your praise) until you bring about his downfall.'" 402

This is a wise statement from a great Ṣaḥābī of the utmost Islāmic sensibilities, who adhered to Islāmic teachings both in secret and openly.

The Ṣaḥābah understood precisely the Prophet's guidance telling them that their words and deeds should be free from hypocrisy. The great difference between that which is done sincerely for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ) and that which is merely hypocrisy and flattery was abundantly clear to them.

Ibn 'Umar (رضي الله عنه) said that some people said to him: "When we enter upon our rulers we tell them something different from what we say when we have left them." Ibn 'Umar said: "At the time of the Prophet (ﷺ), we used to consider this to be hypocrisy." 403

The true Muslim woman is protected by her religion from sinking to the dangerous level of hypocrisy to which many women today have sunk who think that they have not overstepped the bounds of polite flattery. They do not realize that there is a type of flattery that is ḥarām and that they could sink so low without realizing it and fall into the sin of that despised hypocrisy which may lead to their ultimate doom. This happens when they keep quiet and refrain from telling the truth, or when they praise those who do not deserve it.

She is Characterized by Shyness [ḥayā']

Women are shy by nature, and what I mean here by shyness is the same as the definition of the 'ulamā'': the noble attitude that always motivates a person to keep away from what is abhorrent and to avoid falling short in one's duties towards those who have rights over one. The Prophet (ﷺ) was the highest example of shyness, as the great Ṣaḥābī Abū Sa'īd al-Khudrī described him:

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) was more shy than the virgin hiding away in her own room. If he saw something he disliked, we would know it only from his facial expression." 404

The Prophet (ﷺ) praised the attitude of shyness in a number of ḥadīths, and explained that it is pure goodness, both for the one who possesses this virtue and for the society in which he lives.

'Imrān ibn Huṣayn (رضي الله عنه) said: "The Prophet (ﷺ) said: 'Shyness brings nothing but good.'" 405 According to a report given by Muslim, he (ﷺ) said: "Shyness is all good." 406 Abū Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه) said:

"The Prophet (ﷺ) said: "Faith has seventy-odd branches. The greatest of them is saying Lā ilāha illā Allāh, and the least of them is removing something harmful from the road. Shyness is one of the branches of faith." 407

The true Muslim woman is shy, polite, gentle and sensitive to the feelings of others. She never says or does anything that may harm people or offend their dignity.

The attitude of shyness that is deeply-rooted in her nature is supported by her understanding of the Islāmic concept of shyness, which protects her against going wrong or deviating from Islāmic teachings in her dealings with others. She does not only feel shy in front of people, but she also feels shy before

402 Ḥayāt al-Ṣaḥābah, 3/103.

403 Fatḥ al-Bārī, 13/170, Kitāb al-aḥkām, bāb mā yukrah min thanā' al-sultān.

404 Bukhārī and Muslim. See Riyād al-Ṣāliḥīn, 364, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb al-ḥayā' wa fadlulu.

405 Bukhārī and Muslim. See Riyād al-Ṣāliḥīn, 363, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb fi'l-ḥayā' wa fadlulu.

406 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 2/7, Kitāb al-īmān, bāb al-ḥayā' shu'bah min al-īmān.

407 Bukhārī and Muslim. See Riyād al-Ṣāliḥīn, 363, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb 363.

Allāh (ﷻ). She is careful not to let her faith become contaminated by wrongdoing, because shyness is one of the branches of faith. This is the highest level that may be reached by the woman who is characterized by shyness. In this way she is distinguished from the Western woman who has lost the characteristic of shyness.

She is Proud and Does not Beg

One of the features that distinguish the Muslim woman who has truly understood the guidance of Islām is the fact that she is proud and does not beg. If she is faced with difficulties or is afflicted with poverty, she seeks refuge in patience and self-pride, whilst redoubling her efforts to find a way out of the crisis of poverty that has befallen her. It never occurs to her to put herself in the position of begging and asking for help, because Islām thinks too highly of the true Muslim woman to allow her to put herself in such a position. The Muslim woman is urged to be proud, independent and patient - then Allāh (ﷻ) will help her and give her independence and patience:

“Whoever refrains from asking from people, Allāh (ﷻ) will help him. Whoever tries to be independent, Allāh (ﷻ) will enrich him. Whoever tries to be patient, Allāh (ﷻ) will give him patience, and no-one is given a better or vaster gift than patience.”⁴⁰⁸

The Muslim woman who understands the teachings of Islām knows that Islām has given the poor some rights over the wealth of the rich, who should give freely without reminders or insults. But at the same time, Islām wants the poor to be independent and not to rely on this right. The higher hand is better than the lower hand, so all Muslims, men and women, should always work so that their hand will not be the lower one. That is more befitting and more honourable to them. So those men and women who have little should increase their efforts and not be dependent on charity and hand-outs. This will save them from losing face. Whenever he spoke from the minbar about charity and refraining from begging, the Prophet (ﷺ) would remind the Muslims that “the higher hand is better than the lower, the higher hand is the one that spends, whilst the lower hand is the one that begs.”⁴⁰⁹

She Does not Interfere in That Which Does not Concern Her

The true Muslim woman is wise and discerning; she does not interfere in that which does not concern her, nor does she concern herself with the private lives of the women around her. She does not stick her nose into their affairs or force herself on them in any way, because this could result in sin or blame on her part. By seeking to avoid interfering in that which does not concern her, she protects herself from vain and idle talk, as she is adhering to a sound Islāmic principle that raises the Muslim above such foolishness, furnishes him with the best of attitudes, and guides him towards the best way of dealing with others:

“A sign of a person's being a good Muslim is that he should leave alone that which does not concern him.”⁴¹⁰

Abū Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه) reported that the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

“Allāh (ﷻ) likes three things for you and dislikes three things. He likes for you to worship Him, not to associate anything with Him, and to hold fast, all together, by the Rope which He (stretches out for you), and not to be divided among yourselves [cf. Al-Imrān 3:103]. And He dislikes for you to pass on stories and gossip, to ask too many questions, and to waste money.”⁴¹¹

The divinely-guided society which has been formed by Islām has no room for passing on stories and gossip, asking too many questions, or interfering in the private affairs of others, because the members of such a society are too busy with something much more important, which is the establishing of the word of Allāh (ﷻ) on earth, taking the banner of Islām to the four corners of the earth, and spreading its values

⁴⁰⁸ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Riyād al-Ṣāliḥīn, 35, Bāb al-sabr.

⁴⁰⁹ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 7/124, Kitāb al-zakā, bāb bayān an al-yad al-'uliya khayr min al-yad al-sufla.

⁴¹⁰ Reported by Tirmidhī, 3/382, Abwāb al-zuhd, 8; Ibn Mājah, 2/1316, Kitāb al-fitan, bāb kaff al-lisān 'an al-fitnah.

⁴¹¹ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 12/10, Kitāb al-aqdiyah, bāb al-nahi 'an kathrah al-masa'il min ghayri hajah.

among mankind. Those who are engaged in such great missions do not have the time to indulge in such sins.

She Refrains From Slandering the Honour of Others and Seeking out Their Faults

The God-fearing Muslim woman restrains her tongue and does not seek out people's faults or slander their honour, and she hates to see such talk spread in the Muslim community. She acts in accordance with the guidance of the Qur'ān and Sunnah, which issue a severe warning to those corrupt men and women who indulge in slandering the honour of others, that they will suffer a terrible punishment in this world and the next:

﴿Those who love [to see] scandal published broadcast among the Believers, will have a grievous Penalty in this life and in the Hereafter: Allāh knows, and you know not.﴾ (Qur'ān 24: 19)

The one who indulges in the slander of people's honour, and spreads news of scandal throughout the community is just like the one who commits the scandalous deed, as 'Alī ibn Abī Tālib (ؑ) stated:

"The one who tells the news of scandal and the one who spreads the news are equally sinful."⁴¹²

The true Muslim woman understands that the human shortcomings of some weak or careless women cannot be dealt with by seeking out their faults and mistakes and broadcasting them throughout the community. The way to deal with them is by offering sound advice to the women concerned, encouraging them to obey Allāh (ﷻ), and teaching them to hate disobedience themselves, always being frank without hurting their feelings or being confrontational.

Kind words and a gentle approach in explaining the truth opens hearts and minds, and leads to complete spiritual and physical submission. For this reason, Allāh (ﷻ) forbids the Muslims to spy on one another and seek out one another's faults:

﴿...And spy not on each other...﴾ (Qur'ān 49: 12)

Exposing people's shortcomings, seeking out their faults, spying on them and gossiping about them are actions which not only hurt the people concerned; they also harm the greater society in which they live. Therefore the Qur'ān issued a stern warning to those who love to spread scandal in the community, because whenever scandal is spread in a community, people's honour is insulted, and rumours, plots and suspicions increase, then the disease of promiscuity becomes widespread, people become immune to acts of disobedience and sin, the bonds of brotherhood are broken, and hatred, enmity, conspiracies and corruption arise. This is what the Prophet (ﷺ) referred to when he said:

"If you seek out the faults of the Muslims, you will corrupt them, or you will nearly corrupt them."⁴¹³

So the Prophet (ﷺ) issued a stern warning to the Muslims against the danger of slandering people's honour and exposing their faults. He threatened that the one who takes such matters lightly would himself be exposed, even if he were hiding in the innermost part of his home:

"Do not hurt the feelings of the servants of Allāh (ﷻ); do not embarrass them; do not seek to expose their faults. Whoever seeks to expose the faults of his Muslim brother, Allāh (ﷻ) will seek to expose his faults and expose him, even if he hides in the innermost part of his home."⁴¹⁴

The Prophet (ﷺ) was deeply offended by those who were nose, suspicious or doubtful, or who sought to undermine people's reputation and honour. He would become very angry whenever he heard any news of these aggressors who hurt others. Ibn 'Abbās (ؓ) described the anger of the Prophet (ﷺ) and his harshness towards those who slandered the honour of others:

"The Prophet (ﷺ) gave a speech that even reached the ears of virgins in their private rooms. He said: 'O you who have spoken the words of faith, but faith has not penetrated your hearts! Do not hurt the feelings of the believers and do not seek out their faults. Whoever seeks out the faults of his Muslim ⁴¹² Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 1/419, Bāb man sami'a bi fahishah fa afshaha.

⁴¹³ Reported with a ṣaḥīḥ isnād by Abū Dāwūd, 4/375, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb fi al-nahi 'an al-tajassus.

⁴¹⁴ Reported with a ḥasan isnād by Aḥmad, 5/279.

brother, Allāh (ﷻ) will seek out his faults, and whoever's faults are sought out by Allāh (ﷻ) will be exposed, even if he is in the innermost part of his house."⁴¹⁵

These harsh words, which were even heard by the virgins secluded in their private rooms, reflect the anger felt by the Prophet (ﷺ). He started his speech with the words "O you who have spoken the words of faith, but faith has not penetrated your hearts!" How great is the sin of those who are included among those whose hearts are deprived of the blessing of faith!

She Does not Show off or Boast

The Muslim woman does not slip into the error of pride, boasting and showing off, because her knowledge of Islām protects her from such errors. She understands that the very essence of this religion is sincerity towards Allāh (ﷻ) in word and deed; any trace of a desire to show off will destroy reward, cancel out good deeds, and bring humiliation on the Day of Judgement.

Worshipping Allāh (ﷻ) is the goal behind the creation of mankind and jinn, as the Qur'ān says:

﴿I have only created *jinn*s and men that they may serve Me.﴾ (Qur'ān 51: 56)

But this worship cannot be accepted unless it is done sincerely for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ):

﴿And they have been commanded no more than this: to worship Allāh, offering Him sincere devotion, being True [in faith]...﴾ (Qur'ān 98: 5)

When a Muslim woman's deeds are contaminated with the desire to boast or show off or seek fame and reputation, the good deeds will be invalidated. Her reward will be destroyed and she will be in a clear state of loss. The Qur'ān issues a clear and stern warning to those who spend their wealth then remind the beneficiaries of their charity of their gifts in a way that hurts their feelings and offends their dignity:

﴿O you who believe! Cancel not your charity by reminders of your generosity or by injury - like those who spend their substance to be seen of men, but believe neither in Allāh nor the Last Day. They are in Parable like a hard, barren rock, on which is a little soil; on it falls heavy rain, which leaves it [just] a bare rock. They will be able to do nothing with what they have earned. And Allāh guides not those who reject faith.﴾ (Qur'ān 2: 264)

Reminding the poor of one's generosity cancels out the reward of these acts of charity, just as pouring water washes away all traces of soil on a smooth stone. The last part of the āyāh presents the frightening admonition that those who show off do not deserve the guidance of Allāh (ﷻ) and are counted as kāfirs:
﴿And Allāh guides not those who reject faith.﴾

Such people's main concern is to appear to people to be doing good works; they are not concerned with earning the pleasure of Allāh (ﷻ). Allāh (ﷻ) has described them as doing apparently good deeds:

﴿to be seen of men, but little do they hold Allāh in remembrance.﴾ (Qur'ān 4: 142)

Thus their deeds will be thrown back in their faces, because they associated something or someone else with Allāh (ﷻ), and Allāh (ﷻ) does not accept any deeds except those which are done purely for His sake, as is stated in the ḥadīth of Abū Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه), in which he reports that he heard the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) say:

"Allāh (ﷻ) said: 'I am so self-sufficient that I am in no need of having an associate. Thus he who does an action for someone else's sake as well as Mine shall have that action renounced by Me to the one whom he associated with Me.'⁴¹⁶

The true Muslim woman is cautious, when doing good deeds, to avoid falling into the dangerous trap into which so many women who seek to do good have fallen, without even realizing it, by seeking praise for their efforts and honourable mention on special occasions. Theirs is a terrible fall indeed.

The Prophet (ﷺ) has clearly explained this issue and has referred to the terrible humiliation that those who show off will suffer on that awful Day ﴿whereon neither wealth nor sons will avail, but only he ⁴¹⁵ Reported by Aṭ-Ṭabarānī; the men of its isnād are thiqāh. See Majmā' al-Zawā'id, 8/94.

⁴¹⁶ Saḥīḥ Muslim, 18/115, Kitāb al-zuhd, bāb taḥrīm al-riyā'.

[will prosper] that brings to Allāh a sound heart.﴾ (Qur'ān 26: 88-89).

This is mentioned in another ḥadīth in which Abū Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه) said:

"I heard the Prophet (ﷺ) say: 'The first person to be judged on the Day of Resurrection will be a man who was martyred. He will be brought forth and Allāh (ﷻ) will remind him of His blessings, and he will recognize them.' Then he will be asked, "What did you do with them?" He will say, "I fought for Your sake until I was martyred." Allāh (ﷻ) will say, "You have lied. You only fought so that people would say, 'He is courageous,' and they did say it." Then He will order that he be dragged on his face and thrown into the Fire. Then there will be a man who studied much and taught others, and recited Qur'ān. He will be brought forth and Allāh (ﷻ) will remind of His blessings, and he will recognize them. Then he will be asked, "What did you do with them?" He will say, "I studied much, and taught others, and recited Qur'ān for Your sake. Allāh (ﷻ) will say, "You have lied. You studied so that people would say, 'He is a scholar,' and you recited Qur'ān so that they would say, 'He is aqāṭī', and they did say it." Then He will order that he be dragged on his face and thrown into the Fire. Then there will be a man to whom Allāh (ﷻ) gave all types of wealth in abundance. He will be brought forth and Allāh (ﷻ) will remind him of His blessings and he will recognize them. Then he will be asked, "What did you do with them?" He will say, "I have never seen any way in which You would like money to be spent for Your sake without spending it." Allāh (ﷻ) will say, "You have lied. You did that so people would say, 'he is generous,' and they did say it." Then He will order that he be dragged on his face and thrown into the Fire."⁴¹⁷

The intelligent Muslim woman who is truly guided by the Qur'ān and Sunnah carefully avoids slipping into the sin of boasting in any of its many forms. She is ever keen to devote all of her deeds exclusively to Allāh (ﷻ), seeking His pleasure, and whenever the appalling spectre of pride and boasting looms before her, she remembers and adheres to the teaching of the Prophet (ﷺ):

"Whoever makes a show of his good deeds so that people will respect him, Allāh (ﷻ) will show what is truly in his heart."⁴¹⁸

She is Fair in Her Judgements

The Muslim woman may be put in a position where she is required to form an opinion or judgement on some person or matter. This is where her faith, common sense and taqwā reveal themselves. The true Muslim woman judges fairly, and is never unjust, biased or influenced by her own whims, no matter what the circumstances, because she understands from the teachings of Islām that being just and avoiding unfairness are at the very heart of her faith, as stated by clear and unambiguous texts of the Qur'ān and Sunnah and expressed in commandments that leave no room for prevarication:

﴿Allāh does command you to render back your Trusts to whom they are due; and when you judge between man and man, that you judge with justice...﴾ (Qur'ān 4: 58)

Justice as known by the Muslim and the Islāmic society is absolute and pure justice. It is not influenced by friendship, hatred or blood ties:

﴿O you who believe! Stand out firmly for Allāh, as witnesses to fair dealing, and do not let the hatred of others to you make you swerve to wrong and depart from justice. Be just: that is next to Piety: and fear Allāh. For Allāh is well-acquainted with all that you do.﴾ (Qur'ān 5: 8)

﴿Whenever you speak, speak justly, even if a near relative is concerned...﴾ (Qur'ān 6: 152)

The Prophet (ﷺ) set the highest example of justice when Usamah ibn Zayd came to intercede for the Makhzumī woman who had committed theft, and the Prophet (ﷺ) had decided to cut off her hand. He said: "Do you intercede concerning one of the punishments decreed by Allāh (ﷻ), O Usamah? By Allāh (ﷻ), even if Fāṭimah the daughter of Muhammad had committed theft, I would have cut off her hand."⁴¹⁹

This is absolute, universal justice which is applied to great and small, prince and commoner, Muslims

⁴¹⁷ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 13/50, Kitāb al-imārah, bāb man qatila li'l-riyā' wa'l-sum'ah.

⁴¹⁸ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 10/323, Kitāb al-riqāq, bāb al-riyā' wa'l-sam'ah.

⁴¹⁹ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah 10/328, Kitāb al-ḥudūd, bāb qat' yad al-sharif wa'l-mār'ah wa'l-shafa'ah fi'l-ḥadd.

and non-Muslims. None can escape its grasp, and this is what differentiates justice in Islāmic societies from justice in other societies.

History records the impressive story that earns the respect of the institutions of justice throughout the world and at all times: the khalīfah ‘Alī ibn Abī Ṭālib stood side by side in court with his Jewish opponent, who had stolen his shield, on equal terms. The qādī, Shurayh, did not let his great respect for the khalīfah prevent him from asking him to produce evidence that the Jew had stolen his shield. When the khalīfah could not produce such evidence, the qādī ruled in favour of the Jew, and against the khalīfah. Islāmic history is full of such examples which indicate the extent to which truth and justice prevailed in the Muslim society.

Therefore the Muslim woman who truly adheres to the teachings of her religion is just in word and deed, and this attitude of hers is reinforced by the fact that truth and justice are an ancient part of her heritage and fairness is a sacred part of her belief.

She Does not Oppress or Mistreat Others

To the extent that the Muslim woman is keen to adhere to justice in all her words and deeds, she also avoids oppression (Dhulm), for oppression is darkness in which male and female oppressors will become lost, as the Prophet (ﷺ) explained:

“Keep away from oppression, for oppression is darkness on the Day of Resurrection.”⁴²⁰

The following ḥadīth qudsī definitively and eloquently expresses Allāh’s prohibition of oppression in a way that leaves no room for prevarication:

“O My slaves, I have forbidden oppression for Myself and have made it forbidden amongst you, so do not oppress one another.”⁴²¹

If Allāh (ﷻ), the Creator, the Sovereign, the All-Holy, the Exalted in Might, the Omnipotent, the Almighty, may He be glorified, has forbidden oppression for Himself, and forbidden it for His slaves, does it then befit His weak, mortal slave to commit the sin of oppression against his human brother?

The Prophet (ﷺ) forbade Muslim men and women to commit the sin of oppression against their brothers and sisters in faith, no matter what the motives, reasons or circumstances might be. It is unimaginable that a Muslim who is adhering to the strong bonds of brotherhood could commit such a sin:

“A Muslim is the brother of another Muslim: he does not oppress him or forsake him when he is oppressed. Whoever helps his brother, Allāh (ﷻ) will help him; whoever relieves his brother from some distress, Allāh (ﷻ) will relieve him of some of his distress on the Day of Resurrection; whoever covers (the fault of) a Muslim, Allāh (ﷻ) will cover his faults on the Day of Resurrection.”⁴²²

The Prophet (ﷺ) did not stop at forbidding oppression against another Muslim, man or woman; he also forbade Muslims to forsake a brother in faith who was being oppressed, because this act of forsaking an oppressed brother is in itself a terrible form of oppression. He encouraged Muslims to take care of their brothers’ needs and to ease their suffering and conceal their faults, as if indicating that the neglect of these virtues constitutes oppression, failure and injustice with regard to the ties of brotherhood that bind the Muslim and his brother.

We have quoted above the texts that enjoin absolute justice, which cannot be influenced by love, hatred, bias or ties of blood, and other texts that forbid absolute injustice. This means that justice is to be applied to all people, and that injustice to any people is to be avoided, even if the people concerned are not Muslim. Allāh (ﷻ) commands justice and good treatment of all, and forbids oppression and wrongdoing to all:

﴿Allāh forbids you not, with regard to those who fight you not for [your] Faith nor drive you out of your homes, from dealing kindly and justly with them: For Allāh loves those who are just.﴾
(Qur’ān 60: 8)

⁴²⁰ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/143, Kitāb al-birr wa’l-silah wa’l-adāb, bāb taḥrīm al-dhulm.

⁴²¹ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/132, Kitāb al-birr wa’l-silah wa’l-adāb, bāb taḥrīm al-dhulm.

⁴²² Faṭḥ al-Bārī, 5/97, Kitāb al-mudḥalim, bāb la yazlum al-Muslimu al-Muslima wa la yuslimuhu.

She is Fair Even to Those Whom She Does Not Like

Life sometimes imposes on a Muslim woman the burden of having to live or mix with women whom she does not like, such as living in the same house with one of her in-laws or other women with whom she has nothing in common and does not get along well. This is something which happens in many homes, a fact which cannot be denied, for souls are like conscripted soldiers: if they recognize one another, they will become friends, and if they dislike one another, they will go their separate ways, as the Prophet (ﷺ) explained in the ḥadīth whose authenticity is agreed upon. How should the Muslim woman who has received a sound Islāmic education conduct herself in such a situation? Should she be negative in her dealings, judgements and reactions, or should she be gentle, tactful, fair and wise, even with those whom she does not like?

The answer is that the Muslim woman who is truly guided by Islām should be fair, wise, gentle and tactful. She should not expose her true feelings towards those she dislikes, or expose her cold feelings towards them in the way she behaves towards them and reacts to them. She should greet such women warmly, treat them gently and speak softly to them. This is the attitude adopted by the Prophet (ﷺ) and his Companions. Abū'l-Dardā' (رضي الله عنه) said:

"We smile at people even if in our hearts we are cursing them."⁴²³

'Urwah ibn al-Zubayr reported that 'Āishah told him:

"A man sought permission to enter upon the Prophet (ﷺ), and he said, 'Let him in, what a bad son of his tribe (or bad brother of his tribe) he is!' When the man came in, the Prophet (ﷺ) spoke to him kindly and gently. I said: 'O Messenger of Allāh, you said what you said, then you spoke to him kindly.' He said, 'O 'Āishah, the worst of the people in the sight of Allāh (ﷻ) is the one who is shunned by others or whom people treat nicely because they fear his sharp tongue.'⁴²⁴

Being companionable, friendly and kind towards people are among the attributes of believing men and women. Being humble, speaking gently and avoiding harshness are approaches that make people like one another and draw closer to one another, as enjoined by Islām, which encourages Muslims to adopt these attitudes in their dealings with others.

The true Muslim woman is not swayed by her emotions when it comes to love and hate. She is moderate, objective, fair and realistic in her treatment and opinions of those women whom she does not like, and allows herself to be governed by her reason, religion, chivalry and good attitude. She does not bear witness except to the truth, and she does not judge except with justice, following the example of the Mothers of the Believers, who were the epitome of fairness, justice and taqwā in their opinions of one another.

'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) was the closest of his wives to the Prophet's heart, and her main rival in this regard was Zaynab bint Jaḥsh. It was natural for there to be jealousy between them, but this jealousy did not prevent either of them from saying what was true about the other and acknowledging her qualities without undermining them.

In Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 'Āishah says of Zaynab:

"She was the one who was somewhat equal in rank with me in the eyes of the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ). I have never seen a woman better in piety than Zaynab, or more fearing of Allāh (ﷻ), or more true in speech, or more faithful in upholding the ties of kinship, or more generous in giving charity, or humble enough to work with her hands in order to earn money that she could spend for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ). However, she was hot-tempered and quick to anger, but she would soon cool down and then take the matter no further."⁴²⁵

In Ṣaḥīḥ Bukhārī, in the context of her telling of the slander incident (al-ifk) concerning which Allāh (ﷻ) Himself confirmed her total innocence, 'Āishah referred to Zaynab's testimony concerning her:

⁴²³ Faḥ al-Bārī, 10/527, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb al-madarah ma'a al-nās.

⁴²⁴ Faḥ al-Bārī, 10/528, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb al-madarah ma'a al-nās.

⁴²⁵ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 15/206, Kitāb fadā'il al-Ṣaḥābah, bāb fadā'il Umm al-Mu'minīn 'Āishah.

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) asked Zaynab bint Jahsh concerning me, saying: 'O Zaynab, what did you see? What have you learnt?' She said, 'O Messenger of Allāh, I protect my hearing and my sight (by refraining from telling lies). I know nothing but good about her.'" Then 'Āishah said: "She is the one who was my main rival, but Allāh (ﷻ) protected her (from telling lies) because of her piety."⁴²⁶

Anyone who reads the books of sīrah and the biographies of the Ṣaḥābah will find many reports of the wives of the Prophets which describe fairness and mutual praise among co-wives.

Among these reports is Umm Salamah's comment about Zaynab: "Zaynab was very dear to the Prophet (ﷺ), and he liked to spend time with her. She was righteous, and frequently stood in prayer at night and fasted during the day. She was skilled (in handicrafts) and used to give everything that she earned in charity to the poor."

When Zaynab died, 'Āishah said: "She has departed praiseworthy and worshipping much, the refuge of the orphans and widows."⁴²⁷

When Maymunah died, 'Āishah said: "By Allāh (ﷻ), Maymunah has gone.... But by Allāh (ﷻ) she was one of the most pious of us and one of those who was most faithful in upholding the ties of kinship."⁴²⁸

The wives of the Prophet (ﷺ) displayed this attitude of fairness and justice towards co-wives in spite of the jealousy, competition and sensitivity that existed between them. We can only imagine how great and noble their attitude towards other women was. By their behaviour and attitude, they set the highest example for Muslim woman of human co-existence that absorbs all hatred by increasing the power of reason and controls the strength of jealousy - if it is present - by strengthening the feelings of fairness, good treatment and a sense of being above such negative attitudes. Thus the Muslim woman becomes fair towards those women whom she does not like, regardless of the degree of closeness between them, fair when judging them, and wise, rational and tactful in her treatment of them.

She Does not Rejoice in the Misfortunes of Others

The sincere Muslim woman who is truly infused with Islāmic attitudes does not rejoice in the misfortunes of anyone, because Schadenfreude (malicious enjoyment of others' misfortunes) is a vile, hurtful attitude that should not exist in the God-fearing woman who understands the teachings of her religion. The Prophet (ﷺ) forbade this attitude and warned against it:

"Do not express malicious joy at the misfortune of your brother, for Allāh (ﷻ) will have mercy on him and inflict misfortune on you."⁴²⁹

There is no room for Schadenfreude in the heart of the Muslim woman in whom Islām has instilled good manners. Instead, she feels sorry for those who are faced with trials and difficulties: she hastens to help them and is filled with compassion for their suffering. Schadenfreude belongs only in those sick hearts that are deprived of the guidance of Islām and that are accustomed to plotting revenge and seeking out means of harming others.

She Avoids Suspicion

Another attribute of the true Muslim woman is that she does not form unfounded suspicions about anybody. She avoids suspicion as much as possible, as Allāh (ﷻ) has commanded in the Qur'ān:

﴿O you who believe! Avoid suspicion as much [as possible]: for suspicion in some cases is a sin...﴾
(Qur'ān 49: 12)

She understands that by being suspicious of others she may fall into sin, especially if she allows her imagination free rein to dream up possibilities and illusions, and accuses them of shameful deeds of which they are innocent. This is the evil suspicion which is forbidden in Islām.

⁴²⁶ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 8/455, Kitāb al-tafseer, bāb law la idh sami'timuhu zann al-mu'minina wa'l-mu'minat bi anfusihim khayran [Al-Noor 24:12]

⁴²⁷ Al-Samt al-Thamin, 110; Al-Isti'ab, 4/1851; Al-Iṣabah, 8/93.

⁴²⁸ Al-Iṣabah, 8/192.

⁴²⁹ Reported by Tirmidhī, 4/662, Kitāb ṣifāt al-qiyamah, 54. He said it is a ḥasan ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth.

The Prophet (ﷺ) issued a stern warning against suspicion and speculation that has no foundation in reality. He (ﷺ) said:

“Beware of suspicion, for suspicion is the falsest of speech.”⁴³⁰

The Prophet (ﷺ) counted suspicion as being the falsest of speech. The truly sincere Muslim woman who is keen to speak the truth always would never even allow words that carry the stench of untruth to cross her tongue, so how can she allow herself to fall into the trap of uttering the falsest of speech?

When the Prophet (ﷺ) warned against suspicion and called it the falsest of speech, he was directing the Muslims, men and women, to take people at face value, and to avoid speculating about them or doubting them. It is not the attitude of a Muslim, nor is it his business, to uncover people’s secrets, to expose their private affairs, or to slander them. Only Allāh (ﷻ) knows what is in people’s hearts, and can reveal it or call them to account for it, for only He knows all that is secret and hidden. A man, in contrast, knows nothing of his brother except what he sees him do. This was the approach of the Ṣaḥābah and Ṭabi‘īn who received the pure and unadulterated guidance of Islām.

‘Abdul-Razzāq reported from ‘Abdullāh ibn ‘Utbah ibn Mas‘ūd:

“I heard ‘Umar ibn al-Khaṭṭāb (رضي الله عنه) say: ‘People who used to follow the wahyi (Revelation) at the time of the Prophet (ﷺ), but now the wahyi has ceased. So now we take people at face value. If someone appears good to us, we trust him and form a close relationship with him on the basis of what we see of his deeds. We have nothing to do with his inner thoughts, which are for Allāh (ﷻ) to judge. And if someone appears bad to us, we do not trust him or believe him, even if he tells us that his inner thoughts are good.”⁴³¹

The true Muslim woman who is adhering to that which will help her to remember Allāh (ﷻ) and do good deeds, will exercise the utmost care in every word she utters concerning her Muslim sister, whether directly or indirectly. She tries to be sure about every judgement she makes about people, always remembering the words of Allāh (ﷻ):

﴿And pursue not that of which you have no knowledge; for every act of hearing, or of seeing, or of [feeling in] the heart will be enquired into [on the Day of Reckoning].﴾ (Qur’ān 17: 36)

So she does not transgress this wise and definitive prohibition: she does not speak except with knowledge, and she does not pass judgement except with certainty.

The true Muslim woman always reminds herself of the watching angel who is assigned to record every word she utters and every judgement she forms, and this increases her fear of falling into the sin of suspicion:

﴿Not a word does he utter, but there is a sentinel by him, ready [to note it].﴾ (Qur’ān 50: 18)

The alert Muslim woman understands the responsibility she bears for every word she utters, because she knows that these words may raise her to a position where Allāh (ﷻ) is pleased with her, or they may earn her His wrath, as the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

“A man could utter a word that pleases Allāh (ﷻ), and not realize the consequences of it, for Allāh (ﷻ) may decree that he is pleased with him because of it until the Day he meets Him. Similarly, a man could utter a word that angers Allāh (ﷻ), and not realize the consequences of it, for Allāh (ﷻ) may decree that He is angry with him because of it until the Day of Resurrection.”⁴³²

How great is our responsibility for the words we utter! How serious are the consequences of the words that our garrulous tongues speak so carelessly!

The true Muslim woman who is God-fearing and intelligent does not listen to people’s idle talk, or pay attention to the rumours and speculation that are rife in our communities nowadays, especially in the gatherings of foolish and careless women. Consequently she never allows herself to pass on whatever she ⁴³⁰ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 13/109, Kitāb al-birr wa’l-silah, bāb ma la yajuz min al-dhann.

⁴³¹ Ḥayāt al-Ṣaḥābah, 2/151

⁴³² A ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth narrated by Mālik in Al-Muwattā’, 2/975, Kitāb al-kalam, bāb ma yu’mar bihi min al-taḥaffuz fi’l-kalam.

hears of such rumours without being sure that they are true. She believes that to do so would be the kind of ḥarām lie that was clearly forbidden by the Prophet (ﷺ):

"It is enough lying for a man to repeat everything that he hears."⁴³³

She Refrains From Backbiting and Spreading Malicious Gossip

The Muslim woman who truly understands the teachings of Islām is conscious of Allāh (ﷻ), fearing Him in secret and in the open. She carefully avoids uttering any word of slander or malicious gossip that could anger her Rabb and include her among those spreaders of malicious gossip who are severely condemned in the Qur'ān and Sunnah.

When she reads the words of Allāh (ﷻ):

﴿Nor speak ill of each other behind their backs. Would any of you like to eat the flesh of his dead brother? Nay, you would abhor it. But fear Allāh, for Allāh is Off-Returning, All-Merciful.﴾
(Qur'ān 49: 12)

She is filled with revulsion for the hateful crime of gossip, which is likened to the eating of her dead sister's flesh. So she hastens to repent, as Allāh (ﷻ) commands at the end of the āyāh, encouraging the one who has fallen into the error of backbiting to repent quickly from it.

She also heeds the words of the Prophet (ﷺ), who said:

"The Muslim is the one from whose tongue and whose hand the Muslims are safe."⁴³⁴

So she feels that gossip is a sin which does not befit the Muslim woman who has uttered the words of the Shahadah, and that the woman who is used to gossip in social gatherings is not among the righteous Muslim women.

'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) said:

"I said to the Prophet (ﷺ), 'It is enough for you that Ṣafiyah is such-and-such.'" Some narrators said that she meant she was short of stature. The Prophet (ﷺ) said: "You have spoken a word that, if it were to mixed with the waters of the sea, it would contaminate them."⁴³⁵

The Muslim woman pays attention to the description of the seven acts that may lead to a person's condemnation, which the Prophet (ﷺ) called on people to avoid. In this list, she finds something that is even worse and more dangerous than mere gossip, namely the slander of chaste, innocent believing women, which is a sin that some women fall into in their gatherings:

"Avoid (the) seven things that could lead to perdition." It was asked, "O Messenger of Allāh, what are they?" He said: "Shirk [associating any partner with Allāh (ﷻ)]; witchcraft (siḥr); killing anyone for whom Allāh (ﷻ) has forbidden killing, except in the course of justice; consuming the wealth of the orphan; consuming ribā (usury); running away from the battlefield; and slandering chaste and innocent believing women."⁴³⁶

The Muslim woman who truly understands this teaching takes the issue of gossip very seriously, and does not indulge in any type of gossip or tolerate anyone to gossip in her company. She defends her sisters from hostile gossip and refutes whatever bad things are being said about them, in accordance with the words of the Prophet (ﷺ):

"Whoever defends the flesh of his brother in his absence, Allāh (ﷻ) will save him from the Fire."⁴³⁷

The true Muslim woman also refrains from spreading malicious gossip, because she understands the dangerous role it plays in spreading evil and corruption in society and breaking the ties of love and friendship between its members, as the Prophet (ﷺ) explained:

⁴³³ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 1/73, Introduction, Bāb al-nahy 'an al-ḥadīth bi kulli ma sami'a.

⁴³⁴ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 2/12, Kitāb al-īmān, bāb bayān tafadul al-Islām.

⁴³⁵ Reported by Abū Dāwūd, 4/371, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb fi'l-ghibah; Tirmidhī, 4/660, Kitāb ṣifāt al-qiyāmah, 51; he said it is a ḥasan ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth.

⁴³⁶ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 1/86, Kitāb al-īmān, bāb al-kaba'ir.

⁴³⁷ Reported with a ḥasan isnād by Aḥmad, 6/461.

“The best of the servants of Allāh (ﷻ) are those who, when they are seen, Allāh (ﷻ) is remembered (i.e., they are very pious). The worst of the servants of Allāh (ﷻ) are those who spread malicious gossip, cause division between friends, and seek to cause trouble for innocent people.”⁴³⁸

It is enough for the woman who spreads malicious gossip and causes trouble between friends and splits them up to know that if she persists in her evil ways, there awaits her humiliation in this life and a terrible destiny in the next, as the Prophet (ﷺ) declared that the blessings of Paradise will be denied to every person who spreads malicious gossip. This is stated clearly in the ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth:

“The one who engages in malicious gossip will not enter Paradise.”⁴³⁹

What fills the believing woman’s heart with fear and horror of the consequences of spreading malicious gossip is the fact that Allāh (ﷻ) will pour His punishment upon the one who engaged in this sin from the moment he or she is laid in the grave. We find this in the ḥadīth which Bukhārī, Muslim and others narrated from Ibn ‘Abbās (رضي الله عنه):

“The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) passed by two graves, and said: ‘They are being punished, but they are not being punished for any major sin. One of them used to spread malicious gossip, and the other used not to clean himself properly after urinating.’” He (Ibn ‘Abbās) said: “He called for a green branch and split it in two, then planted a piece on each grave and said, ‘May their punishment be reduced so long as these remain fresh.’”⁴⁴⁰

She Avoids Cursing and Foul Language

The Muslim woman who has absorbed the good manners taught by Islām never utters obscene language or foul words, or offends people with curses and insults, because she knows that the moral teachings of Islām completely forbid all such talk. Cursing is seen as a sin that damages the quality of a person’s adherence to Islām, and the foul-mouthed person is intensely disliked by Allāh (ﷻ). Ibn Mas‘ūd (رضي الله عنه) said:

“The Prophet (ﷺ) said: ‘Cursing a Muslim is a sin and killing him iskufr.’”⁴⁴¹

The Prophet (ﷺ) said:

“Allāh (ﷻ) does not love anyone who is foul-mouthed and obscene.”⁴⁴²

“Allāh (ﷻ) will hate the disgusting, foul-mouthed person.”⁴⁴³

It is a quality that does not befit the Muslim woman who has been guided by the truth of Islām and whose heart has been filled with the sweetness of faith. So she keeps far away from disputes and arguments in which cheap insults and curses are traded. The alert Muslim woman is further encouraged to avoid such moral decadence whenever she remembers the beautiful example set by the Prophet (ﷺ) in all his words and deeds. It is known that he never uttered any words that could hurt a person’s feelings, damage his reputation or insult his honour.

Anas ibn Mālīk (رضي الله عنه), who accompanied the Prophet (ﷺ) closely for many years, said:

“The Prophet (ﷺ) never used foul language, or cursed, or swore. When he wanted to rebuke someone, he would say, ‘What is wrong with him? May his forehead be covered with dust!’”⁴⁴⁴

He even refrained from cursing the kāfirīn who had hardened their hearts to his message. He never spoke a harmful word to them, as the great Ṣaḥābī Abū Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه) said:

“It was said: ‘O Messenger of Allāh, pray against the mushrikīn.’ He said, ‘I was not sent as a curse, but I ⁴³⁸ Reported with a ṣaḥīḥ isnād by Aḥmad, 4/227.

⁴³⁹ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 13/147, Kitāb al-birr wa’l-silah, bāb wa’id al-namam.

⁴⁴⁰ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 1/370, Kitāb al-tahārah, bāb al-istitar ‘inda qada’ al-ḥajah.

⁴⁴¹ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 1/76, Kitāb al-īmān, bāb ‘al-āmat al-nifāq.

⁴⁴² Reported by Aḥmad and Aṭ-Ṭabarānī; the men of its isnād are thiqā. See Majma’ al-Zawā’id, 8/64.

⁴⁴³ Reported by Aṭ-Ṭabarānī; the men of its isnād are thiqā. See Majma’ al-Zawā’id, 8/64.

⁴⁴⁴ Faṭḥ al-Bārī, 10/452, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb lam yakun al-Nabi fashishan wala mutafahhishan.

was sent as a mercy.'"⁴⁴⁵

The Prophet (ﷺ) excelled in removing the roots of evil, hatred and enmity in people's hearts when he explained to the Muslims that the one who gives his tongue free rein in slandering people and their wealth and honour is the one who is truly ruined in this world and the next. His aggressive attitude towards others will cancel out whatever good deeds he may have done in his life, and on the Day of Judgement he will be abandoned, with no protection from the Fire:

"The Prophet (ﷺ) said: 'Do you know who is the one who is ruined? They said, 'It is the one who has no money or possessions.' He said, 'The one who is ruined among my ummah is the one who comes on the Day of Resurrection with prayer, fasting and zakaat to his credit, but he insulted this one, slandered that one, devoured this one's wealth, shed that one's blood, and beat that one. So some of his hasanat will be given to this one and some to that one.... And if his hasanat run out before all his victims have been compensated, then some of their sins will be taken and added to his, then he will be thrown into Hell.'"⁴⁴⁶

Not surprisingly, therefore, all of this nonsense is eliminated from the life of true Muslim women. Disputes and arguments which could lead to curses and insults are rare in the community of true Muslim women that is based on the virtues of good manners, respect for the feelings of others, and a refined level of social interaction.

She Does not Make Fun of Anybody

The Muslim woman whose personality has been infused with a sense of humility and resistance to pride and arrogance cannot make fun of anybody. The Qur'anic guidance which has instilled those virtues in her also protects her from scorning or despising other women:

﴿O you who believe! Let not some men among you laugh at others: it may be that the [latter] are better than the [former]: nor let some women laugh at others: it may be that the [latter] are better than the [former]: nor defame nor be sarcastic to each other, nor call each other by [offensive] nicknames: ill-seeming is a name connoting wickedness, [to be used of one] after he has believed: and those who do not desist are [indeed] doing wrong.﴾ (Qur'an 49: 11)

The Muslim woman also learns the attitude of modesty and gentleness from the example of the Prophet (ﷺ), so she avoids being arrogant and scorning or looking down on others when she reads the words of the Prophet (ﷺ) as reported by Muslim, stating that despising her fellow Muslim women is pure evil:

"It is sufficient evil for a man to despise his Muslim brother."⁴⁴⁷

She is Gentle and Kind Towards People

It is in the nature of women to be gentle and kind, which is more befitting to them. This is why women are known as the "fairer sex."

The Muslim woman who has truly been guided by Islām is even more kind and gentle towards the women around her, because gentleness and kindness are characteristics which Allāh (ﷻ) loves in His believing servants and which make the one who possesses them dear to others:

﴿Nor can Goodness and Evil be equal. Repel [Evil] with what is better: then will he between whom and you was hatred become as it were your friend and intimate! And no one will be granted such goodness except those who exercise patience and self-restraint - none but persons of the greatest good fortune.﴾ (Qur'an 41: 34-35)

Many āyāt and ḥadīths reinforce the message that gentleness and kindness are to be encouraged and that they are noble virtues that should prevail in the Muslim community and characterize every Muslim

⁴⁴⁵ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/150, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah wa'l-adāb, bāb man la'anahu al-Nabi.

⁴⁴⁶ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/135, Kitāb al-birr a'l-silah wa'l-adāb, bāb taḥrīm al-dhulm.

⁴⁴⁷ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/121, Kitāb al-birr, bāb taḥrīm dhulm al-Muslim wa khadhlihi wa ihtiqarihi.

member of that community who truly understands the guidance of Islām. It is sufficient for the Muslim woman to know that kindness is one of the attributes of Allāh (ﷻ) that He has encouraged His slaves to adopt it in all their affairs. "Allāh (ﷻ) is Kind and loves kindness in all affairs."⁴⁴⁸

Kindness is a tremendous virtue which Allāh (ﷻ) rewards in a way unlike any other:

"Allāh (ﷻ) is kind and loves kindness, and He rewards it in a way that He does not reward harshness, and in a way unlike any other."⁴⁴⁹

The Prophet (ﷺ) praised kindness, regarding it as an adornment that beautifies and encouraging others to adopt this trait:

"There is no kindness in a thing but it makes it beautiful, and there is no absence of kindness in a thing but it makes it repugnant."⁴⁵⁰

The Prophet (ﷺ) taught the Muslims to be kind in their dealings with people, and to behave in an exemplary manner as befits the Muslim who is calling people to the religion of Allāh (ﷻ), the All-Kind and All-Merciful, no matter how provocative the situation.

Abū Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه) said:

"A bedouin urinated in the mosque, and the people got up to sort him out. The Prophet (ﷺ) said, 'Leave him be, and throw a bucket of water over his urine, for you have been raised to be easy on people, not hard on them.'⁴⁵¹

Kindness, gentleness and tolerance, not harshness, aggression and rebuke, are what open people's hearts to the message of truth. The Prophet (ﷺ) used to advise the Muslims:

"Be cheerful, not threatening, and make things easy, not difficult."⁴⁵²

People are naturally put off by rudeness and harshness, but they are attracted by kindness and gentleness. Hence Allāh (ﷻ) said to His Prophet (ﷺ):

﴿Were you severe or harsh-hearted, they would have broken away from about you.﴾ (Qur'ān 3: 159)

This is an eternal declaration that applies to every woman who seeks to call other women to Islām. She has to find a good way to reach their hearts, for which purpose she utilizes every means of kindness, gentleness and tact at her disposal. If she encounters any hostility or resistance, then no doubt a kind word will reach their hearts and have the desired effect on the hearts of the women she addresses. This is what Allāh (ﷻ) told His Prophet Mūsa (عليه السلام) and his brother Harūn when He sent them to Pharaoh:

﴿Go, both of you, to Pharaoh, for he has indeed transgressed all bounds; but speak to him mildly; perchance he may take warning or fear [Allāh].﴾ (Qur'ān 20: 43-44)

Not surprisingly, kindness, according to Islām, is all goodness. Whoever attains it has been given all goodness, and whoever has been denied it has been denied all goodness. We see this in the ḥadīth narrated by Jarīr ibn 'Abdullāh, who said:

"I heard the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) say: 'Whoever has been denied kindness has been denied all goodness.'⁴⁵³

The Prophet (ﷺ) explained that this goodness will be bestowed upon individuals, households and peoples when kindness prevails in their lives and is one of their foremost characteristics. We find this in the ḥadīth of 'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) in which the Prophet (ﷺ) told her:

"O 'Āishah, be kind, for if Allāh (ﷻ) wills some good to a household, He guides them to kindness."⁴⁵⁴

⁴⁴⁸ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Riyād al-Ṣaliḥīn, 340, Bāb al-hilm wa'l-anah wa'l-rifq.

⁴⁴⁹ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/146, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah wa'l-adāb, bāb fadl al-rifq.

⁴⁵⁰ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/146, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah wa'l-adāb, bāb fadl al-rifq.

⁴⁵¹ Fatḥ al-Bār, 1/323, Kitāb al-wudū', bāb sabb al-ma' 'ala'l-bul fi'l-masjid.

⁴⁵² Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 10/67, Kitāb al-imārah wa'l-qada', bāb ma 'ala al-walah min al-taysir.

⁴⁵³ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/145, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah wa'l-adāb, bāb fadl al-rifq.

⁴⁵⁴ Reported by Aḥmad, 6/104; the men of its isnād are rijāl al-ṣaḥīḥ.

According to another report, he (ﷺ) said:

"If Allāh (ﷻ) wills some good to a household, He instils kindness in them."⁴⁵⁵

Jābir (رضي الله عنه) said:

"The Prophet (ﷺ) said: 'If Allāh (ﷻ) wills some good to a people, He instils kindness in them.'"⁴⁵⁶

What greater goodness can there be than a characteristic that will protect a man from Hell? As the Prophet (ﷺ) said in another ḥadīth:

"Shall I not tell you who shall be forbidden from the Fire, or from whom the Fire will be forbidden? It will be forbidden for every gentle, soft-hearted and kind person."⁴⁵⁷

The teachings of the Prophet (ﷺ) take man a step further, by instilling in him the attitude of kindness and requiring him to be kind even to the animals he slaughters. This is counted as one of the highest levels that the pious and righteous may reach:

"Allāh (ﷻ) has prescribed proficiency⁴⁵⁸ in all things. Thus if you kill, kill well, and if you slaughter, slaughter well. Let each one of you sharpen his blade and let him spare suffering to the animal he slaughters."⁴⁵⁹

Kindness to dumb animals that are to be slaughtered is indicative of the kindness of the man who slaughters them, and of his mercy towards all living creatures. The more a person understands this and treats all living creatures well, the more kind and gentle a person he is. This is the ultimate goal towards which Islām is guiding the Muslim, so that he is kind even to animals.

The true Muslim woman can imagine the comprehensiveness of the Islāmic teachings enjoining kindness upon the sons of Ādam, when even animals are included.

She is Compassionate and Merciful

The Muslim woman who truly understands the teachings of Islām is compassionate and merciful, for she understands that the compassion of people on earth will cause the mercy of heaven to be showered upon them. She knows that the one who does not show compassion towards others will not receive the mercy of Allāh (ﷻ), and that the mercy of Allāh (ﷻ) is not withheld except from the one who is lost and doomed, as the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"Have compassion on those who are on earth so that the One Who is in heaven will have mercy on you."⁴⁶⁰

"Whoever shows not compassion to people, Allāh (ﷻ) will not show mercy to him."⁴⁶¹

"Compassion is not taken away except from the one who is doomed."⁴⁶²

The true Muslim woman does not limit her compassion only to her family, children, relatives and friends, but she extends it to include all people. This is in accordance with the teachings of the Prophet (ﷺ), which include all people and make compassion a condition of faith:

"You will not believe until you have compassion towards one another." They said, "O Messenger of Allāh, all of us are compassionate." He said, "It is not the compassion of any of you towards his friend, but it is compassion towards all people and compassion towards the common folk."⁴⁶³

This is comprehensive, all-embracing compassion which Islām has awoken in the hearts of Muslim men and women, and made one of their distinguishing characteristics, so that the Muslim community - men and ⁴⁵⁵ Reported by Aḥmad, 6/104; the men of its isnād are rijāl al-ṣaḥīḥ.

⁴⁵⁶ Reported by Al-Bazzār; the men of its isnād are rijāl al-ṣaḥīḥ. See Majma' al-Zawā'id, 8/18, bāb ma ja'a fi'l-rifq.

⁴⁵⁷ Reported by Tirmidhī, 4/654, in Kitāb siffah al-qiyāmah, 45; he said it is a ḥasan ḥadīth.

⁴⁵⁸ The word translated here as proficiency is iḥsan, which also has connotations of doing well, decency, etc. [Translator]

⁴⁵⁹ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 13/106, Kitāb al-sayd, bāb al-amr bi iḥsan al-dhabh.

⁴⁶⁰ Reported by Aṭ-Ṭabarānī; the men of its isnād are rijāl al-ṣaḥīḥ. See Majma' al-Zawā'id, 8/187, Bāb rahmat al-nās.

⁴⁶¹ Reported with a ḥasan isnād by Aṭ-Ṭabarānī. See Majma' al-Zawā'id, 8/187, Bāb rahmat al-nās.

⁴⁶² Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 1/466, Bāb irḥam man fi'l-ard.

⁴⁶³ Reported by Aṭ-Ṭabarānī; the men of its isnād are rijāl al-ṣaḥīḥ. See Majma' al-Zawā'id, 8/186, Bāb rahmat al-nās.

women, rich and poor, all of its members - may become an integrated, caring community filled with compassion, brotherly love and true affection.

The Prophet (ﷺ) was a brilliant example of sincere compassion. If he heard a child crying when he was leading the people in prayer, he would shorten the prayer, out of consideration for the mother's feelings and concern for her child.

Bukhārī and Muslim report from Anas (رضي الله عنه) that the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"I commenced the prayer, and I intended to make it long, but I heard a child crying, so I cut my prayer short because of the distress I knew his mother would be feeling."⁴⁶⁴

A bedouin came to the Prophet (ﷺ) and asked, "Do you kiss your sons? For we do not kiss them." He said, "What can I do for you when Allāh (ﷻ) has removed compassion from your heart?"⁴⁶⁵

The Prophet (ﷺ) kissed Al-Ḥasan ibn 'Alī when Al-Aqra' ibn Ḥabis al-Tamīmī was sitting with him. Al-Aqra' said: "I have ten children and I have never kissed any of them." The Prophet (ﷺ) looked at him and said, "The one who does not show compassion will not be shown mercy."⁴⁶⁶

'Umar (رضي الله عنه) wanted to appoint a man to some position of authority over the Muslims, then he heard him say something like Al-Aqra' ibn Ḥabis had said, i.e., that he did not kiss his children. So 'Umar changed his mind about appointing him and said, "If your heart does not beat with compassion towards your own children, how will you be merciful towards the people? By Allāh (ﷻ), I will never appoint you." Then he tore up the document he had prepared concerning the man's appointment.

The Prophet (ﷺ) extended the feeling of mercy in the hearts of Muslim men and women to cover animals as well as humans. This is reflected in a number of ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīths, such as that reported by Bukhārī and Muslim from Abū Hurayrah, in which the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"A man was walking along the road when he felt very thirsty. He saw a well, so he went down into it, drank his fill, then came out. He saw a dog panting and biting the dust with thirst, and said, 'This dog's thirst is as severe as mine was.' So he went back down into the well, filled his shoes with water, held them in his mouth (while he climbed out), and gave the dog water. Allāh (ﷻ) thanked him and forgave him." They asked, "O Messenger of Allāh, will we be rewarded for kindness towards animals?" He said, "In every living creature there is reward."⁴⁶⁷

Bukhārī and Muslim also narrate from Ibn 'Umar that the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"A woman was punished because of a cat which she locked up until it died of starvation. She was thrown into Hell. It was said - and Allāh (ﷻ) knows best - 'You did not feed her or give her water when you locked her up, neither did you let her roam free so that she could eat of the vermin of the earth.'"⁴⁶⁸

The Prophet (ﷺ) reached such heights of mercy that once, when he and his Companions stopped in some place, a bird appeared above his head, as if she were seeking his help and complaining to him of the wrongdoing of a man who had taken her egg. He said, "Which of you has distressed her by taking her egg?" A man said, "O Messenger of Allāh, I have taken it." The Prophet (ﷺ) said: "Put it back, out of mercy to her."⁴⁶⁹

The Prophet (ﷺ) wanted, in this instance, to instil a sense of all-encompassing mercy in the conscience of the Muslims, men and women alike, so that they would become compassionate by nature, even to animals, because whoever has the heart to be kind to animals will not be harsh towards his human brother.

The Prophet (ﷺ) was full of compassion towards humans and animals alike. He never stopped encouraging compassion among people, and sought to instil it deeply in the hearts of Muslim men and ⁴⁶⁴ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 3/410, Kitāb al-ṣalāh, bāb al-takhfif li amr yahduth.

⁴⁶⁵ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 13/34, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah, bāb raḥmat al-walad wa taqbilihi.

⁴⁶⁶ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 13/34, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah, bāb raḥmat al-walad wa taqbilihi.

⁴⁶⁷ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 2/229, Kitāb al-ṣalāh, bāb fadl ṣalāh al-'ishā wa'l-fajr fi'l-jamā'ah.

⁴⁶⁸ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 6/171, Kitāb al-zakāt, bāb fadl saqi al-ma'.

⁴⁶⁹ Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 1/472, Bāb akhdh al-bayd min al-hammarah.

women, stating that it was the key to Allāh's mercy, forgiveness and reward. Allāh (ﷻ) would forgive those who were compassionate, even if they were sinners.

In Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, Abū Hurayrah said:

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said: 'A dog was walking around a well, almost dying of thirst, when a Jewish prostitute saw him. She took off her shoe, brought water to him and gave him to drink. She was forgiven because of this deed.'⁴⁷⁰

How great is the blessing of compassion and mercy for mankind! What beautiful attributes they are! It is sufficient honour and status to know that the Rabb of Glory and Majesty derived His own name from rahmah (mercy, compassion), and is called Al-Raḥīm, Al-Raḥmān.

She Strives for People's Benefit and Seeks to Protect Them From Harm

The Muslim woman who has been truly guided by Islām is keen to be constructive and active in good and beneficial deeds, not only for herself, but for all people. So she always looks for opportunities to do good, and hastens to do as much as she can, in obedience to the words of the Qur'ān:

﴿...And do good, that you may prosper.﴾ (Qur'ān 22: 77)

She knows that doing good to others is an act of worship, so long as it is done purely for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ). The door to good deeds is open to all Muslims to enter whenever they wish and earn the mercy and pleasure of Allāh (ﷻ). There are many aspects to goodness and piety, and they take many forms. Goodness includes all those who work for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ), and any good deed that is done for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ) will be rewarded as an act of charity (ṣadaqah) in the record of their deeds: "Every good deed is a ṣadaqah."⁴⁷¹ "A good word is a ṣadaqah."⁴⁷²

The Mercy of Allāh (ﷻ) encompasses every Muslim woman whose heart is pure and whose intention is sincerely to please Allāh (ﷻ). It applies to her if she does good, and if she does not do good, so long as she refrains from doing evil: Abū Mūsa (رضي الله عنه) said:

"The Prophet (ﷺ) said: 'Every Muslim must give charity.' Someone asked, 'What if he finds he has nothing with which to give charity?' He said, 'Let him work with his two hands and benefit himself and give charity (from his earnings).' Someone said, 'What if he does not do that?' He said, 'Let him help one who is in desperate need.' Someone said, 'What if he does not do that?' He said, 'Let him enjoin what is good.' Someone said, 'What if he does not do that?' He said, 'Let him refrain from doing evil, and that will be an act of charity.'⁴⁷³

The Prophet (ﷺ) began this ḥadīth with the words, "Every Muslim must give charity," then he went on to list various types of good deeds and acts of kindness by means of which a Muslim man or woman may earn reward for doing charity. Charity is a duty on the Muslim woman, that is, she must undertake deeds that are socially constructive in her community. If she is unable to do so, or does not do so for any reason, then at least she can restrain her tongue and refrain from doing evil; in this, too, there is reward. Thus both her positive and negative aspects (i.e., what she does and what she does not do) will be directed towards the service of the truth upon which the Muslim community is built. The Muslim is "the one from whose tongue and hand the Muslims are safe."⁴⁷⁴

So the Muslim woman is always keen to do good, and hastens to do it, hoping that she will be the one to do it. She keeps away from evil, and is determined never to indulge in it. In this way she is one of the best Muslims in the Muslim community, as the Prophet (ﷺ) said in the ḥadīth narrated by Imām Aḥmad:

"The Prophet (ﷺ) stood up before some people who were seated and said: 'Shall I tell you the best of you and the worst of you?' The people were silent, so he repeated it three times, then one man said, 'Yes, O Messenger of Allāh.' He said: 'The best of you is the one from whom people expect good deeds, ⁴⁷⁰ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 14/242, Kitāb qatl al-hayyāt wa nahwaha, bāb fadl saqi al-baha'im.

⁴⁷¹ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 6/142, Kitāb al-zakāt, bāb kullu ma'ruf ṣadaqah.

⁴⁷² From a ḥadīth whose authenticity is Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 6/145, Kitāb al-zakāt, bāb kullu ma'ruf ṣadaqah.

⁴⁷³ Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 6/143, Kitāb al-zakāt, bāb kullu ma'ruf ṣadaqah.

⁴⁷⁴ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 1/53, Kitāb al-īmān, bāb al-Muslim man salima al-Muslim min lisanihī wa yadihī and from whose evil deeds people are safe the worst of you is the one from whom people expect good deeds but from whose evil deeds people are not safe."⁴⁷⁵

The Muslim woman who truly understands her Islām is one of those from whom good deeds are expected and from whose evil deeds people are safe. She is eager to do good deeds in this life, and she knows that her efforts will not be wasted, as she will be rewarded for it in this world and the next:

"Whoever relieves a believer of some of the distress of this world, Allah (ﷻ) will relieve him of some of the distress of the Day of Resurrection, and whoever comes to the aid of one who is going through hardship, Allah (ﷻ) will come to his aid in this world and the next."⁴⁷⁶

The Muslim woman never spares any effort to do good deeds whenever she is able. How could she do otherwise, when she knows from the teachings of the Prophet (ﷺ) that failing to do good when one is able to do so carries the threat of losing the blessings of Allāh (ﷻ):

"Never does Alāh (ﷻ) bless a slave with abundant bounty, then some needs of the people are brought to his attention and he feels annoyed and reluctant to help them, but that blessing will be exposed to the threat of loss."⁴⁷⁷

The Muslim woman does not think little of any good deed, no matter how small it may be, so long as it is accompanied by a sincere intention to please Allāh (ﷻ). Doing good may consist of protecting the Muslims from harm, as is brilliantly described in a number of ḥadīths, for example:

"I have seen a man who was enjoying the luxuries of Paradise because he removed a tree from the side of the road that used to harm the people."⁴⁷⁸

There are two aspects to doing good, and Muslims are obliged to do both of them and to compete with one another in earning the pleasure of Allah (ﷻ) by doing them. They are: doing good deeds and seeking to benefit the people, and protecting the people from harm.

Seeking to protect the Muslims from harm is no less important than doing good and working for their benefit; both count as righteous deeds for which a person will be rewarded. All societies, no matter what their geographical location or historical era, need both of these deeds, operating in tandem. When both are present, goodness will spread in society, the ties of friendship will be established between its members, and their quality of life will be much improved. This is what Islām seeks to achieve when it constantly encourages Muslims to do good to people and to seek to protect them from harm.

Among the teachings which direct Muslims to protect others from harm is the ḥadīth narrated by Abū Barzah, who said:

"I said, 'O Messenger of Allāh, teach me something that I may benefit from.' He said, 'Remove anything harmful from the path of the Muslims.'" ⁴⁷⁹

According to another report, Abū Barzah said:

"O Messenger of Allāh, tell me of a deed that will admit me to Paradise." The Prophet (ﷺ) said: "Remove anything harmful from the road; this will be an act of charity on your part."

What a highly-developed, civil community is the society that Islām has built and instilled in each of its members the idea that the good deeds which will bring one closer to Allāh (ﷻ) and admit one to Paradise include removing anything harmful from the path of the people!

Humanity today is in the greatest need of this highly-developed, civil society that Islām builds, in which every member feels that his contribution to the good of society will bring him closer to Allāh (ﷻ) and grant ⁴⁷⁵ Reported by Aḥmad; the men of its isnād are rijāl al-ṣaḥīḥ. See Majmā' al-Zawā'id, 8/183, Bāb fiman yurji khayrahu.

⁴⁷⁶ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 17/21, Kitāb al-dhikr wa 'l-du'ā', bāb fadl al-ijtima' 'ala tilawah al-Qur'ān wa 'ala 'l-dhikr.

⁴⁷⁷ Reported with a Jayyid isnād by Aṭ-Ṭabarānī in Al-Awsat. See Majmā' al-Zawā'id, 8/192, Bāb fadl qada' al-hawā'ij.

⁴⁷⁸ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/171, Kitāb al-birr wa 'l-silah wa 'l-adāb, bāb fadl izalah al-adha 'an al-tāriq.

⁴⁷⁹ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/171, Kitāb al-birr wa 'l-silah wa 'l-adāb, bāb fadl izalah al-adha 'an al-tāriq.

him entrance to Paradise, even if his good deeds went no further than removing something harmful from the road. There is a huge difference between the society which forms sensitive souls such as these, who cannot bear to see carelessness and backwardness, and the society which pays no attention to the development of its members, so you see them not caring if the garbage and hazardous waste that they throw in the road harms people, and the authorities in those backward societies are obliged to issue laws and regulations to punish those who commit these offences.

How great is the difference between the society that is guided by Islām, whose members hasten to remove anything harmful from the road in obedience to Allāh's command and in hope of reward from Him, and the society which has deviated from the guidance of Allāh (ﷻ), whose members do not care on whom their garbage lands when they throw it from their balconies, windows and rooftops!

The civilized Western world has managed to excel in such matters of organization by making individuals become accustomed to respecting the system and following it strictly. But this high level of social organization in the West still falls far short of the true Islāmic ideal, for one good reason: the Muslim who has received a sound Islāmic education is even stricter and more sincere in adhering to the system, because he believes that stepping beyond the limits is an act of disobedience towards Allāh (ﷻ), Who will punish him on the Day ﴿whereon neither wealth nor sons will avail, but only he [will prosper] that brings to Allāh a sound heart.﴾ (Qur'ān 26: 88-89). Moreover, the Westerner does not see anything seriously wrong with transgressing the bounds of the system. His conscience may or may not trouble him, but there the matter ends, especially if the authorities are unaware of it.

She Helps to Alleviate the Burden of the Debtor

The true Muslim woman is distinguished by the nature of her moral and psychological make-up, and by her tolerant and easy-going personality. So if she is owed anything by her sister and her sister is in difficulty when the time comes to pay the debt, she postpones payment until another time, until the period of hardship is over, in obedience to the words of the Qur'ān:

﴿If the debtor is in difficulty, grant him time till it is easy for him to repay...﴾ (Qur'ān 2: 280)

Postponing debts is a generous attitude, one that is encouraged by Islām because it brings about humane standards in one's dealing with one's brother, even if he is in debt.

The Muslim woman who is infused with this humane attitude of postponing payment of her sister's debts is acting in obedience to the commands of Allāh (ﷻ), storing up righteous deeds for her Hereafter that will save her from affliction on the Day of Judgement and shade her in the shade of Allāh's Throne on the Day when there is no other shade: Abū Qutādah (رضي الله عنه) said:

"I heard the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) say: Whoever would like Allāh (ﷻ) to save him from the hardship of the Day of Resurrection, let him alleviate the burden of a debtor⁴⁸⁰, or write off (part of the debt)." 481

Abū Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه) said:

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said: 'Whoever allows a debtor to postpone payment, or writes off part of the debt, Allāh (ﷻ) will place him under the shade of His Throne on the Day of Resurrection, the Day when there will be no shade except His.'" 482

The true Muslim woman is able to take the matter further and rise to a higher level, if she is well-off, by letting her sister off paying all or part of the debt. This will earn her a great reward, as Allāh (ﷻ) will compensate her for letting her sister off by letting her off even more, forgiving her for her errors and shortcomings, and saving her from the horror of the Day of Judgement. Abū Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه) said:

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said: 'There was a man who used to lend money to the people. He used to tell his employee: "If you come across any debtor who is in difficulty, let him off. Perhaps Allāh (ﷻ) will let us off." So when he met Allāh (ﷻ), He let him off.'" 483

480 i.e., by postponing the payment, if he is the one to whom it is owed, or by paying off the debt for him. [Author]

481 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 10/227, Kitāb al-musaqah wa'l-muzari'ah, bāb fadl inzar al-mu'sir.

482 A ḥasan ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth, narrated by Tirmidhī, 3/590, in Kitāb al-buyu', bāb ma ja'a fi inzar al-mu'sir.

Abū Mas'ūd al-Badrī (رضي الله عنه) said:

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said: 'A man from among those who were before you was called to account, and no good deeds were found in his record except that he used to have dealings with the people, and he was rich, so he used to tell his employees to let off those debtors who were in difficulty.' Allāh (ﷻ), may He be glorified, said: 'We should be more generous than he so let him off.'" 484

Hudhayfah (رضي الله عنه) said:

"Allāh (ﷻ) brought to account one of His servants to whom he had given wealth, and asked him, 'What did you do in the dunyā?' He said - and no-one can hide a single thing from Allāh (ﷻ) - 'O my Rabb, you gave me wealth, and I used to trade with people. It was my habit to be lenient; I would be easygoing with the one who could afford to pay his debt, and I would allow the one who was in difficulty to postpone payment.' Allāh (ﷻ) said, 'I should be more generous than you; let My slave off.'" 'Uqbah ibn 'Āmir and Abū Mas'ūd al-Anṣārī said, "We heard something like this from the mouth of the Prophet (ﷺ)." 485

She is Generous

One of the characteristics of the Muslim woman who adheres to the teachings of Islām is that she is generous and gives freely; her hands are always stretched forth to give to those who are in need. Whenever she hears the call of one who is in difficulty, or it is appropriate to give generously, she responds to the need.

She is certain that whatever she gives will not go to waste, for it is recorded with One Who has full knowledge of all things:

﴿And whatever of good you give, be assured that Allāh knows it well.﴾ (Qur'ān 2: 273)

She also believes, when she spends her money generously, that whatever she spends will come back to her manifold and that Allāh (ﷻ) will multiply its reward in this world and the next:

﴿The parable of those who spend their substance in the way of Allāh is that of a grain of corn: it grows seven ears, and each ear has a hundred grains. Allāh gives manifold increase to whom He pleases: and Allāh cares for all and He knows all things.﴾ (Qur'ān 2: 261)

﴿...And nothing do you spend in the least [in His Cause] but He replaces it...﴾ (Qur'ān 34: 39)

﴿Whatever of good you give benefits your own souls, and you shall only do so seeking the Face of Allāh. Whatever good you give, shall be rendered back to you, and you shall not be dealt with unjustly.﴾ (Qur'ān 2: 272)

She also knows that if she is not saved from the meanness of her own nature and her desire to hoard wealth and treasure, she will eventually lose her wealth and it will be wasted, as the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"Every morning that the slaves of Allāh (ﷻ) get up, two angels come down. One of them says, 'O Allāh, give compensation to the one who spends,' and the other says, 'O Allāh, cause loss to the one who is stingy.'" 486

And in a ḥadīth Qudsī:

"Spend, O son of Ādam, and I shall spend on you." 487

483 Bukhārī and Muslim. See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 8/196, Kitāb al-buyu', bāb thawab man anzara mu'siran.

484 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 10/227, Kitāb al-musaqah wa'l-muzari'ah, bāb fadl inzar al-mu'sir.

485 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 10/225, Kitāb al-musaqah wa'l-muzari'ah, bāb fadl inzar al-mu'sir.

486 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 6/155, Kitāb al-zakāh, bāb ma yukrah min imsāk al-mal.

487 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyād al-Ṣāliḥīn, 301, bāb al-karam wa'l-jud wa'l-infāq fī wujuh al-khayr.

The true Muslim woman believes that spending money for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ) will never decrease her wealth in the slightest; rather, it will bless, purify and increase it, as the Prophet (ﷺ) stated: "Charity does not decrease wealth..." 488

She knows that whatever she spends for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ) is in fact that which is truly saved, because it is recorded in the book of her good deeds, whilst everything else will eventually disappear.

The Prophet (ﷺ) drew the Muslims attention to this higher understanding of generous giving when he asked 'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) what was left of the sheep they had slaughtered. She told him, "Nothing but the shoulder." He said, "Everything except the shoulder is saved." 489

The true Muslim woman is highly motivated by all of this to give generously of whatever possessions and goods come to her.

An example of giving on the part of Muslim women is the well-known report narrated by Bukhārī from Ibn 'Abbās (رضي الله عنه), who said:

"The Prophet (ﷺ) went out on the day of 'Īd and prayed two rak'āhs with no prayer before or after them (i.e., he prayed only two rak'āhs). Then he came to the women, and commanded them to give in charity, so they started to give their earrings and necklaces in charity." 490

According to another report also given by Bukhārī:

"He (ﷺ) came to the women and commanded them to give in charity, so they began to throw their rings into Bilāl's cloak." 491

A third report by Bukhārī, narrating from Ibn 'Abbās states that the Prophet (ﷺ) prayed two rak'āhs on the day of 'Īd with no prayer before or after them (i.e., he prayed only two rak'āhs), then he came to the women, and Bilāl was accompanying him; he commanded them to give in charity, and the women began to throw down their earrings 492

The wives of the Prophet (ﷺ) and the women of the salaf set the highest example of generous giving, and their deeds are recorded by history in letters of light.

In his biography of 'Āishah given in Siyar a'lām al-nubalā', Adh-Dhahabī states that she gave seventy thousand dirhams in charity, at the time when she was putting patches on her shield.

Mu'āwiyah sent her a hundred thousand dirhams, and she gave it all away in charity before evening fell. Her servant said to her, "Why did you not buy a dirham's worth of meat with it?" She said, "Why did you not tell me to do so?"

Mu'āwiyah also sent her bracelets worth a hundred thousand, which she shared out among the other wives of the Prophet (ﷺ).

Ibn Al-Zubayr sent her money in two containers to the amount of a hundred thousand. She called for a large tray, and began to share the money among the people. When evening came, she said, "O young girl, bring me my fatūr (food with which to break fast)," for she, (May Allāh be pleased with her), used to fast all the time. The young girl said to her, "O Mother of the Believers, could you not have bought us a dirham's worth of meat?" She said, "Do not rebuke me; if you had reminded me I would have done so."

Her sister Asmā was no less generous. 'Abdullāh ibn al-Zubayr (رضي الله عنه) said: "I never saw two women more generous than 'Āishah and Asmā, but their ways of being generous were different. 'Āishah would accumulate things and then share them out, whilst Asmā would never keep anything until the next day."

The Prophet's wife Zaynab bint Jāsh used to work with her own hands and give in charity from her earnings. She was the most generous of the Prophet's wives in giving freely and doing good deeds. According to a ḥadīth narrated by Imām Muslim from 'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her), the 488 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/141, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah wa'l-adāb, bāb istiḥbāb al-'afu wa'l-tawadu'.

489 Reported by Tirmidhī, 4/644, In Kitāb ṣiffāt al-qiyāmah, 33. The reward for everything except the shoulder would be stored up for them in the Hereafter, as they had given it all away in charity. The part that they had kept for themselves, the shoulder, had in effect been "spent" as it carried no such reward. [Translator]

490 Fatḥ al-Bārī, 10/330, Kitāb al-libās, bāb al-qalā'id wa'l-sakhab li'l-nisā'.

491 Fatḥ al-Bārī, 10/330, Kitāb al-libās, bāb al-khātim li'l-nisā'.

492 Fatḥ al-Bārī, 10/331, Kitāb al-libās, bāb al-qurt li'l-nisā'.

Prophet (ﷺ) told his wives about Zaynab: “The first of you to join me (after death) will be the one who has the longest hand.” ‘Aīshah said: “They began to measure their hands against one another to see who had the longest hand, and the one who had the longest hands of all of us was Zaynab, because she used to work with her hands and give charity from her earrings.” 493

‘Umar ibn al-Khaṭṭāb (رضي الله عنه) sent Zaynab her annual salary, and when it was brought to her, she said: “May Allāh forgive ‘Umar! Others of my sisters are more capable of sharing this out than I am.” They told her, “This is all for you.” She said, “Subḥān Allāh! Pour it out and cover it with a cloth.” Then she told Barzah bint Rafī‘, the narrator of this report: “Put your hand in and take a handful of it, and take it to Banū So-and-so and Banū So-and-so” - who were orphans or related to her. This was repeated until there was only a little left under the cloth. Barzah bint Rafī‘ said to Zaynab: “May Allāh forgive you, O Mother of the Believers! By Allāh (ﷻ), it is our right to have some.” Zaynab said: “What is left under the cloth is for you.” (Barzah bint Rafī‘) said that they found eighty-five dirhams under the cloth. Zaynab said, “O Allāh, do not let me live to receive another payment like this from ‘Umar,” and she died before the time for the next payment came.⁴⁹⁴

Ibn Sa‘d reported that when the money was brought to Zaynab, she started saying, “O Allāh, do not let me see this money again next year, for it is a fitnah (temptation).” Then she shared it out among her relatives and those who were in need, until it was all gone. ‘Umar (رضي الله عنه) heard about this, and said, “This woman is destined for good.” He stood at her door and conveyed his salām to her, then said: “I have heard about what you gave out to others. Send her a thousand dirhams to keep for herself.” But she did the same thing with that money, and did not even keep a single dirham or dinār for herself.

Among the women to whose generosity history bears witness is Sakīnah bint al-Ḥusayn who would give generously of whatever she had. If she had no money, she would take off her own jewellery and give it to those who were destitute.

‘Atīkah bint Yazīd ibn Mu‘āwiyah gave up all of her money to the poor members of Abū Sufyan’s family.

Umm al-Banīn, the sister of ‘Umar ibn ‘Abdul-‘Azīz, was a marvellous example of generous giving. She said, “Everyone has a passion, and my passion is giving.” She used to free slaves every week, and equip horsemen to fight for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ). She would say, “Uff to stinginess! If it were a shirt I would not wear it, and if it were a road I would not follow it.”⁴⁹⁵

Zubaydah, the wife of the Khalīfah Harūn al-Rashīd, had a channel dug to bring water from springs and rain-pools to Makkah to provide fresh water for the inhabitants of the city and for the pilgrims. This was named ‘Ayn Zubaydah (the spring of Zubaydah), and was known as one of the wonders of the world at that time. When her treasurer objected to the high cost of this project, she told him: “Do it, even if every single blow of the axe costs a dinār.”

If we were to discuss all the women in our history who were pioneers of generous giving, we could fill entire volumes. It is enough for us to know that these kinds of generous, charitable, believing women have never disappeared from Muslim societies, from the dawn of Islām until the present day. In every era and region of the Islāmic world, these women have held a noble and prominent position, and their generosity is enshrined in the many awqāf, the Muslims. They wiped away the tears of the orphan, charitable institutions, schools, mosques, hospitals, etc., that exist throughout the Muslim lands. These women sought out areas of need, poverty, deprivation and misery, and showered their generosity on the less fortunate by establishing charitable institutions that would benefit relieved the suffering of the wretched, eased the hardship of the afflicted and clothed the body of the naked.

The Muslim woman who truly understands the teachings of her religion never looks down upon any charitable deed, no matter how small it may be; she strives to do as much as she is able, firm in her conviction that Allāh (ﷻ) will reward her good deeds, no matter how small, as Allāh (ﷻ) says:

﴿On no soul does Allāh place a burden greater than it can bear...﴾ (Qur’ān 2: 286)

493 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/8, Kitāb fada’il al-sahabah, bab fadā’il umm al-mu’minīn Zaynab.

494 Ibn Sa‘d, al-Ṭabaqāt, 8/109, 110; Ṣiḥāb al-Ṣafwah, 2/48,49; Siyār A’lām al-Nubala’, 2/212.

495 Ibn al-Jawzī, Aḥkām al-nisā’, p. 446.

She also responds to the words of the Prophet (ﷺ): "Protect yourselves from the Fire even if it is with half a date" 496

"O 'Āishah, protect yourself from the Fire, even if it is only with half a date, for it can benefit a hungry person as much as one who has enough to eat." 497

The Muslim woman may give charity with whatever she possesses of the food she has at home or her husband's money, so long as he is happy for her to do so. In this case, she will be rewarded for what she spends, her husband will be rewarded for what he has earned, and the treasurer will also be rewarded, as is stated in a number of ḥadīth narrated by Bukhārī, Muslim and others, for example:

"If a women gives in charity of the food of her house (according to a report given by Muslim: of the house of her husband), without spending in such a way as could cause ruiro to her husband, then she will be rewarded for what he earns, and the treasurer will be similarly rewarded, and the reward of any one of them will not detract from the reward of another" 498

Islām wants the Muslims, men and women, to be constructive, beneficial members of their societies, always helping those who are deprived and destitute, to the best of their abilities. Every good deed is described as an act of charity (ṣadaqah), as the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"Every Muslim must give charity." They said, "O Messenger of Allāh, what if he cannot do that?" He said, "Then let him help one who is in desperate need!" He said, "Then let him do good, and refrain from doing evil, and that will be an act of charity on his part!" 499

Islām has opened wide the doors of good deeds to men and women, rich and poor alike, so that anyone may have the opportunity to do good. Everyone who has uttered the words of the Shahadah is required to do good deeds, which have been termed ṣadaqah. The poor person need not feel that he is deprived of the chance to take part in doing good in society just because he has little or no money. Every good deed or favour is described as a ṣadaqah, and the poor man or woman will be rewarded for a good deed just as a rich man or woman will be rewarded for money spent generously: "Every good deed is ṣadaqah." 500

Thus Islām guarantees that all members of a society will participate in building, serving and improving it, and that all of them will feel the satisfaction of this participation which will give them back their pride and honour and will bring about their reward.

The generous Muslim woman gives to the poor and needy who are too proud to ask for help, which makes people think that they are free from want. She tries to seek them out as much as she is able, for they are the first people who should be given help. These are the ones to whom the Prophet (ﷺ) referred when he said:

"The poor man is not the one who takes a date or two, or a mouthful or two, then turns away. The poor man is the one who is too proud to ask for anything." 501

The Muslim woman gives in charity to orphans as much as she is able. If she is well-off, she sponsors an orphan and helps to bring him up and educate him, spending on him and taking care of him, hoping for the high status that Allāh (ﷻ) has prepared for the one who sponsors an orphan, which is the status of being in the vicinity of the Prophet (ﷺ) in Paradise:

"I and the one who sponsors an orphan will be like this in Paradise", and he held up his index and middle fingers and held them apart." 502

The Muslim woman also strives to help the widow and the poor, following the guidance of her religion, which has promised a great reward to the one who takes care of them, a reward that rivals that 496 See Faṭḥ al-Bārī, 3/283, Kitāb al-zakat, bāb ittaqu al-nār wa law bi shiqq tamarah.

497 Reported with a ṣaḥīḥ isnād by Aḥmad, 6/79.

498 Faṭḥ al-Bārī, 3/293, Kitāb al-zakāt, bāb man amara khadimahu bi'l-ṣadaqah.

499 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 6/143, Kitāb al-zakāt, bāb kullu ma'rufin ṣadaqah.

500 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 6/142, Kitāb al-zakāt, bāb kullu ma'rufin ṣadaqah

501 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyāḍ al-Ṣaliḥīn, 167, Bāb mulatafaḥ al-yatim wa'l-masākīn.

502 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 13/43, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah, bāb thawab kafil al-yatīm.

earned by the one who fasts during the day and stands in prayer at night, or the one who fights for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ), as the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"The one who strives to help the widow and the poor is like the one who fights irjihād for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ)." And I [the narrator] believe he also said: "and like the one who stands at night in prayer without rest and fasts continually without breaking his fast." 503

Taking care of widows and the poor, and sponsoring orphans are among the most noble of humane deeds, and are most befitting to the Muslim woman, as they increase her in humanity, honour and gentility.

She Does not Remind the Beneficiaries of her Charity

If Allāh (ﷻ) enables the Muslim woman to give generously, she should not fall into the sin of reminding people of her generosity or harming them; she should be keen to keep her giving pure and sincerely for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ), so that she will be one of those whom Allāh (ﷻ) has described in the Qur'ān:

﴿Those who spend their substance in the cause of Allāh, and follow not up their gifts with reminders of their generosity or with injury - for them their reward is with their Lord; on them shall be no fear, nor shall they grieve.﴾ (Qur'ān 2: 262)

The Muslim woman does not forget that there is nothing more likely to cancel out good deeds and destroy the reward of charity than reminding others of it or harming them. Allāh (ﷻ) warns the believers against these deeds in such a way that the believer is shaken and would not even think of reminding others of his charity or harming them:

﴿O you who believe! Cancel not your charity by reminders of your generosity or by injury...﴾ (Qur'ān 2:264)

Reminding the poor man whom need has compelled to accept aid from others is humiliating and disrespectful. It is forbidden by Islām, which counts the one who gives and the one who takes as brothers, between whom there is no difference except in their taqwā and good deeds. A brother does not remind his brother of his charity; he does not humiliate him or cause him to lose face. In a ḥadīth narrated by Muslim from Abū Dharr, the Prophet (ﷺ) issued a strong warning to those who remind others of their charity, and counted them among those doomed souls to whom Allāh (ﷻ) will not even speak on the Day of Judgement:

"There are three to whom Allāh (ﷻ) will not speak on the Day of Resurrection, nor look at, nor commend them, and theirs will be a severe punishment." The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) repeated this three times. Abū Dharr said, "They are truly lost and doomed. Who are they, O Messenger of Allāh?" He said, "The one who lets his garment trail below his ankles, the one who reminds people of his charity, and the one who sells his goods by means of making false oaths." 504

She is Patient

The Muslim woman who is truly guided by Islām and who is infused with its noble characteristics trains herself to be patient, to control her anger, to forgive and to respond to an evil deed with something better, in accordance with the words of the Qur'ān:

﴿...Who restrain anger, and pardon [all] men-for Allāh loves those who do good.﴾ (Qur'ān 3: 134)

﴿Nor can Goodness and Evil be equal. Repel [Evil] with what is better: then will he between whom and you was hatred become as it were your friend and intimate! And no one will be granted such goodness except those who exercise patience and self-restraint - none but persons of the greatest good fortune.﴾ (Qur'ān 41: 34-35)

503 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 13/45, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah, bāb thawab kafīl al-yatīm.

504 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 2/114, Kitāb al-imān, bāb taḥrīm isbal al-izar wa'l-mann bi'l-atyah.

Self-restraint at the time of anger, and adopting a calm and patient attitude, are among the most beautiful qualities of Muslim men and women that Allāh (ﷻ) loves to see in His believing slaves. This is what was stated by the Prophet (ﷺ) in the ḥadīth narrated by Ibn ‘Abbās (رضي الله عنه):

"The Prophet (ﷺ) said to Ashajj ‘Abdu’l-Qays: ‘You have two qualities that Allāh (ﷻ) loves: patience and deliberation.’" 505

Hence the Prophet (ﷺ) told the man who came asking him to advise him just one word: "Do not become angry." The man repeated his request for advice several times, and each time the Prophet (ﷺ) said: "Do not become angry." 506

The Muslim woman may become angry sometimes, but her anger is for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ), not for her own sake. She may become angry when she sees carelessness, wilful neglect and downright insolence towards matters of religion among women. She has the right to be angry in such situations. This is how the Prophet (ﷺ) used to be, as Bukhārī and Muslim narrated:

"The Prophet (ﷺ) never took revenge for his own sake, but if the laws of Allāh (ﷻ) were violated, he would take revenge for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ)." 507

The Prophet (ﷺ) used to become furious, and his face would redden, if he heard some insult to the reputation of Islām, or if he discovered some error or negligence in applying its laws and carrying out its punishments.

He became furious the day a man came to him and said, "I always come late ṭasālat al-subh (fajr prayer) because of So-and-so who always makes the prayer too lengthy." The Prophet (ﷺ) was never seen as angry in his rebuke as he was on that day. He said, "O people, there are among you those who put others off from good deeds. When anyone leads the people in prayer, he should keep it short, for behind him are the old, the young, and the one who has a pressing need." 508

He also became angry the day he returned from a journey and found a thin curtain covered with pictures in ‘Āishah’s house. When he saw it, he tore it down and his face reddened. He told her: "O ‘Āishah, the people who will be most severely punished by Allāh (ﷻ) on the Day of Resurrection will be those who imitate the creation of Allāh (ﷻ)." 509

He also became angry when Usamah ibn Zayd spoke to him concerning the Makhzumi woman who had committed theft, and the Prophet (ﷺ) had decreed that the appropriate punishment be carried out on her. The people said, "Who will speak to the Prophet (ﷺ) about her?" Then they said, "Who dares to do this but Usamah ibn Zayd, his beloved?" So Usamah spoke to him, and the Prophet (ﷺ) said angrily, "Are you interceding to stop one of the punishments ordained by Allāh (ﷻ)?" Then he got up and addressed the people: "Those who came before you were destroyed because when one of their noblemen committed theft, they let him off, but when one of the weak among them committed theft, then they would carry out the punishment on him. By Allāh (ﷻ), if Fāṭimah the daughter of Muhammad were to commit theft, I would cut off her hand." 510

Such was the anger of the Prophet (ﷺ), and these are the valid reasons for anger according to Islām. Anger should be for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ), not one’s own ego.

The Muslim woman who understands the teachings of Islām and follows the example of the Prophet (ﷺ) always keeps his teachings, behaviour and deeds in mind, so she controls herself when she feels angry with people, and her anger is only for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ), His religion and the sanctity of His laws.

505 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 1/189, Kitāb al-imān, bāb mubayy’ah waḥīd ‘Abd al-Qays.

506 Faḥ al-Bārī, 10/519, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb al-hadhr min al-ghadab.

507 Faḥ al-Bārī, 10/519, Kitāb al-munāqib, bāb ṣiffah al-Nabi (ﷺ); Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 15/83, Kitāb al-fadā’il, bāb muba’idatahihi li’l-atham.

508 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 3/409, Kitāb al-ṣalāt, bāb al-īmān yukhaffif al-ṣalāt; this version is that given by Muslim.

509 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 12/128, Kitāb al-libās, bāb al-tasāwūr; this version is that given by Muslim.

510 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 10/328, Kitāb al-ḥudūd, bāb qata’yad al-sharīf wa’l-mār’ah wa’l-shafa’ah fi’l-ḥadd.

She is Easy-Going and Does Not Bear Grudges

The Muslim woman does not bear grudges, and resentment has no room in her heart, because Islām has uprooted hatred from her heart, extinguished the flames of anger, cleansed her soul of enmity, and planted the seeds of sisterly love, tolerance and forgiveness.

Islām has uncompromisingly declared war on ignorance, tribalism, hostility, enmity and revenge, and has made forgiveness, tolerance, love and kindness dear to the hearts of Muslim men and women. Allāh (ﷻ) says:

﴿...Who restrain anger, and pardon all men - for Allāh loves those who do good.﴾ (Qur’ān 3: 134)

This is praise for those who restrain their anger and do not bear grudges, who have raised themselves to the level of forgiveness and tolerance, which is a high level indeed, and very difficult to attain. None can reach it except those who are pure of heart and have shed the inclination towards hostility, enmity and revenge and thus earned the right to reach the level of Ihsān, and Allāh (ﷻ) loves those who do good (Al-muhsinūn).

Through this noble teaching, Islām was able to penetrate the hearts of the believers, and cleanse and purify them, so that hearts that had been dominated by anger and hatred became hearts that were filled with love and devotion.

One of the most striking examples of this miraculous change of heart is the story of Hind bint ‘Utbah, whose heart before she embraced Islām was filled with the poison of hatred and enmity towards the Prophet (ﷺ) and his family and companions. On the day of the Conquest of Makkah, the Prophet (ﷺ) even declared that her blood might be shed with impunity, as a punishment for her having mutilated the body of his uncle Hamzah (رضي الله عنه) on the day of Uḥud. When she embraced Islām and faith penetrated deep into her heart, she came to the Prophet (ﷺ) and said: “O Messenger of Allāh, there was no family on earth that I would have loved to see humiliated more than your family, but from this day on, there is no family on earth I would love to see honoured more than your family.”⁵¹¹

For the sake of Allāh (ﷻ) and His Religion, blood feuds will be forgotten, hostility will vanish, those who previously hated one another will become friends, and the inclination towards enmity will be uprooted.

In the most brilliant fashion, the Qur’ān raises the human soul to this difficult, high level. It states that the one who has been treated unjustly has the right to defend himself and resist oppression (an eye for an eye), but it does not allow the one who has been wronged to be overtaken by the desire for revenge. Rather, it gently leads him or her towards the level of patience, tolerance and forgiveness, and states that this is something that takes a great deal of determination and willpower:

﴿And those who, when an oppressive wrong is inflicted on them, [are not cowed but] help and defend themselves. The recompense for an injury is an injury equal thereto [in degree]: but if a person forgives and makes reconciliation, his reward is due from Allāh: for Allāh loves not those who do wrong. But indeed if any do help and defend themselves after a wrong [done] to them, against such is no cause of blame. The blame is only against those who oppress men with wrongdoing and insolently transgress beyond bounds through the land, defying right and justice: for such there will be a Penalty grievous. But indeed if any show patience and forgive, that would truly be an exercise of courageous will and resolution in the conduct of affairs.﴾ (Qur’ān 42: 39-43)

When Abū Bakr (رضي الله عنه) was overwhelmed with sorrow because of the slander he heard uttered against his daughter ‘Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her), he vowed to himself to cut off his help to those ungrateful recipients of his bounty who had joined in the sinful gossip. But Allāh, Who knew the purity of Abū Bakr’s heart and his devotion to Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger, did not allow him to be taken over by the desire for revenge that crossed his mind, so He guided him back towards his essential good nature and purity of heart, and motivated him to strive for the higher level of tolerance and forgiveness:

511 Fatḥ al-Bārī, 7/141, Kitāb munqib al-Anṣār, bāb dhikr Hind bint ‘Utbah.

﴿Let not those among you who are endued with grace and amplitude of means resolve by oath against helping their kinsmen, those in want, and those who have left their homes in Allāh's cause: Let them forgive and overlook, do you not wish that Allāh should forgive you? For Allāh is Oft-Forgiving, All-Merciful.﴾ (Qur'ān 24: 22)

Interactions between individuals in an Islāmic society that is founded on the brotherhood of faith are not based on an attitude of watching for and counting mistakes, or the desire for revenge, or defensiveness; they are based on brotherhood, overlooking errors and tolerance. This is what Islām and the brotherhood of faith call for:

﴿Nor can Goodness and Evil be equal. Repel [Evil] with what is better: then will he between whom and you was hatred become as it were your friend and intimate! And no one will be granted such goodness except those who exercise patience and self-restraint - none but persons of the greatest good fortune.﴾ (Qur'ān 41: 34-35)

If evil is always repaid with evil, the result will be intense hatred and bitter grudges. But if evil is repaid with good, it will extinguish the fires of hatred, calm people down, and remove their grudges. The two women who were enemies will become true friends when one of them speaks a kind word or smiles compassionately at the other. This is a great victory for the one who repelled evil with something better, and turned enmity into friendship, hatred to love. No one attains this but persons of the greatest good fortune, as the Qur'ān states. Such a person responds to the evil she faces with a measure of patience and self-control, and repels it with something good.

This is the attitude of true believing women in a Muslim community that is based on love, friendship and tolerance. Many āyāt and ḥadīth reinforce this message and seek to instill this attitude in believers' hearts, always training them to adopt that attitude of forgiveness that will leave no trace of hatred, resentment or malice:

﴿...So overlook [any human faults] with gracious forgiveness.﴾ (Qur'ān 15: 85)

The Prophet (ﷺ), by his words and deeds, was a living example of this worthy human virtue of tolerance and forgiveness, and he urged others to adopt it also.

‘Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) said:

"The Prophet (ﷺ) never struck any person, woman or servant with his hand, except when he was fighting in the way of Allāh (ﷻ), and he never took offence at anything and sought revenge for it, except when one of the laws of Allāh (ﷻ) had been violated, and then he would take revenge for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ)." 512

He (ﷺ) used to follow the commands of Allāh (ﷻ):

﴿Hold to forgiveness; command what is right; but turn away from the ignorant.﴾ (Qur'ān 7: 199)

By following the command of Allāh (ﷻ), ﴿Repel Evil with what is better...﴾ (Qur'an 41: 34) the Prophet (ﷺ) was a unique example of this sublime attitude, which encompassed and appealed to all people. He did not repay their evil with evil, rather he repelled it with an attitude of forgiveness and good manners, turning away from the ignorant and repelling evil with something better. Anas (رضي الله عنه) said:

"I was walking with the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ), and he was wearing a Najrani cloak with a stiff collar. A bedouin came up to him and grabbed him roughly, and I looked at the Prophet's shoulder and saw the mark left by his collar because of this rough approach. Then the Bedouin said, 'O Muhammad, order that I be given some of the wealth of Allāh (ﷻ) that you have!' The Prophet (ﷺ) turned to him and smiled, then ordered that he be given something." 513

The attitude of forgiveness was so deeply entrenched in his noble heart that he even forgave the Jewish woman who sent him poisoned mutton, as Bukhārī, Muslim and others narrate. This Jewish woman sent a gift of poisoned mutton to the Prophet (ﷺ), and he and a group of his Companions began to eat it, then he said, "Stop! It is poisoned!" The woman was brought to the Prophet (ﷺ) and he asked her, "

512 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 15/84, Kitāb al-fada'il, bāb muba'idatihi li'l-atham.

513 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyāḥ al-Ṣaliḥīn, 344, Bāb al-'afu wa'l-'rad 'an al-jahilin.

What made you do that?" She said: "I wanted to know if you were really a Prophet, in which case Allāh (ﷻ) would warn you and the poison would not harm you. If you were not a Prophet, then we would have been rid of you." The Companions asked, "Shall we kill her?" He said, "No," and forgave her⁵¹⁴

When the tribe of Daws rebelled and refused to follow the commands of Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger, Al-Tufayl ibn 'Amr al-Dawsī came to the Prophet (ﷺ) and said, "Daws have rebelled, so pray to Allāh (ﷻ) against them." The Prophet (ﷺ) faced the qiblah and raised his hands, and the people said, "They are finished!" But the Prophet (ﷺ), who was merciful and tolerant, and did not want to see the punishment of Allāh (ﷻ) befall people, prayed for Daws, saying, "O Allāh, guide Daws and bring them here; O Allāh, guide Daws and bring them here; O Allāh, guide Daws and bring them here." ⁵¹⁵

The Prophet (ﷺ) instilled in people's hearts the attitude of always forgiving and being tolerant, even when faced with harshness and being boycotted. With the deep insight with which Allāh (ﷻ) had endowed him, he understood that people respond better to tolerance than to harshness.

Therefore when 'Uqbah ibn 'Āmir asked him, "O Messenger of Allāh, tell me the best of deeds," he told him, "O 'Uqbah, maintain ties with the one who cuts you off, give to the one who deprives you, and do not seek revenge on the one who wrongs you." According to another report, he said, "Forgive the one who wrongs you." ⁵¹⁶

The Mothers of the Believers, (May Allāh be pleased with them) also adopted this sublime attitude. An example of this is the attitude of Ṣafiyyah (May Allāh be pleased with her) towards her female slave who went to the Khalīfah 'Umar ibn al-Khaṭṭāb and said, "O Amr al-Mu'minīn, Ṣafiyyah loves the Sabbath (Saturday) and maintains ties with the Jews." 'Umar sent for Ṣafiyyah and questioned her about that. She replied: "As far as the Sabbath is concerned, I have not love it since Allāh (ﷻ) replaced it with Jumu'ah (Friday) for me. As for the Jews, I have relatives among them with whom I uphold the ties of kinship." Then she turned to her slave and asked her what had made her tell such a lie. The slave woman answered, "Shaytān." Ṣafiyyah distinguished herself by responding to evil with something better. She told the slave woman: "Go, you are free."⁵¹⁷

No doubt Ṣafiyyah was one of those to whom the words of the Qur'ān applied:

﴿Nor can Goodness and Evil be equal. Repel [Evil] with what is better: then will he between whom and you was hatred become as it were your friend and intimate! And no one will be granted such goodness except those who exercise patience and self-restraint - none but persons of the greatest good fortune.﴾ (Qur'ān 41: 34-35)

She was most certainly a person of the greatest good fortune.

She is Easy on People, Not Hard

The Muslim woman who truly understands the teachings of Islām is easy on people, not hard, because making things easy for others is the best attitude that Allāh (ﷻ) likes to see in His believing servants:

﴿...Allāh intends every facility for you; He does not want to put you to difficulties...﴾ (Qur'ān 2: 185)

Therefore the Prophet (ﷺ) encouraged the Muslims to be easy on people, and forbade them to make things difficult:

"Teach and make things easy, do not make them difficult. If any of you becomes angry, let him keep silent." ⁵¹⁸

⁵¹⁴ Reported by Bukhārī and Muslim with similar wording. See Faṭḥ al-Bārī, 7/497, Kitāb al-maghāzī, bāb al-shat al-masumah and 5/230, Kitāb al-hibbah, bāb qabul al-hadiyah min al-mushrikīn; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 14/178, Kitāb al-salām, bāb al-ṣamm.

⁵¹⁵ (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 5/150, Kitāb al-da'wat, bat al-du'a' li'l-kuffār bi'l-hidayah

⁵¹⁶ Reported by Aḥmad and Aṭ-Ṭabarānī; the men of Aḥmad's isnād are thiqā. See Majma' al-Zawā'id, 8/188, Bāb makārim al-akhlāq.

⁵¹⁷ Ibn 'Abd al-Barr, Al-Isti'ab, 4/1872; Ibn Hajar, Al-Isabah, 8/127.

⁵¹⁸ Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 1/342, Bāb al-'afu wa'l-sufh 'an al-nās.

The woman who resorts to making things difficult and complicating matters when the teachings of Islām are so clear is a woman who is neither pious nor sound; nobody does such a thing except the one whose nature is twisted and mean-spirited, and whose education is lacking. The Muslim woman who is straightforward and is obedient to Allāh (ﷻ) and the teachings of Islām does not like to cause difficulties or complicate matters. In this way she is following the example of the Prophet (ﷺ) whom ‘Āishah (May Allāsh be pleased with her) described as follows:

“The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) was never faced with the choice between two things but he took the easier of the two, so long as it was not a sin. If it was a sin, he would be the furthest of the people from it. And the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) never took revenge for himself, but if the bounds of Allāh (ﷻ) were transgressed, then he would take revenge for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ).” 519

The true Muslim woman adheres to the teachings of the Prophet (ﷺ); she does not go beyond the limits set by him, or disobey his commands.

She is Not Envious

How often does the ordinary woman fall into the sin of envy, when she sees many of those who are inferior to her in beauty, knowledge and intelligence wallowing in riches and luxury and she does not even have the smallest part of what they enjoy? The alert, truly-guided Muslim woman, however, is saved from stumbling into such error because she has learnt, from the teachings of Islām, that everything that happens in life happens according to the will and decree of Allāh (ﷻ). The pleasures of this life, no matter how great, are as nothing in comparison to the reward that Allāh (ﷻ) has prepared for those believing women who are content with what Allāh (ﷻ) has given them. The true value of a woman rests in her level of taqwā and good deeds, not in her transient worldly earnings. The more these values are reinforced in the woman’s soul, the purer and more tranquil her soul becomes, and she will become one of the people of Paradise who have earned the pleasure of Allāh (ﷻ), even if her acts of worship are few. Imām Aḥmad reported, with a ṣaḥīḥ isnād from Anas ibn Mālik:

“We were sitting with the Prophet (ﷺ) and he said, ‘One of the people of Paradise will now come to you,’ and a man of the Anṣār came along, his beard dripping from his wudū, and carrying his sandals in his left hand. The next day, the Prophet (ﷺ) said the same thing, and the same man appeared, looking the same as he had on the previous day. On the third day, the Prophet (ﷺ) again said the same thing, and the same man appeared again. When the Prophet (ﷺ) left, ‘Abdullāh ibn ‘Amr ibn al-‘Āṣ followed the man and said, ‘I have fallen out with my father and sworn that I will not enter his house for three (days), and I thought that I could stay with you until the time is up.’ He said, ‘That’s fine.’” Anas said: “‘Abdullāh used to tell how he stayed with him for those three nights and never saw the man get up to pray at night, but when he awoke and turned over in his sleep, he would mention Allāh (ﷻ) and say ‘Allāhu akbar,’ until he got up for ṣalāt al-Fajr. ‘Abdullāh said: ‘But I never heard him say anything but good. When the three days were over and I had begun to think that his deeds were nothing remarkable, I said, ‘O slave of Allāh! There was no quarrel between me and my father, but I heard the Prophet (ﷺ) say three times, ‘One of the people of Paradise will come to you,’ and you appeared each time, so I wanted to come and stay with you to see what you did, so that I could follow your example, but I did not see you do anything out of the ordinary. What is it that has raised you to such a great status as the Prophet (ﷺ) said?’ The man said, ‘It is only what you have seen.’ When I turned away, he called me back and said, ‘It is only what you have seen, but I do not hold anything against any Muslim in my heart, and I do not envy anyone for the blessings that Allāh (ﷻ) has bestowed on him.’” ‘Abdullāh said: ‘This is what raised you to that great status, and this is what we could not achieve.’” 520

This ḥadīth indicates the effects of having a heart that is free of hatred, envy, malice and treachery, and its impact on deciding a person’s fate in the Hereafter, raising his status in the sight of Allāh (ﷻ) and making his deeds acceptable, even if they are few. These effects can be clearly seen in the example of this man whose acts of worship were few, but he would enter Paradise because of the purity of his heart and the fact that people were safe from harm on his part. These effects are in direct contrast with the woman about whom the Prophet (ﷺ) was asked; although she spent her nights in prayer and her days in fasting, she used to insult and mistreat her neighbours, so the Prophet (ﷺ) said: "She will be in Hell." 521

519 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-sunnah, 13/260, Kitāb al-fadā’il, bāb ikhtiyarihi aysar al-amrayn.
520 Musnad Aḥmad, 3/166.

The person who weighs heavily in the balance of Islām (i.e., is successful) is the one whose heart is always pure and free from hatred, malice, envy and resentment, even if his acts of worship are few. A person who performs many acts of worship when his or her heart is filled with feelings of resentment, envy and hatred, is merely performing an outward, mechanical action that clearly has no solid foundation of faith. Hence it has no effect in purifying his soul of envy which the Prophet (ﷺ) stated does not belong in the heart of the one who has true faith: "Faith and envy do not go together in the heart of the believer." 522

Damurah ibn Tha‘labah (رضي الله عنه) said:

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said: 'The people will do fine so long as they do not envy one another.'" 523

The true Muslim woman is the one who combines proper worship with purity of heart, uncontaminated by envy, malice and hatred. In this way she may scale the heights of true taqwā and attain a high status in the sight of Allāh (ﷻ), and also earn the love and respect of other people in this world. Thus she will become a solid brick in the structure of a pure, cohesive Muslim community that deserves to carry the message of Allāh (ﷻ) to mankind.

She Avoids Boasting and Seeking Fame

Among the attributes of the Muslim woman who understands and follows the teachings of Islām are her humility, truthfulness and realistic approach. She does not have an attitude of superiority, self-admiration and telling lies, and she does not claim to have more than she actually has in order to show off to her friends and peers under false pretences.

She tries to avoid such unpleasant habits, because they do not befit the nature of a woman whose personality has been moulded by the principles of Islām. A woman came to the Prophet (ﷺ) asking whether she would be permitted to say that her husband had given her something which he had not given her, in order to boast and show off. The Prophet (ﷺ) replied:

"The one who creates a false impression of having been given something which he was not given is like the one who wears the garment of falsehood." 524

Islām is a religion that is based on sincerity, purity, humility and realism; it abhors deception, haughtiness, arrogance, conceit and false claims. So it hates to see its followers boasting under false pretences, looking down on others, or hoarding wealth for love of fame. It sharply criticizes those who adopt such attitudes, just as it rebukes the one who wears the garment of falsehood.

Her Speech is Not Exaggerated or Affected

The true Muslim is natural in her behavior and conduct; she does not exaggerate or affect her speech in order to attract attention, because these are sickening, hateful attributes that do not exist in people of sound nature. Only those who are twisted or whose sound nature is lacking speak in an exaggerated or affected manner. For this reason the Prophet (ﷺ) was very harsh on those men and women who exaggerate in their speech, and after his death, Abū Bakr and ‘Umar were similarly harsh on them, to the extent that ‘Abdullāh ibn Mas‘ūd said:

"By Him besides Whom there is no other god, I never saw anyone who was harsher on those who exaggerate in their speech than the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ), and I never saw anyone who was harsher

521 Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 1/210, Bāb la yu'dhī jārāhū

522 Reported by Ibn Ḥibbān in his Ṣaḥīḥ, 10/466, Kitāb al-siyar, bāb fadl al-jihād.

523 Reported by Aṭ-Ṭabarānī; the men of its isnād are thiqāt. See Majma‘ al-Zawā‘id, 8/78, Bāb maja‘ ā fi‘l-hasad wa‘l-dhann.

524 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 14/110, Kitāb al-libās wa‘l-zinah, bāb al-nahy ‘an al-tazwir fi‘l-libās wa ghayrihī.

on them after his death than Abū Bakr, and I think that 'Umar feared the most for them of all people on earth." 525

She Has a Likeable Personality

The Muslim woman is keen to be liked by others, through her good deeds and through the positive effect she has on them, as well as by having a good reputation in society.

People's love for her is a sign that Allāh (ﷻ) loves her too, because in this case He opens people's hearts to her and makes her accepted and well-liked by everyone she meets or hears about her. Concerning this, the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"When Allāh (ﷻ) loves a person, he calls Jibrīl and says: 'I love So-and-so, so love him.' So Jibrīl will love him, and will call out in the heavens: 'Allāh (ﷻ) loves So-and-so, so love him.' Then the people of heaven will love him, and he will be well-accepted on earth. If Allāh (ﷻ) hates a person, he calls Jibrīl and says: 'I hate So-and-so, so hate him., So Jibrīl will hate him, and will call out in the heavens: 'Allāh (ﷻ) hates So-and-so, so hate him.' Then the people of heaven will hate him, and he will be despised on earth."526

This is the unseen, divine reason why some Muslim men and women enjoy the love of others towards them. It is the love of Allāh (ﷻ) which He has spread among the people of heaven and earth, and makes those fortunate people well-accepted on earth, or else His hatred causes them to be despised on earth.

No-one can earn the love of Allāh (ﷻ) except the one who turns to Him seeking His pleasure, and no-one earns His hatred except the one who turns away from His guidance and disobeys Him.

The good news of Allāh's love and pleasure is given only to believing men and women, those who believe and do good works, which are commended by other people. Allāh (ﷻ) will hasten to bring them glad tidings in their own lifetimes, so He causes people to praise them and love them, as is seen in the ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth narrated by Muslim from Abū Dharr, who said:

"The Prophet (ﷺ) was asked, 'What do you think of a man who does a good deed, and people praise him for it? He said, 'That is glad tidings for the believer that he has received in this world.'" According to another report also narrated by Muslim: "and the people love him for it."527

The Muslim woman who has the best characteristics and is adhering to the limits set by Allāh (ﷻ), doing what He commands and avoiding what He forbids, is the woman who deserves to receive these glad tidings in this world. She deserves to be loved by everyone who knows her or hears of her good deeds, such as tolerance, turning away from ignorant women, responding to evil with good, helping the poor and destitute, wanting the best for others, denying herself, speaking the truth, refraining from talking unnecessarily, being fair in her judgement and treatment of others, avoiding malicious gossip and hurting others, and other righteous attitudes and virtues that Islām encourages and describes as an adornment for the Muslim woman. Such a woman has truly understood the teachings of her religion; she has earned the love of people in this world and the pleasure of Allāh (ﷻ) and Paradise in the Hereafter.

She is Friendly and Likeable

The sensitive Muslim woman is friendly and likeable. She makes friends with other women and mixes with them, and they in turn like to meet her and make friends with her, because of her gentle, refined, attractive character and good treatment of them. These are the best characteristics that a woman may attain, as they entitle her to mix with other women, earn their trust and have an influence on them. Women will only listen to the one whom they like and trust and feel comfortable with, and they will only be persuaded by a woman who brings with her an attitude of trust, friendship and respect.

Hence there are many ḥadīth which commend the type of person who is friendly and liked by others. Such a person, whether man or woman, is one of those chosen ones who are beloved by the Prophet (ﷺ) and will be closest to him on the Day of Judgement:

525 Reported by Abū Ya'la and Aṭ-Ṭabarānī; the men of its isnād are thiqāt. See Majma' al-Zawā'id, 10/125, Bāb majā'a fi'l-mutana'amin wa'l-mutanatta'in.

526 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/184, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah wa'l-adāb, bāb idha aḥabba Allāh 'abdān.

527 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/189, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah wa'l-adāb, bāb idha aḥabbā Allāh 'abdān

“Shall I not tell you who among you is most beloved to me and will be closest to me on the Day of Resurrection?” He repeated it three or two times, and they said, “Yes, O Messenger of Allāh.” He said, “Those of you who are the best in attitude and character.”⁵²⁸ Some reports add: “Those who are down to earth and humble, who get along with others and with whom others feel comfortable.”

One of the most important attributes of the Muslim woman is that she gets along with others and others feel comfortable with her. She likes people and they like her. If she is not like this, then she will not be able to convey the message or achieve anything of significance. Whoever is like that has no goodness in him, as in the ḥadīth:

“The believer gets along with people and they feel comfortable with him. There is no goodness in the one who does not get along with people and with whom they do not feel comfortable.”⁵²⁹

The Prophet (ﷺ) set the highest example of good behavior towards people. He was skillful in softening their hearts and called them to follow him in word and deed. He demonstrated how to reach people’s hearts and win their love and admiration. He was always cheerful and easy-going, never harsh. When he came to any gathering, he would sit wherever there was a free space, and he told others to do likewise. He treated everyone equally, so that no-one who was present in a gathering would feel that anyone else was receiving preferential treatment. If anyone came to him and asked for something, he would give it to them, or at least respond with kind words. His good attitude extended to everyone and he was like a father to them. The people who gathered around him were truly equal, distinguished only by their level of taqwā. They were humble, respecting their elders, showing compassion to young ones, giving priority to those in need, and taking care of strangers.

The Prophet (ﷺ) never disappointed anyone who came to ask from him. There are three characteristics that he did not possess: he was not argumentative, he did not talk too much, and he did not concern himself with matters that were not his business. There are three things that he never did to people: he never criticized anyone, he never said “Shame on you!” to anyone, and he never looked for anyone’s faults. He never said anything but that for which he hoped to earn reward. When he spoke, the people around him would listen earnestly, sitting still as if there were birds on their heads. When he was silent, then they would speak. They never argued with one another in his presence. They would smile at whatever he smiled at, and would be impressed by whatever impressed him. He would be patient with a stranger who might be harsh in his requests or questions, and his Companions would ask the stranger to speak gently. He said, “If you see someone in need, then help him.” He never accepted praise except from someone who was thanking him for a favour, and he never cut off anyone who was speaking; he would wait until the person indicated that he had finished, or stood up.⁵³⁰

‘Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) tells us that he used to be cautious of the worst type of people, and he would speak gently to them and treat them well. A man sought permission to enter upon him and he said, “Let him in, what a bad brother of his tribe he is!” When the man came in, he spoke gently to him. ‘Āishah said, “O Messenger of Allāh, you said what you said, then you spoke gently to him.” He said, “O ‘Āishah, the worst of people is the one whom people avoid (or are gentle towards) because they fear his slander.”⁵³¹

No doubt the mature Muslim woman who is receptive to the guidance of Islām follows in the footsteps of her Prophet (ﷺ) in her dealings with all people, whether they are good or bad, so that she will be liked, well accepted and respected among all the women who know her or hear of her.

⁵²⁸ Reported with a Jayyid isnād by Aḥmad, 2/185.

⁵²⁹ Reported by Aḥmad and Al-Bazzār; the men of Aḥmad’s isnād are rijāl al-ṣaḥīḥ. See Majma‘ al-Zawā‘id, 8/87, Bāb al-mū‘min ya‘laf wa yū‘lif.

⁵³⁰ See Ḥayāt al-Ṣaḥābah, 1/22, 23

⁵³¹ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 10/471, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb ma yajuz min iḡhtiyab ahl al-fasad wa‘l-rayab; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/144, Kitāb al-birr wa‘lsillat wa‘l-adāb, bāb mudarah man yutqi fuhshihi.

She Keeps Secrets

It is obvious to the mature, wise Muslim woman that keeping secrets is one of the best characteristics that a person, man or woman, can have. Keeping secrets is a sign of a person's maturity, moral strength, wisdom and balanced personality. Therefore the true Muslim woman keeps those secrets that Islām urges her to keep. This was the attitude of the best personalities of Islām, and was one of their most beautiful characteristics.

One of the best examples of this virtue and the determination to adhere to it among the most prominent Ṣaḥābah was the attitude of Abū Bakr (رضي الله عنه) and 'Uthmān (رضي الله عنه) towards 'Umar (رضي الله عنه) when he offered them his daughter Ḥafṣah's hand in marriage after she was widowed, and their concealing the secret of the Prophet (ﷺ) from him.

Imām Bukhārī reports from 'Abdullāh ibn 'Umar that 'Umar said, concerning events after his daughter Ḥafṣah was widowed:

"I met 'Uthmān ibn 'Affān (رضي الله عنه) and offered him Ḥafṣah's hand in marriage. I said, 'If you wish, I will marry Ḥafṣah to you.' He said: 'I will think about it.' A few days passed, then he met me and said, 'I think that I do not wish to get married just now.' Then I met Abū Bakr al-Siddīq (رضي الله عنه), and said, 'If you wish, I will marry Ḥafṣah bint 'Umar to you.' Abū Bakr remained silent and made no reply to me, and I was more upset with him than with 'Uthmān. A few days passed, then the Prophet (ﷺ) asked for her hand, and I gave her to him in marriage. Abū Bakr met me and said, 'Perhaps you are angry with me when you offered me Ḥafṣah's hand and I did not reply?' I said, 'Yes.' He said, 'Nothing kept me from answering you except the fact that I knew the Prophet (ﷺ) had mentioned her, and I could not disclose the secret of the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ). If he had decided not to marry her, then I would have married her.'" 532

The virtue of keeping secrets was not confined only to the men of the salaf, it also included women and children whose hearts were filled with the guidance of Islām. We see this in the report given by Imām Muslim from Anas (رضي الله عنه), who said:

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) came to me while I was playing with some other boys. He greeted me, then sent me on an errand. I was late coming home to my mother and when I came, she asked, 'What kept you so long?' I said, 'The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) sent me on an errand.' She asked me, 'What errand?' I said, 'It is a secret.' She said, 'Do not tell anyone the secret of the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ).' Anas said: By Allāh (ﷻ), if I had told anyone about it, I would have told you, O Ṭābit." 533

Umm Anas saw that her son was keen to keep the secret entrusted to him by the Prophet (ﷺ), so she reinforced this keen attitude by telling him not to disclose this secret to anyone. So Anas did not speak of it to anyone, not even the great Ṣaḥābī Ṭābit al-Bunānī who was the spokesman of the Prophet (ﷺ), and one of those who were promised Paradise. She did not allow her curiosity to make her quiz her young son about the secret he was keeping from her. This is true Islāmic tarbiyah (education, upbringing), and this is the sublime level to which it raised men, women and children alike.

Telling secrets is one of the worst habits a person could have, and the worst form of this habit is disclosing secrets that relate to the intimacies of married life. A person who is afflicted with this abhorrent habit will be among the worst people on the Day of Judgement, as the Prophet (ﷺ) explained:

"The most evil of people in the sight of Allāh (ﷻ) on the Day of Resurrection will be a man who was intimate with his wife, then went and told others about her secrets." 534

Private matters should remain utterly secret, known only to those concerned. No-one broadcasts his private matters except the person who is somewhat crazy, stupid and unsound, and whose attitude is dirty, cheap and shameless. Muslim men and women are protected from such folly by the noble characteristics that they have learned from their religion.

532 Fatḥ al-Bārī, 9/175, Kitāb al-nikāḥ and 7/317, Kitāb al-baḡhazī, bāb 'ard al-insān ibnatahu 'ala ahl al-khayr

533 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/41, Kitāb fada'il al-Ṣaḥābah, bāb fada'il Anas. Ṭābit is the name of the Ṭabī'i who narrated this ḥadīth from Anas.

534 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 10/8, Kitāb al-nikāḥ, bāb taḥrīm ifsha' sirr al-mar'ah.

She is of Cheerful Countenance

It is clear to the Muslim woman that one of the most important factors in her success both in her private life with her husband and in her social life in general, is that she should be of cheerful countenance, smiling often and overflowing with warmth. All of this will endear her to people and open their hearts to her. It is also a good attitude, positive personality and physical attractiveness encouraged by Islām.

In Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, it is reported that the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"Do not think little of any good deed, even if it is just meeting your brother with a cheerful countenance." 535

The Prophet (ﷺ) taught that the Muslim should smile at his brother, and he never met any of his Ṣaḥābah without smiling at them, as is reported in the ḥadeeth of the great Ṣaḥābī Jarīr ibn 'Abdullāh, who said:

"The Prophet (ﷺ) never refused to see me, after I embraced Islām, and he never saw me without smiling at me." 536

The Muslim woman who is cheerful and smiles a lot brings joy to her husband's heart, which increases his love and respect for her. This is also the attitude which she brings to the social circle of women with whom she mixes: nothing spreads love and affection in a community like a smiling face and a happy and content soul. These are characteristics which are most befitting to the gentle, polite Muslim woman who seeks to call others to Islām, because it is through these attitudes that she will be able to reach people's hearts.

She is Lighthearted and Has a Sense of Humour

The true Muslim woman is lighthearted and has a sense of humour; she is kind in her treatment of others and gentle in her speech. She does not disdain to joke with her sisters and friends on appropriate occasions. But the Muslim woman's jokes are distinguished by their legitimate Islāmic nature, and never sink to the level of being cheap, dirty or stupid.

The Prophet (ﷺ) used to joke with his Companions, but his jokes never went beyond the bounds of truth. It was narrated that the Ṣaḥābah said to the Prophet (ﷺ): "You joke with us." He said, "But I never say anything except the truth." 537

The Ṣaḥābah took the same approach to humour. There are many delightful and entertaining reports about the jokes exchanged between the Prophet (ﷺ) and his Companions.

Among the reports related in the books of ḥadīth and ṣiraḥ is that which tells of how the Prophet (ﷺ) used to joke with the small child of one of his Ṣaḥābah, a boy called Abū 'Umayr, who had a little bird he used to play with. One day he saw the child looking sad, so he asked, "Why do I see Abū 'Umayr looking sad?" The Ṣaḥābah told him, "The nughar 538 which he used to play with has died, O Messenger of Allāh." The Prophet (ﷺ) began to gently joke with the child, saying, "O Abū 'Umayr, what happened to the nughayr?" 539

A man came to the Prophet (ﷺ) to ask him to give him a beast to ride. The Prophet (ﷺ) jokingly told him: "I will give you the offspring of a shecamel to ride." He said, "O Messenger of Allāh, what shall I do 535 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/177, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah wa'l-adāb, bāb istiḥbāb talāqah al-wajh.

536 Fatḥ al-Bārī, 10/504, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb al-tabassum wa'l-dahk; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/35, Kitāb fada'il al-Ṣaḥābah, bāb fada'il Jarīr ibn 'Abdullāh.

537 Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 1/365, Bāb al-mazāh.

538 Nughar: a small bird, like a sparrow. [Author]

539 Nughayr: diminutive of nughar [Author]. In Arabic, this is play on words because of the rhyme between the boy's name and that of the bird [Translator]. This story was narrated in Ḥayāt al-Ṣaḥābah, 3/149.

with the offspring of a she-camel? The Prophet (ﷺ) said: "Are riding-camels born except from she-camels?" 540

Imām Aḥmad reported from Anas (رضي الله عنه) that there was a man from the desert people whose name was Zahir. He used to bring gifts from the desert to the Prophet (ﷺ), and in return the Prophet (ﷺ) would provide him with whatever he needed when he went out to fight. The Prophet (ﷺ) said: "Zahir is our man of the desert, and we are his town-dwellers." The Prophet (ﷺ) loved him very much, and he (Zahir) was an ugly man. One day the Prophet (ﷺ) came to him whilst he was selling some goods. He embraced him from behind. The man could not see him, so he said, "Let me go! Who is this?" Then he turned around and recognised the Prophet (ﷺ), so he tried to move closer to him once he knew who it was. The Prophet (ﷺ) started saying, "Who will buy this slave?" Zahir said, "O Messenger of Allāh, you will find me unsellable." The Prophet (ﷺ) said, "But in the sight of Allāh (ﷻ) you are not unsellable," or he said, "But in the sight of Allāh (ﷻ) you are valuable." 541

An old woman came to the Prophet (ﷺ) and said, "O Messenger of Allāh, pray to Allāh (ﷻ) that I will enter Paradise." He said jokingly, "O Mother of So-and-so, no old women will enter Paradise." The old woman went away crying, so the Prophet (ﷺ) said: "Tell her that she will not enter Paradise as an old woman, for Allāh (ﷻ) says: ﴿We have created [their Companions] of special creation, and made them virgin-pure [and undefiled]﴾ (Qur'ān 56: 35-36)." 542

One of the ḥadīth that reflect the Prophet's sense of humour and enjoyment of fun is the report narrated by Imām Aḥmad from 'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her), who said:

"I went out with the Prophet (ﷺ) on a journey. At that time I was still young and was quite slender. The Prophet (ﷺ) told the people, 'Go on ahead,' and they went on ahead, then he said to me, 'Come, let us have a race.' So I raced with him, and I won. He let the matter rest until I had gained weight. Later, I accompanied him on another journey. He told the people, 'Go on ahead,' and they went on ahead. He said to me, 'Come, let us have a race.' So I raced with him, and he won. He began to laugh, and said, 'This is for that.'" 543

The Prophet (ﷺ), the Imām, leader and teacher of the Muslims, liked to joke and have fun sometimes, no matter how busy he was with the burdens of leadership and the effort to establish the Islāmic state, direct the forces of jihād, and so on. All of this did not keep him from engaging in entertaining jokes and lighthearted fun that would make his Companions - or his wives, on other occasions - feel happy.

Another example is the report narrated by 'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her), who said:

"I came to the Prophet (ﷺ) with some ḥarīrah (a dish made with flour and milk) that I had cooked for him, and told Sawdah (May Allāh be pleased with her), as the Prophet (ﷺ) was sitting between me and her - 'Eat.' She refused, so I said, 'Either you eat, or I will fill your face!' She still refused, so I put my hand in the ḥarīrah and daubed her face with it. The Prophet (ﷺ) laughed, put some ḥarīrah in her hand, and said, 'Do the same to her!'" According to another report: "He lowered his knee (moved out of the way) so that she could get her own back on me, then she took some from the plate and wiped my face with it, and the Prophet (ﷺ) laughed." 544

These reports are a clear indication of the tolerance of Islām and its followers, and of the kind of lightheartedness and humour that it wants to see in the Muslims. It is a quality that is liked in the serious Muslim woman, for it adds beauty, attraction and influence to her character.

She Tries to Make People Happy

The Muslim woman is keen, in her conversations with other women, to bring happiness to them and make them feel cheerful and lively by means of the good news and pleasant jokes that she tells them.

540 Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 1/366, Bāb al-mazah.

541 Reported by Aḥmad; the men of its isnād are rijāl al-ṣaḥīḥ. See Majma' al-Zawā'id, 9/368, Bāb ma ja'a fi Zahir ibn Hizām.

542 Reported by Tirmidhī in Al-Shama'il, 111; it is ḥasan because of the existence of corroborating reports.

543 A ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth narrated by Aḥmad, 6/264 and Abū Dāwūd, 3/41, Kitāb al-jihād, bāb fi al-sabaq 'ala'l-rajul.

544 Reported by Abū Ya'la; the men of its isnād are rijāl al-ṣaḥīḥ, except for Muhammad ibn 'Amr ibn 'Alqamah, whose ḥadīth is ḥasan. See Majmā' al-Zawā'id, 4/316.

Making people happy, within the framework of that which is permitted, is an Islāmic duty that is strongly encouraged, so that the environment of the believers, men and women, may be filled with friendliness, happiness and joy, ready to undertake serious work and the sacrifices and difficulties that it entails.

For this reason Islām tells us that the reward of one who makes Muslims happy will be the greater happiness that Allāh (ﷻ) will bestow upon him on the Day of Resurrection:

"Whoever meets his Muslim brother and makes him happy with something that Allāh (ﷻ) likes, Allāh (ﷻ) will make him happy on the Day of Resurrection." 545

The clever Muslim woman will find different ways to make her sisters happy in ways that are permitted - a warm greeting, a kind word, a clever comment, a pleasant joke, good news, a friendly smile, a sincerely-meant visit, a charming gift, always keeping in touch, sincere help, comforting consolation - which will open their hearts, sow the seeds of love and strengthen the ties of friendship and sisterhood.

She is Not Over-Strict

Another of the qualities of the true Muslim woman is that she is not over-strict, and does not go to extremes with regard to matters that Islām has permitted on certain occasions, such as the singing that is permitted on 'Eid and at weddings, or watching some entertaining games or sports, so long as they are not accompanied by any form of corruption that may lead to fitnah.

Although she may accept to watch or join in entertainment on certain occasions, she does not make this her main concern in life. She follows the teachings of Islām which permit fun and entertainment on occasion, as is reported in a number of ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth.

In ṣaḥīḥ Bukhārī, 'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) is reported to have arranged a marriage for a woman who was an orphan under her care, to a man of the Anṣār. The Prophet (ﷺ) asked her: "O 'Āishah, what sort of fun and entertainment do you have? For the Anṣār love fun and entertainment." 546

Imām Bukhārī also narrates from 'Āishah:

"The Prophet (ﷺ) entered upon me when there were two young girls singing the songs of Bu'āth 547. He lay down on his bed and turned his face away. Then Abū Bakr entered, and told me off, saying: 'Musical instruments of Shaytān in the house of the Prophet (ﷺ)!' The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) turned to him and said: 'Let them be.' When he was no longer paying attention, I signalled to them, and they left. 548

According to another report, also narrated by Bukhārī, the Prophet (ﷺ) said: "O Abū Bakr, every nation has a day of celebration, and this is our day of celebration." 549

Another report narrated by Bukhārī from 'Āishah says:

"It was the day of 'Eid, and the black people were playing with shields and spears. Either I asked the Prophet (ﷺ), or he said to me: 'Would you like to watch?' I said, 'Yes.' So he let me stand behind him, his cheek against my cheek, and he was saying, 'Carry on, O Banū Arfidah!' 550 When I got tired, he asked me, 'Have you had enough?' I said, 'Yes.' He said, 'Then go.'" 551

Ibn Hajar reported a number of versions of this ḥadīth from 'Āishah, such as that recorded by Al-Zuhrī:

"...Until I ['Āishah] was the one who had had enough." 552

Muslim also narrates from Al-Zuhrī:

545 Reported with a ḥasan isnād by Aṭ-Ṭabarānī in Al-Ṣaḥīḥ. See Majma' al-Zawā'id, 8/193, Bāb fadl qaḍā' al-ḥawā'ij.

546 Fatḥ al-Bārī, 9/225, Kitāb al-nikaḥ, bāb al-niswah allā'iyahdina al-mar'ah ila zawjihā.

547 Bu'āth: a place in the environs of Madīnah where war took place between the Aws and Khazraj before Islām. It was known as the battle of Bu'āth, and poets composed many verses about it. [Author]

548 Fatḥ al-Bārī, 2/440, Kitāb al-'idayn, bāb al-hirab wa'l-daraq yawm al-'eid.

549 Fatḥ al-Bārī, 2/445, Kitāb al-'idayn, bāb sunnah al-'idayn li ahl al-Islām.

550 Banū Arfidah: a nickname given to Abyssinians. [Author]

551 Fatḥ al-Bārī, 2/440, Kitāb al-'idayn, bāb al-hirab wa'l-daraq yawm al-'eid.

552 Fatḥ al-Bārī, 2/440, Kitāb al-'idayn, bāb al-hirab wa'l-daraq yawm al-'eid.

"Then he stayed standing there for my sake until I was the one who decided to leave."⁵⁵³

An-Nisā'ī reports from Yazīd ibn Marwān:

"The Prophet (ﷺ) said: 'Have you had enough? Have you had enough?' She said, 'I decided to say No, just to see how where I stood with him (i.e. how much he loved me).'"⁵⁵⁴

An-Nisā'ī reports from Abū Salāmah from 'Āishah:

"I said, 'O Messenger of Allāh, do not rush.' So he remained standing for my sake, then said, 'Have you had enough?' I said, 'Do not rush.'... It was not that I wanted to watch them, but I wanted all the women to know how I stood with him."

In the chapter on marriage, there is a report narrated by Al-Zuhrī which adds:

"You should understand that young girls like to have fun."⁵⁵⁵

In Fatḥ al-Bārī ⁵⁵⁶ Al-Sirāj reports via Abu'l-Zinad from 'Urwah from 'Āishah that the Prophet (ﷺ) said on that day:

"Let the Jews know that in our religion there is room for entertainment, and I have been sent with a tolerant, pure religion."

Tirmidhī reports in his Sunan that 'Āishah said:

"The Prophet (ﷺ) was sitting, and we heard some noise and children's voices outside. The Prophet (ﷺ) stood up, and saw an Abyssinian woman dancing, with children around her. He said, 'O Āishah, come and see!' So I came, and put my chin on his shoulder, looking through the gap between his head and his shoulder. He asked me, 'Have you had enough?' and I decided to say No, just to see where I stood with him. Suddenly 'Umar (رضي الله عنه) appeared, and the people scattered. The Prophet (ﷺ) said: 'I can see that the devils among jinn and mankind flee from 'Umar!' [Āishah] said: then I went back."⁵⁵⁷

These and similar texts, as understood in the books of ḥadīth, are clear evidence of the Prophet's kind and gentle treatment of his wife, and his eagerness to make her happy. They are also proof of the tolerance and ease of Islām, and its concern that women should be allowed to enjoy the kinds of fun and entertainment that it has permitted, unlike some of those overstrict people nowadays who regard such fun as a serious crime for which women should be severely punished by being imprisoned (in the home).

The Muslim woman who understands the teachings of Islām should be very serious in her attitude, concentrating on noble aims and shunning frivolities. But this should not stop her from having fun occasionally, in ways that are permitted by Islām, which leaves room for such entertainment. The wise Lawgiver understands the nature of people and their inclination to relax and have fun from time to time, so that they can then return refreshed to their serious pursuits, with renewed vigour, stronger determination, and more prepared to shoulder the burdens of their responsibilities. This is the balanced, integrated, wise approach that Islām brings.

She is Not Arrogant or Proud

The true Muslim woman is not arrogant or proud; she does not look down her nose at other women who may be inferior to her in terms of beauty, wealth, lineage or status, because the Muslim woman who understands the teachings of Islām knows that arrogance and pride in this world will deny a woman the blessings of the Hereafter, which Allāh (ﷻ) will deny to men and women who are arrogant. These blessings are only for those who shun arrogance and pride in this world:

⁵⁵³ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 2/440, Kitāb al-īdayn, bāb al-hirab wa'l-daraq yawm al-īd.

⁵⁵⁴ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 2/440, Kitāb al-īdayn, bāb al-hirab wa'l-daraq yawm al-īd.

⁵⁵⁵ See the reports given in Fatḥ al-Bārī, 2/444.

⁵⁵⁶ Fatḥ al-Bārī, 2/440, Kitāb al-īdayn, bāb al-hirab wa'l-daraq yawm al-īd.

⁵⁵⁷ Reported by Tirmidhī in Manāqib 'Umar. He said: it is a ḥasan ṣaḥīḥ gharib ḥadīth; this version is gharib. See 621, Kitāb al-manāqib, 18.

﴿That House of the Hereafter We shall give to those who intend not high-handedness or mischief on earth: and the End is [best] for the righteous.﴾ (Qur'ān 28: 83)

She also knows that Allāh (ﷻ) does not love those who arrogantly boast:

﴿And swell not your cheek [for pride] at men, nor walk in insolence through the earth: for Allāh loves not any arrogant boaster.﴾ (Qur'ān 31: 18)

Whoever examines the ḥadīth texts will be astonished at the attention given by the Prophet (ﷺ) to eradicating arrogance from people's hearts by forbidding it, deterring it and warning those men and women who were afflicted with it that they stand to lose everything in the Hereafter for the sake of an atom's-weight of pride that the Shaytān has placed in their hearts. Such people are among the arrogant ones to whom Allāh (ﷻ) has denied entry to Paradise, as is stated in the ḥadīth narrated by Muslim:

"No one will enter Paradise who has an atom'sweight of pride in his heart." A man asked, "What if a man likes his clothes and his shoes to look good?" He said, "Allāh (ﷻ) is Beautiful and loves beauty (i.e. wanting to look good is not pride or arrogance). Pride is denying the truth and despising people." 558

Ḥārithah ibn Wahb (رضي الله عنه) said:

"I heard the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) say: 'Shall I not tell you about the people of Hell? Everyone who is harsh, proud, disdainful and arrogant.'" 559

It is enough for those arrogant, proud women who boast to their friends to know of the moral humiliation that Allāh (ﷻ) has prepared for them in the Hereafter: Allāh (ﷻ) will not even look at them or speak to them or praise them, and this will be the ultimate humiliation. The Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"On the Day of Resurrection, Allāh (ﷻ) will not look at those who let their garments trail on the ground out of arrogance." 560

"There are three whom Allāh (ﷻ) will not speak to, or praise, or look at on the Day of Judgement, and they will have a severe punishment: an old man who commits adultery, a king who tells lies, and a poor man who is arrogant." 561

Pride is one of the divine attributes and weak human creatures have no right to it. Those who are arrogant and proud transgress into the realm of the divine, vying with the Almighty Creator for one of His sublime attributes, so they deserve the severe punishment to which the Prophet (ﷺ) referred:

"Allāh (ﷻ) says: 'Might is My cloak and pride is My garment. Whoever vies with Me for either of them, I will punish him.'" 562

Many ḥadīth warn the believers against being tempted by pride at moments of human weakness. The Prophet (ﷺ) used various methods to warn them so that the pious believers would be protected from the awful disease of arrogance. For example:

"Whoever thinks highly of himself, or walks with an arrogant attitude, will meet Allāh (ﷻ) when He is angry with him." 563

She is Humble and Modest

It comes as no surprise that the Muslim woman who understands anything of the teachings of Islām should be humble and modest, gentle, tolerant and kind in her dealings with others. She finds ḥadīth which complement those that warn men and women against arrogance, texts that encourage modesty and humility, promising everyone who humbles himself for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ) that he or she will be raised in status, as 558 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 2/89, Kitāb al-imān, bāb taḥrīm al-kibr.

559 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyādh al-Ṣāliḥīn, 334, Bāb taḥrīm al-kibr wa'l-i'jab.

560 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 12/9, Kitāb al-libās, bāb taqsīr al-thiyāb.

561 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 2/115, Kitāb al-imān, bāb bayān al-thalatha alladhina la yukallimuhum Allāh yawm al-qiyamah.

562 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/173, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah wa'l-adāb, bāb taḥrīm al-kibr; also narrated by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 2/9, Bāb al-kibr.

563 Narrated by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 2/7, Bāb al-kibr.

the Prophet (ﷺ) said in the ḥadīth narrated by Muslim:

"No one is humble for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ), but Allāh (ﷻ) will raise him in status." 564

"Allāh (ﷻ) told me that you should be so humble towards one another that no one should boast to anyone else and no one should oppress anyone." 565

The Muslim woman who studies the life of the Prophet (ﷺ) will find in his sublime character a unique, living example of modesty, humility, gentleness, genuineness, noble attitudes and tolerance. Whenever he passed a group of boys playing, he would stop and greet them, joking naturally with them. His high status as Prophet and leader of the ummah did not prevent him from being spontaneous and natural with others.

Anas (رضي الله عنه) said that he passed by a group of children and greeted them. He added, "The Prophet (ﷺ) used to do that." 566

Anas (رضي الله عنه) gave another account of the Prophet's humility: he reported that one of the slavewomen of Madīnah used to take the Prophet's hand and lead him about wherever she wanted, until she had sorted out her needs. 567

Tamīm ibn Usayd came to Madīnah to ask about the rules of Islām. He was a stranger, but he did not find any barrier or guard between him and the Prophet (ﷺ), the first man in the Islāmic state, who was on the minbar addressing the people. Tamīm came forward to ask some questions, and the Prophet (ﷺ) welcomed him with all warmth, humility and compassion. Tamīm tells the story, as was related by Imām Muslim:

"I came to the Prophet (ﷺ) whilst he was giving a speech. I said, 'O Mēsenger of Allāh, a stranger has come to ask about his religion; he does not know what his religion is.' The Prophet (ﷺ) welcomed me, interrupted his speech, and came to me. A chair was brought for him, so he sat down and began to teach me from what Allāh (ﷻ) had taught him. Then he resumed his speech and finished what he had been saying." 568

The Prophet (ﷺ) used to instil the attitude of humility, based on tolerance, gentleness and a good nature, in the hearts of his Companions. He (ﷺ) said:

"If I were to be invited to a simple meal of a sheep's foot or leg, or if I were to be offered this food as a gift, I would accept." 569

This is modesty in its purest form and human greatness of the highest degree.

She is Moderate With Regard to Her Clothing and Appearance

The Muslim woman who understands the teachings of Islām adheres to the principle of modesty in all things, and especially in the way she dresses and looks. She is keen to look good, but without any extravagance, excess or conceit. She does not blindly follow those who throw aside new clothes after wearing them only once and exhaust themselves trying to keep up with the latest fashion, which is forever changing, as is the habit of some foolish, ignorant women who have nothing better to do. On the other hand, she does not neglect her clothes or appearance, and she tries to look good in moderation.

She abides by the limits of moderation set out in the Qur'ān, which describes moderation as one of the qualities of the believing slaves of Allāh (ﷻ), men and women alike:

﴿Those who, when they spend, are not extravagant and not niggardly, but hold a just [balance] between those [extremes].﴾ (Qur'ān 25: 67)

564 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/141, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah wa'-adāb, bāb istihbāb al-'afu wa'l-tawadu'.

565 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 18/200, Kitāb al-jannah wa ṣiffat na'imiha wa ahliha, bāb al-ṣiffat allati yu'raf biha fi'l-dunya ahl al-jannah.

566 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyādh al-Ṣaliḥīn, 331, Bāb al-tawadu'.

567 Fatḥ al-Bārī, 10/489, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb al-kibr.

568 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 6/165, Kitāb al-jumu'ah, bāb al-ta'lim fi'l-khutbah.

569 Fatḥ al-Bārī, 5/199, Kitāb al-ḥibbah, bāb al-qalīl min al-ḥibbah.

The Muslim woman is careful not to fall victim to the enslavement of fashion and those behind it, who are people who have no fear of Allāh (ﷻ) and do not have the best interests of women - especially Muslim women - at heart. She is careful to avoid this enslavement which the Prophet (ﷺ) warned against and told us that it is a source of great misery:

"Wretched is the slave of the dinār, dirham and fancy clothes of velvet and silk! If he is given, he is pleased, and if he is not given, he is displeased." 570

The Muslim woman is protected by the teachings of Islām from falling into the error of arrogance or conceit regarding her appearance, and other deeds which may lead to a person's downfall, as the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"There was a man who walked with pride because of his fine cloak and because he was pleased with himself. Allāh (ﷻ) caused him to sink in the earth, and he will go on sinking into it until the Day of Resurrection." 571

The Muslim woman uses means of adornment that are within the limits of what is permitted by Islām. She wears elegant, expensive clothes, which are among the good things permitted by Allāh (ﷻ), without going to extremes of excess. This is the moderation advocated and encouraged by Islām, and there is a huge difference between the wise, moderate woman, and the foolish, empty-headed woman who goes to extremes.

The Muslim woman avoids both extremes with regard to her dress and appearance. She does not exaggerate or go to extreme limits of excess, neither does she neglect her clothes and appearance to the point of appearing to be miserly or ascetic, thinking that this asceticism is a form of worship that will earn her the pleasure of Allāh (ﷻ).

The woman who wears beautiful clothes to show off in front of her friends is a sinner, because Allāh (ﷻ) does not love every arrogant boaster. But the one who wears beautiful clothes to display the bounty of Allāh (ﷻ) and seeking His help, is an obedient servant who will be rewarded.

The one who neglects her appearance out of stinginess enjoys no position of respect among people, and will have no reward from Allāh (ﷻ). The one who neglects her appearance out of an attitude of other-worldliness, thinking that she is worshipping Allāh (ﷻ) by denying herself what is permitted, is also a sinner, as Sheikh al-Islām Ibn Taymiyah, may Allāh (ﷻ) have mercy on him, said: 572 "The essence of a woman's happiness in this world and the next is purposefulness, moderation and balance. This is the attitude of the Muslim woman who understands and adheres to the teachings of Islām. So her clothes are clean, beautiful, neat and suited to the Muslim woman, demonstrating Allāh's blessings to her without going to the extreme of showing off."

She Loves Noble Things and Always Aims High

The Muslim woman who understands the teachings of Islām is concerned only with noble matters, and shuns those trivial, cheap matters that do not deserve the attention of the serious, refined person. She builds her relationships with other women on this basis of high concerns and noble aims. She has no room in her life for making friends with foolish, empty-headed prattlers or for keeping busy with trivial matters. She has no time to spend on idle talk and foolish issues. This is what Allāh (ﷻ) loves to see in His believing slaves, men and women, as the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"Allāh is noble (karīm) and loves noble people. He loves noble things and hates foolishness." 573

She is Concerned About the Affairs of the Muslims

The Muslim woman who truly understands the teachings of Islām is not concerned only with her own household, husband and children; she takes an interest in the affairs of the Muslims in general. By doing 570 Fath al-Bārī, 6/81, Kitāb al-jihād, bāb al-hirasah fi 'l-ghazu fi sabil-Allāh.

571 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 14/64, Kitāb al-libās wa 'l-zinah, bāb taḥrīm al-tabakhtur fi 'l-mashi.

572 Fatāwā Ibn Taymiyah, 22/138, 139.

573 Reported by Aṭ-Ṭabarānī in Al-Kabīr; the men of its isnād are thiqāt. See Majmā' al-Zawā'id, 8/188, Bāb makārim al-akhlāq.

so she is following the guidance of Islām which counts all Muslims as a single brotherhood, and compares them, because of their mutual love, affection and compassion, to a single body: if one part of it suffers, the rest of the body will stay awake in pain.⁵⁷⁴ Islām also likens the believers to a solid structure, in which some bricks support others.⁵⁷⁵

The modern Muslim woman's concern for Muslim individuals, families, societies and the ummah as a whole, stems from her Islāmic character, her adherence to the teachings of Islām, her Islāmic world-view, and her sense of the responsibilities that Islām has given to every Muslim man and woman to convey and expound its teachings.

Islāmic history is filled with many examples of virtuous women who were renowned for their concern about the Muslims, men and women. One example is the report given by Imām Muslim from Salīm, the freed slave of Shaddād, who said:

"I went to the house of 'Āishah, the wife of the Prophet (ﷺ) on the day that Ṣa'd ibn Abī Waqqās died. 'Abdul-Raḥmān ibn Abī Bakr also came in, and performed wudū' in 'Āishah's presence. She said, 'O 'Abdul-Raḥmān! Perform your wudū' properly, as I heard the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) say: "Woe to the heels because of Hellfire."'" ⁵⁷⁶

'Āishah noticed that her brother 'Abdul-Raḥmān had not washed his heels properly in wudū', and she did not keep silent about what she had seen. She reminded him that it was essential to perform wudū' properly, as she had heard from the Prophet (ﷺ). This is an example of the kind of commendable concern that is the duty of every Muslim man and woman whenever there is a need to enjoin what is good or forbid what is evil.

When 'Umar ibn al-Khaṭṭāb (رضي الله عنه) was stabbed, and he felt that death was near, he told his son 'Abduāh: "Go to 'Āishah, say salām to her, and ask her permission for me to be buried in her house alongside the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) and Abū Bakr. So 'Abduāh came to her and conveyed this message. She said, "Certainly, he is most welcome." Then she said: "O my son, convey my salām to 'Umar, and tell him: Do not leave the ummah of Muhammad without a protector. Appoint a successor to take care of them. Do not leave them untended after your death, for I fear fitnah for them." ⁵⁷⁷

This was a far-sighted, common-sense attitude of concern for the ummah, that they should not be left without a leader to govern their affairs and maintain their unity and security.

In these words of 'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her), the modern Muslim woman has a prime example which will help her to understand the essence of Islām, her responsibilities towards her religion and her ummah, and the importance of being concerned about the affairs of the Muslims. This will give her insight and understanding that will enable her to undertake her duties of contributing to the revival of Islām and calling Muslim men and women to return to the position of being the Best of Peoples evolved for mankind, as Allāh (ﷻ) wants them to be.

She Honours Her Guest

The true Muslim woman is happy to welcome guests, and hastens to honour them, in response to the call of faith in Allāh (ﷻ) and the Last Day, as the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"Whoever believes in Allāh (ﷻ) and the Last Day, let him honour his guest."⁵⁷⁸

The Muslim woman who honours her guest thus confirms that she is a believer in Allāh (ﷻ) and the Last Day. Therefore this honouring of the guest is called a reward that is given to the guest as if thanking him for the opportunity he has given to his host to do a good deed, put his faith into practice, and please Allāh (ﷻ):

⁵⁷⁴ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/140, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah wa'l-adāb, bāb tarahum al-mu'minīn wa ta'atufihim.

⁵⁷⁵ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/139, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah wa'l-adāb, bāb tarahum al-mu'minīn wa ta'atufihim.

⁵⁷⁶ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 3/128, Kitāb al-tahārah, bāb wujūb ghusl al-rijlayn.

⁵⁷⁷ Ṭabaqāt ibn Ṣa'd, 3/363.

⁵⁷⁸ (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 14/312, Kitāb al-riqāq, bāb ḥifz al-lisān.

“Whoever believes in Allāh (ﷻ) and the Last Day, let him honour his guest by giving him his reward.’ They asked, ‘What is his reward, O Messenger of Allāh?’ He said: ‘One day and one night. The right of hospitality is three days, and anything beyond that is an act of charity.’” 579

Honouring guests is regarded in Islām as a great deed which is encouraged, and for which the sincere Muslim woman will be rewarded. But Islām regulated it and set limits for it. The “reward” of the guest is one day and one night, then comes the duty of hospitality, which is three days. Anything beyond that is an act of charity, which will be recorded among the good deeds of the hospitable, generous woman.

In Islām, honouring the guest is not a matter of choice to be followed or not according to one’s mood or personal feelings. It is a duty on the Muslim, man or woman, who must hasten to fulfil this duty as soon as a guest knocks on the door or enters one’s yard:

“Accommodating a guest for one night is an absolute duty on every Muslim. Whoever gets up in the morning and finds a guest waiting in his yard has a duty to fulfil, and it is up to him what he will do about it.” 580

Those who do not like to receive a guest and close their doors to him are not good people, as is stated in the ḥadīth reported by Imām Aḥmad, in which the Prophet (ﷺ) said: “There is no goodness in the one who is not hospitable.” 581

Islām has made hospitality the duty of every Muslim man and woman, and considers it to be the guest’s right. No Muslim should fall short in carrying out this duty. If a spirit of miserliness has overtaken a people to the extent that they deny their guest his right, then Islām permits the guest to take his right from them. This is seen in the ḥadīth narrated by Bukhārī, Muslim and others from ‘Uqbah ibn ‘Āmir, who said:

“I said, ‘O Messenger of Allāh, you are sending us to people who do not feed us. What do you think about this?’ He said, ‘If you go to a people and they order that something appropriate be brought (i.e., food and drink), then accept it, and if they do not do that, then take the things you as a guest are entitled to, that they should have provided.’” 582

Hospitality is a basic Islāmic attitude, so you will never find a Muslim woman whose Islām is genuine being stingy to her guest, no matter what her or her husband’s circumstances. Islām has taught her that the food of two people will feed three, and that the food of three will feed four. So she need never worry about an unexpected guest knocking suddenly at her door. Abū Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه) said: “The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said: ‘The food of two people is enough for three, and the food of three is enough for four.’” 583

Jābir (رضي الله عنه) said:

“I heard the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) say: ‘The food of one is enough for two, the food of two is enough for four, and the food of four is enough for eight.’” 584

The Muslim woman whose personality has been cleansed and moulded by Islām does not worry about there being too many people at the table, unlike the Western woman who does not receive a guest for whom she has not prepared food in advance. The Muslim woman welcomes her guests even if the visit is unannounced, and invites them to share her family’s food, no matter that her own share may be reduced by a few mouthfuls. The true Muslim woman prefers hunger to ignoring the rights of this guest, whom Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger have commanded her to honour. Indeed, Allāh (ﷻ) will bless the food of one so that it will become enough for two, and He will bless the food of two so that it will become enough for four, and so on. There is no need for that dryness and inhospitality from which Western-influenced materialistic people are suffering in both East and West.

579 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyādh al-Ṣāliḥīn, 379, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb ikrām al-ḍayf.

580 Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 2/207, Bāb ja’izah al-ḍayf.

581 Reported by Imām Aḥmad, 4/155; its men are Rijāl al-ṣāḥīḥ.

582 Narrated by Bukhārī, Muslim and others. See Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 2/210, Bāb idha aṣbaha al-ḍayf maḥruman.

583 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 11/320, Kitāb al-at’imah, bāb ta’am al-ithnayn yakfī al-thalathah.

584 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 14/22, Kitāb al-ashribah, bāb fādilah al-mawasah fi’l-ta’am al-qalīl.

The righteous salaf set the highest example of honouring one's guest, so much so that Allāh (ﷻ) Himself commended the way in which some of them honoured their guests. An example of this is the ḥadīth narrated by Bukhārī and Muslim from Abū Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه). A man came to the Prophet (ﷺ) and he sent word to his wives (to prepare food). They said, "We have nothing but water." So the Prophet (ﷺ) said, "Who will play host to this man?" One of the Anṣār said: "I will." So he took the man to his wife and told her: "Honour the guest of the Messenger of Allāh." She said, "We do not have anything but the boys' food." He said, "Prepare the food, light the lamp, and put the boys to sleep if they want some supper." So she prepared the food, lit the lamp, and put the boys to sleep. Then she got up as if to adjust the lamp, but she extinguished it. The couple pretended to eat (with their guest), but in fact they went to bed hungry. The next morning, the Anṣārī went to the Prophet (ﷺ), who told him: "Allāh (ﷻ) has commended what you two did last night." Allāh (ﷻ) revealed:

﴿But [they] give them preference over themselves, even though poverty was their [own lot]. And those saved from the covetousness of their own souls - they are the ones that achieve prosperity.﴾ (Qur'ān 59: 9)⁵⁸⁵

The Muslim woman is generous and hospitable, she welcomes guests no matter when they arrive, and never worries about the sudden arrival of guests. In this way she provides the best help to enable her husband to be generous and hospitable like her, welcoming guests and hastening to honour them with a cheerful, smiling face, as the poet 586 said:

"I smile at my guest and make him smile before he brings in his luggage, as if I had plenty to offer him at the time when I am suffering hardship. Hospitality does not consist of piling up food in front of him; the face of the generous man is the essence of hospitality."

She Prefers Others over Herself

The true Muslim woman prefers others over herself, even if she is poor and does not have much, because Islām teaches its followers to do so. This selflessness is a basic characteristic of the true Muslim, which distinguishes him or her from other people.

The Anṣār, (May Allāh be pleased with them), were the first pioneers in selflessness after the Prophet (ﷺ) himself. A verse of the Qur'ān was revealed commending their unique selflessness, which would remain for all time a shining example to humanity of how generosity and selflessness should be. They welcomed their Muhājirīn brothers, who had nothing, and gave them everything:

﴿But those who before them, had homes [in Madīnah] and had adopted the Faith - show their affection to such as came to them for refuge, and entertain no desire in their hearts for things given to the [latter], but give them preference over themselves, even though poverty was their [own lot]. And those saved from the covetousness of their own souls - they are the ones that achieve prosperity.﴾ (Qur'ān 59: 9)

The life of the Prophet (ﷺ) abounded with selflessness, and he also instilled this attitude in the hearts of the first Muslims. Sahl ibn Ṣa'd (رضي الله عنه) reported:

"A woman brought a woven garment (burdah) and said, 'I wove it with my own hands for you to wear.' The Prophet (ﷺ) took it, as he needed it. He came out to us, wearing it wrapped around his waist. So and-so said, 'Give it to me, how nice it is!' The Prophet (ﷺ) said, 'Of course.' The Prophet (ﷺ) was sitting in a gathering, and when he came back, he folded up the burdah and sent it to that man. The people told the man: 'You should not have done that. The Prophet (ﷺ) wore it because he needed it, then you asked for it and you knew that he does not refuse requests.' He said, 'I did not ask for it so that I could wear it. I asked for it so that it could be my shroud.'" Sahl said: "And (later on) it was his shroud."⁵⁸⁷

The Prophet (ﷺ) used to feel happy whenever he saw his teaching of selflessness bearing fruits in the Muslims' lives when there was some crisis such as drought or famine. This is seen in his words:

⁵⁸⁵ Fath al-Bārī, 8/631, Kitāb al-tafsīr, bāb wa yu'thirun 'ala anfusihim; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 4/12, Kitāb al-ashribah, bāb ikrām al-dayf.

⁵⁸⁶ i.e., Ḥātim al-Ta'īyy, as in al-'Aqd al-Farīd, 1/236.

⁵⁸⁷ Fath al-Bārī, 3/143, Kitāb al-jā'izah, bāb man ista'adda al-kāfīn and 4/318, Kitāb al-buyu', bāb al-nissaj.

"When a number of their men are killed in battle, or they do not have enough food for their children, the Ash'aris [a tribe] gather whatever they have in one cloth and share it out equally. They belong to me and I belong to them." 588

How beautiful is the attitude of selflessness that we learn about from the Anṣār, the Ash'aris and others like them! How great is the virtue of the Prophet (ﷺ) who implanted this attitude in the hearts of the first generation of Muslim men and women, from whom successive generations of Muslims inherited it until it became a basic characteristic of the Islāmic society.

She Checks Her Customs and Habits Against Islāmic Standards

The Muslim woman who has insight into the rulings of Islām does not accept every tradition and custom that is widely accepted by others, for there may be customs that are derived from ancient or modern jahilīyah traditions which go against Islām. These are unacceptable to the Muslim woman, even if everybody else accepts them unanimously.

The Muslim woman does not decorate her house with statues or pictures (of animate objects), neither does she keep a dog at home, unless it is a guard dog, because the Prophet (ﷺ) has forbidden all of that. The ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth on this matter are very emphatic in their prohibition, and there is no room for prevarication or excuses:

Ibn 'Umar (رضي الله عنه) reported that the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"Those who make these images will be punished on the Day of Resurrection and will be told: 'Give life to that which you have created.'" 589

'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) said:

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) returned from a journey, and I had covered a small window with a curtain that had images on it. When the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) saw it, his face changed colour (with anger) and he said, 'O 'Āishah! Those who will be the most severely punished by Allāh (ﷻ) on the Day of Resurrection will be those who imitated the creation of Allāh (ﷻ).' She said: 'So we cut it up and made one or two pillows from it.'" 590

Ibn 'Abbās (رضي الله عنه) said:

"I heard the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) say: 'Every maker of images will be in the Fire; every image that he made will be brought to life and will punish him in Hell.'" Ibn 'Abbās said: "So if you must do that, make pictures of trees and inanimate objects." 591

Abū Ṭalḥah (رضي الله عنه) said that the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said: "The angels do not enter a house in which there is a dog or an image." 592 'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) said:

"Jibrīl (جبرئيل) promised to come to the Prophet (ﷺ) at a certain time. That time came and went, and he did not come. The Prophet (ﷺ) was holding a stick in his hand, which he threw aside, saying, 'Allāh (ﷻ) does not break His promise and neither do His Messengers.' Then he turned around and saw a puppy underneath his bed. He said, 'When did this dog get in?' I said, 'By Allāh, I did not even notice it.' He gave orders that it should be taken out, and it was removed. Then Jibrīl (جبرئيل) came to him, and the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said, 'You promised to come and I was waiting for you, but you did not come.' He said, 'The dog that was in your house prevented me. We do not enter a house where there is a dog or an image.'" 593

588 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyāḍ al-Ṣaliḥīn, 310, Bāb al-itḥār wa'l-masawāh.

589 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyāḍ al-Ṣaliḥīn, 741, Kitāb al-umūr al-munḥi 'anha, bāb taḥrīm al-suwār.

590 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyāḍ al-Ṣaliḥīn, 742, Kitāb al-umūr al-munḥi 'anha, bāb taḥrīm al-suwār.

591 Ibid.

592 Ibid.

593 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 14/81, Kitāb al-libās wa'l-zinah, bāb taḥrīm ṭaswīr al-ḥayawān.

There are many ḥadīth which prohibit pictures and statues, and the wisdom behind this prohibition is apparent especially nowadays when hypocrites, sycophants and those possessed by greed and ambition encourage tyrants in their oppression. One of their favoured methods is to erect statues to them, both during their lifetime and after their deaths, thus turning them into gods and demigods seated on thrones of glory, whipping the backs of the oppressed.

Islām brought the doctrine of Tawḥīd, and destroyed the statues of shirk and jahilīyyah fifteen hundred years ago. It will not permit these graven images to come back into the lives of Muslim men and women, whether it be in the name of commemorating a leader, honouring an artist or glorifying a scientist, poet or writer. The Islāmic society is a monotheistic society where glorification, sanctification and veneration are only for Allāh (ﷻ). So there is no room in the Islāmic society for these statues and images.

As far as keeping a dog is concerned, there is nothing wrong with that if the dog is kept for hunting or farming purposes, as in the ḥadīth of Ibn ‘Umar (رضي الله عنه), who said:

“I heard the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) say: ‘Whoever keeps a dog, unless it is a dog for hunting or herding livestock, his reward will decrease by two qirāts every day.’” 594

Keeping dogs in the house after the Western fashion, spoiling them, manufacturing special food and shampoo for them, setting up “beauty parlours” for them and all the other things on which people in the West and the U.S. spend millions upon millions of dollars annually.... All of this has nothing whatsoever to do with Islām and its tolerant customs. The psychological state of Westerners, and the dry, materialistic life they lead, have driven them to these extremes in caring for their dogs, to compensate for the lack of human love in their social lives. But the social life of Islām is filled with human emotion, so Muslims have no need to go to such absurd extremes.⁵⁹⁵

The Muslim woman who understands the teachings of Islām does not eat or drink from vessels of gold or silver, no matter how rich she may be or how luxurious a life she may enjoy, because to do so is harām according to Islām. We find this prohibition in a number of definitive, ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth.

Umm Salāmah (May Allāh be pleased with her) reported that the Prophet (ﷺ) said: “Whoever drinks from a vessel of silver, it is as if he is throwing Hellfire into his stomach.” 596

According to a report given by Muslim, the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

“Whoever eats or drinks from vessels of gold or silver”- (in another report: whoever drinks from a vessel of gold or silver) –“it is as if he is throwing fire from Hell into his stomach.” 597

The alert Muslim woman, no matter where she lives, examines every custom that is followed in her society and measures it against the rulings, values and principles of Islām. Whatever is compatible with Islām, she accepts, but whatever contradicts Islām, she rejects outright, whether it is a custom relating to betrothal and marriage, or in family or social life. What matters is whether the custom is compatible with Islām, not how widely it is spread among people.

She Follows Islāmic Manners in the Way She Eats and Drinks

The alert Muslim woman is distinguished by her keenness to follow Islāmic etiquette in the way she eats and drinks. If you were to see her at the table eating food, or if you saw the way she sets the table, you would know her by the Islāmic manners that she has adopted in the way she eats, drinks and sets the table.

She does not begin to eat until she has mentioned the name of Allāh (ﷻ), and she eats with her right hand from the food directly in front of her 598, according to the teaching of the Prophet (ﷺ):

“Mention the name of Allāh (ﷻ), eat with your right hand, and eat from what is directly in front of you.” 599

594 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyād al-Ṣalīḥīn, 744, Kitāb al-umūr al-munḥī ‘anhā, bāb taḥrīm ittikhādh al-kalb illa li sayd aw mashīyah.

595 See discussion of this deviation on pp. [ch9, love for the sake of Allāh]

596 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyād al-Ṣalīḥīn, 788, Kitāb al-umūr al-munḥī ‘anha, bāb taḥrīm isti ‘māl inā’ al-dhahab wa ‘l-fuddah.

597 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 14/29-30, Kitāb al-libās wa ‘l-zinah, bāb taḥrīm isti ‘māl awānī al-dhahab wa ‘l-fuddah.

598 The custom at the time of the Prophet (ﷺ) was for all present to eat from one dish or platter; this is still the custom in some Muslim countries [Translator].

599 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyād al-Ṣalīḥīn, 394, Kitāb adāb al-ta‘ām, bāb al-tasmiyah fi awwalihī al-ḥamd fi akhiriḥī.

If she forgets to mention the name of Allāh (ﷻ) at the beginning of her meal, she will rectify that by saying: “Bismillāhi awwalahu wa akhirahu [in the name of Allāh (ﷻ) at its beginning and at its end],” as is taught in the ḥadīth narrated by ‘Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her):

“The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said: ‘Whenever any of you eats, let him mention the name of Allāh (ﷻ), may He be glorified. If he forgets to mention the name of Allāh (ﷻ) at the beginning, let him say “Bismillāhi awwalahu wa akhirahu.”’” 600

The second issue is eating with the right hand. The Muslim woman who is acting according to Islāmic manners eats and drinks with her right hand. The commandment to eat with the right hand, and the prohibition of eating with the left hand, are clearly reported in numerous ḥadīths, for example:

“When any one of you eats, let him eat with his right hand, and if he drinks, let him drink with his right hand, for the Shayṭān eats with his left hand and drinks with his left hand.” 601

“None of you should eat with his left hand or drink with his left hand, for the Shayṭān eats with his left hand and drinks with his left hand.” Nafī’ added that the Prophet (ﷺ) said: “Do not give or take with it (the left hand).” 602

If the Prophet (ﷺ) saw anyone eating with his left hand, he would tell him to stop, and would teach him the proper manners. If the person arrogantly persisted, he would rebuke him more sternly and pray against him. Salāmah ibn al-Akwa’ (رضي الله عنه) said that a man ate with his left hand in the presence of the Prophet (ﷺ). He said, “Eat with your right hand.” The man said, “I cannot.” He said, “May you never be able to use it!” The only thing that stopped him was arrogance, and he never raised his right hand to his mouth after that. 603

The Prophet (ﷺ) always liked to start things from the right, and he encouraged others to do likewise. Bukhārī, Muslim and Mālik report from Anas that the Prophet (ﷺ) was given some milk that had been mixed with water from the well. There was a bedouin sitting on his right, and Abū Bakr al-Ṣiddīq was sitting on his left. He drank some of the milk, then he passed it to the bedouin and said: “Start on the right and pass to the right.” 604

On one occasion, he asked a young boy 605 seated on his right to give up his turn for some elders, but the boy insisted on taking his turn and obtaining barakah (blessing) from the left-over of the Prophet (ﷺ), and the Prophet (ﷺ) did not criticize or rebuke him for doing so. Suhayl ibn Ṣa’d (رضي الله عنه) described the incident:

“The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) was given something to drink, and he drank some of it. There was a young boy on his right, and some old men on his left. He asked the boy, ‘Will you let me give some to these men?’ The boy said, ‘No, by Allāh (ﷻ), I will not give up my share from you to anyone.’ So the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) put it in his hand.” 606

There are many such reports and texts that definitively show that using the right hand is an important aspect of Islāmic manners, which the true Muslim adopts readily and does not try to find excuses. This is what the Ṣaḥābah and Ṭabi‘īn used to do, without exception. When ‘Umar ibn al-Khaṭṭāb (رضي الله عنه) was the Khalīfah, he used to patrol the city himself and check up on the people. Once, he saw a man eating with his left hand, so he told him, “O servant of Allāh, eat with your right hand.” He saw him a second time eating with his left hand, so he hit him with his whip and said, “O slave of Allāh, eat with your right hand.” He saw him a third time eating with his left hand, so he hit him with his whip and said angrily, “O slave of Allāh, your right hand!” The man replied, “O Amīr al-Mu‘minīn, it is busy.” ‘Umar said, “What

600 Reported by Abū Dāwūd, 3/475, Kitāb al-at‘imah, bāb al-tasmiyah; Tirmidhī, 4/288, Kitāb al-at‘imah, bāb ma ja’ā fi’l-tasmiyah ‘ala’l-ta‘ām.

601 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 13/191, Kitāb al-ashribah, bāb adāb al-ta‘am wa’l-sharab.

602 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 13/192, Kitāb al-ashribah, bāb adāb al-ta‘am wa’l-sharab.

603 Ibid.

604 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 11/385, Kitāb al-ashribah, bāb al-bida‘ih bi’l-aymān.

605 This was Ibn ‘Abbās [Author].

606 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 11/386, Kitāb al-ashribah, bāb al-bida‘ih bi’l-aymān.

is keeping it busy?" He said, "The day of Mu'tah."⁶⁰⁷ 'Umar began to weep, and came to the man apologizing and consoling him. He asked him, "Who helps you make wudū'? Who helps you with what you need?" Then he ordered that the man should be treated fairly and taken care of.

'Umar's concern for this aspect of the conduct of one of the people demonstrates the importance of this apparently minor issue. It is indicative of the Muslim's personality and unique identity. 'Umar was very keen to apply this rule to the Muslims, so he did not allow them to take it lightly or ignore it.

I would like to address this to those Muslim ladies who have adopted Western table manners which dictate that the fork should be held in the left hand, and the knife in the right, so that the food is cut with the right hand and placed in the mouth with the left. These people follow this practice without adjusting it, so that they are eating with their left hands, contradictory to the teachings of their religion. They do not bother to move the fork to the right hand and the knife to the left, so that they may eat with their right hand, because they do not want to change this Western "etiquette." This is just one example of the moral defeat from which our ummah is suffering at the hands of modernism, which we are following slavishly without adjusting or adapting foreign customs to suit our own identity, religion and values. The true Muslim should be the furthest removed from such blind, ignorant imitation.

The true Muslim woman who is proud of her religion and its noble guidance in all aspects of life insists on eating with her right hand and calls on others to do likewise. She is not ashamed to announce it in gatherings where people still adhere slavishly to practices that have come from the West, so that she may explain it to those men and women who are ignorant and careless, and bring them back to their senses. Then they will follow the sunnah and eat and drink with their right hands.

With regard to the third issue, eating from what is nearest to one, this is in accordance with the Islāmic manners of eating. The Prophet (ﷺ) clearly commanded this, along with mentioning the name of Allāh (ﷻ) and eating with the right hand. It is recorded in numerous ḥadīths, such as the report of 'Umar ibn Abī Salāmah (رضي الله عنه), who said:

"I was a young boy under the care of the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ). My hand used to wander all over the plate, so the Prophet (ﷺ) told me: 'O young boy, mention the name of Allāh (ﷻ), eat with your right hand, and eat from what is directly in front of you.'" ⁶⁰⁸

When the Muslim woman eats with her hand, she does so in a nice, good-mannered fashion, as the Prophet (ﷺ) used to do. He used to eat with just three fingers; he did not plunge his whole hand into the food in a way that would put others off. This was reported by Ka'b ibn Mālik:

"I saw the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) eating with three fingers, and when he had finished he would lick them." ⁶⁰⁹

The Prophet (ﷺ) commanded people to lick their fingers and clean their plates, as Jābir (رضي الله عنه) reported that he said: "You do not know where in the food is the blessing."⁶¹⁰

Anas (رضي الله عنه) said:

"When the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) ate, he would lick his three fingers. He said: 'If any of you drops a mouthful, let him pick it up, remove the dirt, and eat it, and not leave it for the shaytān.' He commanded us to clean our plates and said: 'You do not know in which part of your food is the blessing.'"⁶¹¹

Besides seeking the blessing in the food, this Prophetic teaching also encourages Muslims to clean their hands and their plates. Cleaning them of whatever food is left befits the person who is clean and well mannered, and is indicative of his or her sensitivity and good taste. The West has now adopted this good practice which was commanded by the Prophet (ﷺ) fifteen hundred years ago: nowadays the Europeans clear their plates and do not leave anything.

607 i.e., he lost his hand in the battle of Mu'tah. [Author]

608 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyāḍ al-Ṣalīḥīn, 399, Kitāb adāb al-ta'ām, bāb al-akl mima yalīh.

609 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 13/204, Kitāb al-ashribah, bāb istiḥbāb la'q al-asābī.

610 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 13/207, Kitāb al-ashribah, bāb istiḥbāb la'q al-asābī.

611 Ibid.

Of course, the sensitive, well-mannered Muslim woman does not eat noisily, making disgusting sounds, nor does she take large mouthfuls such as would cause her to make a revolting spectacle of herself.

When she has finished eating, she praises Allāh (ﷻ) as the Prophet (ﷺ) taught us to do, thanking Allāh (ﷻ) for His blessing and seeking the reward of those who give praise and thanks.

Abū Umāmah (رضي الله عنه) said that when the Prophet (ﷺ) had finished his meal, he said:

"Al-ḥamdu lillāhi kathīran tayyiban mubarakan fīhi, ghayra makfiyyin wa lā muwadda'in wa la mustaghnan 'anhu, rabbanā (Praise be to Allāh, much good and blessed praise. O our Rabb, we cannot compensate Your favour, nor leave it nor dispense with it)." 612

Mu'adh ibn Anas (رضي الله عنه) said:

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said: 'Whoever eats a meal then says Al-ḥamdu lillāhi alladhī at'amanī hadhā wa razaqanī min ghayri ḥawlin minnī wa la quwwatin [Praise be to Allāh (ﷻ) Who fed me and bestowed this provision upon me with no power or ability on my part]', will be forgiven for the sins committed prior to it." 613

The well-mannered Muslim woman does not criticize food, no matter what it is, following the teaching and example of the Prophet (ﷺ). Abū Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه) said:

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) never criticized food. If he liked it, he ate it, and if he did not like it, he left it." 614

The Muslim woman's manners with regard to drinking are also derived from the teachings of Islām, which impart good manners to man in every aspect of life.

After mentioning the name of Allāh (ﷻ), she drinks in two or three draughts. She does not breathe into the cup, nor does she drink from the mouth of the jug or bottle if she can help it. She should not breathe into her drink, and she should drink sitting down if she can.

Drinking in two or three draughts is what the Prophet (ﷺ) used to do, as Anas (رضي الله عنه) reported: "The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) used to breathe three times⁶¹⁵ when drinking." 616

The Prophet (ﷺ) discouraged drinking in one draught:

"Do not drink in one draught like camels do; drink in two or three. Mention the name of Allāh (ﷻ) when you drink, and give praise to Him when you finish drinking." 617

The Prophet (ﷺ) forbade blowing into one's drink, as is mentioned in the ḥadīth of Abū Sa'īd al-Khudrī:

"A man said, 'I see some dirt in it.' The Prophet (ﷺ) said, 'Then pour it out.' He said, 'One draught is not enough for me.' The Prophet (ﷺ) said, 'Take the cup away from your mouth, then take a breath.'" 618

The ḥadīth on the manners of drinking make it clear that it is better for the well-mannered Muslim woman to avoid drinking from the mouth of the bottle or jug if she can, and to drink sitting down if possible. This is preferable, but drinking from the mouth of the jug or while standing are permitted, because the Prophet (ﷺ) did so on occasion.

Spreading the Greeting of Islām

One of the distinctive aspects of the Muslim woman's social conduct is her insistence on the greeting of Islām, which she gives to every Muslim man and woman she meets, in accordance with the rules of giving salām outlined by Islām, which command us to spread salām in a number of āyāt and ḥadīths.

612 Fath al-Bārī, 9/580, Kitāb al-at'imah, bāb ma yaqul idha faragha min ta'āmihi.

613 Reported by Abū Dāwūd, 4/63, Kitāb al-libās, chapter 1; and Tirmidhī, 5/508, Kitāb al-dā'wat, 56. He said it is a ḥasan ḥadīth.

614 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 11/290, Kitāb al-at'imah, bāb la yu'ib al-ta'ām.

615 i.e., he would pause and take a breath outside the cup. [Author]

616 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyād al-Ṣāliḥīn, 406, Kitāb ad'āb al-ta'ām, bāb fi ad'āb al-sharab.

617 Reported by Tirmidhī, 4/302, Kitāb al-ashribah, 13. He said it is a ḥasan ḥadīth.

618 Reported by Tirmidhī, 4/304, Kitāb al-ashribah, 15. He said it is a ḥasan ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth

In Islām, greeting with salām is a clearly defined etiquette which has been commanded by Almighty Allāh (ﷻ) in His Book, and rules and regulations concerning this greeting have been set out in numerous ḥadīth to which the scholars of ḥadīth devoted entire chapters called Kitāb al-salām or Bāb al-salām.

Allāh (ﷻ) commanded the Muslims to greet one another with salām in clear, definitive terms in the Qur’ān:

﴿O you who believe! Enter not houses other than your own, until you have asked permission and saluted those in them...﴾ (Qur’ān 24: 27)

Allāh (ﷻ) commanded the Muslims to return the greeting with something similar or something better, hence it is an obligation on the one who hears a greeting to return it, and not to ignore it:

﴿When a [courteous] greeting is offered you, meet it with a greeting still more courteous, or [at least] of equal courtesy...﴾ (Qur’ān 4: 86)

The Prophet (ﷺ) strongly encouraged the Muslims to spread salām and to greet those they know and those they do not know. ‘Abdullāh ibn ‘Amr ibn al-‘Āṣ (رضي الله عنه) said:

“A man asked the Prophet (ﷺ), ‘Which type of Islām is the best?’ He said, ‘To feed people, and to say salām to those you know and those you do not know.’” 619

Greeting with salām is one of the seven things which the Prophet (ﷺ) commanded his Companions, and the Muslim ummah after them, to adhere to. They were listed by Al-Barrā’ ibn ‘Āzib (رضي الله عنه):

“The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) commanded us to do seven things: to visit the sick, to attend funerals, to bless someone when he sneezes, to support the weak, to help the one who is oppressed, to spread salām, and to help people fulfil their oaths.” 620

The Prophet (ﷺ) placed great emphasis on salām and encouraged Muslims to use this greeting in many ḥadīths, because he understood its effects in spreading brotherly love and strengthening the ties of love, closeness and friendship between individuals and groups. He described it as something which would lead to love, and love would lead to faith, and faith would lead to Paradise:

“By the One in Whose hand is my soul, you will not enter Paradise until you believe, and you will not believe until you love one another. Shall I not tell you of something which if you do it, you will love one another? Spread salām amongst yourselves.” 621

He (ﷺ) also said that the one who initiated the greeting would be closer to Allāh (ﷻ) and more deserving of His pleasure, favour and blessing: “The closest of the people to Allāh (ﷻ) is the one who starts the greeting of salām.” 622

‘Abdullāh ibn ‘Umar (رضي الله عنه) used to go to the market in the morning, and he did not pass by anybody without saying salām to him. One day he was asked, “What do you do in the market, when you do not sell anything, or ask about prices, or haggle, or join any gatherings?” He said, “We go there in the morning for the purpose of saying salām to whoever we meet.” 623

In Islām, greeting with salām is not considered to be the matter of a social custom defined by men, that may be changed and adapted according to time and circumstances. Greeting with salām is a clearly-defined etiquette which has been commanded by Almighty Allāh (ﷻ) in His Book, and rules and regulations concerning this greeting have been set out, as described above.

There is only one form of the greeting, to which Muslim men and women who are aware of Islāmic manners and are keen to apply Islāmic teachings adhere. It is: “Al-salāmu ‘alaykum wa raḥmatullāhi wa barakātuhu [peace be upon you, and the mercy and blessings of Allāh (ﷻ)].” The man or woman who is 619 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 12/260, Kitāb al-isti’dhan, bāb fadl al-salām.

620 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyādh al-Ṣāliḥīn, 437, Kitāb al-salām, bāb fadl al-salām; this wording is taken from a report narrated by Bukhārī.

621 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 2/35, Kitāb al-īmān, bāb bayān annahu la yadkhul al-jannah illa al-mu’minūn.

622 Reported with a Jayyid isnād by Abū Dāwūd, 5/380, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb fi fadl man bada’a al-salām.

623 Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 2/465, Bāb man kharaja yusallim wa yusallam ‘alayhī.

initiating the greeting says it like this - in the plural form - even if he or she is greeting only one person. The man or woman thus addressed responds: 'Wa 'alaykum al-salām wa raḥmatullāhi wa barakātuhu.'" 624

The Muslim woman who is keen to be distinguished by her Islāmic identity adheres to this blessed form of greeting, which is the original greeting of Islām, and does not substitute any other kind of greeting.

This correct Islāmic greeting should not be replaced by other greetings, such as the old-fashioned Arabic greeting "Imm sabaḥan," or modern greetings such as "Sabaḥ al-khayr," "good morning," or "Bonjour" (in Arabic, English and French, respectively), and other usages which are spreading in the Muslim societies that have deviated from the guidance of Islām.

This Islāmic greeting is the greeting which Allāh (ﷻ) chose for His creation from the time of Ādam, to whom He taught it and commanded him to greet the angels with it. He wanted Ādam's descendants in all times and places to use this greeting, because of its meaning of peace which is something most beloved by man regardless of where or when he lives. This divinely-ordained greeting is preserved nowhere except in the ummah of Islām which has adhered to the true way and has not changed it or deviated from it. The Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"When Allāh (ﷻ) created Ādam (ﷺ), He told him, 'Go and greet those' - a group of angels who were sitting - 'and listen to how they greet you, for it will be your greeting and that of your descendants. So he said: 'Al-salāmu 'alaykum,' and they responded, 'Wa 'alayka al-salāmu wa raḥmatullāh.' They added 'Wa raḥmatullāh.'" 625

No wonder this form is such a blessed greeting, for it comes from Allāh (ﷻ), Who commanded us to adopt it as our greeting and never to replace it with anything else:

﴿But if you enter houses, salute each other - a greeting or blessing and purity as from Allāh... ﴾ (Qur'ān 24: 61)

Therefore Jibrīl (ﷺ) used this form of the greeting when he greeted 'Āishah. She used the same form in returning the greeting. This is reported in the ḥadīth from 'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her):

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) told me: 'This is Jibrīl who is saying salām to you.' She said, I said: 'Wa 'alayhi al-salāmu wa raḥmatullāhi wa barakātuhu [and upon him be peace and the mercy and blessings of Allāh (ﷻ)]'" 626

There are also rules concerning the greeting of salām, which the true Muslim tries to adhere to and apply properly in his or her own social life. These rules are summed up in the ḥadīth reported by Bukhārī and others from Abū Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه):

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said: 'The one who is riding should say salām to the one who is walking, the one who is walking to the one who is sitting, and the smaller group to the larger group.'"627 A report narrated by Bukhārī adds the words "And the young to the old." 628

The greeting is given to men and women alike, as Asnā bint Yazīd (May Allāh be pleased with her) reported that the Prophet (ﷺ) passed by the mosque one day when a group of women were sitting there and he waved his hand to them in greeting.629

The greeting is also to be given to children, to acquaint them with the manners of greeting and giving salām. It is reported that Anas (رضي الله عنه) passed by some children and greeted them with salām, then said, "The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) used to do that." 630

624 The greeting should always be spoken in Arabic, regardless of whatever one's native tongue is or whatever language is being spoken at any given time. [Translator]

625 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyād al-Ṣaliḥīn, 437, Kitāb al-salām, bāb fi faḍl al-salām.

626 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyād al-Ṣaliḥīn, 439, Kitāb al-salām, bāb kayfiyyah al-salām.

627 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyād al-Ṣaliḥīn, 440, Kitāb al-salām, bāb fi adāb al-salām.

628 Reported by Bukhārī. See Riyād al-Ṣaliḥīn, 44, Kitāb al-salām, bāb fi adāb al-salām.

629 Reported by Tirmidhī, 5/58, in Kitāb al-isti'dhan, bāb ma ja' ā fi 'l-taslim 'ala 'l-nisā'. He said it is a ḥasan ḥadīth.

630 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyād al-Ṣaliḥīn, 442, Kitāb al-salām, bāb al-salām 'ala 'l-subyan.

When the greeting is given at night, it should be spoken softly and in a quiet voice, so that those who are awake might hear it without disturbing those who are asleep. This is what the Prophet (ﷺ) used to do, according to the lengthy ḥadīth of Al-Miqdād (رضي الله عنه) in which he says:

"We used to put aside the Prophet's share of the milk and he would come at night and greet us in such a way as not to wake those who were asleep, but those who were awake would hear it. So the Prophet (ﷺ) came and greeted us as he usually did..." 631

Salām should be given when joining a gathering and when leaving it. The Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"When any one of you comes to a gathering, let him say salām, and when he wants to leave, let him say salām. The former is not more important than the latter." 632

The Muslim woman who is distinguished by her true Islām manners understands the sublime teachings of the Prophet (ﷺ) concerning the greeting of salām and its etiquette. She follows this etiquette precisely in her private and social life, and encourages others to do likewise.

She Does Not Enter a House Other Than Her Own Without Permission

The Muslim woman who is truly guided by Islām does not enter a house other than her own without seeking permission and saying salām to the people who live there. This seeking permission is a divine commandment, which is not to be evaded or ignored:

﴿O you who believe! Enter not houses other than your own, until you have asked permission and saluted those in them: that is best for you, in order that you may heed [what is seemly]. If you find no one in the house, enter not until permission is given to you: if you are asked to go back, go back: that makes for greater purity for yourselves: and Allāh knows well all that you do. But when the children among you come of age, let them [also] ask for permission, as do those senior to them [in age]﴾ (Qur'ān 24: 27-28 and 59)

The Muslim woman should never even think of seeking permission to enter a house that she is not permitted to enter, such as a house where there are only non-maḥram men present. When she seeks permission to enter, it is to go to where there are other women or men who are permitted to see her (i.e. maḥram), and no one else - in accordance with the commands of Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger.

There are certain manners in seeking permission which Islām urges Muslim men and women to follow whenever they want to visit somebody:

(1) The woman who is seeking permission to enter should not stand squarely in front of the door, but to the right or left of it. This is what the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) used to do. 'Abdullāh ibn Busr, the Companion of the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"Whenever the Prophet (ﷺ) came to a door seeking permission to enter, he did not stand facing it; he would stand to the right or the left. If he was given permission, he would enter, otherwise he would leave." 633

The rule of seeking permission has been given to protect privacy, as Sahl ibn Ṣa'd (رضي الله عنه) reported that the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"Seeking permission has been made a rule for the sake of not seeing⁶³⁴" 635

Therefore the man or woman who is seeking permission is not allowed to stand facing the door, as this would allow him or her to see inside when the door is opened.

(2) She should say salām and then ask for permission. Seeking permission before saying salām is incorrect. This is the teaching of the Prophet (ﷺ) as given in the ḥadīth of Rib'ī ibn Hirash who said:

631 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 14/14, Kitāb al-ashribah, bāb ikrām al-dayf. See also Riyād al-Ṣaliḥīn, 439.

632 Reported by Abū Dāwūd, 5/386, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb fi'l-salām; Tirmidhī, 5/62, Kitāb al-isti'dhan, 15. Tirmidhī said it is a ḥasan ḥadīth.

633 Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 2/513, Bāb kayfa yaqūm 'ind al-bāb.

634 i.e., so that the one seeking permission will not see anything that the people whose house it is, do not want him to see. [Translator]

635 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyād al-Ṣaliḥīn, 445, Kitāb al-salām, bāb al-isti'dhan wa adabihī.

"A man of Banū 'Āmir told us that he had sought permission to enter upon the Prophet (ﷺ), who was in a house. He said, 'Shall I get in?' The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) told his servant, 'Go out to this person and teach him how to seek permission to enter. Tell him to say 'Al-salām 'alaykum, may I enter?'" The man heard, so he said 'Al-salām 'alaykum, may I enter?' Then the Prophet (ﷺ) gave him permission and he entered." 636

(3) She should identify herself clearly when asked "Who are you?" by giving her name or kunyah. She should not reply in vague terms, such as "It is me." The Prophet (ﷺ) disliked such an answer from a person knocking at the door, as such words do not give a clear idea of the person's identity. He said that a person should state his or her name clearly when asking to come in.

Jābir (رضي الله عنه) said: "I came to the Prophet (ﷺ) and knocked at the door. He said, 'Who is this?' I answered, 'Me,' and he said, 'Me? Me?' as if he disliked this answer." 637

The Prophet (ﷺ) thus taught us that the sunnah when seeking permission to enter is to state one's name clearly. This is what he and his noble companions used to do. Abū Dharr (رضي الله عنه) said:

"I went out one night and saw the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) walking on his own. I began to walk in the shadows cast by the moonlight. He turned around and saw me, so he said, 'Who is this?' and I said, 'Abū Dharr.'" 638

Umm Hanī' (May Allāh be pleased with her) said:

"I came to the Prophet's house while he was having ghusl. Fāṭimah was screening him and he said, 'Who is this?' I said, 'I am Umm Hanī'.'" 639

(4) She should go back if she is asked to do so, without getting upset or angry. This is the commandment of Allāh (ﷻ) in the Qur'ān:

﴿If you are asked to go back, go back: that makes for greater purity for yourselves: and Allāh knows well all that you do.﴾ (Qur'ān 24: 28)

The Prophet (ﷺ) taught that permission to enter should only be sought three times, then if permission is given one may enter, otherwise one should go back. Abū Mūsa al-Ash'arī (رضي الله عنه) said:

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said: 'Seek permission to enter three times, then if permission is given to you, enter, otherwise go back.'" 640

Abū Mūsa once asked 'Umar (رضي الله عنه) for permission to enter, and it was not given, so he went away. 'Umar called him to come back, and they had a lengthy conversation about seeking permission and going away. It is useful to quote this conversation, to demonstrate how meticulous the Ṣaḥābah were in finding out the teachings of the Prophet (ﷺ) and in applying them. Abu Mūsa said:

"I sought permission to enter upon 'Umar three times, and permission was not given, so I went away. 'Umar called me back and said: 'O slave of Allāh (ﷻ), did you find it hard to be kept waiting at my door? You should know that people find it just as hard to be kept waiting at your door.' I said, 'No, I asked permission from you three times and it was not given, so I went away [and we were commanded to do this].' He said, 'From whom did you hear this?' I said, 'I heard it from the Prophet (ﷺ).' He said, 'Have you heard something from the Prophet (ﷺ) that we have not heard? If you do not bring some evidence for this I will make an example of you.' So I went out until I came to a group of the Anṣār who were sitting in the mosque. I asked them about it and they said, 'Does anyone doubt you concerning this?' So I told them what 'Umar had said. They said, 'No one but the youngest of us will come with you.' So Abū Sa'īd al-Khudrī - or Abū Mas'ūd - came with me to 'Umar, and told him, 'We went out with the Prophet (ﷺ) to visit Sa'd ibn 'Ubadah. When we got there, [the Prophet (ﷺ)] said salām, but no permission to enter was given. He said salām a second and a third time, but no

636 Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 2/518, Bāb idha qala: udkhul? wa lam yusallim; See also Riyād al-Ṣaliḥīn, 445.

637 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyād al-Ṣaliḥīn, 447, Kitāb al-salām, bāb fi bayān an al-sunnah an yusammi al-musta'dhin nafsahu.

638 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyād al-Ṣaliḥīn, 447, Kitāb al-salām, bāb fi bayān an al-sunnah an yusammi al-musta'dhin nafsahu.

639 Ibid.

640 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyād al-Ṣaliḥīn, 445, Kitāb al-salām, bāb fi 'l-isti'dhān wa adabihī.

permission was given. He said, 'We have done what we had to,' then he went away. Sa'd came after him and said, 'O Messenger of Allāh, by the One Who sent you with the truth, you did not say salām but I heard you and returned the greeting, but I wanted to increase the number of times you said salām to me and my household.'" Abū Mūsā said: "By Allāh (ﷻ), I was being honest in what I reported of the words of the Messenger of Allāh. He ('Umar) said: 'I agree, but I wanted to be sure.'" 641

In another report narrated by Muslim, it states that when this ḥadīth was proven, 'Umar rebuked himself, as it were, by saying "Was any teaching of the Messenger of Allāh hidden from me? My business in the market kept me busy." 642

These are the Islāmic rules and manners pertaining to seeking permission to enter a house. No doubt the true Muslim woman who is keen to follow Islāmic etiquette will apply these rules in her everyday life, each time she knocks on a door to seek permission to enter, and she will also teach these manners to her sons and daughters.

She Sits Wherever She Finds Room in a Gathering

Another aspect of the manners of the true Muslim woman is that she sits wherever she finds room when she joins a gathering where other women have arrived before her and found a place to sit. This is a refined social etiquette that is derived from the example, in word and deed, of the Prophet (ﷺ), and is a sign of good taste, sensitivity and politeness in the person who adopts it.

Such a refined Muslim woman does not force her way through the group of women who are sitting, or push them aside in order to force them to make space for her. This is in accordance with the teachings of the Prophet (ﷺ) which he taught his Companions to adopt when they joined his gathering.

Jābir ibn Samurah (رضي الله عنه) said:

"When we came to the Prophet (ﷺ), we would sit wherever we found room." 643

The well-mannered Muslim woman avoids pushing between two people, and comes between them only with their permission, if it is necessary to do so. Pushing between two people without their permission is something which the Prophet (ﷺ) forbade and warned against:

"It is not permitted for a man to come between two people except with their permission." 644

Pushing between two people, whether in a gathering or in other circumstances, is odd behaviour which Islām has made clearly disliked. Muslims are to avoid such behaviour. There are many ḥadīths and athar (reports) to that effect; these reports are narrated in the masculine form, as they were spoken to the men who were usually around the Prophet (ﷺ), to remind them of correct Islāmic manners, but these rules apply equally to women. The laws and commandments of Islām are addressed to all Muslims, and both men and women are responsible for obeying its commands and following its guidance.

One of these reports is that of Sa'īd al-Maqbarī who said:

"I passed by Ibn 'Umar and there was a man with him talking to him. I stood by them, and Ibn 'Umar slapped my chest and said: 'If you find two people talking, do not stand by them and do not sit with them, until you have asked their permission.' I said, 'May Allāh (ﷻ) guide you, O Abū 'Abdul-Raḥmān! I only hoped to hear something good from you both.'" 645

If someone gets up to let her sit in her place, she should not accept. This is better and more noble, and it is closer to the practice of the Ṣaḥābah, may Allāh be pleased with them. Ibn 'Umar (رضي الله عنه) said:

641 Fatḥ al-Bārī, 11/26, Kitāb al-isti'dhān, bāb al-taslim wa'l-isti'dhan; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 14/130, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb al-isti'dhān.

642 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 14/134, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb al-isti'dhān.

643 Reported by Abū Dāwūd, 5/164, in Kitāb al-isti'dhān, 16, and Tirmidhī, 5/73, Kitāb al-isti'dhān, 29. Tirmidhī said it is a ḥasan ṣaḥīḥ gharib ḥadīth.

644 Reported by Abū Dāwūd, 5/175, Kitāb al-adāb, 24, and Tirmidhī, 5/44, Kitāb al-adāb, 11. Tirmidhī said it is a ḥasan ḥadīth.

645 Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 2/580, Bāb idha ra'a qawman yatanajuna fala yudkhu ma'ahum.

“The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) said: ‘None of you should make another get up then sit in his place. All of you should move up and make space (for a latecomer).’ 646 If anyone stood up to give his place to him, Ibn ‘Umar would never accept it.647

On such occasions, the Muslim woman always abides by the guidance of Islām and the conduct of the Ṣaḥābah, may Allāh be pleased with them. So she attains the social manners that are encouraged by Islām, and earns the reward of Allāh (ﷻ) for following the Sunnah of His Prophet (ﷺ).

She Does Not Converse Privately With Another Woman When a Third is Present

Islām came to form human beings who are sensitive and civil, with an awareness and understanding of the feelings of others. Therefore Islām has set out social and moral guidelines that are at the heart of this religion, and we are commanded to follow these guidelines and apply them in our own lives.

One of the guidelines laid down by the Prophet (ﷺ) is that two people should not talk privately between themselves when a third person is present:

“If you are three, two should not converse privately to the exclusion of the other, until more people join you, because that will make him sad.” 648

The Muslim woman whose solid grounding in Islāmic teaching has given her intelligence, sensitivity and good manners, avoids whispering and conversing privately when she is in a group of no more than three women. She is careful not to hurt the feelings of the third woman, lest she feel excluded and offended. If there is an urgent need for two of them to converse privately, then they must ask the permission of the third woman, speak briefly, then apologize to her.

This is the attitude of the Muslim woman who is truly guided by Islām, and this is the civil way in which she deals with other women. She learns all this from the teachings of Islām and the stories of the Ṣaḥābah, whose lives and manners were so completely permeated with the teachings and morals of Islām, that they never ignored these sensitive issues in their dealings with people. This is reflected in many reports which describe their careful respect for human feelings. An example is the report given by Imām Mālik in Al-Muwattā’, from ‘Abdullāh ibn Dinār who said:

“Ibn ‘Umar and I were at the house of Khālid ibn ‘Uqbah, which was in the market, when a man came in wanting to speak to him (Ibn ‘Umar) in private. I was the only other person present, so Ibn ‘Umar called another man to make our number up to four. Then he told me and the newcomer, ‘Move a little way off together, for I heard the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) saying, “Two should not converse privately to the exclusion of the third.”’” 649

The Muslim woman who is truly guided by the teachings of Islām and the way in which the best of generations (i.e. the Ṣaḥābah) applied them follows the example of Ibn ‘Umar (رضي الله عنه), who did not want to listen to a man who had come in off the street suddenly to converse with him in private, because he knew that there was a third person present whose feelings could be hurt if he asked him to move away on his own. He waited to listen to the man who wanted to converse in private, until he had called a fourth man, then he explained to all of them that this was the sunnah of the Prophet (ﷺ), and repeated the ḥadīth to them, reminding the Muslims that this is the approach they should take when they find themselves in such situations, respecting people’s feelings and following the sunnah of the Prophet (ﷺ).

How fine are the social manners encouraged by Islām! How great is the honour which Islām bestows upon human beings and the respect and consideration it shows towards their feelings!

646 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 12/296, 297, Kitāb al-isti’dhān, bāb la yuqim al-rajul min majlisihi idha hadara.

647 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 14/161, Kitāb al-salām, bāb taḥrīm iqāmah al-insān min mawdu’ihī.

648 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 13/90, Kitāb al-birr wa’l-silah, bāb la yunājā ithnān duna al-thālith.

649 Al-Muwattā’, 2/988, Kitāb al-kalām (6).

She Respects Elders and Distinguished People

Islām brought a host of fine social rules which instil an attitude of chivalry, nobility, good manners and politeness in the heart of the Muslim. One of the most prominent of these teachings is to give due respect to elders and those who are deserving of respect (such as scholars, etc.)

The Muslim woman who is truly guided by Islām does not neglect to follow this most essential, basic Islāmic ruling, which gives the Muslim woman her genuine identity in the Islāmic society. Whoever lacks this quality forfeits his or her membership in this community and no longer has the honour of belonging to the ummah of Islām, as the Prophet (ﷺ) stated:

"He does not belong to my ummah who does not honour our elders, show compassion to our young ones, and pay due respect to our scholars." 650

Respect for elders and giving them priority over those who are younger, are indications of a community's or society's level of civility, of its members' understanding of the rules of human morality, and of their high level of good manners. This is just as true of women as it is of men. Hence the Prophet (ﷺ) was keen to reinforce this understanding in the hearts of the Muslims, whilst he was raising the structure of the Islāmic society. Among the evidence of his concern to achieve this are his words to 'AbduRahmān ibn Sahl, who was speaking although he was the youngest member of the delegation that had come to the Prophet (ﷺ). The Prophet (ﷺ) told him, "Let someone who is older than you speak, let someone who is older than you speak." So AbduRahmān fell silent, and someone who was older than him spoke.⁶⁵¹

When the modern Muslim woman shows respect to a lady who is older than her, or honours a woman who is deserving of respect, she is doing a worthwhile moral duty that in fact is a part of worship, because honouring one's elders and those who are distinguished is part of glorifying Allāh (ﷻ), as the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"Part of glorifying Allāh (ﷻ) is honouring the grey-haired (i.e., older) Muslim, the one who has learnt the Qur'ān by heart without exaggerating about it or ignoring its teachings, and honouring the just ruler." 652

By behaving in this way, the Muslim woman follows the command of the Prophet (ﷺ) to give people their rightful positions in the Islāmic society. Imām Muslim mentions this at the beginning of his Ṣaḥīḥ, where he says:

"It was reported that 'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) said, 'The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) ordered us to put people in their rightful positions.'" 653

The Muslim woman should not forget that giving people their rightful position means recognizing their positions and giving priority to elders, scholars, those who have memorised the Qur'ān, those who are wise and those who are distinguished, whether they are men or women.

She Does Not Look into Other People's Houses

Another of the qualities of the well-mannered Muslim woman is that she does not look around the home of her host or seek to inspect its contents. This is not behaviour that befits the wise, decent Muslim woman; it is a hateful, undesirable attitude. The Prophet (ﷺ) warned those who let their gaze wander in gatherings and try to see things that are none of their business, and he said that it was permissible to pluck their eyes out:

"Whoever looks into someone's home without their permission, then it is permissible for the people of the house to pluck their eyes out."⁶⁵⁴

650 Reported with a ḥasan isnād by Aḥmad and Aṭ-Ṭabarānī. See Majmā' al-Zawā'id, 8/14, bāb tawfīr al-kabīr wa raḥmat al-saghīr.

651 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyād al-Ṣāliḥīn, 207, Bāb tawfīr al-'ulama' wa'l-kibār wa ahl al-faḍl.

652 A ḥasan ḥadīth narrated by Abū Dāwūd, 5/184, Kitāb al-adāb, 23.

653 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 1/55

654 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 14/138, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb tahhīm al-nazr fī bayt ghayrihī.

She Avoids Yawning in a Gathering as Much as She Can

The Muslim woman who is sensitive and well-mannered does not yawn in a gathering if she can help it. If the urge to yawn overtakes her, then she tries to resist it as much as possible. This is what the Prophet (ﷺ) advised:

"If any of you wants to yawn, then let him suppress it as much as possible."⁶⁵⁵

If the urge to yawn cannot be resisted, then she should cover her mouth with her hand, as the Prophet (ﷺ) commanded:

"If any of you yawns, let him cover his mouth with his hand so that the Shayṭān does not enter."⁶⁵⁶

Yawning in front of others is unpleasant and off-putting. It does not befit the decent person. Therefore he or she must resist the urge to yawn, or at least cover his or her open mouth with his or her hand, so that the others present need not see it. The Prophet (ﷺ) taught the Muslims, men and women, how to behave properly in a social setting so that they will not put people off or make them feel that they are bored with them and want to leave them or want them to leave. This is the way in which the polite Muslim woman who follows Islāmic etiquette conducts herself.

She Follows Islāmic Etiquette When She Sneezes

It is no secret to the Muslim woman that just as Islām has defined the manners governing the act of yawning in gatherings, it has also defined the etiquette to be observed when one sneezes. Islām teaches the Muslims, men and women, how they should behave when they sneeze, what they should say to the one who sneezes, and how they should pray for him or her.

Abū Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه) said:

"The Prophet (ﷺ) said: 'Allāh (ﷻ) likes the act of sneezing and dislikes the act of yawning. When any one of you sneezes and says "Al-ḥamdu-lillāh", then he has the right to hear every Muslim say "Yarḥamuk Allāh.'" But yawning is from the Shayṭān, so if any of you feels the urge to yawn, he should resist it as much as he can, for when any of you yawns, the Shayṭān laughs at him."⁶⁵⁷

This simple reflex action does not occur in the Muslim's life without being regulated by certain manners which make the Muslims feel, in the depths of their heart, that this religion came to reform all issues in this life, great and small alike, and to give them certain words to say which would constantly connect humanity to Allāh (ﷻ), the Rabb of the Worlds.

When a Muslim woman sneezes, she should say "Al-ḥamdu lillāh," and the one who hears her should say, "Yarḥamuk Allāh." Then she must respond to her sister's du'ā' by saying "yahdikum Allāh wa yusliḥ balākum (may Allāh guide you and correct your affairs)." This is the teaching of the Prophet (ﷺ) according to the ḥadīth narrated by Bukhārī:

"When any one of you sneezes, let him say 'Al-ḥamdu lillāh,' and let his brother or companions say 'Yarḥamuk Allāh.' And if he says 'Yarḥamuk Allāh,' let the first one say, 'Yahdikum Allāh wa yusliḥ balākum.'"⁶⁵⁸

This du'ā', Yarḥamuk Allāh, is said to the one who sneezes in response to his or her saying Al-ḥamdu lillāh. If he or she does not say Al-ḥamdu lillāh, then there is no obligation to respond in this way. The Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"When any of you sneezes and praises Allāh (ﷻ), then respond to him [by saying yarḥamuk Allāh], but if he ⁶⁵⁵ Faḥ al-Bārī, 10/611, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb idha tatha'ab fa layada' yadahu 'ala fihī, Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 18/123, Kitāb al-zuhd, bāb kirahah al-tatha'ub.

⁶⁵⁶ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 18/122, Kitāb al-zuhd, bāb kirahah al-tatha'ub.

⁶⁵⁷ Faḥ al-Bārī, 10/611, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb idha tatha'ab fa layada' yadahu 'ala fihī

⁶⁵⁸ Faḥ al-Bārī, 10/608, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb idha tatha'ab fa layada' yadahu 'ala fihī

does not praise Allāh (ﷻ), then do not respond to him." 659

Anas (رضي الله عنه) said:

"Two men sneezed in the presence of the Prophet (ﷺ), and he responded to one of them and not the other. The one to whom he did not respond said, 'So-and-so sneezed and you responded. I sneezed and you did not respond.' He said, 'He praised Allāh (ﷻ), but you did not.'" 660

Discussing these words which the Prophet (ﷺ) encouraged the Muslims to say when someone sneezes highlights their ultimate aim, which is to mention and praise Allāh (ﷻ), and to strengthen the ties of brotherhood and friendship among all Muslims, men and women. The one who sneezes praises Allāh (ﷻ) for relief from some sensitivity or irritation which he had in his nose, and the one who hears him praise Allāh (ﷻ) prays for mercy for him, because the one who praises Allāh (ﷻ) deserves mercy. The one who sneezes then responds with a longer and more comprehensive du'ā' which is full of meanings of goodness, love and friendship.

Thus Islām takes these involuntary actions of Muslims and makes them into opportunities for remembering and praising Allāh (ﷻ) and reinforcing the feelings of brotherhood (and sisterhood), love and compassion in their hearts.

Another of the good manners to be observed when sneezing is to place one's hand over one's mouth and to make as little noise as possible. This is what the Prophet (ﷺ) used to do. Abū Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه) said, "When the Messenger of Allāh (ﷻ) sneezed, he used to place his hand or part of his garment over his mouth and thus reduce the noise he made." 661

The well-mannered Muslim woman who is aware of Islāmic etiquette does not forget, in such situations where a person may be taken by surprise, to conduct herself in the manner prescribed by the Prophet (ﷺ) and to use the same words that he is reported to have used when he sneezed. This is the etiquette to be observed, in obedience to the words of the Prophet (ﷺ), whenever she or another person sneezes, or in response to a sister who "blesses" her (says Yarhamuk Allāh) when she sneezes.

She Does Not Seek the Divorce of Another Woman so That She May Take her Place

The true Muslim woman feels that she is living in a Muslim community, whose members are her brothers and sisters. In such a divinely-guided community, cheating, deceit, treachery and all the other vile attitudes that are rampant in societies that have deviated from the guidance of Allāh (ﷻ), are forbidden.

One of the worst of these attitudes is that of the woman who looks at a married man with the intention of snatching him from his wife once they are divorced so that he will be all hers. The true Muslim woman is the furthest removed from this vile attitude, which the Prophet (ﷺ) forbade when he forbade a numbers of other, similarly evil attitudes and practices. We see this in the ḥadīth narrated by Bukhārī and Muslim from Abū Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه), who said:

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷻ) said: 'Do not outbid one another (in order to raise prices artificially)662; do not undercut one another 663; a town-dweller should not sell something on behalf of a bedouin664; a man should not propose to a woman to whom his brother has already proposed; a woman should not ask for the divorce of another so that she might deprive her of everything that belongs to her665 "' 666

According to a report narrated by Bukhārī, also from Abū Hurayrah, the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

659 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 18/121, Kitāb al-zuhd, bāb tashmiyat al-'ā'ish.

660 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyāḍ al-Ṣaḥīḥīn, 448, Kitāb al-salām, bāb istiḥbāb tashmiyat al-'ā'ish.

661 Reported by Abū Dāwūd, 5/288, Kitāb al-adāb, 98; Tirmidhī, 5/86, Kitāb al-adāb, 6. Tirmidhī said it is a ḥasan ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth.

662 i.e., a person should not raise the price of something he has no intention of buying, in order to mislead another. [Author]

663 i.e., do not ask a person to return something he has bought so that you may sell him something similar for a lower price. [Author]

664 i.e., he should not act as an agent for him, controlling prices in a way that harms the community. [Author]

665 i.e., she should not ask a man to divorce his wife and marry her instead, so that she will enjoy all the comforts and good treatment that were previously enjoyed by the one who is divorced. [Author]

666 Fatḥ al-Bārī, 4/352, 353, Kitāb al-buyu', bāb la yabi' 'ala bay' akhiḥī, Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 9/198, Kitāb al-nikāḥ, bāb taḥrīm khutbah al-rajul 'ala khutbah akhiḥī. This version is that narrated by Muslim.

"It is not permitted for a woman to ask for her sister's divorce so that she may take everything she has, for she will have what has been decreed for her." 667

The Muslim woman is the sister of another, and believes that what Allāh (ﷻ) has decreed for her must surely happen. She cannot be a true believer unless she likes for her sister what she likes for herself, as the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"None of you truly believes until he likes for his brother what he likes for himself." 668

The Muslim woman is protected by her knowledge and faith from falling into the trap of this sin. She is saved from such appalling error by her obedience to Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger, and by her acceptance of the high human values that Islām has made part of her nature. She does not avoid this sin only to be protected from the scandal that surrounds a woman who commits such a vile deed; a woman could conceal her evil schemes and thus be spared social blame, but she can never escape the punishment of Allāh (ﷻ), ﴿Who knows what is secret and what is yet more hidden.﴾ (Qur'ān 20: 7)

She Chooses the Work That Suits her Feminine Nature

Islām has spared women the burden of having to work to earn a living, and has made it obligatory on her father, brother, husband or other male relative to support her. So the Muslim woman does not seek work outside the home unless there is pressing financial need due to the lack of a relative or spouse to maintain her honourably, or her community needs her to work in a specialised area such as befits her feminine nature and will not compromise her honour or religion.

Islām has made it obligatory for a man to spend on his family, and has given him the responsibility of earning the costs of living, so that his wife may devote herself to being a wife and mother, creating a joyful and pleasant atmosphere in the home and organising and running its affairs.

This is the Islāmic view of woman and the family, and this is the Islāmic philosophy of marriage and family life.

The Western philosophy of women's role, the home, the family and children is based on the opposite of this. When a girl reaches a certain age - usually seventeen years old - neither her father, her brother nor any of her male relatives are obliged to support her. She has to look for work to support herself, and to save whatever she can to offer to her future husband. If she gets married, she has to help her husband with the expenses of the home and children. When she gets old, if she is still able to earn, she must continue to work to earn a living, even if her children are rich.

No doubt the wise Muslim woman understands the huge difference between the position of the Muslim woman and the position of women in the West. The Muslim woman is honoured, protected, and guaranteed a decent living; the Western woman works hard and is subjected to exhaustion and humiliation, especially when she reaches old age.

Since the end of the last century, Western thinkers have continually complained about the plight of Western women. They have warned their people about the impending collapse of Western civilization, due to women's going out to work, the disintegration of the family and the neglect of the children.

The great Islāmic da'ī Dr. Mustafā al-Sibā'ī, may Allāh have mercy on him, collected a number of comments by Western thinkers in his book Al-mar'ah bayna al-fiqh wa'l-qānūn (Woman between fiqh and law). These comments reflect the severe anger and deep anguish felt by those thinkers when they see how low the position of women in the West has become. We will look here at a few of these comments that give a vivid impression of the state of women in the West.

The French economic philosopher Jules Simon said: "Women have started to work in textile factories and printing presses, etc.... The government is employing them in factories, where they may earn a few francs. But on the other hand, this has utterly destroyed the bases of family life. Yes, the husband may benefit from his wife's earnings, but apart from that, his earnings have decreased because now she is competing with him for work."

667 Fatḥ al-Bārī, 9/219, Kitāb al-nikāḥ, bāb al-shurūṭ allatī la tukhall fi'l-nikāḥ.

668 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 13/60, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah, bāb yuḥibb li-akhiḥ mā yuḥibb li-nafsiḥ.

He also commented: “There are other, higher-class women, who work as book-keepers or store-keepers, or who are employed by the government in the field of education. Many of them work for the telegraph service, the post office, the railways or the Bank of France, but these positions are taking them away from their families completely.”⁶⁶⁹

“A woman must remain a woman, because with this quality she can find happiness or bring it to others. Let us reform the position of women, but let us not change them. Let us beware of turning them into men, because that would make them lose much, and we would lose everything. Nature 670 has done everything perfectly, so let us study it and try to improve it, and let us beware of anything that could take us away from its laws.”⁶⁷¹

The famous English writer Anna Ward said: “It is better for our daughters to work as servants in houses or like servants at home. This is better, and less disastrous than letting them work in factories, where a girl becomes dirty and her life is destroyed. I wish that our country was like the lands of the Muslims, where modesty, chastity and purity are like a garment. Servants and slaves there live the best life, where they are treated like the children of the house and no-one harms their honour. Yes, it is a source of shame for England that we make our daughters examples of promiscuity by mixing so much with men. Why do we not try to pursue that which makes a girl do work that agrees with her natural temperament, by staying at home, and leaving men’s work for the men, to keep her honour safe.”⁶⁷²

The Western woman envies the Muslim woman, and wishes that she could have some of the rights, honour, protection and stability that the Muslim woman enjoys. There are many proofs of this, some of which have been quoted above (see p 86 of origin). Another example is the comment of an Italian student of law at Oxford University, after she had heard something of the rights of women in Islām and how Islām gave women all kinds of respect by sparing her the obligation to earn a living so that she may devote herself to caring for her husband and family. This Italian girl said: “I envy the Muslim woman, and wish that I had been born in your country.”⁶⁷³

This reality sunk into the minds of the leaders of the women’s movement in the Arab world, especially those who were reasonable and fair. Salma al-Haffar al-Kazbari, who visited Europe and America more than once, commented in the Damascus newspaper Al-Ayyām (September 3, 1962), in response to Professor Shafiq Jabri’s remarks on the misery of the American woman in his book Arḍ al-siḥr (The land of magic):

“The well-travelled scholar noted, for example, that the Americans teach their children from a very early age to love machines and heroism in their games. He also remarked that the women have started to do men’s work, in car factories and street-cleaning, and he felt sorry for the misery of the woman who spends her youth and her life doing something that does not suit her feminine nature and attitude. What Professor Jābri has to say made me feel happy, because I came back from my own trip to the United States five years ago, feeling sorry for the plight of women to which they have been drawn by the currents of blind equality. I felt sorry for their struggle to earn a living, for they have even lost their freedom, that absolute freedom for which they strive for so long. Now they have become prisoners of machines and of time. It is too difficult to go back now, and unfortunately it is true that women have lost the dearest and best things granted to them by nature, by which I mean their femininity, and their happiness. Continuous, exhausting work has caused them to lose the small paradise, which is the natural refuge of men and women alike. Children cannot grow and flourish without the presence of a woman who stays at home with them. It is in the home and in the bosom of the family that the happiness of society and individuals rests; the family is the source of inspiration, goodness and genius.”

Throwing women into the battlefield of work, where they must compete with men to take their place or share their positions, when there is no need to do so and the interests of society as a whole do not require it, is indeed a grave mistake. It is a great loss that nations and peoples suffer from at times of decline, tribulation and error. The Muslim woman who is guided by the Qur’ān and Sunnah does not 669 Al-mar’ah bayna al-fiqh wa’l-qānūn, 176.

670 This is an atheistic Western expression, which refers to “nature” instead of Allāh the Creator, after the West turned its back on religion. [Author]

671 Al-mar’ah bayna al-fiqh wa’l-qānūn, 178.

672 Al-mar’ah bayna al-fiqh wa’l-qānūn, 179.

673 Al-mar’ah bayna al-fiqh wa’l-qānūn, 181.

accept to be thrown into that battlefield, and refuses to become some cheap commodity that is fought over by the greedy capitalists, or some gaudy doll whose company is enjoyed by immoral so-called men. She rejects, with fierce pride, that false “progress” that calls for women to come out uncovered, almost naked and adorned with make up, to work alongside men in offices. With this wise, balanced, honourable attitude, she is in fact doing a great service to her society and nation, by calling for an end to this ridiculous competition of women with men in the workplace, and the resulting corruption, neglect of the family, and waste of money. This is the best good deed a woman can do, as was reflected by the comments of the ruler of North Korea to the Women’s Union conference held in his country in 1981:

“We make women enter society, but the reason for that is definitely not a lack of workers. Frankly speaking, the burden borne now by the state because of women’s going out is greater than any benefits that may result from women’s going out to work.... So why do we want women to go out and be active in society? Because the main aim is to make women become revolutionary, so that they will become part of the working class through their social activity. Our party encourages women to go out and be active in revolutionising women and making them part of the working class, no matter how great a burden this places on the state.”

No doubt the truly-guided Muslim woman knows exactly where she stands when she realises the great difference between the laws of Islām and the laws of jāhiliyyah. So she chooses the laws of Allāh (ﷻ), and does not pay any attention to the nonsense calls of jāhiliyyah that come from here and there every so often:

﴿Do they then seek a judgement of [the Days of] Ignorance? But who, for a people whose faith is assured, can give better judgement than Allāh?﴾ (Qur’ān 5: 50)

She Does Not Imitate Men

The Muslim woman who is proud of her Islāmic identity does not imitate men at all, because she knows that for a woman to imitate men, or a man to imitate women, is forbidden by Islām. The wisdom and eternal law of Allāh (ﷻ) dictate that men have a character distinct from that of women, and vice versa. This distinction is essential for both sexes, because each of them has its own unique role to play in life. The distinction between the basic functions and roles of each sex is based on the differences in character between them; in other words, men and women have different characters and personalities.

Islām put things in order when it defined the role in life of both men and women, and directed each to do that for which they were created. Going against this divinely-ordained definition is a rebellion against the laws of nature according to which Allāh (ﷻ) created man, and is a distortion of the sound, original nature of man. This is surely abhorrent to both sexes, and nothing is more indicative of this than the fact that women despise those effeminate men who imitate women, and men despise those coarse, rough women who act like men. The universe cannot be cultivated and populated properly, and humanity cannot achieve true happiness, unless the sexes are clearly differentiated, so that each may appreciate and enjoy the unique character of the other, and both may work together to achieve those aims.

For all these reasons, Islāmic teachings issue a severe and clear warning to men who imitate women and women who imitate men.

Ibn ‘Abbās (رضي الله عنه) said:

“The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) cursed the men who act like women and the women who act like men.”
674

In another report, Ibn ‘Abbās said:

“The Prophet (ﷺ) cursed men who act effeminate and women who act like men, and said, ‘Expel them from your houses.’ The Prophet (ﷺ) expelled So-and-so [a man], and Abū Bakr expelled So-and-so [a woman].” 675

Abū Hurayrah (رضي الله عنه) said:

674 See Fatḥ al-Bārī, 10/332, Kitāb al-libās, bāb al-mutashabbihin bi'l-nisa' wa'l-mutashabbihat bi'l-rijāl.

675 See Fatḥ al-Bārī, 10/333, Kitāb al-libās, bāb ikhraj al-mutashabbihin bi'l-nisa' min al-buyūt.

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) cursed the man who dresses like a woman and the woman who dresses like a man." 676

When the Muslims were in good shape, governed by the sharī'ah of Allāh (ﷻ) and guided by the light of Islām, there was no trace of this problem of men and women resembling one another. But nowadays, when the light of Islām has dimmed in our societies, we find many young girls wearing tight, body-hugging trousers and unisex shirts, with uncovered heads and arms, who look like young men; and we find effeminate men, wearing chains of gold around their necks that dangle on their bare chests, and with long flowing hair that makes them look like young women. It is very difficult to tell the difference between them.

These shameful scenes, that may be seen in some Islāmic countries that have been overcome by Al-ghazwu al-fikrī (intellectual colonialism) and whose youth are spiritually defeated, are alien to the Islāmic ummah and its values and customs. They have come to us from both the corrupt West and faithless East, which have been overwhelmed by waves of hippies, existentialism, frivolity and nihilism, and other deviant ideas that have misguided humanity and caused great suffering, as they have led people far away from their true, sound nature (fiṭrah) and distorted them, bringing the worst problems and diseases to those people as a result.

We have also suffered from the fall-out of all this, which overtook the lives of men and women who deviated from the guidance of Allāh (ﷻ) in some Muslim countries after the collapse of the khilāfah and the disintegration of the ummah. Many Islāmic values were lost, and these deviant men and women became alienated from the ummah, rebelling against its true, original values and distinct character.

She Calls People to the Truth

The true Muslim woman understands that mankind was not created in vain, but was created to fulfil a purpose, which is to worship Allāh (ﷻ):

﴿I have only created Jinns and men, that they may serve Me.﴾ (Qur'ān 51: 56)

Worshipping Allāh (ﷻ) may be done through any positive, constructive action undertaken to cultivate and populate the world, to make the word of Allāh (ﷻ) supreme on earth, and to apply His laws in life. All of these constitute part of that truth to which Muslim men and women are required to call people.

Hence the true Muslim woman is aware of her duty to call as many other women as possible to the truth in which she believes, seeking thereby the great reward which Allāh (ﷻ) has promised those who sincerely call others to the truth, as the Prophet (ﷺ) said to 'Alī (رضي الله عنه):

"By Allāh (ﷻ), if Allāh (ﷻ) were to guide just one man through you it would be better for you than red camels." 677

A good word which the Muslim woman says to other women who are careless about matters of religion, or to a woman who has deviated from the guidance of Allāh (ﷻ), will have an effect on them, and will come back to the sister who calls others to Allāh (ﷻ) with a great reward that is worth more than red camels, which were the most precious and sought-after wealth among the Arabs at that time. In addition, a reward like that of the ones who are guided at her hands will also be given to her, as the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

"Whoever calls people to the truth will have a reward like that of those who follow him, without it detracting in the least from their reward." 678

The Muslim woman does not think little of whatever knowledge she has if she is calling other women to Allāh (ﷻ). It is sufficient for her to convey whatever knowledge she has learned, or heard from other peoples' preaching, even if it is just one āyah from the Book of Allāh (ﷻ). This is what the Prophet (ﷺ)

676 A ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth narrated by Abū Dāwūd, 4/86, Kitāb al-libās, 31; Ibn Ḥibbān (13) 63, Kitāb al-hizr wa'l-ibahah, bāb al-la'n.

677 Fatḥ al-Bārī, 7/476, Kitāb al-maghazi, bab ghazwah Khaybar.

678 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/227, Kitāb al-'ilm, bāb man sanna sunnah ḥasanah.

used to tell his Companions to do: "Convey (knowledge) from me even if it is just one āyah " 679

This is because whether or not a person is guided may depend on just one word of this āyah which may touch her heart and ignite the spark of faith, so that her heart and her life will be illuminated with the light of guidance.

The Muslim woman who is calling others to Allāh (ﷻ) does not spare any effort in calling other women to the truth - and how great is the need for this call in these times - seeking the pleasure of Allāh (ﷻ) and spreading awareness among those women who were not fortunate enough to receive this teaching and guidance previously, and thus proving that she likes for her sister what she likes for herself. These are the characteristics of the woman who calls others to Allāh (ﷻ), that distinguish her from ordinary women. They are noble, worthy characteristics that were highly praised and encouraged by the Prophet (ﷺ):

"May Allāh (ﷻ) make his face shine, the one who hears something from us and conveys it as he hears it, for perhaps the one to whom it is conveyed will understand it better than the one who conveyed it."680

The Muslim woman who is truly guided by the Qur'ān and Sunnah is like a lighted lamp that shows travellers the way on the darkest night. She cannot conceal her light from her sisters who are stumbling in the darkness when she has seen the great reward that Allāh (ﷻ) has prepared for true, sincere callers to the truth.

She Enjoins What is Good and Forbids What is Evil

The duty of enjoining what is good and forbidding what is evil (Al-amr bi'l-ma'rūf wa'l-nahy 'an al-munkar) is not confined only to men; it applies equally to men and women, as is stated in the Qur'ān:

﴿The Believers, men and women, are protectors, one of another: they enjoin what is just, and forbid what is evil: they observe regular prayers, practice regular charity, and obey Allāh and His Messenger. On them will Allāh pour His Mercy: for Allāh is Exalted in Power, Wise.﴾ (Qur'ān 9: 71)

Islām gave women a high social standing when it gave her this great social responsibility of enjoining what is good and forbidding what is evil. For the first time in history, women were to be the ones issuing instructions, whereas everywhere else except in Islām they had been the ones to receive instructions

In response to this responsibility, which in fact is a great honour, the Muslim woman rises up to carry out the duty of enjoining what is good and forbidding what is evil, within the limits of what suits her feminine nature. Within the limits of her own specialised field, she confronts evil - which is no small matter in the world of women - whenever she sees it, and she opposes it with reason, deliberation, wisdom and a clever, good approach. She tries to remove it with her hand, if she is able to and if doing so will not lead to worse consequences. If she cannot remove it by her actions, then she speaks out to explain what is right, and if she is not able to do so, then she opposes it in her heart, and starts to think of ways and means of opposing and eradicating it. These are the means of opposing evil that were set out by the Prophet (ﷺ):

"Whoever of you sees an evil action, let him change it with his hand, and if he is not able to do so, then with his tongue, and if he is not able to do so, then with his heart and that is the weakest of faith." 681

When the alert Muslim woman undertakes this duty of enjoining what is good and forbidding what is evil, she is in effect being sincere towards her wayward or negligent Muslim sisters, for religion is sincerity (or sincere advice), as the Prophet (ﷺ) explained most eloquently when he summed up Islām in one word: naṣīḥah. If that is indeed the case, then the Muslim woman has no option but to enjoin what is good and forbid what is wrong, in order to fulfil the definition of sincerity as stated by the Prophet (ﷺ):

"Religion is sincerity (naṣīḥah)." We asked, "To whom?" He said, "To Allāh (ﷻ), to His Book, to His Messenger, and to the leaders of the Muslims and their common folk."682

679 Fath al-Bārī, 6/496, Kitāb ḥadīth al-anbiyā', bāb ma dhukira 'an Banī Isrā'īl.

680 Reported by Tirmidhī, 5/34, in Kitāb al-'ilm, 7; he said it is a ḥasan ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth.

681 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 2/22, Kitāb al-īmān, bāb bayān kawn al-nahy 'an al-munkar min al-īmān.

682 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 2/37, Kitāb al-īmān, bāb bayān an al-dīn naṣīḥah.

The Muslim woman's speaking out to offer naṣīḥah and to enjoin what is good and forbid what is evil in women's circles will lead to the correction of many non-Islāmic customs, traditions and habits that are prevalent among some women. How many such practices there are among women who neglect or deviate from Islām; the Muslim woman who confronts these customs and explains the correct Islāmic point of view is doing the best thing she can for her society and ummah, and she is one of the best of people:

A man stood up whilst the Prophet (ﷺ) was on the minbar and asked: "O Messenger of Allāh, which of the people is the best?" He said, "The best of the people are those are most wellversed in Qur'ān, those who are most pious, those who most enjoin what is good and forbid what is evil, and those who are most respectful towards their relatives." 683

The alert Muslim woman is a woman with a mission. She never remains silent about falsehood or fails to uphold the truth or accepts any deviation. She always strives to benefit her sisters in the Muslim community, and save them from their own shortcomings, backwardness, ignorance and deviations. She undertakes her duty of enjoining what is good and forbidding what is evil, in obedience to the command of Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger, and to protect herself from the punishment of Allāh (ﷻ) which befalls those societies where no voice is raised to enjoin what is good and forbid what is evil.

When Abū Bakr (رضي الله عنه) became the khalīfah, he ascended the minbar, praised Allāh (ﷻ), then said, "O people, you recite the āyah, ﴿'O you who believe! Guard your own souls: if you follow [right] guidance no hurt can come to you from those who stray...'﴾ (Qur'ān 5: 105) and you are misinterpreting it. Verily I heard the Prophet (ﷺ) say: 'Those people who see some evil and do not oppose it or seek change will shortly all be punished by Allāh (ﷻ).'" 684

The Muslim woman who is sincere in her Islām, whose faith is strong and whose mind is open to the guidance of Islām, is always active in the cause of goodness, enjoining what is good and forbidding what is evil, offering sincere advice and reforming corrupt situations. She does not accept negativity, passiveness, negligence or vacillation in herself, and never accepts any compromise or deviance in matters of Islām and its rituals. Religion and 'aqīdah' are serious matters; it is no joke, and it is not permitted to remain silent about any deviance or error in religious matters, otherwise we will end up like the Jews, who earned Allāh's wrath when they vacillated and became careless with regard to their religion:

"Among the people who came before you, the children of Israel, if any one of them did wrong, one of them would denounce him so that he could say that he had done his duty, but the next day he would sit and eat with him as if he had never seen him do anything wrong the day before. When Allāh (ﷻ) saw this attitude of theirs, he turned the hearts of some of them against others and cursed them by the tongue of Dāwūd and 'Eesa ibn Maryam, because they disobeyed and persisted in excesses [cf. Qurān 5:78]. By the One in Whose hand is my soul, you must enjoin what is good and forbid what is evil, and you must restrain the hand of the wrongdoer and give him a stern warning to adhere to the truth, otherwise Allāh (ﷻ) will surely turn the hearts of some of you against others, and curse you as He has cursed them."685

She is Wise and Eloquent in her Dā'wah

The Muslim woman who seeks to call others to Allāh (ﷻ) is eloquent and clever in her dā'wah, speaking wisely and without being pushy to those whom she calls, and taking into account their intellectual levels and social positions. With this wise and good preaching, she is able to reach their hearts and minds, just as the Qur'ān advises:

﴿Invite [all] to the Way of your Rabb with wisdom and beautiful preaching...﴾ (Qur'ān 16: 125)

The sister who is calling others is careful not to be long-winded or boring, and she avoids overburdening her audience. She does not speak for too long, or discuss matters that are difficult to 683 Reported by Aḥmad and Aṭ-Ṭabarānī; the men of their isnāds are thiqāh. See Majmā' al-Zawā'id, 7/263, Bāb fi ahl al-ma'ruf wa ahl al-munkar.

684 Ḥayāt al-Ṣaḥābah, 3/233.

685 Reported by Aṭ-Ṭabarānī, 10/146; the men of its isnād are rijāl al-ṣaḥīḥ.

understand. She introduces the idea that she wants to convey in a brief and clear fashion, using attractive and interesting methods, and presenting the information in stages, so that her audience will understand it easily and will be eager to put their new knowledge into practice. This is what the Prophet (ﷺ) used to do in his own preaching, as the great Ṣaḥābī ‘Abdullāh ibn Mas‘ūd (رضي الله عنه) tells us. He used to preach a little at a time to the people, every Thursday. A man said to him, “I wish that you would teach us every day.” He said, “What prevents me from doing so is the fact that I would hate to bore you. I show consideration towards you by choosing a suitable time to teach you, just as the Prophet (ﷺ) used to do with us, for fear of making us bored.”⁶⁸⁶

One of the most important qualities of the wise and eloquent dā‘iyah is that she is gentle with the women she is calling. She is patient with the slowness or inability to understand on the part of some of them, their ignorance of many matters of religion, their repeated mistakes and their many tedious questions, following the example of the master of all those men and women who call others to the way of Allāh (ﷻ) - the Prophet (ﷺ) - who was the supreme example of patience, kindness and open-heartedness. He responded to questioners like a tolerant, caring guide and gently-correcting teacher, never frustrated by their slowness to understand, or irritated by their many questions and the need to repeat the same answers many times until they understood and left him, content with the lesson they had learned.

An example of this gentle approach is the account of the Ṣaḥābī Mu‘āwiyah ibn al-Ḥakam al-Sulāmī (رضي الله عنه), who said:

“Whilst I was praying with the Prophet (ﷺ), one of the men in the congregation sneezed, so I said, ‘Yarḥamuk Allāh (may Allāh have mercy on you).’ The people glared at me, so I said, ‘May my mother be bereft of me! What are you staring at me like that for?’ They began to strike their thighs with their hands, and when I realised that they were telling me to be quiet, I fell silent. The Prophet (ﷺ), may my father and mother be sacrificed for him, finished the prayer, and I have never seen a better teacher than he, before or since. By Allāh (ﷻ), he did not rebuke me or strike me or insult me. He merely said, ‘This prayer should contain nothing of the everyday speech of men; it is just tasbīḥ, takbīr and the recitation of Qur’ān,’ or words to that effect. I said, ‘O Messenger of Allāh, I am still very close to the time of jāhiliyyah (i.e., I am very new in Islām). Allāh (ﷻ) has brought us Islām, yet there are some among us who still go to soothsayers.’ He said, ‘Never go to them.’ I said, ‘And there are some who are superstitious.’ He said, ‘That is just something that they imagine; it should not stop them from going ahead with their plans.’”⁶⁸⁷

Another characteristic of the successful dā‘iyah, and one of the most attractive and influential methods she can use, is that she does not directly confront wrongdoers with their deeds, or those who are failing with their shortcomings. Rather she is gentle in her approach when she addresses them, hinting at their wrongdoing or shortcomings indirectly rather than stating them bluntly, and asking them, gently and wisely, to rid themselves of whatever bad deeds or failings they have. She is careful not to hurt their feelings or put them off her dā‘wah. This wise, gentle approach is more effective in treating social ills and moral and psychological complaints, and it is the method followed by the Prophet (ﷺ), as ‘Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) said:

“When the Prophet (ﷺ) heard that someone had done something wrong, he did not say ‘What is wrong with so-and-so that he says (such-and-such)?’ Rather, he would say, ‘What is wrong with some people that they say such-and-such?...’”⁶⁸⁸

Another important feature of the dā‘iyah, that will guarantee her success, is that she speaks clearly to her audience and repeats her words without boring them until she is certain that they have understood and that her words have reached their hearts. This is what the Prophet (ﷺ) used to do, as Anas (رضي الله عنه) said:

“The Prophet (ﷺ) used to repeat things three times when he spoke, so that they would be understood. When he came to a people, he would greet them with salām three times.”⁶⁸⁹

686 Bukhārī and Muslim. See Riyād al-Ṣāliḥīn, 374, Kitāb al-adāb, bāb fi ‘l-wa‘z wa ‘l-iqtisād fihī.

687 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 5/20, Kitāb al-masājīd, bāb taḥrīm al-kalām fi ‘l-ṣalāh.

688 Ḥayāt al-Ṣaḥābah, 3/129.

689 Faiḥ al-Bārī, 1/188, Kitāb al-‘ilm, bāb man a‘ada al-ḥadīth thalāthan li yufham ‘anhu.

‘Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) said:

“The speech of the Prophet was very clear. Everyone who heard it understood it.”⁶⁹⁰

She Mixes With Righteous Women

In her social life, the Muslim woman seeks to make friends with righteous women, so that they will be close friends and sisters to her, and she will be able to co-operate with them in righteousness, taqwā and good deeds, and in guiding and teaching other women who may have little awareness of Islām. Mixing with righteous women always brings goodness, benefits and a great reward, and deepens women’s sound understanding of Islām. For this reason it was encouraged in the Qur’ān:

﴿And keep your soul content with those who call on their Rabb morning and evening, seeking His Face, and let not your eyes pass beyond them, seeking the pomp and glitter of this Life; nor obey any whose heart We have permitted to neglect the remembrance of Us, one who follows his own desires, whose case has gone beyond all bounds.﴾ (Qur’ān 18: 28)

The true Muslim woman only makes friends with noble, virtuous, righteous, pious women, as the poet said: “Mixing with people of noble character, you will be counted as one of them, So do not take anyone else for a friend.”

The true Muslim woman does not find it difficult to mix with righteous women, even if they are apparently below her own socio-economic level. What really counts is a woman’s essential personality, not her physical appearance or wealth. Mūsa (ﷺ), the Prophet of Allāh, followed the righteous servant so that he might learn from him, saying with all good manners and respect:

﴿May I follow you on the footing that you teach me something of the [Higher] Truth which you have been taught?﴾ (Qur’ān 18: 66)

When the righteous slave answered:

﴿Verily, you will not be able to have patience with me!﴾ (Qur’ān 18: 67)

Mūsa (ﷺ) said, with all politeness and respect:

﴿You will find me, if Allāh so wills, [truly] patient: nor shall I disobey you in aught.﴾ (Qur’ān 18: 69)

When choosing friends from among the righteous women, the Muslim woman does not forget that people are like metals, some of which are precious while others are base, as the Prophet (ﷺ) explained when describing different types of people:

“People are metals like gold and silver. The best of them at the time of Jahiliyyah will be the best of them in Islām, if they truly understand. Souls are like conscripted soldiers: if they recognise one another, they will become friends, and if they dislike one another, they will go their separate ways.”⁶⁹¹

The Muslim woman also knows from the teachings of her religion that friends are of two types: the righteous friend and the bad friend. The good friend is like the bearer of musk: when she sits with her, there is an atmosphere of relaxation, generosity, perfume and happiness. The bad friend is like the one who operates the bellows: when one sits with her, there is the heat of flames, smoke, stench and an atmosphere of gloom. The Prophet (ﷺ) gave the best analogy of this:

“The good companion and the bad companion are like the bearer of musk and the one who pumps the bellows. With the bearer of musk, either he will give you a share, or you will buy from him, or you will smell a pleasant scent from him; but with the one who pumps the bellows, either he will burn your clothes or you will smell a foul stench from him.”⁶⁹²

690 Reported by Abū Dāwūd, 4/360, Kitāb al-adāb, 21; its isnād is ṣaḥīḥ.

691 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/185, Kitāb al-birr wa’l-silah wa’l-adāb, bāb al-arwah junūd mujannadah.

692 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyād al-Ṣaliḥīn, 211, Bāb ziyārat ahl al-khayr wa majalisatihim.

Therefore the Ṣaḥābah used to encourage one another to visit good people who would remind them of Allāh (ﷻ) and fill their hearts with fear of Allāh (ﷻ), religious teaching and respect. Anas (رضي الله عنه) reported the following incident:

“Abū Bakr said to ‘Umar (رضي الله عنه), after the Prophet (ﷺ) had died, ‘Let us go and visit Umm Ayman⁶⁹³ as the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) used to do.’ When they reached her, she wept, so they asked her, ‘Why do you weep? What is with Allāh (ﷻ) is better for the Prophet (ﷺ) (than this world).’ She said, ‘I am not weeping because I do not know that what is with Allāh (ﷻ) is better for the Prophet (ﷺ). I am weeping because the Revelation from Heaven has ceased.’ She moved them deeply with these words, and they began to weep with her.”⁶⁹⁴

The gatherings of righteous women, where Allāh (ﷻ) is remembered and the conversation is serious and beneficial, are surrounded by the angels and shaded by Allāh (ﷻ) with His mercy. In such gatherings, souls and minds are purified and refreshed. It befits righteous, believing women to increase their attendance at such gatherings and benefit from them, as this will do them good in this world and bring them a high status in the Hereafter.

She Strives to Reconcile Between Muslim Women

The Muslim community is distinguished by the fact that it is a community in which brotherhood prevails, a society that is filled with love, communication, understanding, tolerance and purity. However, it is still a human society, and as such it cannot be entirely free of occasional disputes and conflicts which may arise among its members from time to time and lead to division and a breaking of ties.

But these disputes, which emerge sometimes in the Muslim community, soon disappear, because of the divine guidance that the members of this community have received, which reinforces the feelings of brotherhood, love and closeness among them, and destroys the roots of hatred and enmity, and because of the good efforts for reconciliation that Islām urges its followers to make whenever there is a dispute between close friends, where the Shayṭān has caused conflict and division between them. We have seen above how Islām forbids two disputing Muslims to forsake one another for more than three days:

“It is not permitted for a believer to forsake another for more than three days. If three days have passed, let him meet him and greet him with salām. If he returns the greeting, then they will both share in the reward, and if he does not return the greeting, then the one who initiated the greeting will be free of blame.”⁶⁹⁵

Islām also commands the Muslims, men and women, to reconcile between two conflicting parties:

﴿If two parties among the Believers fall into a quarrel, make peace between them: but if one of them transgresses beyond bounds against the other, then fight [all of you] against the one that transgresses until it complies, then make peace between them with justice, and be fair: for Allāh loves those who are fair [and just].﴾ (Qur’ān 49: 9)

The society of believing men and women should be governed by justice, love and brotherhood:

﴿The Believers are but a single Brotherhood: so make peace and reconciliation between your two [contending] brothers; and fear Allāh, that you may receive Mercy.﴾ (Qur’ān 49: 10)

Therefore the Muslim woman is required to reconcile between her disputing sisters, following the guidance of Islām. Islām has permitted women to add words for the purpose of bringing disputing parties together and softening stony hearts. Such comments are not considered to be the kinds of lies that are ḥarām, and the one who says them is not regarded as a liar or a sinner. We find evidence of this in the ḥadīth of Umm Kalthūm bint ‘Uqbah ibn Abī Mu‘ayt (May Allāh be pleased with her), who said:

“I heard the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) say: ‘He is not a liar who reconciles between people by tiding them

⁶⁹³ Umm Ayman was the Prophet’s nursemaid during his childhood. When he grew up, he gave her, her freedom and married her to Zayd ibn Ḥārithah. He used to honour her and treat her with kindness and respect, and say, “Umm Ayman is my mother.” [Author]

⁶⁹⁴ Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/9, Kitāb fadā’il al-Ṣaḥābah, bāb fadā’il Umm Ayman.

⁶⁹⁵ Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 1/505, Bāb inna al-salām yujzi min al-ṣawm.

good news or saying something good.” 696

According to a report narrated by Muslim, she added:

“I did not hear him permit anything of what people might say except in three cases.” She meant: war, reconciling between people, and the speech of aman to his wife or a wife to her husband.697

She Mixes With Other Women and Puts up With Their Insults

The active Muslim woman is a woman with a mission who has a message to deliver. Whoever undertakes this important mission should prepare herself to be patient and steadfast, and to make sacrifices along the way.

The active Muslim woman has no other choice but to put up with the bad attitude and rude reactions of some women, their misinterpretation of her aims, their mocking of her call to adhere to the morals and manners of Islām, their shallow and confused thinking, their slow response to the truth, their focus on themselves and their own interests, their concern with foolish, trivial matters, their devotion to this world and its pleasures, their failure to take the Hereafter into account or to follow the commandments of Islām, and other foolish things that may annoy the dā'iyahs and make them, in moments of irritation and frustration, think of isolating themselves and keeping away from people, and abandoning their work for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ). This is what all those men and women who seek to call others to Allāh (ﷻ) face in every place and time.

For this reason the Prophet (ﷺ) sought to strengthen the resolve of the believers and reassure them, by announcing that those who have patience in treading the long and difficult path of dā'wah are better, according to the scale of taqwā and righteous deeds, than those who have no patience:

“The believer who mixes with people and bears their insults with patience is better than the one who does not mix with people or bear their insults with patience.” 698

The Prophet (ﷺ), and the other Prophets before him, represent the supreme example of patience in the face of people’s misbehaviour, suspicions and foolishness. The dā'i needs to hold fast to this example every time he feels his patience is running out, or that he is under stress and overwhelmed by the insults and hostility of people.

One example of the Prophet’s supreme patience comes in a report given by Bukhārī and Muslim. The Prophet (ﷺ) divided some goods as he usually did, but one of the Anṣār said, “By Allāh (ﷻ), this division was not done for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ).” The Prophet (ﷺ) heard these unjust words and was deeply offended by them. His expression changed and he became angry, but then he said, “Mūsa suffered worse insults than these, and he bore them with patience.” With these few words, the Prophet’s anger was dispelled and his noble, forgiving heart was soothed.

This is the attitude of the Prophets and the sincere dā'is in every time and place: patience in the face of people’s insults, suspicions and rumours. Without this patience, the dā'wah could not continue and the dā'is could not persevere.

The clever Muslim woman who calls others to Allāh (ﷻ) is not lacking in intelligence; she is able to understand the psychology, intellectual level and social position of her audience, and she addresses each type of woman in the way that will be most appropriate and effective.

She Repays Favours and is Grateful for Them

One of the characteristics of the true Muslim woman is that she is faithful and loyal: she appreciates favours and thanks the one who does them, following the command of the Prophet (ﷺ): “Whoever has a good turn done to him should return the favour!” 699

696 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyād al-Ṣāliḥīn, 687, Kitāb al-umūr al-munḥi ‘anha, bāb bayān ma yajūz min al-kadhb.

697 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/157, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah wa'l-adāb, bāb taḥrīm al-kadhb wa bayān ma yubāh fihī.

698 Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 1/478, Bāb alladhī yusbir ‘ala adha al-nās.

699 A ḥasan Jayyid gharib ḥadīth narrated by Tirmidhī, 4/380, Kitāb al-birr wa'l-silah, 87.

“Whoever seeks refuge with Allāh (ﷻ), then grant him protection... and whoever does you a good turn, then return the favour.” 700

For the alert Muslim woman, gratitude for favours is a religious matter encouraged by the teachings of the Prophet (ﷺ). It is not merely the matter of social courtesy dictated by mood or whatever interests may be at stake. The one who does a favour deserves to be thanked, even if no particular interest is served by her deed. It is sufficient that she has done a favour, and for this she deserves to be sincerely thanked. This is what Islām expects of Muslim men and women. One thanks the other person for her good intentions and chivalrous motives, and for hastening to do good, regardless of the actual or potential outcome in terms of one’s interests and desires.

The concern of Islām to establish this attitude in the heart of the Muslim reached the extent that gratitude towards Allāh (ﷻ) is deemed to be incomplete and imperfect without gratitude towards people for their favours and good deeds. The one who does not thank people for their acts of kindness or find a word to say that will make them feel chivalrous, is an ungrateful wretch who does not appreciate blessings or give thanks for them. Such a one is not qualified to give thanks to Allāh (ﷻ), the Giver of all blessings and favours. Concerning this the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

“He does not give thanks to Allāh (ﷻ) who does not give thanks to people.” 701

The wise Muslim woman does not forget that thanking the one who has done a favour encourages good deeds and makes people become accustomed to acknowledging and appreciating good deeds. All of this will strengthen the ties of friendship between the members of a community, open their hearts to love, and motivate them to do good deeds. This is what Islām aims to instil and reinforce in the Islāmic society.

She Visits the Sick

Visiting the sick is one of the Islāmic social customs that was established and encouraged by the Prophet (ﷺ), who made it a duty on every Muslim man and woman, and made it a right that one Muslim may expect from another:

“The rights of a Muslim over his brother are five: he should return his salām, visit the sick, attend funerals, accept invitations, and ‘bless’ a person (by saying yarḥamuk Allāh) when he sneezes.” 702

According to another report, the Prophet (ﷺ) said:

“The rights of the Muslim over his brother are six.” It was asked, “What are they?” The Prophet (ﷺ) said: “When you meet him, greet him with salām; when he invites you, accept his invitation; when he seeks your advice, advise him; when he sneezes and says Al-ḥamdu-lillāh, ‘bless’ him (by saying Yarḥamuk Allāh); when he is ill, visit him; and when he dies, accompany him (to his grave).” 703

When the Muslim woman visits the sick, she does not feel that she is merely doing a favour or trying to be nice; she feels that she is doing an Islāmic duty that the Prophet (ﷺ) urged Muslims to do: “Feed the hungry, visit the sick, and ransom the prisoners of war.” 704

Al-Barrā’ ibn ‘Āzib (رضي الله عنه) said:

“The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) commanded us to visit the sick, to attend funerals, to ‘bless’ someone when he sneezes, to fulfil all oaths, to come to the aid of the oppressed, to accept invitations, and to greet everyone with salām.” 705

When the Muslim woman visits the sick, she does not feel that this is a burdensome duty that could depress her because of the atmosphere of gloom and despair that may surround the sick person. On the contrary, she senses a feeling of spiritual joy and satisfaction which none can feel except those who truly 700 Reported by Abū Dāwūd, 2/172, Kitāb al-zakāh; Aḥmad, 2/68. Its isnād is ṣaḥīḥ.

701 Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 1/310, Bāb man lam yashkur al-nās.

702 (Bukhārī and Muslim). See Riyād al-Ṣāliḥīn, 452, Bāb ‘iyādah al-marīd.

703 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 14/143, Kitāb al-salām, bāb min ḥaqq al-Muslim li’l-Muslim radd al-salām.

704 Fath al-Bārī, 9/517, Kitāb al-at’imah, bāb kulu min tayyibāt ma razaqnākum.

705 Bukhārī and Muslim. See Riyād al-Ṣāliḥīn, 451, Kitāb ‘iyādah al-marīd, bāb ‘iyādah al-marīd.

understand the ḥadīth which describes the goodness, reward and blessing contained in such visits. The Prophet (ﷺ) said:

“Allāh (ﷻ) will say on the Day of Resurrection: ‘O son of Ādam, I fell ill and you did not visit Me.’ He will say, ‘O Rabb, how could I visit You when You are the Rabb of the Worlds?’ He will say, ‘Did you not know that My slave so-and-so had fallen ill, and you did not visit him? Did you not know that had you visited him, you would have found Me with him? O son of Ādam, I asked you for food and you did not feed Me.’ He will say, ‘O Rabb, how could I feed you when You are the Rabb of the Worlds?’ He will say, ‘Did you not know that My slave so-and-so asked you for food, and you did not feed him? Did you not know that had you fed him you would surely have found that [i.e., the reward for doing so] with Me? O son of Ādam, I asked you to give Me to drink and you did not give Me to drink.’ He will say, ‘O Rabb, how could I give You to drink when You are the Rabb of the Worlds?’ He will say, ‘My slave so-and-so asked you to give him to drink and you did not give him to drink. Had you given him to drink you would surely have found that with him.’” 706

How blessed is such a visit, and how great a good deed, which a man undertakes to do for his sick brother, when by doing so he is in the presence of the Almighty Rabb who witnesses his noble deed and rewards him generously for it. Is there any greater and more blessed visit which is honoured and blessed and encouraged by the Rabb of Heaven and Earth? How great is the misery and loss that will befall the one who failed in this duty! How great will be his humiliation when the Almighty Rabb declares, before all present: “O son of Ādam, I fell ill and you did not visit Me... Did you not know that My slave so-and-so had fallen ill, and you did not visit him? Did you not know that had you visited him, you would have found Me with him?” We will leave to our imagination the sense of regret, humiliation and shame that will overwhelm the man who neglected to visit his sick brother, at the time when such regret will be of no avail.

The sick person in an Islāmic community feels that he is not alone at his hour of need; the empathy and prayers of the people around him envelop him and alleviate his suffering. This is the pinnacle of human civility and emotion. No other nation in history has ever known such a level of emotional and social responsibility as exists in the ummah of Islām.

The sick person in the West may find a hospital to admit him and a doctor to give him medicine, but rarely will he find a healing touch, compassionate word, kindly smile, sincere prayers, or true empathy. The materialistic philosophy that has taken over Westerners’ lives has extinguished the light of human emotion, destroyed brotherly feelings towards one’s fellow-man, and removed any motives but materialistic ones for doing good deeds.

The Westerner does not have any motive to visit the sick, unless he feels that he may gain some material benefit from this visit sooner or later. In contrast, we find that the Muslim is motivated to visit the sick in the hope of earning the reward which Allāh (ﷻ) has prepared for the one who gets his feet dusty (i.e., goes out and about) for His sake.

There are many ḥadīth texts on this topic, which awaken feelings of brotherhood in the Muslim’s heart and strongly motivate him to visit his sick brother. For example:

“When the Muslim visits his (sick) Muslim brother, he will remain in the fruits of Paradise⁷⁰⁷ until he returns.”
708

“No Muslim visits a (sick) Muslim in the morning but seventy thousand angels will bless him until the evening, and if he visits him in the evening, seventy thousand angels will bless him until the morning, and fruits from Paradise will be his.”⁷⁰⁹

With his deep insight into human psychology, the Prophet (ﷺ) understood the positive impact of such visits on the sick person and his family, so he never neglected to visit the sick and speak to them the

706 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/125, Kitāb al-birr wa’l-silah wa’l-adāb, bāb fadl ‘iyādah al-marīd.

707 A metaphor for the reward earned [Translator].

708 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 16/125, Kitāb al-birr wa’l-silah wa’l-adāb, bāb fadl ‘iyādah al-marīd.

709 Reported by Tirmidhī, 3/292, Kitāb al-janā’iz, 2. He said it is a ḥasan ḥadīth.

kindest words of prayer and consolation. He was the epitome of such kindness, which led him to visit a young Jewish boy who used to serve him, as Anas (رضي الله عنه) narrated:

"A young Jewish boy used to serve the Prophet (ﷺ). He fell ill, so the Prophet (ﷺ) went to visit him. He sat by his head and told him, 'Enter Islām.' The boy looked to his father, who was present with him. His father said, 'Obey Abu'l-Qāsim.' So the boy entered Islām. The Prophet (ﷺ) left, saying, 'Praise be to Allāh, Who has saved him from the Fire.'"710

When visiting this sick Jewish boy, the Prophet (ﷺ) did not neglect to call him to Islām, because he knew the effects his visit would have on the boy and his father, who were overwhelmed by his generosity, kindness and gentle approach. So they responded to him, this visit bore fruits of guidance, and the Prophet (ﷺ) left praising Allāh (ﷻ) that a soul had been saved from the Fire. What a great man, and what a wise and eloquent dā'i the Prophet (ﷺ) was!

The Prophet (ﷺ) was so concerned about visiting the sick that he set out principles and guidelines for so doing, which were followed by the Ṣaḥābah and recorded in the books of Sunnah.

One of these practices is to sit at the head of the sick person, as we have seen in the story of the Jewish boy, and as Ibn 'Abbās (رضي الله عنه) said:

"When the Prophet (ﷺ) visited a sick person, he would sit at his head then say seven times: 'I ask Almighty Allāh (ﷻ), the Rabb of the Mighty Throne, to heal you.'" 711

Another of these practices is to wipe the body of the sick person with the right hand and pray for him, as 'Āishah (May Allāh be pleased with her) reported:

"The Prophet (ﷺ) used to visit some of his relatives and wipe them with his right hand, saying 'O Aḥ, Rabb of mankind, remove the suffering. Heal for You are the Healer. There is no healing except for Your healing, the healing which leaves no trace of sickness.'" 712

Ibn 'Abbās (رضي الله عنه) said:

"The Prophet (ﷺ) went to visit a bedouin who was sick, and whenever he visited a sick person, he would say, 'No worry, (it is) purification713, 'in shā Allāh.'" 714 "

The Muslim woman whom Islām has filled with a sense of great humanity hastens to visit the sick whenever she hears news of someone's illness. She does not try to postpone or avoid such visits, because she feels the importance of them in the depths of her heart, as the Prophet (ﷺ) described it and as the virtuous early Muslim women put it into practice in the most praiseworthy fashion. They did not only visit women who were sick; they also visited men, within the framework of modesty and avoiding fitnah.

In Ṣaḥīḥ Bukhārī, it states that Umm al-Dardā' visited an Anṣārī man who lived in the mosque (when he was sick).

The same source also gives the following account:

"Qutaybah told us, from Mālik, from Hishām ibn 'Urwah, from his father, from 'Āishah who said: 'When the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) came to Madīnah, Abū Bakr and Bilāl, may Allāh be pleased with them, fell ill. I entered upon them and said, "O my father, how are you feeling? O Bāil, how are you feeling?"' 715 "

The earliest Muslim women understood the meaning of visiting the sick and the role it plays in maintaining the ties of friendship, compassion and affection. So they hastened to perform this noble duty, lifting the spirits of the sick person, wiping away the tears of the grief-stricken, alleviating the burden of distress, strengthening the ties of brotherhood, and consoling the distressed. The modern Muslim woman could do well to follow the example of the early Muslim women and revive this praiseworthy sunnah.

710 Faḥ al-Bārī, 3/219, Kitāb al-janā'iz, bāb hal yu'rad 'ala al-sabi al-Islām?

711 Reported by Bukhārī in Al-Adāb al-Mufrad, 1/633, Bāb ayna yaq'ud al-'a'id.

712 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Riyāḍ al-Ṣāliḥīn, 454, Kitāb 'iyādah al-mar'īd, bāb fima yad'u bihī li'l-mar'īd.

713 i.e., may your sickness be an expiation and cleanse you of your sins [Author].

714 Faḥ al-Bārī, 10/118.

715 Faḥ al-Bārī, 10/117, Kitāb al-murdā [?], bāb 'iyādah al-nisā' al-rijāl.

She Does Not Wail Over the Dead

The Muslim woman who knows the teachings of her religion has insight and is balanced and self-controlled. When she is stricken by the death of one of those whom she loves, she does not let grief make her lose her senses, as is the case with shallow, ignorant women who fall apart with grief. She bears it with patience, hoping for reward from Allāh (ﷻ), and follows the guidance of Islām in her behaviour at this difficult time.

She never wails over the deceased, because wailing is not an Islāmic deed; it is the practice of the kuffār, and one of the customs of jāhiliyyah. The Prophet (ﷺ) was very explicit in his emphatic prohibition of wailing, to the extent that it was regarded as kufr:

"There are two qualities in people that are indicative of kufr: casting doubts on a person's lineage, and wailing over the dead." 716

The Prophet (ﷺ) effectively excluded from the Muslim community those men and women who wail and eulogise the dead when he said:

"He is not one of us who strikes his cheeks, or tears his garment, or speaks the words of jāhiliyyah." 717

The Muslim woman who understands the teachings of Islām knows that death is real, that everyone on this earth is mortal and that this life is merely a corridor to the Hereafter, where eternally she will be in the presence of Allāh (ﷻ). So there is no need for this uncontrollable grief which makes a person become unbalanced and lose her reason so that she starts to strike her own face and tear her clothes, screaming with grief and loss.

The Ṣaḥābah understood this ruling of Islām, even though they had only very recently left the jāhiliyyah behind. They used to forbid themselves to eulogise the dead or raise their voices or scream or tear their clothes, which were actions done by women at the time of jāhiliyyah. They knew that Islām does not accept the deeds of jāhiliyyah and will not permit them to return from time to time, and they used to condemn such actions just as the Prophet (ﷺ) did. Abū Burdah ibn Abī Mūsa said:

"Abū Mūsa suffered from some pain, and fell into a coma. His head was in the lap of a woman from his family. She shouted at him, but he was not able to respond. When he came to, he said: 'I shun whatever the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) shunned, for he shunned every woman who raises her voice, cuts her hair and tears her clothes (at the time of disaster).'" 718

Although Islām has forbidden senseless jāhiliyya actions like striking one's cheeks, tearing one's garment, wailing and eulogising, it recognises the grief that overwhelms the heart and the tears that softly flow at the departure of a loved one. All of this is part of the legitimate human emotion and gentle compassion that Allāh (ﷻ) has instilled in people's hearts, as was demonstrated by the Prophet (ﷺ) in his words and deeds.

Usāmah ibn Zayd said:

"We were with the Prophet (ﷺ) when one of his daughters sent for him, calling him to come and telling him that her boy - or son - was dying. The Prophet (ﷺ) said: 'Go back to her and tell her that whatever Allāh (ﷻ) gives and takes belongs to Him, and everything has its appointed time with Him. Tell her to have patience and to seek reward from Allāh (ﷻ).' The one who conveyed this message came back and said: 'She swore that you should come to her.' The Prophet (ﷺ) got up, as did Ṣa'd ibn 'Ubadah and Mu'adh ibn Jabal, and I went with them. The boy was lifted up to him, and his soul was making a sound like water being poured into an empty container (i.e., the death rattle). The Prophet's eyes filled with tears, and Ṣa'd said to him, 'What is this, O Messenger of Allāh?' He said, 'This is the compassion that Allāh (ﷻ) has placed in the hearts of His slaves, and Allāh (ﷻ) will show compassion to those of His slaves who have compassion.'" 719

716 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 2/57, Kitāb al-īmān, bāb itlāq al-kufr 'ala al-ta'an fi'l-nasab wa'l-niyahah.

717 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 5/436, Kitāb al-janā'iz, bāb al-nahy 'an al-niyahah wa'l-nadāb.

718 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 2/110, Kitāb al-īmān, bāb taḥrīm darab al-khudud wa shiqq al-juyub.

719 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 6/224, 225, Kitāb al-janā'iz, bāb al-bika' 'ala'l-mayyit.

'Abdullāh ibn 'Umar (ﷺ) said:

Ṣa'd ibn 'Ubadah fell ill with some complaint that he suffered from, and the Prophet (ﷺ) came to visit him, accompanied by 'Abdu-Raḥmān ibn 'Awf, Ṣa'd ibn Abī Waqqāṣ and 'Abdullāh ibn Mas'ūd. When he entered and found him in a coma, he asked, 'Has he passed away?' They said, 'No, O Messenger of Allāh.' The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) wept, and when the people saw him weeping, they wept too. He said, 'Are you not listening? Allāh (ﷻ) will not punish a man for the tears that fall from his eyes or for the grief that he feels in his heart, but He will either punish or have mercy on a man because of this,' and he pointed to his tongue." 720

Anas (رضي الله عنه) said:

"The Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ) entered upon his son Ibāhīm as he was surrendering his soul (i.e., dying). Tears began to well up in the Prophet's eyes. 'Abdu-Raḥmān ibn 'Awf said to him, 'Even you, O Messenger of Allāh?' He said, 'O Ibn 'Awf, this is compassion.' Then he wept some more and said, 'The eyes shed tears, and the heart feels grief, but we say only that which will please our Rabb. And truly we are deeply grieved by your departure, O Ibāhīm.'" 721

The Prophet (ﷺ) approved of expressing grief by letting tears flow, because people have no power to restrain tears at times of grief, but he forbade every deed that can inflame and exacerbate grief. Shedding tears, in moderation, can help to soothe the pain of grief, but wailing, eulogising, screaming and other jāhiliyyah actions only increase the anguish and make a person more prone to collapse. These actions are what the Arabs used to do at the time of jāhiliyyah, when a person would even request it before his death, so that others would come and wail over the dead, enumerating his good qualities and exaggerating about the impact of this bereavement. An example of this is to be seen in the poetry of Ṭarafah ibn al-'Abd: "When I die, mention my qualities as befits me, and rend your garments for me, O daughter of Ma'bad. Do not make me like a man whose aspirations are not my aspirations, who could not do what I could do, or play the role I play."

All of this is forbidden by Islām most emphatically, because it is a waste of energy and contradicts the acceptance of Allāh's will and decree; it also opens the way for the Shaytān to lead people astray and cause fitnah. The Prophet (ﷺ) referred to this, in the ḥadīth narrated by Umm Salamah (May Allāh be pleased with her), who said:

"When Abū Salamah died, I said, 'He is a stranger in a strange land. I shall certainly cry over him in such a way that people will talk about it.' I prepared myself to cry over him, but a woman who was coming from the high places of Madīnah to help me (in crying and wailing) was met by the Messenger of Allāh (ﷺ). He asked, 'Do you want to let the Shaytān enter a house from which Allāh (ﷻ) has expelled him twice?' 722 So I stopped crying, and I did not cry." 723

The Prophet's concern to forbid wailing, especially among women, reached such a level that when he accepted the oath of allegiance (bay'ah) from women, he asked them to pledge to keep away from wailing. This is seen in the ḥadīth narrated by Bukhari and Muslim from Umm 'Atīyah who said:

"The Prophet (ﷺ) accepted the pledge of allegiance from us on the basis that we would not wail." 724

According to a report narrated by Muslim also from Umm 'Atīyah, she said:

"When the āyah (when believing women come to you to take the oath of fealty to you, that they will

720 (Bukhārī and Muslim), See Sharḥ al-Sunnah, 5/429, Kitāb al-janā'iz, bāb al-bika' 'ala al-mayyit.

721 Reported by Bukhārī and Muslim. See Riyād al-Ṣāliḥīn, 463, Kitāb 'iyādah al-marīd, bāb jawaz al-bika' 'ala al-mayit bi ghayri nadāb wa la niyāhah.

722 The first time was when Abū Salamah surrendered his soul (died), and some of his family were grief-stricken. The Prophet told them, "Do not pray for anything but good for yourselves, for the angels are saying 'Āmīn' to whatever you say," then he prayed for Abū Salamah. The second time was when Umm Salamah started telling herself that she would exaggerate in her crying for him, then she changed her mind. [Author]

723 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 6/224, Kitāb al-janā'iz, bāb al-bika' 'ala al-mayyit.

724 Fatḥ al-Bārī, 3/176, Kitāb al-janā'iz, bāb ma yunha min al-nawh wa'l-bika'; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 6/237, Kitāb al-janā'iz, bāb taḥrīm al-niyāhah.

not associate in worship any other thing except Allāh.... And that they will not disobey you in any just matter...﴾ (Qur’ān 60: 12) was revealed, she said, part of that was wailing.” 725

The Prophet (ﷺ) warned the woman who wails over the dead that if she does not repent before her own death, she will be raised on the Day of Resurrection in a most fearful state:

“The woman who wails, and does not repent before she dies, will be raised on the Day of Resurrection wearing a shirt of tar and a garment of scabs.” 726

He also warned that the angels of mercy would be kept away from her, and she would be deprived of their du‘ā for her, as long as she insisted on wailing and making grief worse. This is seen in the ḥadīth narrated by Aḥmad: “The angels will not pray for the one who wails and laments.” 727

Because of this clear, definitive prohibition of wailing, screaming, eulogising, tearing one’s garments and other jāhili actions, the Muslim woman can do nothing but submit to the commands of Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger, and keep away from everything that could compromise the purity of her faith in the will and decree of Allāh (ﷻ). She does not just stop there, however, she also calls women who may be unaware of this to obey the laws of Allāh (ﷻ) and to keep away from wailing, once they have understood the commandments of Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger.

She Does Not Attend Funerals

The Muslim woman who truly understands the teachings of Islām does not attend funerals, in obedience to the command of the Prophet (ﷺ), as reported by Umm ‘Atiyah (May Allāh be pleased with her): “We were forbidden to attend funerals, but not strictly.” 728

In this case, women’s position is the opposite of men’s position. Islām encourages men to attend funerals and to accompany the body until it is buried, but it dislikes women to do so, because their presence could result in inappropriate situations that would compromise the dignity of death and the funeral rites. Accompanying the deceased until the burial offers a great lesson to those who do it, and seeking forgiveness for the deceased, and thinking of the meaning of death that touches every living thing:

﴿Wherever you are, death will find you out, even if you are in towers built up strong and high!...﴾ (Qur’ān 4: 78)

The Prophet (ﷺ) discouraged women from attending funerals (made it makrūh), but did not forbid it outright, because his discouraging it should be enough to make the obedient Muslim woman refrain from doing it. This is a sign of the strength of her Islām, her sincere obedience to Allāh (ﷻ) and His Messenger, and her willingness to adopt the attitude, which is better and more befitting.

CONCLUSION

In the preceding pages, I have explained the character of the Muslim woman as Islām wants her to be, according to the wise guidance it gives her in all aspects of life and in the forming of her mind, soul, psyche, morals and behaviour. This is referred to quite clearly in many āyāt and ṣaḥīḥ ḥadīth, which strike a precise balance in her character, in such a way that no one aspect dominates at the expense of another, and vividly describe the ideal way of dealing with one’s parents, relatives, husband, children, neighbours, friends and sisters in Islām, and others whom one meets in the society in which one lives.

The previous chapters explained that the Muslim woman’s role is not merely to stay at home, nursing children and taking care of the home. In addition to all that, the Muslim woman is in fact raising a heroic 725 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 6/238, Kitāb l-janā’iz, bāb taḥrīm al-niyāhah.

726 Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 6/235, Kitāb al-janā’iz, bāb taḥrīm al-niyāhah.

727 Imān Aḥmad, Al-Musnad, 2/362; the men of its isnād are thiqāt.

728 Fatḥ al-Bārī, 3/144, Kitāb al-janā’iz, bāb ittiba ‘al-nisā’ al-janā’iz; Ṣaḥīḥ Muslim, 7/2, Kitāb al-janā’iz, bāb nahy al-nisā’ ‘an ittiba ‘al-janā’iz.

new generation, playing an important role in dā'wah and making an important, constructive contribution in all areas of life, working side-by-side with men to populate and cultivate the earth, enrich life and make people happy.

It is abundantly clear that the Muslim woman who is guided by Islām is pure, constructive, productive, alert, aware, educated and refined. She fully understands her duties towards Allāh (ﷻ), and towards herself, her parents, her husband and children, her relatives, her neighbours, her friends and sisters in Islām, and her society as a whole, with all the different types of people, events and transactions it includes.

She believes in Allāh (ﷻ) and the Last Day; she is alert to the trials of this life and the traps of the Shaytān; she worships Allāh (ﷻ), obeys His commands, heeds His prohibitions, accepts His will and decree, returns to His protection and seeks His forgiveness when she stumbles or becomes negligent; she is aware of her responsibility before Allāh (ﷻ) towards the members of her family; she is keen to please Him by whatever she does; she understands the true meaning of being a slave of Allāh (ﷻ) and supports His true religion; she enjoins what is good and forbids what is evil as much as she is able.

She is aware of her obligations towards herself, understanding that she is a human being composed of a body, mind and soul, each of which has its own needs and requirements. Hence she is careful to strike the right balance between her body, mind and spirit; she does not devote attention to one at the expense of the others, rather, she devotes to each of them the attention that is needed to form a balanced personality, always guided by the wise teachings of Islām as seen in the Qur'ān, Sunnah and examples of the righteous salaf who followed in the footsteps of the Prophet (ﷺ) with all sincerity.

She takes care of her outward appearance without going to extremes of excess or showing off, and she takes care of her inner nature in a manner that befits the human being whom Allāh (ﷻ) has honoured by making the angels prostrate to him and subjugating all that is in heaven and earth for his benefit. In this way, she develops a balanced, likeable character, one that is attractive both in appearance and in her thinking, reasoning, behaviour and reactions.

She does not allow her care of her body and mind to distract her from spiritual matters; she devotes just as much attention to her spiritual development, and polishes her soul through worship, dhikr and reading Qur'ān. Her guideline in all of this is to maintain a precise balance between all aspects of her personality.

She treats her parents with kindness and respect. She knows their status, and her duties towards them, and she is very cautious not to disobey them. She never spares any effort to find the best way to treat them properly, and she surrounds them with every type of care, honour and respect.

With her husband, she is an ideal wife, intelligent, respectful, obedient, tolerant and loving, eager to please him and to respect and honour his family. She conceals his secrets, and helps him to be righteous, to fear Allāh (ﷻ) and to do good deeds. She fills his heart with happiness, peace and tranquillity.

With her children, she is a loving, compassionate mother who wisely understands the great importance of her motherly role in bringing them up. She makes them aware of her love and care for them, and never withholds right guidance from them or fails to correct them if they need it, so that they will grow up with an ideal Islāmic upbringing that will cultivate in them the best morals and attitudes and a love for the highest things.

With her daughters- and sons-in-law, she is kind, fair and wise, and offers them sincere advice. She does not interfere in their private matters. She treats them well and strives to strengthen the bonds of love and to ward off the evils of disputes.

With her relatives, she upholds the ties of love, and does not neglect to keep in touch and treat them well. She is keen to maintain the relationship even if they do not uphold the ties, acting in obedience to the teachings of Islām, which urge the upholding of the ties of kinship with love and affection.

She treats her neighbours well and is concerned about them. She knows the great rights they have, which Jibrīl emphasised to the Prophet (ﷺ) so strongly that the Prophet thought he was going to make them his heirs. So she likes for them what she likes for herself. She treats them well, respects their feelings, puts up with their insults, turns a blind eye to their faults and mistakes, and is careful not to mistreat them or to fall short in her treatment of them.

With her friends and sisters in Islām, she is distinguished from other women by the way in which she builds her relationship with them on a basis of love for the sake of Allāh (ﷻ), which is the highest and purest love that exists among human beings, as it is free from any impurity or ulterior motive and its purity is derived from the light of the Revelation and Prophetic guidance. Therefore the Muslim woman is sincere and tolerant in her feelings of love and sisterhood towards her sisters, and she is keen to maintain the ties of sisterhood and love between her and them. She does not cut them off, forsake them, gossip about them, hurt their feelings with hostile arguments and disputes, bear grudges, or withhold any favour she could do for them, and she always greets them with a cheerful, smiling face.

In her relationship with her society, she is a social being of the highest class, because of what she has learned of the wise teachings of Islām concerning social dealings and high morals. From the rich spring of Islām she derives her customs, habits and behaviour and the ethics and values which purify her soul and form her distinct social character.

She is of good character (has a good attitude towards others) and is sincere and straightforward with all people. She does not cheat, deceive or stab in the back. She is not a hypocrite. She does not speak falsely (or bear false witness). She offers sincere advice and guides others to good deeds. She keeps her promises. She has the characteristic of modesty and self-respect. She does not interfere in that which does not concern her. She avoids slandering the honour of others and seeking out their faults. She does not show off. She is fair in her judgements of others. She does not oppress others. She is fair even to those whom she does not like. She does not rejoice in the misfortunes of others. She avoids suspicion. She restrains her tongue from malicious gossip. She avoids cursing and obscene speech. She does not make fun of anybody. She is gentle with people. She is compassionate. She strives to benefit others and protect them from harm. She eases the hardship of one who is suffering. She is generous. She does not remind the beneficiaries of her charity. She is patient. She is tolerant. She does not bear grudges or harbour resentment. She is easy-going, not harsh. She is not envious. She avoids boasting and showing off. She does not speak in an affected or exaggerated manner. She has a likeable personality. She is friendly and likeable. She keeps secrets. She is of cheerful countenance. She has a sense of humour. She tries to make people happy. She is not over-strict. She is not arrogant. She is humble. She is modest in her dress and appearance. She pursues noble things. She is concerned about the affairs of the Muslims. She honours guests. She prefers others to herself. She measures her habits and customs against the standards of Islām. She uses the greeting of Islām. She does not enter any house other than her own without permission. She sits wherever she finds room in a gathering. She does not converse privately with another woman when a third is present. She respects her elders and distinguished people. She does not look into any house other than her own. She chooses work that suits her feminine nature. She does not imitate men. She calls others to the truth. She enjoins what is good and forbids what is evil. She is wise and eloquent in her dā'wah. She mixes with righteous women. She hastens to reconcile between Muslim women. She mixes with women and puts up with their insults. She appreciates favours and is grateful for them. She visits the sick. She does not attend funerals.

This is the personality of the Muslim woman as defined by the teachings of Islām.

No doubt the Muslim woman is the most refined example of womanhood ever known in any human society. Along with all the fine qualities listed above, the Muslim woman also possesses wisdom, purity of soul, a high level of spirituality, a sound concept of life, the universe and humanity, and a deep awareness of her important role in life.

Surely a woman's reaching such a high level of intellectual, psychological, spiritual and moral development is a great human blessing, which is unequalled by any of the many other blessings that human beings enjoy. It is a cultural achievement greater than any other reached by humanity in its long history. The fact that women have reached this high level of development means that they are mature and are fully qualified to play their important role in life.

What we see today in many parts of the Muslim world of Muslim women's backwardness and failure to reach that high level that Islām wants for them, is a result of the fact that the Muslims in general have wandered far away from the pure sources of Islām and have become lost in various kinds of jāhiliyyah or intellectual and psychological dependency on others. None of this would have happened to the Muslims in general, and Muslim women in particular, if the Muslims had preserved their spiritual and intellectual sources properly, and men and women had drunk from these pure sources which would have given them immunity, originality and distinction.

Whilst the attack on the Muslim world was aimed at the identity of the Muslims in general, men and women alike, to disrupt it and to contaminate its original intellectual sources, no doubt many prongs of this attack were aimed at the Muslim woman in particular, with the aim of stripping her of the dress of virtue by which she had been known throughout history, and making her wear the alien, tight-fitting, borrowed dress that makes her look like a copy of foreign women in her appearance, thinking and behaviour.

Tremendous efforts were devoted to the call for the Westernization of Muslim women by various societies, organizations and movements. Al-ḥamdu lillāh, all of it ended in failure in the face of the reawakening of educated Muslim woman who understood the teachings of Islām. Many of the men and women who supported Westernization have now retreated, admitting the depth of the Muslim woman's belief, and the originality of Islām in her thinking, psychology and feelings.

The great hopes that are pinned on the Muslim woman, who is aware of her role, require her to be even stronger in proving her Islāmic identity, wherever she may live and whatever her circumstances may be. By reinforcing her Islāmic identity, she clearly demonstrates her awareness, high aims, sincerity and devotion to Islām and its distinctive culture. This is also indicative of her ability to contribute to the revival of the ummah to which she belongs and the development of the country she lives in.

Symbols used in this book

- (ﷻ) : Subḥānahu wa T'āla - 'The Exalted'
- (ﷺ) : Sall-Allāhu 'Alayhi wa Sallam - 'Blëssings and Peace be upon him'
- (ﷺ) : Alayhis-Salām - 'May Peace be upon him'
- (ﷺ) : Radia Allāhu 'Anhū - 'May Allāh be pleased with him', Radi Allāhu 'Anhā - 'May Allāh be pleased with her', Radi Allāhu 'Anhum - 'May Allāh be pleased with them.'

Transliteration Chart

Arabic Letter	Symbol Used
آ - ا	ā or aa
ب	b
ت	t
ة	h or t <small>(when followed by another Arabic word)</small>
ث	th
ج	j
ح	ḥ
خ	kh
د	d
ذ	dh
ر	r
ز	z
س	s
ش	sh
ص	ṣ
ض	ḍ
ط	ṭ
ظ	dh
ع	ʿ

غ	gh
ف	f
ق	q
ك	k
ل	l
م	m
ن	n
هـ - و - هـ	h
و	w
و (as vowel)	ū or oo
□	y
□ (as vowel)	ī or ee
ء	' (Omitted in initial position)

ـ	Fathah	a
ـ	Kasrah	i
ـ	Dammah	u
ـ	Shaddah	Double letter
ـ	Sukūn	Absence of vowel